CONVICTS.

TWO REPORTS

OF

JOHN HENRY CAPPER, ESQ.

Superintendent of Ships and Vessels employed for the Confinement of Offenders under Sentence of Transportation;

RELATING TO THE CONVICT ESTABLISHMENTS AT Portsmouth, Gosport, Chatham, Woolwich; and at Bermuda.

No 1.

REPORT of John Henry Capper, Esq. Superintendent of Ships and Vessels employed for the Confinement of Offenders under Sentence of Transportation;—dated 10 July 1834.

MY LORD, Whitehall, 10 July 1834.

I HAVE the honour of reporting to your Lordship that the Convicts confined in the Hulks in England have, with few exceptions, continued orderly since my last Report.

The principal Officers have fulfilled their respective Duties in a satisfactory manner, and the Officers of the Dock Yards and Ordnance Works where the Prisoners have been employed, have expressed their approbation of the exertions of the Convicts in performing the various tasks of labour which they have been called to fulfil.

The Convicts, generally, have been healthy, but the state in which many of them are brought to the Hulks from the Gaols, totally unfit for Transportation, will naturally account for many deaths.

Since the reduction of the number of Convict Boys, by the Transportation of the elder ones, considerable improvement has manifested itself in the behaviour of the younger Boys.

I have also the satisfaction of reporting to your Lordship that the Convicts now at Bermuda, carrying on the Public Works, continue orderly and healthy, which is confirmed by recent Reports from Sir Thomas Ussher, the Superintendent of the Naval Yard at that station.

The reduction in the number of the Convict Hulks at Home, which I noticed in my former Report were then in progress, has since been carried into effect, and which Hulks have been delivered over to the Naval Department.

I have the honour to enclose the Chaplains' Reports: also an account of the Expense of the Convict Hulks in England, from the 1st January to the 30th June last; together with an estimate of the value of the Prisoners' Labour during that period, the average Number of Convicts daily on board the respective Hulks, and the Number of Days' Labour performed by such Convicts.

I also enclose a similar Account of the Expense and Earnings of the Convicts at Bermuda, from the 1st July to the 31st December last.

I have the honour to be, my Lord,
Your Lordship's most obedient faithful humble servant,
John Henry Capper.

The Right Hon. Viscount Melbourne,
&c. &c. &c.

Sir, Portsmouth, 8 July 1834.

Enclosure (A.) in N° 1.

The general behaviour of the Convicts confined in this Harbour has been satisfactory during the last half year. The unusual arrivals and transmissions of Prisoners, and the many changes that have taken place among the Officers, have not materially deranged the state of discipline on board the Hulks.

This circumstance seems to afford a decisive proof of the excellence of the present regulations.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
William Tate, A.M. Chaplain.

John Henry Capper, Esq.
Superintendent of Convicts.

Sir, Fortitude Convict Hulk, Chatham, 7 July 1834.

Enclosure (B.) in N° 1.

It being incumbent upon me to report to you the demeanour of the Convicts under my ministerial charge, during the last six months, I shall endeavour to discharge the task; though from the Weekly Returns, and your frequent visits to this Port, there cannot be much for me to add to that information, of which you are already in possession.

On a review of the offences recorded, considering the number of Prisoners who have passed through this Ship for Transportation during the last six months, I cannot but deem the offences against the orders and regulations of the service, as few; and I can bear my testimony to the orderly and attentive conduct of the Men during Divine Service, with scarcely an exception. As to their moral and religious improvement, I feel a difficulty in hazarding an opinion, having no opportunity of judging of their conduct when liberated; and though we cannot but look favourably on their uniform good behaviour while under restraint, yet the evil principle which predominated before, may still remain unmortified, which can only be proved by their continuing to resist the temptation which beset them when at liberty.

I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,
Henry Wynter, Chaplain.

John Henry Capper, Esq.
Superintendent of Convicts.

Sir, Euryalus Convict Hulk, Chatham, 2 July 1834.

Enclosure (C.) in No. 1.

The Boys, with very few exceptions, have continued to behave exceedingly well. They have generally been attentive to their learning, diligent while at work, and have evinced great propriety of demeanour at Divine Service. It is my constant aim to induce them to be good, from motives derived from higher considerations than any merely temporal advantages, though these are by no means lost sight of; and I trust that the seed which is now sown in their youthful minds will not be entirely thrown away.

Great praise is due to the Overseer for the excellent state of discipline in which the Ship is at this present time.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your faithful and obedient servant,
H. J. Dawes, Chaplain.

John Henry Capper, Esq.
Superintendent of Convicts.

Sir, Woolwich, 8 July 1834.

Enclosure (D.) in N° 1.

I regret that an opportunity should be afforded me of stating that the number of offences committed by Prisoners on board the Ganymede and Leven Hulks, during the last quarter, exceeds any preceding one which it has fallen to my lot to comment upon.

It is nevertheless to a certain extent gratifying to be able to qualify this unfavourable statement, by remarking that the majority of the offences are of a trivial nature, and that out of four-and-twenty offences there appear to be the names of but two individuals who have before been reported for violating the rules and regulations of the Establishment.

I remain, Sir, your obedient servant,
W. Quarterman, Chaplain.

John Henry Capper, Esq.
Superintendent of Convicts.

Sir, Woolwich, 2 Jan. 1835.

In consequence of the Convict Establishment at Sheerness having been, last year, broken up, and my services transferred to this place, I can only speak in general terms of the moral conduct of the Prisoners confided to my spiritual charge; but from my personal observation during the short time I have been with them, and from the Report made to me by the Officers of the Ship, their behaviour for the last six months has been very praiseworthy. Enclosure (D.) in N° 2.

I am, Sir, yours faithfully,

John Henry Capper, Esq.
Superintendent of Convicts.

T. Price, Chaplain.

Sir, Woolwich, 10 Jan. 1835.

The Report I have to make on the present occasion is much more favourable than the last. There have been but few offences committed during the last six months, and those chiefly of a trivial nature; and as far as I am enabled to judge, I should say that the system of discipline now carried on in the Ganymede and Leven Hulks is superior to what it has been at any former period since I have been connected with the service. Enclosure (E.) in N° 2.

I remain, my dear Sir, yours very truly,

John Henry Capper, Esq.

W. Quarterman, Chaplain.

CONVICTS.

OF

JOHN HENRY CAPPER, ESQ.

Superintendent of Ships and Vessels employed for the Confinement of Offenders under Sentence of Transportation; relating to the Convict Establishments at Portsmouth, Gosport, Chatham, Woolwich; and at Bermuda.

Ordered, by The House of Commons, to be Printed
20 March 1835.

CONVICT DEPARTMENT, CORK.

RETURN to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 16 July 1835;—for,

A RETURN, in Detail, of the EXPENSE of the CONVICT DEPARTMENT at the Port of Cork, in each of the Three last Years; distinguishing the DISBURSEMENTS for the HULK at Cove, from those of the DEPÔT at Cork; the Names of the several Officers and the Dates of their Appointment, and if not Resident therein, the Distance at which they respectively reside from each Establishment:—Also, the SALARY and TRAVELLING EXPENSES of Mr. Trevor, or other Person employed as Inspector or Inspectors; and the Total Expense of their Office in Dublin.

THE Convict Establishments in Ireland consist of a Penitentiary House, or Convict Depôt, at Cork, under the Act passed in the 32d year of the reign of his Majesty George the Third, and the Act of the third year of his late Majesty George the Fourth; a Hulk at the Cove of Cork; and a Hulk at Kingstown, under the Act of the third year of George the Fourth.

At the Penitentiary House, or Convict Depôt, there is a Local Inspector (Dr. Cuddy), at a salary of 100 l. per annum; a Surgeon (Dr. Cuddy), at a salary of 63 l. per annum; a Protestant Clergyman (the Rev. Mr. Burrows), at 46 l. 3 s. 1 d., and a Roman-catholic Clergyman (Rev. Mr. O'Keeffe), at 46 l. 3 s. 1 d. per annum; an Apothecary (Mr. Goslin), at 18 l. 9 s. 4 d., and a Matron (Miss Hennessy), at 27 l. 13 s. 10 d. per annum; a Keeper (Mr. Murphy), at a salary of 276 l. 18 s. 6 d. (See Return of Keeper hereunto annexed, No. 1).

At the Hulk, Cove of Cork, there is a Local Inspector (at present vacant), at a salary of 230 l. 15 s. 5 d.; a Surgeon (Mr. Taylor), at a salary of 138 l. 9 s. 4 d.; a Keeper (Mr. Betty), at a salary of 184 l. 12 s. 4 d.; a Shipkeeper (Mr. Manson), at a salary of 92 l. 6 s. 2 d.; Rev. Mr. Hollingsworth, Protestant Clergyman, at 46 l. 3 s. 1 d., and a Roman-catholic Clergyman (Rev. Mr. England), at 46 l. 3 s. 1 d. per annum. (See Return of Expense of that Establishment, No. 2).

At the Hulk at Kingstown there is as follows: Local Inspector, none ever appointed, Dr. Trevor, performing the duty without salary or allowance, whereby 230 l. 15 s. 5 d. is saved annually to the public; a Keeper (Mr. Lamb), at a salary of 184 l. 12 s. 4 d.; a Protestant Clergyman (Rev. Mr. Grant), at 46 l. 3 s. 1 d.; Roman-catholic Clergyman (Rev. Mr. Sheridan), at 46 l. 3 s. 1 d.; a Surgeon (Mr. Speer, M. D.), at 138 l. 9 s. 4 d.; and a Shipkeeper (Mr. Allison), at 92 l. 6 s. 2 d. per annum). (See Return of Expense of that Establishment, No. 3).

Edward Trevor, M. D., Superintendent and Medical Inspector of Convicts in the Hulks, Penitentiary and Kilmainham Gaol (in the latter Prison, Convicts are lodged in transitu to Cork, for embarkation to New South Wales), at a salary of 400 l. per annum. His arrangements in checking the Accounts of the Convict Service, more particularly since the year 1818, when he was directed by Government to hold an investigation at Cork into abuses said to exist in the Convict Department at that place, the minutes of which inquiry were laid before Parliament; by the regulations he made at that time (before the Hulks were established in Ireland upon his plan and regulations), an immense saving accrued to the public. He regulates the expenses of the Hulks and Penitentiary at Cork (which prevents former unnecessary and extravagant expenditure), previous to their being sent before the Commissioners of Imprest Accounts, whose Report formerly thereon corresponds with the foregoing observations, as to saving of expense by Dr. Trevor to the public.

The Report of the Commissioners of Imprest Accounts is as follows: "A considerable saving appears to have accrued to the public from the arrangements made by Dr. Trevor, and from his mode of checking and examining the Accounts, which, as amended by us, is just and true;" and it will appear by the regulations of the Hulks and Penitentiary at Cork, that instead of 1 s. per diem being charged as formerly, as well as other most extravagant charges, for the maintenance, &c., of Convicts, 3 ½ d. or 3 ¼ d. is now the daily expense, and the Prisoners are more healthy. Similar reductions have been made in providing Clothing for those Establishments, now better supplied at one-third of expense, which mainly caused the saving alluded to in the Annual Report hereunto annexed, together with the charge of Medical Inspection at Cove alone, the amount of which, for each embarkation, being from 300 l. to 500 l., for which he further refers to his Annual Report herewith annexed. Dr. Trevor examines the state of health of Prisoners, and superintends all embarkations of Convicts at Cove and at Kingstown; he is allowed 100 l. travelling expenses to the former place; he receives no travelling or other allowance for superintendence at Kingstown, and is detained at Cove on an average of three weeks to a month. There are no other Inspectors connected with the Hulks or Penitentiary House at Cork, except those detailed in the Returns herewith annexed.

Dr. Trevor has been employed in the Convict Service upwards of 40 years.

Edward Trevor,
Medical Inspector and Superintendent of Convicts.

N. B.—The increase in the salaries for the years 1832 and 1833 was in consequence of the withdrawal of the military guard during the prevalence of the cholera in Cork, and the substitution of three watchmen who received wages; and in 1834, an additional turnkey being necessary, from the great number of prisoners.

The above diet supplied to the Hulk Essex at 3 $\frac{35}{64}$ d. per diem, according to the present contract.
To prevent any extravagant supplies with regard to repairs or contingencies, a schedule describing the necessity of such repairs or contingencies is forwarded to the superintendent for his approbation and signature, which vouchers accompany the accounts for the information of the Commissioners of Imprest Accounts. The contracts are taken in such a way as to prevent any favouritism, and by competition.

Diet, as charged previous to Dr. Trevor's superintendence at Cork in the year 1817, was 1 s. per man per day; the dietary since that period has been, according to yearly contract, from 3 d. to 4 d. per convict per diem; the saving thereon, compared with the former charge, is, viz. Previous to Dr. Trevor's superintendence at Cork, 50 guineas was paid to the sheriffs, and 60 guineas to the gaoler of Cork, at each embarkation, which charge was discontinued on 99 embarkations since 1817, which would amount to - -	11,434	10	–	672	12	4
Saving on demurrage at Cove and Kingstown by the dispatch of convict ships, on an average of 99 ships, compared to the amount paid previous to 1817 - - - - - - - -	39,600	–	–	2,329	8	2 ½
In making the above statement attention has been paid rather to under calculation, unless where the specific sum has been ascertained; the saving on demurrage, it is presumed, is much below the average saving, which can be proved by a reference to the Navy Board.
Removing convicts from Dublin to Cork. By the mode adopted by Dr. Trevor the prisoners are better fed, at less than one half the expense formerly charged, previous to Dec. 1817. Comparing the expense since that arrangement, there appears a saving of - - - - - - - - - - -	20,112	–	–	1,183	1	2
Various other expenses have been discontinued since 1817; such as charges for shaving convicts' heads, at 5 s. 5 d. each, which for 15,864 convicts transported would have amounted to 3,966 l., and nearly 10 l. for every medical attendance from Cork to Cove, and barber's bill amounting in all, for seven embarkations previous to Dr. Trevor's superintendence, to 2,971 l. 3 s. 10 ½ d.; and (according to that rate) for the number of embarkations since (99), the saving thereby made amounts to - - - - - - - - - - -	42,339	10	2 ½	2,490	11	2
N. B.—A guinea per day for medical attendance in city of Cork gaol.
Saving on victualling convicts in harbour at Cove and Kingstown on board convict ships, by yearly contract, compared to the former charges, average 250 l. each ship, which makes the amount saved on 99 ships - - - - - - -	24,750	–	–	1,455	17	7 ½
Since the year 1833, this expense has been defrayed by the Victualling Board.
Total Saving - - - £.	277,535	11	9

Other expenses have been discontinued by Dr. Trevor's regulations; viz. five per cent. charged on all expenses, by an agent who provided all stores, provisions, clothing, &c. when convict ships arrived at Cove, and for the voyage to New South Wales (at present cannot give the exact sum), amounting to very large sums of money; also, saving by discontinuing the mode formerly adopted by sending convicts from Cork to Cove, which caused considerable expense and delay of transports.

Note 1.—Silence being enforced as much as possible in the wards (particularly amongst the male prisoners), it is not considered objectionable to associate those of different ages; the younger working, as far as practicable, apart from the older prisoners.

Note 2.—Owing to such great numbers continually arriving at and being discharged from this prison, it is not possible to return with due correctness the offences for which so many have been before committed. The greater part have, however, been sent here as rogues and vagabonds, suspected, or for the unlawful possession of stolen property.

SECOND CLASS:

Male and Female Prisoners intended to be examined as Witnesses on behalf of the Crown in any prosecution.

Under the above denomination, no Prisoners at present in custody.

The Total Number of Offenders committed annually, for the last three years to this House of Correction, appear to be as follows:

From Michaelmas 1831 to Michaelmas 1832 - -	Male - - - - - - -	248
	Female - - - - - - -	42
	TOTAL - - -	290

From Michaelmas 1832 to Michaelmas 1833 - -	Male - - - - - - -	235
	Female - - - - - - -	35
	TOTAL - - -	270
From Michaelmas 1833 to present date, 11 August 1834, being about six weeks short of the usual period when the annual returns are made -	Male - - - - - - -	193
	Female - - - - - - -	68
	TOTAL - - -	261

On reference to the commitments, the numbers in previous years have never been less, but on several occasions considerably greater than those above quoted.

The prisoners continue to be instructed and attended daily by the chaplain, and voluntary labour performed in mat-making, mop-making, skewer and vent-peg cutting, and other useful occupations by such as are capable.

In cases of misconduct, solitary confinement for a short period is resorted to, and generally has the desired effect.

The prisoners are all at this time in good health, and very orderly.

A RETURN of the SALARY paid to the CHAPLAIN of every PRISON in England and Wales, for the Year ending Michaelmas 1834; the usual Hours of doing Duty in the Prison each Day; the Average Number of Prisoners daily; and whether he has any, and what, Ecclesiastical Duty other than Attendance on the Prison; and the Emolument derivable therefrom.

ENGLAND.

COUNTY OF BEDFORD.

Gaol and Two Houses of Correction at Bedford.

THE salary I receive as Chaplain of the gaol and two houses of correction in this town is 150 l. per annum. The usual hour of doing duty each day is a quarter before nine in the morning, when I read prayers at the new house of correction; immediately after which I proceed to the gaol, and read prayers again. (The gaol and old house of correction being under the same roof, their respective inmates attend the same chapel.) The average number of prisoners daily was, in the last year, from 70 to 150. I am, besides, Chaplain of the general infirmary in this place, the emolument of which is 50 l. per annum.

In regard to the prisons, I beg to add that I occasionally visit the prisoners in their day-rooms and cells.

17 March 1835. George Mailear.

COUNTY OF BERKS.

House of Correction at Abingdon.

MY salary for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was 80 l. Prayers from the Liturgy are read every morning of the six days of the week, at eight o'clock; on Sundays, Christmas-day and Good Friday, prayers and a sermon in the morning at eleven o'clock, and prayers with a lecture in the afternoon at half-past three; with regular attendance at the Sunday-school kept in the prison.

The only ecclesiastical duty which I have, besides the above mentioned, is the reading of prayers at the parish church of St. Nicholas, in this town, every day in the week except Sundays, throughout the year, at a quarter before ten in the morning; for which duty my stipend is under 27 l. per annum.

The average number of prisoners, from Michaelmas 1833 to Michaelmas 1834, was about 48; the highest number being 73, and the lowest 22.

I have been Chaplain 17 years.

17 March 1835. William Smith.

Gaol and House of Correction at Reading.

THE salary paid to me for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was 200 l.

My duties at the gaol each day commence, during the four winter months, at half-past nine, and during the remaining eight months of the year at nine in the morning.

The time I spend in the gaol must average about three hours daily, except when absent from illness or necessary engagement. On Sundays I am on the spot between four and five hours. Further claims are sometimes made on my time by justices visiting or in committee, also by the friends and relatives of prisoners calling at my house.

The daily number of prisoners for the year has been as low as 100, and as high as 180. The average number for the quarter ending Michaelmas 1835 was 109, and for the quarter ending Michaelmas last 145.

I have no ecclesiastical duty other than attendance on the prison.

18 March 1835. Robert Appleton.

COUNTY OF BUCKS.

Gaol and House of Correction at Aylesbury.

I ENTERED upon duty as Chaplain only at the Epiphany quarter sessions 1834; consequently I had only been in office three quarters of a year at Michaelmas last.

My salary is 150 l. per annum.

As those who are sentenced to hard labour go on the tread-wheel at nine and leave it at twelve o'clock, I either assemble my congregation in chapel for service before the first or after the last-mentioned hour, in preference to calling them from the wheel while heated with labour; I have never deviated from this arrangement but from necessity. On the Sabbath I perform duty twice; in the morning about a quarter before nine, and in the afternoon about half-past three.

As far as my experience extends, I think about 150 nearly the average number of prisoners; all of whom always attend chapel, except the sick, or any woman who may have an infant in need of her attentions. Of course my visits are frequent, both at the infirmary of the gaol, and the different wards and cells.

I have the perpetual curacy of a small parish, without a residence, about five miles distant, Upper Winchendon, where there is single duty weekly, and which yields me about 50 l. per annum. Latterly I have also performed the duty of a very small chapel, Fleet Marston, within three miles, which place I always pass in going to and from my own curacy; and both having only single service, morning and afternoon alternately, I can discharge both as easily as one only, no labour being at all requisite. But the duty of Fleet Marston I have performed only as a temporary arrangement, in consequence of the incumbent being ill, and I expect it to cease altogether in a few weeks; the emolument I have derived from it has been at the rate of a guinea a Sunday.

I have thus most strictly mentioned all my ecclesiastial duties, and their respective emoluments. It would appear that, when I have ceased to perform the duty of Fleet Marston, I have 200 l. per annum; but I entreat the liberty of saying that I have to find a house out of it; that when I have paid rent, rates and taxes of all kinds, my chaplain's stipend of 150 l. is reduced very nearly indeed to 100 l.; and thus, with Upper Winchendon, I have an income of about 150 l. To this I must add, that I have had a family of 10 children, seven of whom are now living; that I have been more than 16 years in the Church; and that I trust, under these circumstances, I shall not be thought one of the over-paid, for indeed I have hard work to make both ends meet.

Walton, Aylesbury, 16 March 1835. Frederick Cox.

COUNTY OF CAMBRIDGE.

Gaol and House of Correction at Cambridge.

THE salary paid to me for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was 150 l. The usual hour of doing duty each day in the week, was from half-past nine to ten, a. m.; and on the Sunday from half-past nine to eleven, a. m.; and from three to four, p. m. The average number of prisoners daily, during the same period, was 89. I serve a small parish in the neighbourhood of Cambridge as incumbent, and the emolument I derive from it is 51 l. 10 s. per annum.

Gaol at Ely.

MY salary is, and has been for some years, 60 l. per annum; and the regular hour for the performance of Divine Service in the gaol, on Sundays, is ten o'clock in the morning. On the week days I attend as occasion requires, and as may best suit my convenience; but when any prisoner is under sentence of death, I make a point of attending him twice every day, and for a considerable period too, from the day of his condemnation till that of his execution. I cannot exactly specify the average number of prisoners in attendance during Divine Service, as the number confined is so frequently varying: but in looking at the register of the prison, I find that during the year ending at Michaelmas 1834 the number of commitments to our prison was 44; and that the greatest number confined at any one time, during that year, was 34.

As to my other ecclesiastical duties, I attend for six months in the year, in our cathedral at twelve o'clock on the morning of Sundays, and am in readiness to preach on any of those days, during that period, when the dean or the prebendary in residence does not preach himself (which very seldom happens); and for which attendance, &c. I receive 40 l. per annum.

I have also the care of a small hamlet, the chapel of which is about a mile and three quarters distant from Ely; at which chapel I do duty on every Sunday, in the afternoon; my income from this chapel is about 65 l. per annum. My income from this chapel was about 76 l. per annum a few years since; but as it is chiefly derived from land, the produce of which is now so much reduced in value, 65 l. is about the sum I may henceforward calculate upon receiving, if indeed I do receive so much.

The above is the whole of my Sunday duty, and also of the emoluments derived therefrom.

The only other clerical duty I have is on the week days, and which consists of reading the morning and evening prayers every (week) day, in the cathedral, (as a minor canon) on every fourth week, throughout the year; and for this I receive 22 l. 10 s. per annum.

The foregoing statement comprises the whole of the clerical duty I perform, as well as of the income received for the performance of the same.

17 March 1835. John Griffith.

House of Correction at Wisbech.

I HAVE been Chaplain since Midsummer 1827; the Salary 50 l. per annum.

The duties, every Sunday, at a quarter past nine in the morning; the service, the prayers of the Church of England and a sermon.

The average number of prisoners, from Michaelmas 1833 to Michaelmas 1834, is nearly 31, being exactly $30\frac{48}{52}$.

I am and have been curate of Wisbech since December 1816; my stipend, formerly 100 l. per annum, and the surplice fees; at present, and since the Rev. Henry Fardell has been vicar, 150 l. per annum, and the surplice fees.

20 March 1835. Robert Jarrold King.

COUNTY OF CHESTER.

Chester Castle.

MY Salary is 130 l. a year.

The average number of prisoners now attending my ministry is 140, but the buildings of the gaol are at present being enlarged and nearly completed, for the purpose of containing a much greater number of prisoners.

The hours of Divince service are eleven and half-past two on the Sunday, and two on Wednesdays and Fridays.

The duties which I discharge, and which I am in the habit of reporting, from time to time, to the magistrates at the quarter sessions, are the same as those which I found established at the Castle at the time of my appointment in 1825, viz., morning and evening service, with a sermon after each on the Sunday, and prayers with a lecture on Wednesdays and Fridays; and at the suggestion of some of the magistrates, I have, for the last two years, read the service during passion week every day. I administer the Sacrament once a quarter; I circulate religious and instructive tracts through all the day-rooms, cells and the hospital, at least once a week. I visit such prisoners as from severe illness, serious charges or other causes, I think most likely to attend to my ministrations; and I am sorry to say, that the number of criminals in the last year, whom I have to attend daily, and sometimes frequently during the day for an unusually protracted period of preparation for death, has been no less than six.

I am also Chaplain of the House of Industry, where on the Sunday morning I read the whole service and preach a sermon before I go to the Castle. The salary of this appointment is limited by a local Act to 20 l. a year. I made my being allowed to retain this latter chaplaincy the condition of my accepting the chaplaincy of the Castle, the salary of which was at the time of my appointment to it, only 100 l. a year, but was subsequently raised to the present amount in consequence of a strong representation in my favour which Bishop Blomfield made to the magistrates in quarter sessions.

16 March 1835. John Hoskins, A. B.

House of Correction at Nether Knutsford.

MY Salary is 120 l. per annum, without house or any extra.

I have no other ecclesiastical preferment or duty.

Duty is done in the chapel three days per week.

On the Sabbath, the duty commences at the same hour as in parish church. Forenoon and afternoon.

On Tuesday, we have regular service in chapel. On Thursday, prayers, and a lecture on subjects applicable to the existing state of the prison.

But although we do not meet every day in chapel, the days are few indeed that I have not reason to be with the prisoners, from one cause or another.

The average number of prisoners was, for the last year, as near 240 as can possibly be calculated.

I have been Chaplain to the above-named prison since it was built, 16 or 17 years or upwards.

17 March 1835. Peter Sannet.

Chester City Gaol and House of Correction.

My Salary is 100 l. per annum; and I perform two full services every Lord's-day, Christmas-day, Good Friday, &c., at the hours of nine in the morning and three in the afternoon: I also read prayers on Wednesdays and Fridays. With regard to "the average number of prisoners" who attend Divine service, although the gaol and house of correction are calculated to receive twice the number (which fluctuates amazingly), yet I calculate the average at about 35 or 38.

Besides these duties of attending on the prisons, I have the extra-parochial chapel of Little St. John's, situated near them in the city, at which I have a Sunday morning service at eleven, and a Wednesday evening lecture. The fixed emolument attached to St. John's, is 109 l. 7 s. 4 d. The pew-rents (which is the only addition, and fluctuating) amounted to about 40 l. a year when I entered upon the benefice, but have since increased a little.

Perhaps I ought to add, that as there is no house attached to either of my pieces of preferment (in the patronage of the magistrates and corporation) I have one to rent for myself and family at an expense (with taxes) of 40 l. a year.

19 March 1835. William Clarke.

COUNTY OF CORNWALL.

Gaol at Bodmin.

My Salary is 150 l. per annum. These buildings also consist of the county house of correction, and the sheriff's ward.

I spend on an average two hours daily in the prison, but on the Sabbath-days I remain there for four or five hours.

The average number of prisoners daily is from 120 to 130. The largest number of prisoners assembled together at one time during the year, ending Michaelmas 1834, was 149.

I am also the Chaplain of the county lunatic asylum, at a short distance from the county gaol, where I also perform Divine service every Sabbath-day, and attend there at any other time that may be needful. For which duty I receive 50 l. per annum.

16 March 1835. Leonard J. Boor.

COUNTY OF CUMBERLAND.

Gaol at Carlisle.

The Salary of the Chaplain is 125 l. a year. The hours of doing duty are nine in the morning and two in the afternoon of Sundays, and half-past eight in the other mornings of the week; the average number of prisoners daily is 70.

The lectureship of the cathedral of Carlisle, worth 100 l. a year, is held by the Chaplain of the county gaol; the duties of this office are, a Sunday evening service at one of the parish churches of Carlisle, and the preaching of a sermon in the cathedral on the 1st of January, 29th of May, 30th of January, Ascension-day, and Gunpowder-plot.

16 March 1835. Thomas Wilkinson, A. M.

COUNTY OF DERBY.

Gaol at Derby.

I read daily the morning service of the Church of England in the chapel of the prison at nine o'clock in summer and at half-past nine in the winter. I visit such prisoners as require my further attention. On Sundays, Christmas Day and Good Friday I perform two whole services, the first at nine o'clock in the morning, the second at one or two o'clock in the afternoon. After one of the services I visit the Sunday-school attached to the prison. My salary is 150 l. per annum. Upon an average the last year 110 prisoners daily attended the chapel.

I hold the vicarage of Mackworth, to which belong two churches. My curate takes care of one, and I perform one whole service on Sundays in the other, distant two miles from the county gaol. The annual value of my vicarage is 161 l.

17 March 1835. George Pickering.

COUNTY OF DEVON.

Gaol and House of Correction at Exeter.

The salary paid to me the year ending Michaelmas 1834 was 200 l., out of which sum I paid 20 l. to an assistant, for assisting me, by doing one service in the chapel of the house of correction on Wednesdays, which reduces my stipend to 180 l. per annum for these prisons.

These

These prisons are considered as one, and are under the care of one governor, assisted by a deputy. The hours of service daily in the two chapels are as under:

Devon County Gaol Prison Chapel:—Every morning at nine o'clock, and on Sundays, for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, on alternate Sundays, at nine in the morning and three in the afternoon for the summer half year, and at a quarter before three for the winter half year.

Devon County House of Correction Chapel:—Every morning immediately after the gaol service, which necessarily varies, on account of the time I am employed there in visiting the prisoners in solitary confinement, &c. &c. The service in the house of correction chapel however never commences before ten o'clock, nor after twelve o'clock; on Sundays the service for the house of correction chapel was alternate at nine in the morning and three and a quarter before three in the afternoon.

The average number of prisoners, as taken on Sunday mornings during the year ending Michaelmas 1835, was,

In the gaol, and attending that chapel - - - - -	104
In the house of correction, and attending that chapel - -	121

At the Epiphany sessions 1834 the magistrates entertained an idea of consolidating the gaol and house of correction chapels, in order to give the prisoners the benefit of a double service on Sundays, without imposing any additional duty on the Chaplain, and directed the visiting magistrates to procure an estimate and plan, and a sum of 500 l. was voted to carry the plan into effect; but on advertising for tenders, the lowest offered was 679 l., and the consolidation was abandoned. The magistrates however, at the Michaelmas sessions 1834, October 14, ordered that an additional service at each of the chapels should be performed on Sundays, and voted the sum of 80 l. for that purpose. An assistant is therefore now provided, at an annual salary of 76 l., the other 4 l. being given to the clerk. The present services therefore for the year ending Michaelmas 1835, will be as under:

At the gaol chapel, prayers and sermon at nine in the morning, and prayers and sermon at three or a quarter before three in the afternoon.

House of correction chapel, on Sundays the same.

I was appointed Chaplain to the Devon County Gaol and House of Correction at the Michaelmas sessions 1831, by the magistrates, with salary of 200 l. per annum, with an understanding that I should give 20 l. per annum to an assistant, who was to take the Wednesday duty at the house of correction chapel, on which day I had to perform service in the chapel at the sheriff's ward.

Sheriff's Ward for Debtors.

The salary paid to me as Chaplain of this prison, is 50 l. per annum.

The duty once on Sundays, prayers and sermon at a quarter after eleven o'clock in the morning and five in the afternoon.

On Wednesdays, prayers a quarter after ten o'clock in the morning.

On Christmas Day and Good Friday, prayers and sermon at a quarter after eleven o'clock.

The average number of prisoners in this prison, for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, as taken on Sunday mornings, was 36.

I was appointed Chaplain of this prison by the county magistrates, at Midsummer sessions 1816, with a salary of 50 l. per annum; and continued to serve a church in Exeter with it, until I was appointed Chaplain to the county gaol and house of correction, when I gave up my curacy, in order to devote the whole of my time to the prisons exclusively.

Ecclesiastical Duty.

The only ecclesiastical duty that I had during the year ending Michaelmas 1834 was that of chapter lecturer at the Exeter Cathedral. The duties I perform as such lecturer are, to preach a sermon on every saint's day, at a quarter after ten o'clock in the morning, unless such saint's day fall on a Sunday, when I am altogether excused from attending at the Cathedral. The salary of the chapter lecturer is 30 l. per annum, without any other emolument. I was appointed by the dean and chapter of Exeter at Lady-day 1812, with a salary of 30 l. per annum.

16 March 1835. Wm. Carwithens, D. D.

Exeter City Gaol.

THERE are three weekly services performed at this gaol, on Sundays, Wednesdays and Fridays, together with a sermon on the former of those days, as also on Christmas Day and Good Friday, when the usual services are performed, at eleven o'clock, A. M.

The juvenile offenders are instructed, and the prisoners in solitary confinement visited.

The Sacrament is administered four times a year in the chapel, and privately whenever it may be found necessary so to do. The daily average number of prisoners may be said to be 45. Executions occasionally take place, the city of Exeter having the power of trying all offences, except high treason, at the quarter sessions.

The salary I at present receive is 60 l. per annum: and from the corporation of the poor of the city, 100 l., as Chaplain to that body.

18 March 1835. E. Eastcott.

P. S.—The Exeter gaol contains three prisons under one roof: the common gaol, bridewell and debtors' ward.

COUNTY OF DORSET.

Gaol and House of Correction at Dorchester.

My salary is 200 l. per annum. I have prayers in the chapel of the prison every morning at nine o'clock, and Divine service on Sundays at ten in the morning and three in the afternoon. I inspect every ward, and see every prisoner, generally twice in the week. And there is a school for juvenile delinquents in the gaol, under my superintendence, the master of which is one of the prisoners, selected for his ability and good conduct. I hardly understand how the average number of the prisoners daily is to be reckoned, but perhaps a more correct judgment may be formed of that particular than I could give, by my stating that we have sometimes as few as 140, and sometimes as many as 190. It is impossible to say how many hours I am at the gaol each day, as that depends very much upon circumstances; sometimes I am not there more than an hour, at others four or five. A plan is in contemplation for a more general instruction of the prisoners in reading; not confining it to the more youthful offenders, but including delinquents of every age and class, so far as it may be found practicable without interfering with their labour at the tread-wheel.

In addition to this, I have one duty every Sunday at the County Lunatic Asylum, to which I was appointed Chaplain by the magistrates of the county, at a salary of 50 l. per annum. My united salaries, therefore, for the house of correction, the gaol, and the asylum, is 250 l. a year. Besides this I have no other ecclesiastical duty; and the amount I have stated comprises the whole of what I receive from these offices.

COUNTY OF DURHAM.

Gaol and House of Correction at Durham.

Salary previous to April 1834 - - - 200 l. per year.
Ditto from April 1834 to Michaelmas 1834 - 180 l. —

I have never since April 1819 been permitted to hold any ecclesiastical duty but my chaplaincy.—No house accommodation.

Duty daily performed:—Prayers before breakfast, with a portion of Scripture read and explained, with other duties occasional, eleven hours and a half. On Saturdays, morning and evening prayers and instruction, two hours. On Sundays, morning service with a sermon, and afternoon service with a lecture from a portion of the Scripture in the service of the day; time generally occupied for the above, three hours and a half. Other occasional duties as cases occur to require them.

Daily average number of prisoners in 1834, 190.

16 March 1835. C. G. Wheeler.

COUNTY OF ESSEX.

House of Correction at Colchester.

The Salary paid to the Chaplain for the year ending Michaelmas 1834 was 40 l.

The number of prisoners daily averaged about two.

The duty performed was once on the Sunday, at one o'clock generally, prayers and sermon, and once on the Thursday; and if necessary the prisoners were visited at other times.

He is perpetual Curate (or Rector) of the parish of St. Giles, Colchester, the emolument of which averages somewhat (in tithes, Easter offering, fees, &c.) under 200 l. per annum.

In explanation of the above, he begs to add, that when first appointed in the year 1817, the average number of prisoners was much greater, there being at one time 34 confined there; but that since the year 1823, in consequence of the Act then passed, the prison was not considered as fitted to receive, with few exceptions, any but suspected persons, in custody for examination; that now a new prison has been built, calculated to hold 45, properly classified, which prison was occupied for the first time after the last Epiphany Sessions. He now attends there daily on the week-days, and twice on the Sunday, and his Salary will be, as he believes, 70 l. per annum.

19 March 1835. J. W. Morgan.

House of Correction at Halsted.

The Chaplain's Salary for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was 100 l., paid quarterly: the usual hours of doing duty on Sundays, half-past ten and half-past two o'clock in winter; and in summer half-past ten and three o'clock; on other days, ten o'clock in winter, and eight in summer: the average number of prisoners daily was 31; the highest number being 60, and the lowest no more than eight: the Chaplain has no ecclesiastical duty other than attendance on the prison, though he occasionally (but very seldom) assists the Clergymen in the immediate neighbourhood of Halsted.

24 March 1835. George Marshall Fowke.

House of Correction at Little Ilford.

The salary paid to me is 100 l. per annum. Service is performed every morning at nine o'clock; and on Sunday there is a second duty at half-past one o'clock. The average number of prisoners daily is about 35. I have also the curacy of Little Ilford, from which I receive 80 l. per annum, with the use of the glebe-house and garden.

I beg to add, that I only became chaplain last Michaelmas, but I believe the former chaplain received the same salary.

17 March 1835. T. L. Bayliff.

Gaol at Springfield and Gaol and House of Correction at Chelmsford.

The salary paid is 300 l. per annum.

Prayers are read every morning at Springfield gaol at half-past eight o'clock, and at Chelmsford gaol and house of correction every morning at nine o'clock.

The Chaplain attends each prison daily, to visit the prisoners in solitary confinement, and others that may require his attendance.

Divine Service is performed every Sunday, Christmas-day and Good Friday, at each prison: viz. the morning service and a sermon at Springfield gaol at half-past nine, and the morning service and a sermon at Chelmsford gaol and house of correction at eleven o'clock. The evening service is performed at each prison in the afternoon, and no sermon.

The average number of prisoners daily, debtors included, is about 300.

The Chaplain has no other preferment, and performs no other ecclesiastical duties whatever.

16 March 1835. John Heatley Lewis.

COUNTY OF GLOUCESTER.

County Prison at Gloucester.

The duties of the Chaplain are regulated by Acts of Parliament referring to the penitentiary house at Gloucester, which penitentiary is under the same roof as the common gaol, and which Acts are recognised in the new Gaol Act; these are the 13th, 19th, 24th, 25th, 31st, &c. of Geo. 3. By one of these (13th of Geo. 3, c. 58) "the Chaplain is required to read prayers every Sunday, Wednesday and Friday mornings, at regulated hours; to preach a sermon every Sunday, Christmas-day and Good Friday; to inquire into the situation of the prisoners; to see and confer with them without the officer being present; to observe the state of the cells; to attend those who are in health or in sickness who may stand in need of his spiritual advice; to administer the Sacrament to such persons as he shall consider in a state of mind to receive the same, and about the three great festivals of the Church; and to distribute books of moral and religious instruction among the prisoners," &c.

To these rules I have conformed. I generally visit once every day, or at least six days in the week; read prayers on Wednesday and Friday mornings; perform a morning and evening service on every Sunday, Christmas-day and Good Friday; administer the Sacrament at three times of the year, or oftener, when it appears that there are communicants in the most suitable frame of mind to attend, also to those who are in a dangerous or dying condition; distribute books, published by the Society for promoting Christian Knowledge, which I think best calculated for the different capacities and situations of those to whom they are given; direct those who are better educated to instruct others younger, or more ignorant; visit those who are ill, or under temporary or solitary punishment, and particularly those who are capitally convicted, or likely to be so; report all cases of improper interference or misconduct on the part of the officers, or flagrant breach of discipline on the part of the prisoners, to the visiting Magistrates.

If absent from home, I provide a clergyman to officiate for me, to be approved by the visiting Magistrates.

The average number of prisoners which I attend is from 250 to 300; the annual stipend is 200 l.

I formerly had a parish to attend to in the vicinity, of which I did the duties conjointly with those of the county prison; but for the last five years I have attended exclusively to the county prison, and serve no other church or chapel.

The Spa, near Gloucester,
14 March 1835. R. J. Cooper.

City of Bristol Gaol.

I was appointed Chaplain at Michaelmas 1832. The whole emolument of the office is 74 l. per annum, of which the corporation of Bristol pay 70 l. out of their own funds, and the remaining 4 l. is a benefaction.

The average number of prisoners during the year ended at Michaelmas 1834 was about 180; the highest number being 214, the lowest 131.

The usual hours of doing duty are, on Sundays at nine o'clock in the morning and half-past two in the afternoon; and on Wednesdays and Fridays at half-past nine o'clock in the morning. Select prayers are read on other days by the task-master.

The above are the regular duties, but I attend frequently at the prison for the purpose of visiting the prisoners in their cells, &c. &c.

Though nominated only to the new gaol, I am considered to have the spiritual charge of the bridewell. My attendance there has hitherto been limited generally to one short service on Sundays, at about half-past one o'clock, there being but few prisoners sent thither under present circumstances, whilst that prison is being rebuilt.

Besides the prison duty, I also hold the curacy of St. Thomas's in this city, which parish contains a population of about 1,200. My stipend as curate is 85 l. per annum. This situation I have held more than 17 years.

17 March 1835. Thomas F. Jennings, M. A.

House of Correction at Horsley.

Salary:—45 l. per annum.

Hours of Duty:—nine, Sunday morning; eleven, Wednesday morning.

Average Number of Prisoners:—40 daily.

Other Ecclesiastical Duty, and its Emoluments:—Nailsworth chapel, 80 l. per annum.

N. B.—Since the 1st January last 1835, double duty is done every Sunday, according to the Act of 4th Geo. 4, c. 64, and the salary raised to 80 l. per annum; and the Chaplain now appointed has no other ecclesiastical duty to perform. The new Chaplain's name is Thomas Curme.

Lewis Geneste Clerk, Chaplain in the year 1834.

Bristol House of Correction, Lawford's Gate.

The salary paid to the Chaplain, to Michaelmas 1834, has been 40 l. per annum; but perhaps I should mention, that the salary is in future to be increased to 80 l. per annum, agreeable to an order at the general quarter sessions, holden at the Shire Hall at Gloucester in January last.

The usual hours of public service, on Sundays, Christmas-day and Good Friday, are nine o'clock in the forenoon, and half-past one o'clock in the afternoon; on every Wednesday and Friday, at ten o'clock in the forenoon. The other seasons when the Chaplain visits the prisoners, to instruct them or otherwise, are not regular, but according to circumstances.

The average number of prisoners daily may be estimated at 29.

The Chaplain holds the vicarage of St. Philip and Jacob, in which parish Lawford's-gate prison is situated, and also a Sunday-evening lectureship in Christ Church, Bristol. The income of the former is from its nature most uncertain; it may, perhaps, at present average rather above 200 l. per annum; the population I believe to be above 14,000: the income of the latter is 25 l. per annum.

20 March 1835. Samuel E. Day.

Littledean Prison.

The salary paid to the Chaplain was 40 l. per annum, till Michaelmas 1834; since that time the salary has been raised to 80 l. per annum.

Hours of doing Duty in the Prison:—Every Sunday, the appointed service and a sermon at eleven and three alternately; and on Good Friday and Christmas-day, the appointed service and a sermon at eleven, and prayers one day in the week.

Average Number of Prisoners daily:—10.

No other stated duty, but occasionally doing duty at Mitcheldean, of which he is the incumbent, but where there is a resident curate living in the parsonage-house, and having no other duty.

Hayhill, 18 March 1835. Edward Jones, Chaplain.

Bridewell at Northleach.

The salary received by me for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was 45 l. The usual hour of Divine Service on Sunday, nine o'clock, a. m.; on Wednesday, nine or half-past nine. I, moreover, visited the inmates of the Bridewell once at least during the week, and distributed religious books amongst them, catechised and instructed such of them in reading as were willing to be instructed. The average number of prisoners daily during the period above mentioned was 46. Besides the chaplaincy of the bridewell, I hold the curacy of the small parish of Hampnett-cum-Stowell. I reside in the parsonage-house, have the use of the garden and stable, and receive the sum of 80 l. per annum as stipend. My residence is half a mile from the prison.

I consider it my duty to state, further, that at the general quarter sessions held at Gloucester on Tuesday the 6th day of January 1835, it was ordered, "that the chaplains at the different prisons be directed to comply with the provisions of the Act of 4 Geo. 4, c. 64, relating to the performance of service on Sundays, &c., and that their salaries be increased to 80 l. per annum." The provisions of the Act alluded to above are now complied with at Northleach bridewell.

City Prison of Gloucester.

I RECEIVE a salary of 60 l. per annum. Divine Service is performed, with one sermon, twice every week, on Sundays and either on a Wednesday or Thursday, at no stated hour; the prisoners are also visited at other times.

The average number daily has been from 25 to 30 inmates.

I also hold a rectory, Rudford, in this county; the emolument derivable from which is nearly 300 l. a year. The duty is only once every Sunday.

16 March 1835. W. W. Mutlow.

COUNTY OF HANTS.

Bridewell at Gosport.

THE inmates consist generally of misdemeanants, who for military or civil offences have been sentenced to short periods of imprisonment, not exceeding three months. The average number of committals in the course of a year is about 400. The daily number of prisoners varies considerably; sometimes it has been as high as 60, sometimes not half the number, with great intermediate variation: at present there are 32, which may be considered as something about the average number. My regular weekly duty is as follows: on Tuesdays I attend for the general purpose of advice and instruction, assisting such as wish to learn to read, by a voluntary system under my superintendence, supplying elementary books and tracts, examining juvenile delinquents in portions of the Church-catechism. A tract has been composed for them by myself, with the approbation of the visiting justices, and proved very beneficial. On Thursday morning Divine Service is performed at ten o'clock. The prisoners assemble with marked attention and propriety; such as can read are furnished with Prayer-books and Bibles, and repeat the responses aloud. Divine Service is performed twice every Sunday, in the morning at nine, and a sermon is preached; and again in the afternoon Divine Service is performed at one o'clock. Besides this, my duty is to visit the prisoners, particularly such as are in solitary confinement, or others when particular circumstances require my attendance, at such times as are judged expedient, and examine into the number and condition of Prayer-books, Bibles and tracts, and report to the magistrates. A library has been formed for the use of the prisoners. I have no other ecclesiastical duty than attendance at the Bridewell, for which I receive 80 l. per annum, with no house or further advantage.

19 March 1835. W. H. Neale.

Gaol at Newport, Isle of Wight.

FROM Michaelmas 1833 to Michaelmas 1834, the average number of prisoners in Newport Bridewell, appears from the gaoler's books, laid every Saturday before the magistrates assembled at the petty sessions, to be 18.

The clerical duty ordered by the magistrates is full service once on every Sabbath-day.

In general I do duty at the gaol twice on Sundays, and expound the Scriptures once in the course of the week.

The hours of performing duty are from ten to twelve, and from three to half-past four.

The salary is 50 l. a year.

No other ecclesiastical duty. Sometimes, five or six times in the year, I give clerical assistance, at one or two guineas at each time.

Gaol and Bridewell at Southampton.

The sum paid to the Chaplain for salary for the year ending Michaelmas 1834 was 50 l.

Duty is done in the bridewell every Sunday betweeen the hour of one and two, at which the prisoners in the felons' ward attend; and the Chaplain visits the prisons on one other day in the week.

The average number of prisoners who attend Divine Service is from 6 to 18.

The clergyman holding the situation of Chaplain to the town bridewell and gaol is the incumbent of a small benefice in the neighbourhood of Southampton, the perpetual curacy of Jesus' Chapel, in the Parish of St. Mary Extra, Southampton, worth from 80 l. to 90 l. per annum, and where there are two services every Sunday.

18 March 1835. Wm. Waring.

Gaol and House of Correction at Winchester.

My salary is 300 l. a year. The usual hours of doing duty at the gaol are nine o'clock every morning, except Sunday, when the duty is half-past eight. The usual hours at the house of correction are every morning at half-past eight, except Wednesday, when the duty is at nine. The duty at the gaol on the Sunday is at nine in the morning, at two in the afternoon; at the house of correction at a quarter to eleven in the morning, at three in the afternoon. On other days I generally attend for the purpose of affording religious instruction. The average number of prisoners daily at the gaol, for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was 110; at the bridewell 170. I have no other duty than attendance at the prisons.

19 March 1835. T. F. Woodham.

COUNTY OF HEREFORD.

Gaol.

The Chaplain receives 180 l. a year from the county, and 20 l. from the mayor and corporation of Hereford, commonly called "Brydges's Augmentation." The hour of chapel duty on Wednesdays and Fridays is nine in the morning; on Sundays at the same time, and a quarter past two in the afternoon.

The Chaplain is engaged from twelve to one every day in reading the Scriptures, and instructing the prisoners in their religious and moral duties.

The Chaplain's wife, morever, devotes the same time every day, under his superintendence, to the female prisoners, and much good has resulted therefrom.

The duties of visiting the sick, preparing prisoners under warrant for execution for death, and instructing those who desire to receive the Sacrament in the nature, design and benefits of the institution, are performed at no fixed times, but are left to the discretion of the Chaplain.

The average number of prisoners daily is 90.

The Chaplain has to perform the duty of a vicar choral, which requires attendance on the cathedral service three days in a week on an average, and to read morning service in the parish church of St. John Baptist, of which he is vicar, on Sundays, and evening service and sermon in the afternoon.

It is five to six minutes' walk from the parish church to the gaol. The emoluments derivable therefrom are 310 l. per annum.

The Chaplain is also occasionally called upon to preach in the cathedral, and receives sometimes one and sometimes two guineas for sermons preached there.

March 17 1835. James Garbett.

COUNTY OF HERTFORD.

Gaol and House of Correction.

I RECEIVE a salary of 200 l. per annum, for which I perform duty daily between the hours of ten o'clock and eleven, never later than eleven; on Sundays, Christmas-day and Good Friday, I read prayers and preach a sermon in the morning, and read prayers in the afternoon. All the prisoners, male and female, attend regularly, the average number being, as nearly as I can calculate, something more than 100. I do not perform any other ecclesiastical duty, and am licensed by the Bishop, according to the Act of Parliament. In addition to the regular duty, I superintend a school which has been established in the gaol for untried prisoners, a master having been allowed for their daily instruction.

16 March 1835. Thomas Lloyd.

Mem.—I have endeavoured to ascertain, from an examination of the books, the numbers in the prisons each day, and have formed the average upon that. In future I will direct that the numbers attending chapel daily be given to me, in order that an entry may be made in my journal.

The highest number 139, the lowest 69, but seldom less than 90 to 115.

Prison at St. Albans.

THE Chaplain for the year ending Michaelmas 1834 was the Rev. Henry Small, who is no longer resident in this town. The magistrates for this liberty, at the last Epiphany session, were pleased to fill the vacancy caused by his absence, by electing me to that office.

The Chaplain's salary is only the small sum of 50 l. per annum. The appointed hours of doing duty in the prison are, by a late regulation, at eleven o'clock in the morning and at three o'clock in the afternoon, on every Sunday, Christmas-day, Ash Wednesday and Good Friday. The average number of prisoners daily is, as correctly as I can make the calculation, 45. I have no ecclesiastical duty on the above days, other than attendance on the prison.

Besides the above duties, the Chaplain is required to "administer the Holy Sacrament to such prisoners as shall be desirous of receiving the same. He shall visit the sick, and such as shall be reported to him as having been absent from Divine Service; instruct the prisoners in their moral duties, and give spiritual advice and religious consolation to such as may appear to him to stand in need of it. He shall, at the expense of the liberty, distribute among them such religious books as he approves of, and which are sanctioned by the Society for promoting Christian Knowledge. He shall enter in the gaoler's journal such observations on the conduct of the prisoners, their absence or attendance at chapel, or that of the officers of the prison and their families, as he may think proper; and also notice such other occurrences or circumstances as he may think deserving the attention of the visiting justices. The Chaplain shall, only in case of sickness, or upon any occasion of unavoidable absence from his duty, appoint a substitute to officiate in his room; such substitute to be approved of by the visiting justices. He is not allowed to accept of any preferment to interfere with his duties at the gaol."

15 March 1835. M. Bowen.

COUNTY OF HUNTINGDON.

Gaol and House of Correction.

AMOUNT of salary, 90 l. per annum.

The usual hours of doing duty are, on Sundays, alternately at nine and half-past ten o'clock in the morning, and in the afternoon at half-past two and four, excepting during the short days in winter, when the service is performed between the hours of nine and two. On Tuesdays the Chaplain attends to instruct the prisoners in their respective wards, which usually occupies the space of four hours. On Fridays, an exposition of the Scriptures is delivered to the prisoners (collectively) in the chapel. If occasion requires, the Chaplain attends on other days of the week.

The average number of prisoners daily, about 40.

The Chaplain is perpetual curate of the parish of Ravely Parva, in this county, distant about five miles from the prison, where duty is done once every Sunday; for which he receives about the sum of 45 l. per annum. And he also officiates as Chaplain at the gaol in and for the borough of Huntingdon, where duty is also performed every Friday; for which he receives the sum of 20 l. per annum. He also attends at the same prison on some other day in the week, to offer religious instruction and advice. The number of prisoners now confined in said prison is six, four males and two females.

16 March 1835. Henry A. Maule.

COUNTY OF KENT.

County Prisons, Maidstone.

My salary is 250 l. per annum.

The usual hours of doing duty on Sundays, Good Friday, Christmas-day and days appointed by authority, &c. are, ten a. m. and half-past two p. m., when there are prayers and sermons. On each week day the hour for prayers is half-past eight a. m. throughout the year. Besides the above stated time, I attend in the course of the day once or twice, as circumstances require, for the purpose of general visiting among the sick, schools, and prisoners classified according to their crimes, convicted or unconvicted, in solitary confinement, or under sentence of death.

In calculating from the gaol books from Michaelmas 1833 to Michaelmas 1834, I find the average number of prisoners daily to be 392.

I have no ecclesiastical duty other than attendance on the prison. The rules and regulations for the government of the gaol (page 28) contain the following prohibition: "The Chaplain shall not be allowed to engage in any other professional duties."

I will only add, that I have been 20 years in orders, and have been nearly 14 years in my present situation, on the emolument of which I solely depend for the maintenance of a large family.

17 March 1835. John Winter.

Gaol and Bridewell at St. Augustine's.

The salary paid to the Chaplain for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was 100 l.

The service commences at nine o'clock in the morning of every Sunday, Wednesday and Friday in the year, and of Christmas-day.

The average number of prisoners daily last year was between 61 and 62.

I am curate to the vicar of St. Dunstan's, in which capacity I read prayers once every Sunday, but have no occasional duty. My salary is the legal one of 50 l. per annum.

I am also a minor canon of Canterbury cathedral, and as such I have to perform the service one week in six, and to attend three mornings in the week following. As a minor canon I receive 80 l. per annum and an acre of wood, which last year I sold for 5 l.

Canterbury, 16 March 1835. John Metcalfe.

Canterbury City Gaol.

A case of some interest brought me into connection with the above gaol in February 1831, up to which period no regular Chaplain had been appointed for a length of time. The only spiritual instruction that the prisoners received was the Church service, with a sermon, once a quarter, performed by a clergyman since dead.

In February 1831, the prisoners having no one to attend them, I volunteered my services, and have, since that period up to the present, continued them regularly, with the exception of those Sundays on which I may have been occasionally engaged elsewhere. For this I have received no salary nor emolument whatever, none ever having been offered me, or, I believe, provided for by the sheriff, mayor and corporation, under whose jurisdiction the gaol is placed. When I commenced my labours there were neither Bibles nor Prayer-books, nor any publications of a religious character, to be found in the prison; all of which have been since furnished gratuitously, either by me or others.

I have generally suited my own convenience as to the hours of doing duty, never more than once each Sunday.

The average number of prisoners is from 15 to 20.

I am a minor canon of Canterbury cathedral, for which my attendance is required twice on one, and once on another Sunday, in rotation with five other minor canons.

Precincts, Canterbury, 16 March 1835. William Spencer Harris Brañam.

COUNTY OF LANCASTER.

The Castle of Lancaster Gaol.

The salary allowed the Chaplain by the county is 350 l. per annum, and his clerical duty is wholly confined to the gaol.

He performs duty every morning at nine o'clock, excepting on Sundays, Christmas-day and Good Friday; on which days he has full duty at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon, and in the afternoon at half-past two o'clock during the winter months, and half-past three o'clock in the summer.

The average number of criminal prisoners in the gaol for the last year amount to 273, and the whole of the males, excepting the sick, attend the chapel daily; the females have prayers read to them by the matron every morning and evening. The average number of debtors for

for the same period amount to 154; the chapel is open to them, but he regrets to add that few attend, excepting on Sundays, &c., when he has generally a very full attendance.

17 March 1835. J. Rowley, A. M.

House of Correction at Kirkdale.

My salary is 300 l. The hours of service in the prison on Sundays are half-past ten o'clock in the morning, and in the afternoon three o'clock in summer and two o'clock in winter. On other days I read prayers with the men at eight o'clock in the morning, and afterwards with the women.

The average number of prisoners daily during last year was 558. The greatest number in custody at one time was 765.

As the chapel will contain, when much crowded, only about 420 prisoners, the men and women attend service on Sundays alternately, in the morning and afternoon.

I have no other ecclesiastical duty or profitable occupation.

18 March 1835. W. Horner.

Liverpool Borough Gaol.

My duties (prescribed by the magistrates) have hitherto been as follows: On Sundays, the other principal festivals, as also the fasts, the usual church services in the chapel attached to the gaol, between the hours of nine and four o'clock. On the Thursday morning in each week, service in the same place. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper is duly administered. The average number of prisoners, of whom the greater portion are debtors, is about 115. I visit generally three or four times a week, and oftener if required. My salary is 100 guineas.

I have very lately been nominated to a new subscription church, in the immediate vicinity of the gaol; and as the respective duties of the two do not interfere with each other, I perform them all myself. My emoluments from this latter appointment, as the church is chiefly intended for the poor, (by which class of persons the district surrounding it is almost entirely peopled,) will not, I should imagine, much exceed 50 l. per annum.

19 March 1835. J. B. Winstanley, A. M.

House of Correction at Preston.

My salary for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was 250 l.

I preach two sermons and perform two full services every Sunday, at the canonical hours; I read a selection of prayers from the Liturgy and a chapter from the Scriptures every morning (Sunday excepted), in the winter at half-past eight, and in the summer at half-past seven. I visit the gaol again whenever the sickness of prisoners, their instruction or benefit in any way, the circulation of books among them, or any other cause may seem to require it.

The daily service of the chapel is attended by all the prisoners, who, taking the average of the last four years, amount to 216 daily; the numbers for the last 12 months have much decreased, being to-day only 145.

I have no other ecclesiastical duty whatever besides the attendance upon this prison, nor have I any other source of professional income or emolument.

16 March 1835. John Clay.

New Bailey Gaol and House of Correction at Salford.

Salary for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, 300 l. No house, nor any other emolument whatever.

Usual hours of doing duty in the prison:—Public prayers and a portion of Scripture every week-day, at half-past eleven o'clock; on Sundays, two full services and two sermons, at ten in the forenoon and two in the afternoon.

Average number of prisoners daily, for six months ending 28th February 1835:—562.

Not any other ecclesiastical duty or emolument.

16 March 1835. Charles Frederick Bagshaw.

COUNTY OF LEICESTER.

Gaol and House of Correction.

My salary is 150 l. per annum.

The usual hours of doing duty are, on Sunday, half-past nine and a quarter before two; on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, ten o'clock.

The average number of prisoners in the gaol is 70; in the house of correction 100.

I am curate of the district chapel of St. George, the emolument derivable from which is 160 l. per annum.

16 March 1835. Robert Burnaby.

Borough Gaol of Leicester.

THERE is a full service (prayers and sermon) on Sunday, and the same on Thursday; the Chaplain visits the prisoners occasionally on other days, and distributes amongst them religious tracts.

The salary of the Chaplain is 60*l.* per annum. The average number of prisoners, between one session and another, he believes to be from 40 to 50 or 60.

The Chaplain preaches on Sundays at St. Mary's church, Leicester, and on alternate Sundays at All Saints, Leicester. The average amount of the two livings held by the Chaplain are, St. Mary, 110*l.*; All Saints, 90*l.* The whole amount of which is paid to the curates, the income of the incumbent being chiefly derived from fees and gratuitous subscriptions, with the addition of a sinecure of 50*l.* per annum, given by the Diocesan as an augmentation to the living of All Saints.

The service on Sunday is alternately at half-past nine in the morning, and at a quarter before three in the afternoon; and on Thursday at eleven.

W. L. Fancourt, D. D.

COUNTY OF LINCOLN.

Gaol.

DIVINE service is performed in the chapel once every day in the week, at half-past nine o'clock in the morning; and on every Sunday, and Christmas-day and Good Friday, the appointed morning and evening services of the Church of England are read, and a sermon preached; and the duty performed on each of these days at a quarter past nine o'clock in the morning, and at two o'clock in the afternoon. The sacrament is regularly administered in the chapel three times in the year, and on the morning of an execution, and oftener if required. The Chaplain attends prisoners left for execution.

The salary of the Chaplain is 200*l.* per annum.

The average number of prisoners that daily attend chapel, about 37.

The Chaplain holds the vicarage of St. Martin in Lincoln, worth about 130*l.* per annum, where he has a curate. The Chaplain serves as curate the church of St. Mary-le-Wigford in Lincoln, with a salary of 50*l.* per annum, where duty is performed once every Sunday. The Chaplain has one and sometimes two duties on a Sunday, other than attendance on the prison.

20 March 1835. G. D. Kent.

Folkingkam House of Correction.

THE salary paid to the Chaplain is 80*l.* per annum, and was paid for the year 1834.

The usual hours of duty on the week-days are, in the morning at twelve o'clock, or in the afternoon at two o'clock; on the Sundays, in the morning ten o'clock, or afternoon half-past two o'clock.

The average number of prisoners daily is about 47.

The Chaplain is also curate of the parish, for which his annual stipend is 120*l.* The two sums together, therefore, yield him an income of 200*l.* per annum; out of this he has to pay 47*l.* 10*s.* for house-rent (there being no house appropriated for the use of the Chaplain of the prison, or the minister of the parish), and also to defray numerous heavy parochial rates, and to support, by his contributions, several charitable institutions in connexion with his parish.

J. Wilson, M. A.

Bridewell at Kirton.

SALARY for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, 150*l.*; out of which I have to find a house, no residence being attached to the bridewell.

Duty, on the Sunday, twice; morning, nine and ten alternately; afternoon, one and three alternately; prayers and sermon each time. On the other days, morning and afternoon, alternately twelve and three. Occasional visiting, four p. m. in winter, six p. m. in summer, an hour each time.

Average daily number 60, and 240 over.

No other ecclesiastical duty has been taken by me during the 11 years I have had the chaplaincy, till within the last six months, when the magistrates, in consideration of my long and approved services, permitted me to take a curacy in the neighbourhood, on condition that I made no diminution of duty at the bridewell. The emolument of which is 52*l.*, out of which I keep a horse to serve it.

I may add, that the Act for the better regulating of prisons, if applied to this bridewell, would permit the magistrates to raise my salary to 200*l.*, but I have hitherto refrained from drawing their attention to it.

18 March 1835. Henry Wm. Richter.

House of Correction at Louth.

The salary paid to me is 100 l. per annum, for the year ending Michaelmas 1834.

The hour of commencing the duty on the days appointed for Divine Service by the visiting magistrates, viz. on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays, is always on each of those days as nearly one quarter of an hour or ten minutes before nine o'clock in the morning as possible; and on the Sunday afternoon at a quarter before two o'clock; and on Good Friday and Christmas-day in each year, in the morning at the same hour as at other times.

The average number of prisoners attending on the above occasions is, to the best of my judgment, 50; the keeper thinks 55.

The magistrates allow me to serve one curacy, distant three miles from Louth, the parish of Tathwell, whither I go once every Sunday, and perform Divine Service once only. This is the sole ecclesiastical duty devolving on me other than attendance on the prison; and my emolument derivable from the curacy of Tathwell is 60 l. per annum.

16 March 1835. Thomas A. Dale.

House of Correction at Spalding.

From the Chaplain's journal, commencing October 20, 1833, it appears that from October 20th to October 22d, 1833, inclusive, duty was regularly performed on the Sunday at half-past ten or eleven in the morning, and in the afternoon, time varying from half-past two to a quarter past three; but regular notice is always given of the hour at which the service commences. Service twice in the day. Prayers and sermon in the morning; prayers in the afternoon, excepting one Sunday, on which there was only single duty of prayers and sermon, quarter before three.

December 25th and January 5th, 1834, to January 26th, inclusive, single service of prayers and sermon, either morning or afternoon, at the usual hours.

February 2d, 9th, 16th, double duty on each Sunday.

February 23d and March 2d, single duty on each Sunday.

From March 9th to May 25th, inclusive, double duty of prayers and sermon one part of the Sunday (almost always in the morning), prayers the other; with two exceptions, March 30th and April 27th, on the former of which there was single service, prayers and sermon half-past three; the latter, prayers and sermon half-past five.

June 1st, 1834 { Prayers and sermon half-past ten. / Prayers quarter-past six.
— 8th - - Prayers and sermon half past five.
— 22d - - Prayers and sermon half-past three.
— 29th - ditto - ditto - half-past ten.
July 6th - - Prayers and sermon at four o'clock.
— 13th - ditto - ditto - eleven o'clock.
— 20th - ditto - ditto - - ditto.
Aug. 24th - { Prayers and sermon eleven o'clock. / Prayers half-past three.
— 31st - Prayers and sermon half-past three.
Sept. 7th - Prayers and sermon half-past nine in the morning.
— 14th - Prayers and sermon half-past five.

From September 21st to October 12th, inclusive, single service of prayers and sermon on each Sunday morning at the usual hour.

The Chaplain has no other regular Sunday duty than the service at the gaol.

The Chaplain holds himself ready to visit the sick, if any, in the gaol. The only instance which presented itself was that of a man who subsequently died in gaol, who was regularly and duly visited by the Chaplain on November 13th, 15th, 20th, 27th; December 4th, 8th, 9th, 11th, 15th, 18th, 21st, 23d.

The Chaplain's salary is 45 l. per annum, paid half yearly.

24 March 1835. R. Hutchinson, M. A.

House of Correction at Spilsby.

The stipend paid me as Chaplain is 100 l. per annum. The usual hours of commencing the duty in the prison are, on Sunday, nine o'clock in the morning, and three in the afternoon, when the full morning and evening services are performed every Sunday, with one sermon. On Wednesday and Friday, morning prayers are read at nine. The daily average number of prisoners for the year ending at Michaelmas 1834, I find from the keeper's day-book to have been 52, all of whom attended the chapel service, unless prevented by sickness.

In addition to the prison duty, I officiate as stipendiary curate in a neighbouring village, for which I receive a salary of 70 l. a year.

16 March 1835. J. Russell.

Lincoln City Gaol.

The annual stipend is 25 l. The hours of duty are either nine in the morning or four in the afternoon of every Sunday; and the number of prisoners varies from 12 to 30. The only other ecclesiastical duty performed by me is the curacy of Nettleham, near Lincoln, for which I receive 60 l. a year.

16 March 1835. James Adcock.

COUNTY OF MIDDLESEX.

House of Correction.

The Chaplain's salary for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was 375 l. The annual salary, from 1824 to Lady-day 1834, was 300 l.

The usual hours of doing duty in the prison each day: (Two chapels) male, on week-days a quarter after nine to a quarter after 10; female, a quarter after ten to a quarter after eleven; on Wednesdays half an hour longer. Sundays, male and female chapels, service alternately; morning, a quarter before ten to half-past eleven; evening, a quarter before three to a quarter after four.

Other duty in the prison, but out of the chapels, averaging two hours and a half daily.

The average number of prisoners daily, 1,065.

Not any ecclesiastical duty other than attendance on the prison.

19 March 1835. John Ousby.

New Prison, Clerkenwell.

In 1814 I was appointed Chaplain of the House of Correction, Coldbath-fields, and of the New Prison, Clerkenwell; in which office I had, for 10 years, the entire spiritual care of both prisons, for a salary part of the time of 120 l., and of only 150 l. per annum the remainder, the law at that time not allowing of a larger stipend. When, under the new Act, about 11 years ago, the Chaplainship of these prisons was divided, I was, from a state of health much impaired by heavy professional duties, obliged to resign the House of Correction, with a salary of 300 l. per annum, and retain the New Prison, with only 200 l., because the duties of this gaol require much less physical strength than the other. The average number of prisoners committed to both prisons, during the whole of that period, may be taken at about 7,000 annually.

In reference to the New Prison, the Chaplainship of which I have held separately for the last 11 years, the average number of prisoners for the whole of that period may be taken at about 6,000 annually, as during a part of it the number was under 5,000; but for several years past it has reached to about 7,000, and for the year ending Michaelmas 1834 amounted to 8,199.

Owing to the change which takes place daily in the number of the prisoners in this gaol, and the great number discharged at end of every sessions, it is difficult to take a correct daily average, as it will continually vary from 150 to 400, according as it may be taken just before or after the sessions. Up to the year 1834 the average number, at the commencement of the sessions, has been about 400, and at the close about 150; but in consequence of the intermediate sessions at Clerkenwell, and the monthly sessions at the Old Bailey, the daily average is now considerably lower, though the total number of commitments remain much the same.

With reference to the duties, I beg to state that the regular morning and evening service, with two sermons, is performed every Sunday, at nine and three o'clock; and on week-days prayers are read in the chapel every morning at nine o'clock in the winter, and at half-past eight o'clock in the summer. The prisoners all attend; and that none of them may be destitute of the best instruction the Chaplain can give, however short their imprisonment may be (and many of these remain only a few days), he every day, during prayers, expounds one of the lessons, and enforces on their consciences its sacred contents. The boys are regularly catechised, and the sick and all other cases requiring attention or admonition are duly visited in private. The prisoners are also supplied in their respective yards with bibles, psalters, and other suitable books and tracts. The salary allowed is 200 l. per annum.

Thus I have had in these two prisons in succession, for 21 years, the entire spiritual care of above 120,000 prisoners, with six or eight public services every week, attended with public instruction, besides all other duties, for the successive salaries of 120 l., 150 l. and 200 l. per annum, without any other advantage whatever.

As to "other ecclesiastical duty and emolument," I have further to state that I have been for 20 years morning preacher of the parochial chapel of Pentonville, to a congregation of from 700 to 1,000 persons, where my main reward has been the usefulness of the situation, as the emolument I have received has been barely sufficient to pay my charities.

The

The pew rents and fees of this chapel belong to the incumbent of the parish, and the law allows him to appoint and pay what he pleases for the duty. He has allowed 105 l. per annum, with about 10 l. more for fittings at funerals, for the cure, out of which I have invariably paid an assistant for the other heavy duties of the chapelry, upon an average, from 70 l. to 80 l. per annum. Thus have the entire ecclesiastical duties of this important station been performed, for above 20 years, for the yearly sum of 115 l., without any other remuneration whatever. I am also lecturer of St. Benet Finck, Threadneedle-street, but derive no emolument whatever for my labours. For a time a small salary was allowed by the vestry, but in consequence of the more respectable inhabitants residing out of town, and Dissenters violently opposed to the Church gaining an ascendancy in parochial affairs, it has been determined that a second service is not wanted; and therefore, rather than that the church should be closed of an evening, and a respectable congregation, collected principally from the neighbourhood, should be dispersed, I have felt it my duty to continue the service gratuitously.

At a time when our national Church is so unsparingly assailed, it affords me some satisfaction to be able to show, by the above statement, that my whole time and strength have been devoted to her more immediate duties for 24 years, without deriving any other emolument beyond what is stated above, for any other service whatever.

17 March 1835. David Ruell, A. M.

General Penitentiary, Milbank.

My salary as Chaplain is 400 l. per annum.

The duties actually performed by me are as follows:—From nine to ten o'clock, every morning, I receive in my office such prisoners as desire to see me; and these are numerous. From ten to one o'clock, during five days of the week, I deliver lectures in chapel, to different classes of the prisoners, on scriptural and religious subjects. During these three hours I am engaged, without interval or rest, in addressing large classes of the prisoners; and the mental and bodily labour is very considerable. After one o'clock I visit the prisoners under punishment; their number of course varies; sometimes but little time is requisite for the performance of this duty, at others two or three hours. I then visit the infirmaries, of which there are three. The sick vary from 20 to 50 or 60. I daily read prayers in each of the three infirmaries, besides reading to and praying with such of the sick as require my more immediate attention.

I read and sign every prisoner's letter that either comes into or goes out of the institution. These amounted in the last year to at least 3,500. I also keep up a numerous correspondence: letters to prisoners' friends; letters of inquiry as to prisoners' characters and previous habits; as to character and conduct of discharged prisoners; and answers to various inquiries from prisoners' relations and others. These and their answers were, last year, little short of 1,000.

I keep a journal of daily occurrences within my department, for the superintending committee; also the prisoners' character books, in which are entered the various offences and punishments of each prisoner; remarks from time to time upon their conduct; and I report to the superintending committee upon each prisoner who is recommended for pardon, a duty of great resposibility.

I superintend the prison schools, which are held for one hour and a half every Monday and Thursday evening.

In addition to my daily duties, I each week prepare two sermons for the Sunday. Every Sunday I perform two full services in chapel, besides reading prayers in the infirmaries; and on 12 Sundays in the year I administer the sacrament to about 100 communicants.

When these various duties are performed, which daily occupy at least eight or ten hours, there is no limit to the demand upon the Chaplain's time, zeal and powers. The visiting and instructing prisoners in their cells can have no bounds set to it, and would occupy the whole time of the most active and able clergyman.

These duties are not merely formal and routine, but demand much mental as well as bodily exertion. My whole time is devoted to my calling. I cannot sleep even a single night out of the institution, without the permission of the committee; and I am almost as much a prisoner as any of the inmates of the establishment.

The average number of prisoners daily in the General Penitentiary is as follows:

In 1831	-	543	male and female	prisoners.
1832	-	523	ditto	ditto.
1833	-	585	ditto	ditto.
1834	-	643	ditto	ditto.

I have no other duty than attendance on the prison. I am constantly in residence; and I give my whole and undivided time and attention to the duties of my office as Chaplain of the General Penitentiary.

17 March 1835. Whitworth Russell.

Gaol of Newgate.

The salary of the Ordinary of Newgate for the year ending at Michaelmas 1834, was 400 l.

The usual hours of doing duty in the prison of Newgate each day, was on Sundays at half-past ten in the morning, and three o'clock in the afternoon; on the week days at a quarter to ten every morning.

The number of prisoners daily from 150 to 400.

Ecclesiastical duty, other than attendance on the prison, was, every fifth week, morning prayers at Christchurch, Newgate-street, at eleven o'clock. The emolument derivable therefrom was 8*l.*

16 March 1835. H. Cotton.

COUNTY OF MONMOUTH.

Gaol.

I AM and have been Chaplain for the last 45 years. The salary for the first 26 years was 30*l.* a year; then 60*l.*, and for the last 11 years it has been 120*l.* paid quarterly. The usual hours of doing duty in the prison are eleven o'clock in the morning and two in the evening. Prayers are read in the morning every Sunday, Wednesday and Friday, throughout the year; also on Christmas-day. A sermon is preached every Sunday, Christmas-day and Good Friday. The sacrament is administered to all prisoners desirous of receiving it, four times a year. The average number of prisoners for the year ending Michaelmas 1834 was 51. I visit regularly every Friday all the prisoners, male and female, in their respective cells and wards.

Besides attending at the prison, I hold the office of lecturer on Mr. Jones's foundation, the emoluments of which amount to 150*l.* a year, the duty being a sermon in the schoolroom every Sunday evening.

House of Correction at Usk.

THE salary received by me as Chaplain is 80*l.* per annum.

The rules and regulations, approved and confirmed by the magistrates at a general quarter sessions of the peace, holden for the said county, direct, "that the Chaplain do read prayers twice and preach one sermon every Sunday, between the hours of nine and five in the daytime; and that he do read prayers once and preach one sermon every Christmas-day and Good Friday, between the same hours." This order has been regularly observed.

The average number of prisoners daily, for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, amounted to 28.

The Chaplain is also vicar of Usk, and with the assistance of a curate performs the duty of that benefice.

16 March 1835. Thos. A. Williams.

COUNTY OF NORFOLK.

Gaol and House of Correction at Norwich.

MY salary as Chaplain is 300*l.* per annum.

I read prayers in the prison every day at half-past nine o'clock in the morning; on Sundays, Christmas-day and Good Friday, I read the full service of the Church, between the hours of nine and eleven o'clock in the morning, and two and four o'clock in the afternoon, and preach a sermon; and I am employed in the prison several hours almost every day, in the performance of such other duties as I may deem beneficial to the prisoners and to the public.

The highest number of the prisoners in the Castle last year was 231, and the average number about 167.

I am perpetual curate of the parish of St. Andrew, which is immediately contiguous to Norwich Castle, and gives me residence within a very short distance of it. I employ an assistant curate, to prevent any part of its duty from being neglected, and I receive from it between 80*l.* and 90*l.* per annum.

17 March 1835. James Brown.

Prison at Swaffham.

MY salary as Chaplain is 200*l.* per annum. I am not allowed to take any other ecclesiastical duty, and consequently have no other professional income. No apartments of any kind are provided at the expense of the county for my accommodation (4 Geo. 4, c. 64, s. 49.)

The average number of prisoners, for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was 47 $\frac{350}{365}$, or 48 nearly.

The usual hours of doing duty are, on Sundays, half-past nine in the morning, and half-past two in the evening; on every other day in the week, nine in the morning. On Sundays the duty consists of the morning and evening prayers, one sermon, and a lecture on a chapter in the New Testament; on other days I read a selection from the prayers, and catechise and instruct the prisoners, as no schoolmaster is kept. I keep an account of every prisoner, of which the following copies are examples:

April 18th, 1834.—John Hix, by occupation a waterman, 23 years of age, resides at King's Lynn, attends the Ranters' chapel; convicted of fowl-stealing, and sentenced to one year's imprisonment; can neither read nor write; has never been confirmed; was very ignorant when he first came to the prison, not being able to repeat either the Lord's Prayer or the Belief; during the time he has been here he has been taught to read, he has also learned the church catechism, a morning and evening prayer proper for prisoners, and ten sections from Crossman's Introduction to the Knowledge of the Christian Religion.

July 17th, 1834.—Thomas Powley, yearly servant in husbandry, 22 years of age, resides at Stoke, but belongs to Methwold; committed as an idle and disorderly person, after getting drunk in a public-house; 14 days imprisonment; a very ignorant man; can neither read nor write; learned the Lord's Prayer and the Belief during his confinement.

20 March 1835. George Gage.

City of Norwich Gaol and Bridewell.

I BEG to state that the gaol and house of correction are both contained in one building, that I am Chaplain to both, and that the prisoners of both are assembled for the purpose of divine worship in the same chapel. I perform divine service in the chapel twice every Sunday, Christmas-day and Good Friday; the morning service commences at ten o'clock, the afternoon service at two. I likewise visit every room and cell in the prison occupied by prisoners, and see and converse with them all, out of the presence of the keeper or other officer of the prison; I visit the sick, and those in solitary confinement, once a week or oftener if required; I attend to every prisoner who desires my advice or assistance in any way, and endeavour to obtain a knowledge of his or her character; I likewise consider it my particular province to attend daily upon and administer spiritual assistance to all persons under warrant for execution. I keep a book with an account of my attendance, and the religious information and behaviour of each prisoner, and deliver a report to the sitting Magistrates, which is read in open court every Michaelmas quarter sessions. These are the duties which I perform.

The average number of prisoners attending divine worship is 70; daily prayers are not read in the chapel, nor have they ever been enjoined.

My salary is 100*l.* per annum, paid me by the county treasurer out of the county rate.

I likewise take a part of the duty with my curate, and officiate once on the Sunday, at the parish church of St. Giles in the city of Norwich; which church is situated close to the gaol (i. e) within the eighth part of a mile or less. The emolument I derive from this duty is 50*l.* per annum.

16 March 1835. C. F. Millard.

COUNTY OF NORTHAMPTON.

Common Gaol and House of Correction at Northampton.

MY salary, as Chaplain, is 200*l.* a year; appointed by the Magistrates, in conformity with the late Act of Parliament for the consolidation and amending of the Laws relating to Gaols, &c.

The usual hours of duty are, on Sundays, half-past ten in the morning, and half-past two in the afternoon; the hours of attendance on the week-days, from ten to twelve.

The average number of prisoners daily was 126, for the year 1834.

I have no other clerical duty, except that of reading prayers at an almshouse on Fridays at one o'clock, for which I receive 5*l.* a year; this being considered not to be precluded by an express stipulation, grounded on the amount of my salary, that I should undertake no other ecclesiastical duty, that could in any way interfere with my duties at the gaol.

21 March 1835. William Drake.

COUNTY OF NORTHUMBERLAND.

Prison at Morpeth.

MY Salary, as Chaplain, is 80*l.* per annum. The duty is morning service on Sundays at half-past nine, and evening service and sermon at two o'clock. Sacrament administered twice in the year; namely, on the 24th of March to four communicants, and on the 11th of November to 16. The average number of prisoners is, I believe, about 60, and attendants at chapel 45 or 50.

I also hold the stipendiary curacy of Morpeth, the salary of which is 100*l.* per annum, and the surplice fees, amounting to about 15*l.*

16 March 1835. Thomas Shute.

Gaol and House of Correction at Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

My Salary, as Chaplain in this place, (both prisons being within the same walls) was 80 l., for the year ending Michaelmas 1834; for which I am required to perform the service of the Church of England on the Sundays throughout the year, and on Good Friday and Christmas-day, viz. prayers and sermon in the morning, commencing at nine o'clock, and prayers in the afternoon, commencing at two o'clock; to inspect occasionally the schools established in the prisons, and to visit those prisoners who are in solitary confinement, and those who are sick. The daily morning prayers are read, by direction of the magistrates, by the governor of the gaol, the average attendance of prisoners being about 120.

I am perpetual curate of All Saints, the parish in which the gaol and house of correction are situated, the emoluments of which, arising from Queen Ann's Bounty and surplice fees, may be reckoned about 290 l. annually, I hold also the donative of Gibside, with no parochial or weekly duty, for which I receive 100 l. per annum; but as Gibside is distant seven or eight miles from hence, I am obliged to keep a curate to assist me there and at All Saints, to whom I pay 90 l. per annum, and horse-hire costs me about 15 l. per annum.

16 March 1835. Robert Green.

COUNTY OF NOTTINGHAM.

Gaol.

The Chaplain's Salary has been regularly paid for the year ending Michaelmas 1834. Salary 100 l. per year.

The usual duty is prayers every morning in the week-days, at nine o'clock, A.M.; every Sunday, Christmas-day and Good Friday prayers and sermon at the same hour. The Sacrament administered when required. Cells, wards, &c. frequently visited.

No other ecclesiastical duties other than attendance on the prison.

In the year 1834 there were 360 commitments, the greatest number of prisoners at one time being 58. There are now in the prison 60.

30 March 1835. Robert Wood, D. D.

House of Correction at Southwell.

The Salary is 150 l. a year.

The usual hours of doing duty in the prison are prayers in the chapel at eight o'clock every morning eight months in the year, and at half-past eight in November, December, January and February. Divine service twice every Sunday, Good Friday and Christmas-day, with sermons, at nine o'clock and at one o'clock; and frequent visits to every part of the prison, at discretion, as required by the statute and the rules and regulations of the prison.

The average number of prisoners daily during that year was 152 and a fraction.

During that year I performed the duty of the parish of Halan, adjoining Southwell, the church within two miles distance of the prison, the income 80 l. a year. Having resigned that, I am now the Vicar, and perform the duty of the parish of Upton, adjoining Southwell, the church at the same distance from the prison, the income 110 l. a year.

I reside at Southwell, as one of the Vicars Choral of that collegiate church, the duty perfectly compatable with that of the prison, the income about 25 l. a year.

21 March 1835. T. S. Basnett.

Town Prison, Nottingham.

The Salary paid to the Chaplain is 120 l. per annum, that is 60 l. for the gaol, and 60 l. for the house of correction.

The usual hours for doing duty are from eight o'clock to nine in the morning, except on Sundays, and then from nine o'clock until twelve.

The Act of Parliament, passed in the year 1823, which requires two services on Sundays, and prayers every day in the week, was strictly complied with until the year 1827, for which duties 75 l. per annum for each prison were allowed. At that period, by an order of the magistrates, the duties were abridged to one service in each prison on Sundays, and prayers on every Tuesday and Thursday in the week, and the salary reduced to 60 l. per annum for each prison, as before stated.

The daily average number of prisoners in the house of correction, for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was from 77 to 80, and in the town gaol from 25 to 27.

In addition to the prison duties, I have a weekly lecture at the parish workhouse of St. Mary's at six o'clock in the evening, depending upon the will of the parish overseers annually chosen, for which is allowed 30 l. per annum; and after duty done at the prisons, I have for several years preached a sermon at St. Peter's Church on the Sabbath, for which I have received from 25 l. to 28 l. a year; but as the Rector now wants more assistance than I can

I can possibly render him, he will immediately engage a regular curate, when my services there must cease.

These include the whole of my ecclesiastical duties, and the emoluments deriveable therefrom.

21 March 1835. Samuel M. Lund.

COUNTY OF OXFORD.

Gaol and House of Correction.

My annual Salary is 150 l. My hours of duty are, during the week-days, every morning at half-past eight through the summer months, and at nine in the winter. On Sunday my hours of duty are ten in the morning, and two in the afternoon.

The number of prisoners is from about 150 to 200.

I am also Chaplain of the city prison; my annual salary there is 25 l. The number of prisoners about 26. My duty once on the Sunday, either in the morning or afternoon.

Besides these I have no benefice, curacy, or any parochial duties whatever to attend to.

18 March 1835. George Augustus Browne.

COUNTY OF RUTLAND.

Gaol and House of Correction at Oakham.

The Chaplain's Stipend is 100 l. per annum.

The number of prisoners for the year ending Michaelmas 1834 averaged eight and a fraction; but in that year the committals was below the usual amount.

He attends at nine every morning; and on Sundays, Good Friday and Christmas-day, there is another service in the afternoon.

He has no other clerical duty.

17 March 1835. John Doncaster, D. D.

COUNTY OF SALOP.

County Prison.

Chaplain's Salary, 150 l. per annum.

Sunday morning duty, at 11 o'clock all the year.

Sunday evening duty, from April 1st to October 1st, at three o'clock; and from October 1st to April 1st, at half-past two. The other six days duty is from April 1st to October 1st, at half-past nine o'clock; and from October 1st to April 1st, at ten o'clock.

Average number of prisoners daily, 140.

No other ecclesiastical duty or preferment, and only one prison.

16 March 1835. William Thomas.

COUNTY OF SOMERSET.

Gaol at Ilchester.

The Rev. J. Valentine was Chaplain here at Michaelmas 1834, and he tells me that his Salary was 150 l. per annum; the average number of prisoners, 95; the duty was prayers every morning at half-past nine o'clock, and two full services every Sunday (morning half-past nine, and afternoon one and two o'clock, alternately); and that he has the perpetual curacy of Tintinhull, with about 90 l. a year.

I was elected Chaplain at the Epiphany sessions 1835; the Salary is reduced to 125 l. per annum; the duties I perform are prayers every morning at half-past nine, and two full services every Sunday at half-past nine, and quarter before two o'clock; and daily visit the different wards and the sick. I am also vicar of Northover, in which parish the greatest part of the gaol is situated: the population of the parish is 140; and the duty an alternate service every Sunday; my income from my vicarage is nearly 100 l. a year.

18 March 1835. Thomas Evans.

Gaol and House of Correction at Shepton Mallet.

As Chaplain my Salary is 125 l. per annum.

My duties on the Sunday occupy me from ten to one, Divine service commencing at eleven a. m., and from half-past two to four, Divine service commencing at half-past two p. m. On the week days, prayers selected from the Liturgy are read twenty minutes before ten a. m., and I am usually occupied until eleven a. m. daily, in my clerical capacity among the prisoners.

The average number of prisoners is 200.

I have no other ecclesiastical duty whatever.

16 March 1835. E. H. Cosens.

House of Correction at Wilton.

The Salary received by me as Chaplain, for the year ending Michaelmas 1834 was 125 l.

My hours of doing duty in the prison are every morning at nine o'clock, with the exception of Sundays, Good Friday and Christmas-day, when the hours of Divine Service are at ten and two o'clock. My attendance at the prison, for the purpose of admonition and instruction, is at no appointed hour, but on such days and at such times as I may deem necessary.

The average number of prisoners who attend the chapel daily, is about 125.

My ecclesiastical duty, other than attendance on the prison, is the care of a parish, the population of which is 130, requiring one service every Sunday. Being appointed to this cure by my father, I receive no pecuniary emolument.

17 March 1835. Robert S. Bower.

COUNTY OF STAFFORD.

My salary is 230 l. per annum.

The daily average number of prisoners about 330.

The usual hours of duty are between eleven and three, except in cases of sickness, or prisoners left for execution, when the attendance is unlimited.

I likewise hold the Chaplaincy of the county lunatic asylum at Stafford, with a salary of 50 l. per annum.

27 March 1835. Richard Buckeridge.

City of Lichfield Gaol.

There is no regular Chaplain to this gaol, except so far as I myself may be considered to be such, as being Chaplain to the corporation and vicar of the parish in which the prison is situated. There is no fixed time for daily or other duty in the prison, but both myself and my curate are always willing and desirous of attending there whenever we hear that there is any likelihood of good resulting from our going. I receive no salary as Chaplain to the corporation, and I understand they have no funds which could be appropriated to the paying of a Chaplain to the gaol.

It frequently happens that there are no prisoners at all, but three or four may be taken as the daily average.

4 April 1835. H. G. Lonsdale.

COUNTY OF SUFFOLK.

Prison at Beccles.

My salary as Chaplain was 80 l. for the year ending Michaelmas 1834. The usual hours of doing duty in the prison on Sundays are at nine o'clock in the morning and at half-past one o'clock in the afternoon for the winter half year, and a quarter before two for the summer. The service is regularly performed every Sunday morning and afternoon; and the prisoners are visited by me three times in a week, besides the Sunday duty, for the purpose of giving them instruction and wholesome advice; generally between the hours of ten and twelve in the morning and one and four are the hours for visiting the prisoners in the week-days. My other ecclesiastical duty is the service of the adjoining parish, Kingsfield, as curate, and also of Barnby, as curate, for which curacies I receive 130 l.

The average number of prisoners is 32; the greatest number in the year was 49, and the smallest number 20 at one time.

My

My daily duty consists of prayers, a short exhortation or lecture, &c. every morning at a quarter past nine; visiting the several divisions of the prison; superintending the instructions given by the schoolmaster, &c. &c., the whole of which commonly occupies me about two hours.

On Sunday, Good Friday and Christmas-day, I have prayers and a sermon in the morning at a quarter past nine, and prayers in the afternoon at three. And during the four winter months, when the number in confinement is greater than in the summer, I have two sermons.

The prison comprises two distinct buildings, distant from each other about 100 yards; the smaller one being appropriated exclusively to females. In this part of the prison I have prayers and a sermon only once on the Sunday, &c. either at eleven in the morning or at two in the afternoon.

The average number of prisoners daily, throughout the year, is about 250; but this being an agricultural county, during the winter, when labour is scarce and wages low, the number is considerably greater, sometimes above 200; at present it is 174.

Other ecclesiastical duty than attendance on the two prisons I have none, nor have I any other emolument whatever.

16 March 1835. Thomas West.

Gaol and House of Correction at Ipswich.

My salary is 150*l.* per annum. Hours of duty on Sundays about a quarter before eleven, and at about half-past two in the afternoon; on other days, for prayers only, at nine in the morning, except on Wednesdays, when there is full service always, and then duty begins at about half-past eleven o'clock. The highest number during the year 1834 was 179, the lowest 92; this lowest was only for nine days. The chapel, which is usually full, will not contain more than 100. I have no other ecclesiastical duty, nor any other emolument. The exact number of times I attended upon duty in the last year was 699 times; this number includes services and instructions in the several wards, and visiting the sick; when there are executions the number of times is increased.

16 March 1835. John Robert Tunney.

House of Correction at Woodbridge.

The average number of prisoners is 13 per week. To the query, whether I have any other cure besides the Chaplaincy, I am happy to say that I have, distant a few miles from the town. The salary paid to me as Chaplain of the house of correction is 50*l.* per annum.

8 May 1835. H. B. Longs.

COUNTY OF SURREY.

House of Correction at Brixton.

The salary of the Chaplain is 200*l.* a year, which binds him to a daily attendance at the prison. I have no other church engagement, nor any other source of ecclesiastical emolument.

The hours of doing duty are three hours for six days in the week, from eight to eleven o'clock, when prayers are read in the chapel, the hospitals are visited, and also the prisoners under solitary confinement. There are two schools in the prison, which the Chaplain attends one hour for three days in the week. On Sundays his attendance is from nine to three; two full services are performed, and two sermons are preached. The Holy Sacrament is administered quarterly.

The number of prisoners, male and female, ranges from 225 to 250 prisoners.

17 March 1835. William Foster.

Horsemonger Lane Gaol.

My salary as Chaplain was the last year, and has been for the last 10 years, 250*l.* There is no house provided for the Chaplain.

If I am to understand the question as relating to the public service of the chapel, it commences at nine o'clock in the morning every day in the week. There is a second service every Sunday, which commences at two o'clock in the afternoon. The week-day services were originally appointed at half-after eleven, as I believe they generally are in houses of correction; but which were found very inconvenient, and sometimes incompatible with the other business and regulations of the prison, situated as it is, in the direct vicinity of the metropolis, and connected with the various courts of law, necessarily occasioning the absence of the officers of the gaol. But if the question relates to the general duties of the Chaplain, in visiting all the classes of the felons, male and female, in the different wards of the prison; also the several wards of the infirmary, solitary prisoners, &c.; there is no limited hour or time for the performance of these duties, but they are generally performed almost immediately after the public service of the chapel. It does not appear that I am required to describe the nature and manner of the performance of these duties, which I should otherwise be very ready to do. I think it proper, however, to say, that they are abundant, arduous and painful; that none of them are neglected, but I may confidently say, are performed in a manner quite satisfactory to the visiting magistrates; constantly, diligently, conscientiously and faithfully.

The daily number of prisoners is very fluctuating; sometimes, but very seldom, so low as 220; sometimes so high as 340 or 350. There are this day 337. The total number is continually increasing every year.

I am one of the chaplains of St. Saviour's, Southwark. I very seldom perform any duty there, except preaching once every Sunday, as there is another chaplain and a curate. I have known it worth 350*l.* per annum, besides my expenses. It did not the last year produce me more than 280*l.*; and in point of value it is daily diminishing. I also read prayers twice every week, at an almshouse contiguous to the gaol, at any hour of my own convenience, from nine to twelve in the forenoon; for which I receive 52 l. 10*s.* per annum. None of these services interfere at all with my daily and regular duties at the gaol, which I have been performing for a period of 35 years, and am about to close the 76th year of my age.

25 March 1835. W. Mann.

King's Bench Prison.

The Chaplain holds his appointment under an Act of Parliament, and is not subject to any ecclesiastical jurisdiction.

He has no salary, official residence, or fees arising from the prison. As an inferior officer of the Court, he is entitled to certain fees paid in court and at Judges' chambers, for which he receives, after certain deductions, an annual compensation of 120*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*

There is no daily duty. He officiates every Sunday morning, at eleven o'clock, and preaches a sermon. The same duty is performed on Christmas-day and Good Friday, and on such other days as are ordered to be observed by royal proclamation. The Sacrament is administered on Easter Sunday, Good Friday and Christmas-day; and the Chaplain visits the sick when required.

The attendance of the prisoners on Divine Worship is voluntary, and their numbers consequently vary. The marshal informs the Chaplain, that the average number of prisoners within the walls has of late been from 215 to 250 daily; but the congregation is often increased by persons from the vicinity. The number of prisoners attending service may be from 60 to 80, and occasionally more.

The present Chaplain is incumbent of the rectory of Chipping-Warden, Northamptonshire, to which he was presented in 1832, and where he usually resides; and also of the vicarage of Shottswell, in the county of Warwick.

Further particulars of his office may be found by referring to the Report of the Commissioners directed to inquire into the Duties and Emoluments of the Officers of the Courts of Law, made in 1816.

Edward Gibbs Walford.

COUNTY OF SUSSEX.

House of Correction at Battel.

The salary paid to me as Chaplain is 25*l.* Divine Service once on Sunday, when the prisoners amount to three; when under that number, I give the time to such instruction as appears to me most suitable. Occasionally I attend during the week. The gaoler reads prayers every morning.

Average number of prisoners daily, between Michaelmas 1833 and Michaelmas 1834, was three.

I am dean of Battel, archdeacon of Lewes, and vicar of Westfield; value about 700*l.*, not allowing for defalcations.

From the year 1822 to October 1833 I attended to the house of correction gratuitously. I was then made Chaplain, at the salary above mentioned.

26 March 1835. Thomas Birch.

Horsham Gaol.

The salary which I receive is 160*l.* per annum; and according to the last resolutions passed by the county magistrates it is ordered, "that the Chaplain of the gaol at Horsham shall not hold or execute any other office."

According to the same resolutions it is ordered, "that the duties of the Chaplain, besides the other duties prescribed in the Gaol Act, shall be as follows: On Sundays, Good Friday, Christmas-day, fast and thanksgiving days, to give two full services, with a sermon at each, such services to commence in the morning at ten, and in the afternoon, from the 1st of November to the 1st of February, at half-past two, and the rest of the year at three o'clock; and to read prayers morning and evening on all other days of the year. To attend in the gaol and do duty as Chaplain, conformably with the Gaol Act (including the duties before specified), at least three hours every day on an average throughout the year."

It is proper in me to specify, however, that the last resolution is not to come into force until after the 22d of April next.

The custom of the Chaplain hitherto has been to attend the gaol every morning, read prayers once a day, and to visit the prisoners, according as the conscience told him to be right, and his judgment deemed to be necessary: those under sentence usually every other day.

The average number of prisoners in this gaol during the year ending Michaelmas 1834 was 80–5.

17 March 1835. Arthur Tarbutt.

House of Correction at Lewes.

Salary 200 l. per annum; no residence is provided. Prayers are read by me every morning at eight o'clock: three hours are devoted by me each day to the instruction of the prisoners, from nine o'clock to twelve. Evening prayers are read from the 1st of April to the 1st October, at six o'clock; from 1st October to the 1st November, at five o'clock; from 1st November to the 1st March, at four o'clock; from the 1st March to the 1st April, at five o'clock; the prisoners leaving their work at these hours, according to the season of the year. The average number of prisoners daily amounts to 128.

On Sundays, Christmas-day and Good Friday, full morning and evening service is performed by me, with two sermons, and some hours devoted to the religious instruction of the prisoners.

I do not hold or derive emolument from any other cure.

17 March 1835. A. Nott.

House of Correction at Petworth.

The hours of duty are, morning and evening service every Sunday, alternating as follows: one Sunday at eleven o'clock, the morning service, with a sermon; in the afternoon of the same Sunday, the evening service at half-past three o'clock. The alternate Sunday, morning service at nine o'clock; evening service, with a sermon, at three o'clock in the afternoon. Prayers every morning at half-past eight o'clock. (In consequence of the Chaplain's illness, it was for a short time altered to half-past eleven.)

The hours of attendance at the school vary according to the season of the year; at four o'clock in the winter, and at six o'clock in the summer, on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

The average number of prisoners was 70 in 1834.

I have a church in the neighbourhood, at which one service is performed every Sunday; the emolument derivable from which is 77 l. 6 s.

The Protestant members of my congregations are about 60 in number. The remainder are of the church of Rome, a Roman-catholic gentleman being the great proprietor of the parish.

16 March 1835. Wm. Ayling.

COUNTY OF WARWICK.

Gaol and House of Correction at Warwick.

My salary as Chaplain is 300 l. per annum. The usual hours of doing duty each day are as follows: Sundays from half-past nine in the morning till about a quarter past twelve; in the afternoon from half-past one till about half-past three, seldom less, and often more: Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, from ten till after one. On Saturdays the turnkeys are much occupied, therefore I seldom attend on those days, unless something unusual requires my attention, such as the illness of some of the prisoners, or some one being sentenced for execution; but matters are frequently occurring which require conferences with the visiting magistrates on such days. The average number of prisoners daily in the gaol for the year ending Michaelmas 1834 is 159, and in the house of correction 181. I have no other ecclesiastical duty or emolument of any description.

17 March 1835. G. Childe.

Coventry City Prison.

The salary paid to me as Chaplain, for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was 75 l.

The hour of my doing duty on the Sunday, Christmas-day and Good Friday, in the morning is eleven o'clock, and in the afternoon of the same days half-past three. I have also daily prayers at eleven o'clock, as directed by the rules and regulations for the government of the prison. I frequently visit every room and cell occupied by prisoners, daily attend those who are in solitary confinement; and when persons are under warrant or order for execution, visit them twice in the day, before morning prayers and in the evening.

The average number of prisoners daily is from 65 to 85.

I have no other ecclesiastical duty from which I derive any emolument.

17 March 1835. Samuel S. Paris.

COUNTY OF WESTMORLAND.

Appleby Gaol.

THE salary paid to me as Chaplain, for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was 42 l.; and my present salary is after the same rate, viz. 10 l. 10*s.* per quarter.

The usual hours of doing duty are, on week days, nine o'clock in the mornings, and five o'clock in the evenings; and on Sundays the appointed service of the Church of England is performed at the hours of eleven and three o'clock, together with a sermon in the morning.

In addition to this duty, I make a point of visiting the prisoners at least once a week, for the purpose of giving them spiritual advice; and when any criminal is under sentence of death, as at present, I visit him three or four times a day, as opportunity may offer.

The average number of prisoners daily is 16; but from a recent resolution of the magistrates to confine all the county prisoners in this gaol, the number henceforward will be considerably increased.

I have no ecclesiastical duty other than attendance at the prison, and consequently no other emolument arising therefrom.

17 March 1835. John Wharton.

House of Correction at Kendal.

SALARY per annum, 30 l.

Hours of duty: Half-past eleven in the morning on Wednesdays; three in the afternoon on Sundays; besides occasional attendance.

Average number of prisoners, 19.

Other ecclesiastical duty performed by Chaplain: Stipendiary curate of St. George's chapel, Kendal.

Emolument derivable therefrom per annum, 90 l.

28 March 1835. Edmund Richardson.

COUNTY OF WILTS.

Fisherton Gaol, near Sarum.

STIPEND paid to the Chaplain for one year, ending Michaelmas 1834, 120 l. Allowed as a gratuity per annum, by the Marquis of Bath, at pleasure, 20 l.

Duty performed by the Chaplain every day in the year, at half-past eight in the morning. Double duty on every Sunday, Good Friday and Christmas-day throughout the year, with sermon. Morning duty commencing at half-past eight, afternoon at a quarter past one.

Average number of prisoners daily, 50.

No other duty than an evening lecture at half-past six o'clock; emolument 25 l.

In an Act passed in the 4th year of the reign of Geo. 4, intituled, "An Act for consolidating and amending the Laws relating to the building, repairing and regulating of certain Gaols and Houses of Correction in England and Wales," c. 64, s. 28, it is there enacted, "that where the Chaplain shall be appointed to one prison only, calculated to contain more than 100 prisoners, including debtors, the salary shall not be more than 250 l."

Now the gaol of Fisherton Anger, Wilts, is calculated to contain 150 prisoners, exclusive of debtors, which would make the total number full 200 persons; and yet the salary remains, and never has been more than the sum stated above.

Salisbury, 21 April 1835. H. Hodgson.

Old Bridewell and House of Correction at Devizes.

I HAVE the care of two prisons, situated about a mile from each other. My hours of attendance at the Old Bridewell on Sundays are, nine A. M., one P. M.: on the other days of the week, eight A. M. during the six summer months; a quarter before nine A. M. the six winter months.

Salary, 50 l. per annum.

Average number of prisoners daily, 27.

At the House of Correction, on Sunday, eleven A. M., half-past two P. M., the five winter months; four P. M. the seven summer months: on the other days of the week, nine A. M. the six summer months; half-past nine A. M. the six winter months.

Average number of prisoners daily, 173 ½.

Salary, 150 l. per annum.

I have no other ecclesiastical duty whatever.

16 March 1835. J. Mayo.

COUNTY OF WORCESTER.

County Gaol and House of Correction at Worcester.

I RECEIVE 200*l.* per annum as Chaplain to the Worcester County Gaol and House of Correction, and 25*l.* a year as Chaplain to the Worcester Infirmary. I have no parochial responsibility of any kind.

Eleven o'clock in the morning and half-past two in the afternoon, on Sundays, and ten o'clock on Wednesday and Friday morning, are the hours appropriated to the performance of divine service in the gaol chapel. The wards and cells in the gaol are visited almost daily, from nine in the morning to four in the afternoon.

The average number of prisoners daily, for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was 176.

6, Severn Terrace, Worcester, 21 March 1835. John Adlington.

City of Worcester Prison.

ON Sundays the morning service commences at nine of the clock, the evening at half-past two; in the week, at ten in the morning. In addition to the above, I visit the several wards four times in the week, to impart private instruction of a moral and religious nature, visit prisoners in solitary confinement, and to superintend the reading department.

The daily average of prisoners is 25.

I have no other ecclesiastical duty than at the prison; and my stipend is 75*l.* per annum.

18 March 1835. Edwyn Faulkner.

COUNTY OF YORK.

York Castle.

MY salary as Chaplain is 200*l.* a year.

The duty every Sunday, Christmas-day, Good Friday and State holidays, is at half-past ten in the morning, full service, with prayers at half-past two in the afternoon. This duty I regularly perform. I read prayers every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning, at ten o'clock. On Tuesday and Saturday mornings prayers are read under my directions, in the cells of the prison. Prayers with a sermon take place every Thursday morning in the prison, by another clergyman of the church of England, the expense of which is defrayed from a will of the Rev. Phineas Hodgson, who died about 1590: with this appointment the magistrates have no power, otherwise than admitting the weekly service thus provided for from a period long before Chaplains were appointed to prisons in this country. The appointment to this is vested in the vicars-choral of the cathedral of this city, and is now held by the Rev. James Richardson, one of that body. I have no means of knowing the amount of this bequest, but I believe it may be about 20*l.* a year.

In addition to the public services above mentioned, I attend exclusively to the private spiritual devotions of the prisoners in communion with the Church of England, visit the sick, and visit privately the convicts under sentence of death. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper is publicly administered in the chapel at Christmas, Easter, Whitsunday and Michaelmas; and privately to the sick and prisoners under sentence of death.

I perform no other ecclesiastical duty whatever, except the above as Chaplain to York Castle. I hold the perpetual curacy of Malton, 18 miles from York, where I engage a resident curate. My emolument from this living, after paying the curate, is about 40*l.* a year.

I can get at no means of making an average of the prisoners in the Castle; after consulting with the gaoler, I may say that the prison seldom contains so few as 200 prisoners within its walls.

16 March 1835. Wm. Flower, jun.

House of Correction at Beverley.

MY salary as Chaplain is 100*l.* per annum. The duties performed are, prayers and a sermon every Sunday morning at ten o'clock; and prayers and catechising the juvenile prisoners every Sunday afternoon, one half of the year at four o'clock, and the winter half at one o'clock, P. M. There are also morning prayers daily, which are read by the governor: the time occupied by this last piece of duty does not exceed a quarter of an hour. I attend an hour, three days in the week, to converse with the prisoners and hear them read, and of course visit them in sickness, or on any other extraordinary occasion. There is a school in the prison, and nightly attendance is given, under the superintendence of a master specially appointed for that purpose. The daily average of prisoners for the year ending December 1834 was 88 ¼, but this year it will be, in all probability, much less.

I have the sole additional preferment of the assistant curacy of Beverley Minster, from which I derive an income of 107 l. per annum; beyond this I have no other ecclesiastical office or emolument whatever.

19 March 1835. William Hildyard.

Gaol and House of Correction at Kingston-upon-Hull.

Amount of salary payable in the year ending 1834, 100 l. per annum.

The usual hours of doing duty in the prison each day are, on Sundays, in the morning at ten o'clock, and in the afternoon at half past two o'clock; and also on Christmas-days, Good Fridays, and fast or thanksgiving days. And on other days in the week the prisoners are visited three times a week, when most convenient, but generally between twelve and two o'clock.

The average number of prisoners daily, 85.

No other ecclesiastical duty than attendance on the prison.

18 March 1835. David Jones.

Gaol at Northallerton.

The salary paid to the Chaplain for the year ending Michaelmas 1834 was 100 guineas.

The usual hours of doing duty in the prison are, on week-days prayers are read by the Chaplain to the prisoners assembled in the chapel every morning at seven o'clock; on Sundays the morning service commences at nine o'clock, and the evening service at half-past two.

The average number of prisoners the Chaplain would state at 55 or 60.

As stipendiary curate of Hutton Bonville, the Chaplain has one service to perform every Sunday at Hutton Bonville, for which he is paid 50 l. per annum.

17 March 1835. John Bowness.

House of Correction at Wakefield.

The salary I receive is 150 l. per year. I am not allowed to hold any other clerical duty.

The duties I perform are, two full services every Sunday; morning service on Christmas-day and Good Friday; prayers at eight o'clock every morning.

We have 350 men at present in the prison, and 40 women, all of whom attend prayers every morning.

Besides these fixed duties, I visit the prison at other times, to pray with the sick and give advice and instruction to the others, as occasion may require.

16 March 1835. Wm. T. Alderson.

York City and Ainsty Gaol and House of Correction.

My salary for the year ending Michaelmas 1834 was 150 l., or 75 l. for each of the above prisons.

On every Sunday, Christmas-day and Good Friday, I read morning prayers at the gaol, at half-past nine; I then read morning prayers and preach a sermon at the house of correction, at half-past ten. I read evening prayers and preach a sermon at the gaol, at half-past two; and lastly, I read evening prayers at the house of correction, at four o'clock.

Every week-day morning, prayers are read at the house of correction at half-past nine, and at the gaol at half-past ten. After prayers, if any are sick or ill, I regularly visit them in their own rooms or cells.

The average daily number of prisoners during the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was as follows:—At the house of correction, 22; at the gaol, 19. This last includes prisoners for debt as well as prisoners for criminal offences.

I have no other ecclesiastical duty whatever. Indeed I have neither time nor physical strength for undertaking more Sunday duty than my own four prison services.

I have no other emolument than the 150 l. per annum already mentioned. This is all I do or can earn, to enable me to pay my house-rent, taxes, rates, assessments and servants' wages, and to support myself, my wife and my six children.

17 March 1835. George Coopland.

WALES.

COUNTY OF ANGLESEY.

Gaol and House of Correction at Beaumaris.

MY salary is 52 guineas per annum. I do duty in the chapel regularly twice a week, viz. Sundays and Wednesdays, at half-past ten A.M., and visit the prisoners at other times, of whom the average number is from 15 to 20 (at present, 18.) I have no other ecclesiastical duty whatever, and reside within the distance of about 300 yards of the gaol and house of correction, which are one and the same building.

16 March 1835. Hu. Davies Owen, D. D.

COUNTY OF BRECON.

Gaol.

THE salary paid for duty rendered is 40 l. per annum.

Duty is performed at two o'clock on Sunday afternoon, and discretionary visits, as circumstances require, in the week.

The average number of prisoners, including debtors, is from 15 to 20.

I am assistant curate of St. Mary's church in Brecon, for which I receive 80 l. per annum salary.

16 March 1835. John Williams.

COUNTY OF CARDIGAN.

Gaol and House of Correction at Cardigan.

MY salary was 40 l. for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, and it is the same now.

I performed Divine Service and preached a sermon at nine o'clock in the morning every Sunday, Christmas-day and Good Friday, in the chapel of the county gaol and house of correction. The prisoners also attended to my religious and moral instructions frequently, when I visited them on other days of the week; and some of the prisoners read portions of the Holy Scriptures and of the Common Prayer-book every day.

Fifteen were the average number of prisoners daily.

I have likewise the vicarage of Saint Mary in Cardigan entirely under my care, where I perform two Divine Services and preach two sermons every Sunday and on the principal festival days, and administer the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper on the first Sunday in every month; and I receive a net income of about 100 l. per annum from my said vicarage.

17 March 1835. Griffith Thomas.

COUNTY OF CARMARTHEN.

Gaol.

PRAYERS are read each day in the week, at the hour of nine in the morning; and every Sunday there are two full duties, one at nine in the morning, and the other at three in the afternoon; for which services I receive the sum of 80 l. per annum. The number of prisoners in the prison, on an average, are from 35 to 40. I serve a curacy a short distance from the prison, at the hour of eleven in the forenoon, for which I receive 60 l. per annum. I statedly visit the prisoners in their different wards.

19 March 1835. Thomas Jones.

COUNTY OF CARNARVON.

Gaol.

MY salary as Chaplain is 50 guineas. The usual hours of doing duty in the prison are, from twelve to half-past twelve o'clock on Sundays, and at eleven o'clock on Wednesdays. The average number of prisoners daily is, from 17 to 20.

I have other ecclesiastical duties at Bettws Garmon, of which parish I am perpetual curate, and at Llanwnda, of which I am curate: from the former I derive an emolument of 60 l., from the latter 40 l., besides the surplice fees, which vary from 5 l. to 12 l.

Plas y Nant, 19 March 1835. St. George A. Williams.

COUNTY OF DENBIGH.

Gaol and House of Correction at Ruthin.

My salary as Chaplain is 50 guineas per annum. Divine service is performed every Sunday morning, about nine o'clock, with a sermon; and here I may remark, that as some of the prisoners understand English, and others the Welch language, I read part of the Liturgy in Welch and the remainder in English; and a Welch or English sermon is preached alternately on the Sundays. All other ecclesiastical duties are performed when required, such as administering the Holy Sacrament, or attending sick prisoners, or baptizing infants who may happen to be born in the female prison. Having been Chaplain of the above prisons for nearly 10 years, I can safely say that the prisoners, generally speaking, attend chapel with a willing mind, unless prevented by illness or any other cause allowed by the rules prescribed for the government of the prison, according to the Act of Parliament.

The average number of prisoners at our county gaol would in my opinion vary from 40 to 50, including debtors, and the inmates of the female prison.

With respect to my other ecclesiastical duties, I beg leave to observe, that I left my residence at Ruthin in July last, having been appointed rector of Efenechtyd, a parish distant about two miles from the former place. The value of the rectory may be fairly stated at 200 l. per annum.

Efenechtyd, 23 March 1835. Francis Owen.

COUNTY OF FLINT.

Gaol.

The salary paid to me as Chaplain is 50 l. per annum. The regular attendance required of me is on Sundays, Wednesdays and Fridays, in each week; and the hours of doing duty are, nine A. M. on Sundays, and ten A. M. on the other days: the hours of occasional attendance at my own option, but generally in the earlier part of the day.

The number of prisoners, including debtors, during the last year would, I conceive, average about 17 or 18.

I hold likewise the perpetual curacy of the parish of Flint; the emolument derivable therefrom at present may amount to 160 l. per annum.

17 March 1835. William Maddock Williams.

COUNTY OF GLAMORGAN.

Prison at Cardiff.

Full duty once every Sabbath. Prayers every Thursday morning. The prison visited frequently, and the prisoners furnished with books and tracts, or exhorted, as the occasion may require.

The salary is 40 l. per annum. The average number of prisoners, during the year 1834, was 49.

I hold the Chaplaincy together with the curacy of Cardiff.

23 March 1835. H. E. Graham.

COUNTY OF MERIONETH.

Gaol.

The salary paid to me as Chaplain was formerly 20 l. per annum, but in the course of the year ending Michaelmas 1834 it was augmented to 30 l. per annum.

Morning serivce is performed and a sermon preached, by either myself or my assistant, every Sunday at nine o'clock.

The average number of prisoners amounts to about five.

I perform also, in conjunction with my assistant, the ecclesiastical duties of the parish of Dolgellan; the emolument derivable from which may be estimated at about 450 l.

Dolgellan, 8 April 1835. H. W. White.

House of Correction at Corwen.

As vicar of the parish, I consider it my duty to attend to the religious instruction of the prisoners of the Corwen house of correction, but there is no salary for attending; and as there have not been above two prisoners at a time for the last four years, I have not considered it necessary to have service at stated hours.

16 March 1835. M. Hughes.

COUNTY OF MONTGOMERY.

Prison.

My salary as Chaplain is 40 l. a year; and the usual time of doing duty is nine o'clock on every Sunday morning, Christmas-day and Good Friday, when the appointed service is performed and a sermon preached. I likewise visit the prison on other days, and perform such other duties as are required by the rules and regulations of the prison. The average number of prisoners are from 20 to 30. I am also curate to an adjoining parish, from which I receive a stipend of 70 l. per annum 18 March 1835. D. Davies.

COUNTY OF PEMBROKE.

Gaol and House at Correction, Haverfordwest.

My salary as Chaplain is 50 l. Prayers are read every morning, selected for the purpose, at eight o'clock, by a person under my direction, whom I believe to be a truly religious man; and the service of the Church is performed on Fridays and Sundays, with a sermon, by myself.

The average number of prisoners in the gaol is between 30 and 60. The present number is 37.

My other duty is confined to the church of St. Mary's, in Haverfordwest; and the emolument therefrom about 100 l. per annum.

I have been Chaplain of the gaol of the county of Pembroke above 42 years.

Haverfordwest, 16 March 1835. James Thomas.

COUNTY OF RADNOR.

Gaol at Presteign.

The amount of the salary paid to the Chaplain of the prison, for the year ending Michaelmas 1834, was 26 l. 5 s. The usual hour of doing duty in the prison was eleven o'clock in the forenoon, on every Sunday, Good Friday and Christmas-day, and daily attendance in case of illness. The average number of prisoners was from eight to ten. Besides his attendance at the prison, the Chaplain performed ecclesiastical duty in the church of Presteign, of which he is incumbent, every Sunday evening only, the rest of the duty of the said church and parish being performed by a licensed assistant curate. The emolument which the Chaplain derives from his benefice is uncertain, as it consists of tithes, which are irregularly and never wholly paid; but were it all received, his clerical income, after payment of his curate's salary and other deductions, would amount to from 300 l. to 400 l. a year.

31 March 1835. James Beebee.

GAOL CHAPLAINS.

A RETURN of the SALARY paid to the CHAPLAIN of every PRISON in England and Wales, for the Year ending Michaelmas 1834; the usual Hours of doing Duty in the Prison each Day; the Average Number of Prisoners daily; and whether he has any, and what, Ecclesiastical Duty other than Attendance on the Prison; and the Emolument derivable therefrom.

GENERAL PENITENTIARY, MILBANK.

REPORT

Of the Superintending Committee of the GENERAL PENITENTIARY at Milbank, for the reception of Convicts; made in pursuance of the Act 56 Geo. III. c. 63, s. 39, and the 7 & 8 Geo. IV. c. 33, s. 6;—specifying the State of the Building; the Conduct of the Officers; the Treatment and Condition of the Prisoners; the Amount of their Earnings; and the Expenses of the Establishment during the Year 1834.

IN consequence of the more strict mode of separation and seclusion of the Prisoners in the General Penitentiary, which had been adopted as stated in the Report of the Committee for the year 1832, it was found necessary to subdivide the working cells of the male prisoners. This has accordingly been done under the sanction of the Secretary of State for the Home Department, upon an Estimate submitted by Sir Robert Smirke.

The work was effected by contract for the sum of 485*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* in pentagons, Nos. 1 and 2, thereby giving an additional accommodation of 42 cells for solitary confinement.

In other respects no alterations have been made upon the building, nor has any expense been incurred beyond that which is necessary for preserving so extensive a structure in good and substantial repair.

Of the conduct of the principal officers, the Committee continue to have the satisfaction to speak in terms of high approbation. Captain Chapman, the Governor, has in the course of the last year displayed the same vigilance, activity and firmness, which have long distinguished him, and to which the general good order of the Prison is mainly to be attributed. The Rev. Whitworth Russell, the Chaplain, has continued his exertions with exemplary zeal and assiduity; and there is reason to hope, that the effect of his instructions on the Prisoners has increased, aided by the stricter discipline introduced into the Prison. To this part of the system, the Committee attach the greatest importance, being convinced that no discipline which is not combined with a zealous and faithful inculcation of religious instruction, can effectually promote the reformation of the criminal. It is due to the Chaplain to observe, that most beneficial results appear to have been derived from the system introduced by him, of dividing the prisoners, both male and female, into classes, and delivering to them plain lectures in the chapel on week days; so that each prisoner receives six hours of instruction in every week. This is additional to the frequent admonitions which he delivers to them in private, as circumstances require. The subordinate officers of the institution have, with very few exceptions, discharged their respective duties to the satisfaction of the Committee; and the behaviour of the Convicts has been orderly and regular, evincing, it is to be hoped, an improvement in their principles as well as their manners. No cases of serious misconduct have occurred.

The number of Convicts in the Prison on the 31st of December 1833 was 614, viz. 486 males and 128 females; and on the 31st of December last, the number was 622, viz. 516 males and 106 females; having been augmented during the year by the reception of 169 males (of whom one was returned from the Criminal Lunatic Asylum, who had been sent there in a former year,) and 31 females, and diminished by the deaths of 15 males and 1 female, the discharge of 118 males and 50 females, (of whom 105 males and 33 females were by His Majesty's free pardon, and 13 males and 17 females on medical grounds); 3 males were sent to Bethlehem Hospital, and 3 males and 2 females were remitted to the Secretary of State, pursuant to the 4th sect. of the Act 7 and 8 Geo. 4, c. 33, having been found incorrigible by the discipline of the Penitentiary.

Of the 15 males who have died during the last year, 9 suffered from cholera morbus, 4 from fever, 1 from influenza, and 1 from inflammation of the lungs. The female was carried off by consumption.

The general health of the Prison throughout the year has been remarkably good, and of the number of Convicts at present within the walls, being 596, viz. 492 males and 104 females, there are only in the Infirmaries 14 males and 2 females, and no case of any material consequence among them.

In addition to the number of Prisoners discharged in 1832, who had received gratuities for good conduct after quitting the Prison, as reported last year, being 48 males and 17 females, 10 males and 3 females have since produced testimonials of character and behaviour so satisfactory, that the usual reward has been bestowed upon them.

Of those discharged in 1833, being 83 males and 53 females, 31 males and 20 females have received gratuities for good conduct since their liberation. The applications of 3 males have been refused, the Committee not deeming their conduct to be such altogether as to entitle them to that mark of approbation. Two males have died since quitting the prison, 9 males and 5 females are imprisoned again, or are known by the Governor to have returned to evil courses; but of the remainder of the number so discharged, being 40 males and 28 females, several are known to be going on well, although they have not yet applied for gratuities, which sometimes arises from a wish to conceal their former imprisonment, or other private reasons.

Previously to the printing of the Report of the Select Committee appointed by the Honourable the House of Commons to inquire into the best mode of Secondary Punishments, in which solitary confinement is particularly recommended, the Committee had been led by their own experience, and the observations of the Governor and Chaplain, to do away with the assembling of the Prisoners of the second class in working cells in the Penitentiary. Every Prisoner, both male and female, has since been lodged in a separate cell. Silence is strictly enforced, not only in their wards, but at all times; and in taking exercise in the airing yards, the Prisoners walk in a circle or single files, with a considerable interval between each, an officer being always in the centre; nor are they allowed to open their lips to each other. Since the printing of the Report, the working cells in Pentagon No. 3, occupied by female Prisoners, have been subdivided into solitary cells; and in Pentagons Nos. 1 and 2, occupied by male Prisoners, a similar arrangement has taken place, as mentioned at the beginning of this Report. So that every possible precaution has been adopted "to prevent communication between Prisoners."

With respect to Prisoners receiving letters from their friends, or occasionally seeing them, the rule here adopted is, that Prisoners whilst in the first class are only allowed to write to or see their friends once in six months; and when they are advanced to the second class, that indulgence is granted once in three months. Letters are allowed to be received once a month, which are read by the Governor and Chaplain previously to their being delivered, to see that nothing improper is contained in them, in which case they would be withheld for the decision of the Committee.

A Statement of the Earnings of the Prisoners, and an account of the Expense of the Establishment incurred for the year 1834, are subjoined to this Report. The nett expense to the public only exceeds that of last year by the sum expended on the subdividing of the cells, for the purpose of affording more accommodation for solitary confinement.

COUNTY OF ANTRIM.

BELFAST.

LETTER from David Ker, Sheriff of Belfast, to Sir Frederick Stovin, K. C. B., &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Belfast, 6 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour of yours of the 4th instant, and, in answer, have no apprehension that any police will be required at the county election, there being no probability of a contest.

I should be of opinion we ought to have 100 police at the election for the Borough of Belfast, which commences on Monday the 12th instant, at 11 o'clock forenoon.

I had communicated with General Macdonald, who I wrote to send a troop of hussars in addition to what is here.

I have the honour, &c.

CARLOW.

LETTER from H. Butler, Esq. to Sir John Harvey, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Carlow, 5 January 1835.

I HAD the honour of receiving your letter of yesterday from the hands of Mr. Battersby, sub-inspector of this county, and feel obliged by your readiness in affording civil aid for the preservation of the peace during our elections, which commence on Tuesday the 13th inst., both of which will be contested. Previous to the receipt of your letter, the high sheriff had made an application to Government for a strong military force, both for the town of Carlow, as well as placing some in the villages. I also believe that 60 additional police have been applied for; all of which, in my opinion, will be most necessary, as the county is at present in a state of great excitement, and already mobs have been going about and visiting the houses of freeholders for the purpose of intimidating them, or, in other words, forcing them to vote with the people. With regard to the distribution of the civil force, I would propose that they should be disposed of as follows; viz.

20	men	at Glinn,
20	„	at Leighlin Bridge,
20	„	at Tullow,
15	„	at Bagnalstown,
10	„	at Rathvilly,
10	„	at Hacketstown.
95

And the remainder of the disposable civil force to be placed in Carlow, to act under the immediate orders of Mr. Battersby and the local magistracy, in preserving the peace and protecting the freeholders in coming to poll.

I have, &c.

COUNTY CORK.

YOUGHAL.

LETTER from Magistrates of the County of Cork to the Right Hon. Sir Henry Hardinge, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Imperial Hotel, Cork, January 12, 1835.

AS we have strong reasons to suspect that the interruptions and attacks which occurred during the last election for this county on the voters will be repeated next time, we beg leave to request the assistance of Captain Vignoles (who we understand is at present in Youghal) for the purpose of preserving the peace; and also, that such directions may be given to Sir Thomas Arbuthnot and Major Miller, relative to the military and police, as may enable the voters of this county to exercise their franchise without molestation.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to R. Nettley, Esq., &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 15 January 1835.

HAVING submitted to the Lord Lieutenant the Letter, dated the 12th instant, from certain Magistrates of Cork, representing the expediency of affording the aid of the military and police in protecting the voters at the ensuing election for the county, I have the honour to acquaint you, that, in compliance with the wishes of the Magistrates, the necessary communications have been held with the Lieutenant General commanding and the Inspector General of Police, in which they are requested to take every possible precaution for the preservation of the peace.

His Excellency regrets he cannot afford the assistance, as requested, of Captain Vignoles, in consequence of his being employed in the Queen's County in aid of the civil power at the election. Major Miller will, however, communicate with the authorities at Cork upon the subject of the attendance of a stipendiary magistrate at the elections of the county.

LETTER from Matthew Hayman, Esq., to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.

(with Enclosures.)

Sir, Youghal, 1 January 1835.

CONCEIVING it necessary for the peace of this town at the approaching election to have an additional military force, I respectfully beg leave to send the enclosed Statement and Affidavits, which I request you will lay before the Government.

I am, Sir, &c.

(signed) Matthew Hayman, Mayor.

(Enclosures.)

STATEMENT referred to in the foregoing.

MATTHEW HAYMAN, esquire, Mayor of the town of Youghal, in the county of Cork, on behalf of the electors and inhabitants of the town and borough of Youghal, states, That J. B. C. Smith and John O'Connell, esquires, having addressed the electors of said town, and offered themselves as candidates for the representation thereof at the ensuing election, several electors and many other persons, inhabitants of the said town, have applied to him, as mayor, expressing their apprehensions that loss of life, serious injury and mischief would most likely result to the persons and properties of the said electors, and the inhabitants of the said town, if not protected by a sufficient military force; and that those apprehensions have arisen from very violent proceedings which occurred in the said town, and, in particular, occurrences which took place in the month of December 1832, on the occasion of an election for the said town, when the said John O'Connell and Roger Green Davis, esquires, were the candidates. That he knows most disgraceful outrages were committed by a lawless and ungovernable mob of many thousand persons, many of whom were provided with sticks and other weapons; and that said persons were induced to come so prepared from various parishes at the instance and by the directions of persons having influence and control over them, on behalf of Mr. O'Connell; and that said persons came there for the purpose of intimidating the said electors, and preventing their voting for the said Roger Green Davis; and that, on the first day of the election, an elector who was proceeding to the hustings to vote for the said Roger Green Davis, was forcibly taken possession of, and threatened with death, if he did not vote for the said John O'Connell; and that said person was by such declarations and threats forced to vote for the said John O'Connell; and that so great was the violence of the said mob, that, although the Riot Act had been read three times, yet many gentlemen were knocked down, severely beaten and trampled upon, (amongst whom were the Returning Officer's Assessor, Mr. Davis's Counsel and Agent, and several members of his committee,) for no other cause than being the friends of said Roger Green Davis.

That David Gregory and Bent Ball, esquires, bailiffs and magistrates of the said town, were (notwithstanding their utmost efforts) unable to avert in the slightest degree the rage and fury of the said mob, and that the then mayor, James Ellis Green, esquire, having been confined to the Court, was repeatedly applied to by the other magistrates, and informed of the conduct of the said mob, and that the lives of several persons were in danger, and that the Riot Act had been read three several times; that he therefore used his utmost exertions to induce them to suffer the electors to proceed to the hustings without interruption or violence, but without effect; and therefore he, the said James Ellis Green, finding the electors thus treated, and after very great forbearance, not having sufficient military force, was obliged to adjourn the Court, and to furnish the electors, for the protection of their lives in proceeding towards their respective places of residence, with a military escort; that, notwithstanding being so escorted, they were pursued by said mob, who attacked them with stones, whereby one gentleman was knocked down and severely cut, and continued their threats of destruction to said electors, or those who would vote against the said John O'Connell; so that the freedom of election was prevented, and many of the electors declared they would not again risk their lives, by going to the hustings to vote for the said Roger Green Davis, and which produced the consequent resignation of the said Roger Green Davis, he being unwilling to risk the lives of his friends; which he signified to the then mayor, James Ellis Green, the following morning.

That the said James Ellis Green was also pursued by said mob, and narrowly escaped from their violence. Says, that he heard and believes that immediately after the said election, one of the Roman Catholic priests of this parish, having been spoken to on the impropriety of such conduct, replied, that such was the mode of warfare which they used on such occasions; says, that he has heard and believes that one of the priests of the parish of the said town has lately directed his parishioners, and all such persons as they could influence from other parishes, to come prepared, and act in the same manner as they had done upon the former election between the said John O'Connell and the said Roger Green Davis; and that therefore it is verily believed, that unless a sufficient military force shall be sent into the said town of Youghal at the approaching election, that the same violence and intimidation will be again practised, and that many of the electors will be prevented by apprehension of violence, bodily injury or loss of life, from exercising their franchise; and that affidavits have been made before him by some of the electors (and to which he begs leave to refer), stating their opinion and belief, that unless an adequate military force shall be sent to the said town, a contest cannot be proceeded with, with safety to the persons or property of the electors who shall vote in favour of Mr. Smith; and that in his opinion, two troops of cavalry and 100 infantry (in addition to the troops at present quartered in Youghal) will be absolutely necessary to preserve the freedom of election, and to enable every elector to give his vote without fear or apprehension; and that, as he will be necessarily occupied during the election in the Court-house, he considers it would be most essential, for the preservation of the peace, that an intelligent stipendiary magistrate should be sent down by the Government, to remain at Youghal during the period of the election.

(signed) Matthew Hayman,
Mayor of Youghal.

Youghal, January 1, 1835.

HAVING read the foregoing Statement made by Matthew Hayman, esquire, the present mayor of Youghal, I fully concur in the statement so made by him, and I am enabled to say so from the circumstance of my being mayor of the said town at the time alluded to in said Statement.

Youghal, January 1, 1835. (signed) James Ellis Green.

I HAVE read the Statement made by Matthew Hayman, esq., and I fully concur in said Statement.

(signed) David Gregory,
Magistrate for Youghal at the Election in 1832.

Youghal, 1 January 1835.

AFFIDAVIT referred to in the foregoing.

County of Cork, } Taken and sworn before Matthew Hayman, of Youghal, in the
To wit. } county of Cork, mayor of the said town.

David Gregory, John Green, Henry Brown, Walter Giles, Roger Green, being duly sworn, and examined severally, depose and say, That in the month of December 1832, an election for the Borough of Youghal took place, and that the candidates were Roger Green Davis and John O'Connell, esquires; and Informants say, that upon that occasion, and on the first day of the election, a mob, consisting of many thousand persons from various parts of the country, came into the said town, threatening destruction to the lives and properties of all such persons as would vote against the said John O'Connell; and Informants say, that the election having been commenced, the said mob attacked several persons, the friends of the said Roger Green Davis, amongst whom were the counsel, agent and some of the members of the said Roger Green Davis's committee, several of whom (including one of the magistrates) were attacked and beaten in a most violent and outrageous manner, for no other cause than being the friends of the said Roger Green Davis: and Informants say, that so great was the violence of the said mob, that it became necessary to have the Riot Act read three several times, and without producing any effect upon said mob; and Informants say, that after several applications to the then mayor, James Ellis Green, esq., he, after very great forbearance, was obliged to adjourn the Court, and to give, for protection to the electors, a military escort to their respective houses, without which they verily believe they could not with safety arrive at their said places of residence; and say that, notwithstanding the assistance of the military, it was with difficulty they were protected, stones having been thrown at them as they proceeded; and Informants say, that, in consequence of the violence and outrageous conduct of said mob, and not having a sufficient military force, the said Roger Green Davis withdrew from the contest, not wishing to risk the lives of his friends; and Informants say, they verily believe that unless a considerable military force shall be sent to Youghal for the approaching election, about to take place between the said John O'Connell and J. B. C. Smith, esquires, the same intimidation will be practised, and that Informants would be apprehensive of such like violence to their persons and property, if they should exercise their right of voting in favour of the candidate whom they would consider the most eligible; and, as they verily believe, that many of the electors, unless sufficiently protected, will not venture to give their votes at said election.

Sworn before me, at Youghal, in the county of Cork, this 1st day of January 1835.

Sir, Dublin Castle, January 6, 1835.

I AM commanded by the Lords Justices to acknowledge the receipt of your Letter of the 1st instant and its Enclosures respecting the necessity of placing an additional military force at Youghal during the approaching election.

In reply, I am directed to acquaint you, that the necessary orders upon the subject have been issued by the Lieutenant General commanding the troops.

LETTER from Matthew Hayman, Esq., to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.; (with one Enclosure.)

Sir, Youghal, 5th January 1835.

ON the 1st instant I had the honour to send you a Statement and Affidavits of circumstances which took place at the election here in 1832. The present election is fixed for Monday next, 12th instant. From credible information I have received, similar scenes will take place, as the priests from the altar yesterday desired the people from the surrounding parishes to come into the town, which was the method adopted at the last election. This, together with the posting, in various parts of the town, of inflammatory placards, one of which I have the honour to enclose, causes me to request some communication may be made to the General in command of the district to grant me the cavalry force before requested.

for which I have sufficient stabling provided; otherwise I cannot be answerable for the personal safety of those who may be opposed to Mr. O'Connell, nor would it be in my power to carry on the election.

I have the honour, &c.

PLACARD referred to in the foregoing.

TITHES! TITHES!! TITHES!!!

ELECTORS OF YOUGHAL!

WHOEVER votes for Mr. Smyth, votes for the bloody tithe carnage at Gorthroe.

Whoever votes for Mr. Smyth, votes for the ruthless rule of the Orange faction.

Whoever votes for Mr. Smyth, votes for the suppression of Liberty in Ireland, and for the countenance of that corporate oppression under which you have so long laboured. Scout, then, Mr. Smyth from the hustings. Vote for O'Connell! Extinction of Tithes and Corporate Reform!

Sir, Youghal, 9th January 1835.

IN my letter of the 5th instant, which I had the honour of addressing to you, I then omitted mentioning the necessity of sending a stipendiary magistrate to assist me during the election in this town, to commence on Monday next, in the expectation of your favourable reply to my letter of the 1st instant. I beg leave to observe, as I before stated, that I must of necessity be confined to the Court, consequently cannot act with the military; and from various circumstances which have come to my knowledge, I respectfully request my application may be laid before his Excellency.

I have the honour, &c.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to Matthew Hayman, Esq., &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 10th January 1835.

I HAVE received and laid before the Lord Lieutenant your letter of the 9th instant, in which you state the necessity which exists for the presence of a stipendiary magistrate at Youghal to assist you during the election for that town.

In reply, I beg to inform you that his Excellency, in accordance with your wishes, has directed Mr. Rowan, the stipendiary magistrate at Carrick-on-Suir, immediately to proceed to Youghal, and place himself under your orders.

I have the honour, &c.

COUNTY DOWN.

NEWRY.

EXTRACT of LETTER from Sub-Inspector Crofton, J. P. County Down, to Sir William Gosset, dated Hilltown, Rathfriland, 13th January 1835.

I BEG leave to remind you, that during the election of Newry, in December 1832, a large armed mob of the Roman Catholic peasantry, amounting to several thousands, from the counties of Louth, Meath and Armagh, assembled on a hill immediately over the town, where they remained during two or three nights and days, for the ostensible purpose of overawing the Protestant electors; and that in consequence of their having attempted to force into the town (which they were only prevented doing by the bridge having been fortunately drawn and guarded by the constabulary), it became necessary to take out a large force of cavalry, infantry and constabulary, together with two pieces of artillery, to dislodge them.

As the coming election of Newry promises to be both a severe and angry one, Protestant being literally arrayed against Roman Catholic, and as it is probable that that the same unconstitutional means may be again adopted, and lead to the parties coming into hostile collision, I would beg leave to suggest the expediency of orders being issued by Government, that in the event of such a lawless mob being assembled on this occasion, the persons composing it should be immediately dispersed by the authorities.

I beg leave to add, that I have arranged for the assembling at Newry on the 15th instant (the day previous to the election commencing) of as strong a force as I could of the constabulary; and have the honour, &c.

J. P. and Sub-Inspector of Down.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to M. Crofton, Esq., &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 14th January 1835.

With reference to your letter of the 13th instant, in which you suggest the expediency of orders being issued by Government, that, in the event of a lawless mob being assembled near Newry during the approaching election, for the purpose of overawing the electors, the persons composing it should be immediately dispersed by the authorities; I am directed by the Lord Lieutenant to remark to you, that it is not for the Government to give such orders, as the civil authorities doubtless know their duty.

I am also to observe, that it would have been more satisfactory if, in stating that you had arranged "for the assembling at Newry on the 15th instant of as strong a force as you could of the constabulary," you had specified the amount of force which you expected to be able to assemble.

Sir, Hilltown, Rathfriland, 15th January 1835.

With reference to your letter of the 14th instant, I have the honour to inform you, that the police force (including one chief constable and 20 men of the Armagh constabulary) to be assembled at Newry during the approaching election, will consist of five officers, 104 men and five horses.

LETTER from Frederick Darley, Esq., to the Right Honourable Sir H. Hardinge, &c. &c. &c.

Head Office, 17th January 1835,
Sir, 10 o'Clock P.M.

I have great satisfaction in stating, that the general tranquillity of the city was such as to enable me before nine o'clock to dispense with the further attendance of the extra dragoons in the Lower Castle Yard, and that I have since communicated to Sir Edward Blakeney, that I consider it unnecessary to retain the troops in the garrison under orders for particular duty this night, having previously obtained the Lord Mayor's concurrence.

COUNTY OF GALWAY.

LETTER from James O'Hara, Esq., to P. C. Weldon, Esq. &c. &c. &c.

My dear Sir, Lanebay, Galway, Jan. 11, 1835.

I BEG to say, that a demand has been made upon me to give police support to the voters coming from Tuam, and that the police should be placed under the superintendence of a magistrate unconnected with the county, except in his magisterial capacity. Can this be done? If possible, I should be glad that horse police should be placed in Tuam to accompany the voters, if required; that the police at Lough George and Oranmore should be reinforced, to keep those passes open for the freeholders on all sides freely to pass up to the election. I hope that Captain Warburton may be placed in the command of the police in Galway.

I beg that you will forward this letter to Major Warburton by express (as the election will commence upon Tuesday next), that is, if you and the authorities at Ballinasloe cannot of yourselves make the arrangement which I require.

I am, &c.

COUNTY OF KERRY.

TRALEE.

LETTER from the Right Hon. the Earl of Kenmare to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c. :—(with two Enclosures.)

Sir, Killarney, 1 Jan. 1835.

I HEREWITH send you two Letters which I have this day received; one from Mr. Denny, who is a candidate for the representation of the borough of Tralee; the other from Mr. Brownrigg, the inspector of police. From the information I have received, I greatly fear there is much foundation for the apprehensions they express. The greatest efforts are making to inflame the minds of the populace in the borough. I certainly think that there, at least, it might be prudent to have an increased military force to protect the freeholders; for which purpose some cavalry would be useful.

I have, &c.

(signed) Kenmare, Lieut. Co. Kerry.

(Enclosure, No. 1.)

My Lord, Strand-street, Tralee, Dec. 30, 1834.

I TAKE the liberty of acquainting you, that from the feeling of excitement which appears at present to prevail in Tralee, it is more than probable that some disturbance of a serious nature may take place upon the occasion of the approaching elections.

Under these circumstances, and involved as I am in the event of the borough election, I would submit to your Lordship's consideration the propriety of making an immediate application to Government, for the purpose of obtaining additional military aid; and, on such occasions, cavalry are considered most effectual in overawing popular violence.

I have the honour, &c.

(Enclosure, No. 2.)

My Lord, Constabulary Office, Tralee, 31 December 1834.

I HAVE the honour to acquaint your Lordship, that from the excited state of public feeling, produced by the approaching, at least anticipated, contests for both County and Borough, I have reason to apprehend much disturbance; and, as in such event, the force, both civil and military, within the county, would be quite inadequate to preserve the peace, especially during the county election, I take the liberty of suggesting to your Lordship the expediency of applying for a reinforcement of military, particularly of cavalry, to co-operate with the civil authorities in maintaining order.

The present force, aided by a detachment of cavalry, would, I am of opinion, be sufficient to preserve the peace at the borough election.

I beg leave further to submit to your consideration, the necessity of having parties of military stationed at Killarney, Castle Island and Listowel, for the protection of the freeholders.

It

It was my intention to have waited on your Lordship to communicate personally the above, but understanding that some public demonstration of party feeling is likely to be displayed here on to-morrow, I think it advisable not to leave my post.

I have to add, that I have communicated to the Inspector General my sentiments on the foregoing subject.

I have the honour, &c.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to the Earl of Kenmare, &c. &c. &c.

My Lord, Dublin, 6th January 1835.

I HAVE laid before the Lieutenant General commanding your letter of the 1st, with its Enclosures, respecting an increase of troops for the county of Kerry during the forthcoming election.

Sir Hussey Vivian is most closely pressed for aid by applications from every quarter of a similar purport. He will, however, do his utmost to meet your views on this occasion.

I have the honour, &c.

(signed) William Gosset.

Sir, Tralee, January 1, 1835.

AS chief magistrate of the town of Tralee, upon the eve of an election for the borough, likely to be contested, I think it my duty to inform you, that most inflammatory placards, and other violent excitements to disturb the election, have been put in use by one of the parties, which lead me to fear that the public peace may be endangered, and the exercise of the elective franchise impeded.

Under these circumstances, and with a remembrance of the disastrous occurrences which marked a former election in 1826, in which thirteen lives were lost, and which timely precautions might have averted; I think it right to apply for a reinforcement to the military force here, and beg to suggest that cavalry are considered most effectual on such occasions in overawing popular violence, and protecting the approach of voters to the poll.

I beg to add (though not concerned as returning officer) that a contest is also looked for in the county, in which the Knight of Kerry is to be opposed with all the force and excitement which Mr. O'Connell's influence can call into action; and this forms an additional reason why the reinforcement I require will be necessary for the protection of His Majesty's loyal subjects, and the preservation of the public peace.

I need not urge upon you the necessity of despatch when time presses, and matters of so much moment are involved.

I remain, &c.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to Caleb Chute, Esq., &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 6th January 1835.

HAVING laid before the Lords Justices your letter of the 1st instant, representing the necessity of placing an additional military force at Tralee during the ensuing elections, I am in reply directed by their Excellencies to acquaint you, that the necessary orders upon the subject have been issued by the Lieutenant General commanding the troops.

I have the honour, &c.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to the Right Honourable Sir R. H. Vivian, Bart., &c. &c. &c.:—(with one Enclosure.)

Sir, Dublin Castle, 26th January 1835.

A COMMUNICATION having been just received from the high sheriff and several respectable magistrates of the county of Kerry, expressive of their opinion, that in consequence of the great excitement that has prevailed in that county since the commencement of the contested election, the troops now stationed there should be left in their present quarters for some time longer, until such excitement shall cease. The Lord Lieutenant is desirous of giving effect to their wishes, by some troops being left, for the present, at such stations where the accommodation is tolerable. I am therefore to request you would be pleased to convey the necessary instructions to the general officer of the district accordingly.

I have the honour, &c.

(signed) William Gosset.

P. S.—I enclose for your perusal the communication referred to, which you are requested to return.

(Enclosure.)

Sir, Tralee, January 24, 1835.

IN consequence of the great excitement that has prevailed in this county since the commencement of the present contested election, We, the undersigned Deputy Lieutenants and Magistrates, think it necessary that the troops now stationed in this county should be left in their present quarters for some time longer, until such excitement shall cease. We therefore request you will be so good as to communicate the same to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, that orders may be issued to that effect.

We have the honour, &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 26 January 1835.

I HAVE received and laid before the Lord Lieutenant the Letter, bearing date the 24th instant, signed by you and certain Deputy Lieutenants and Magistrates of the county of Kerry, in which it is suggested, from the great excitement that has prevailed since the present contested election commenced, that the troops now stationed in the county should be retained in their present quarters for some time longer, until such excitement shall cease.

I beg, in reply, to acquaint you, that his Excellency, being desirous to give effect to the wishes expressed upon this occasion, has instructed the Lieutenant General commanding, to leave some troops, for the present, at such stations where the accommodation is tolerable.

CITY OF KILKENNY.

EXTRACT of a LETTER from Sir John Harvey, K.C.H., to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.:—(with Enclosures.)

(Extract.) Dublin, 7th January 1835.

I have the honour to forward a letter from Sub-Inspector Tuckey, covering a requisition from the sheriffs of the city of Kilkenny for an additional police force of 150 men, to preserve the peace during the election, which commences on the 9th inst., and which will be contested; and to report that we have fortunately the means of meeting this demand within the county, as no adjoining county could assist. I have accordingly directed Mr. Tuckey to assemble 150 constables, and place them at the disposal of the returning officer and city authorities, (they being previously sworn in to act within the city.)

(Enclosure.)

Sir, Kilkenny, January 6, 1835.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 3d instant, enclosing letters for the sheriffs of the county and city of Kilkenny, relative to the distribution of the civil force during the ensuing elections, and now beg to transmit their replies.

No contest is expected in the county, but in the city of Kilkenny a very determined and angry one is anticipated, and the returning officers have requested that 150 police shall attend for the purpose of preserving the freedom of election.

Sir, Kilkenny, 5 January 1835.

On receipt of your letter of the 3d instant, we communicated with the mayor and other magistrates of this city, who concurred with us in opinion, that we should not require less than 150 men, in addition to the force at present here, to preserve the peace of the city during the election, as we strongly suspect some angry feeling will be exhibited between the several partisans of the two contending candidates.

LETTER from Samuel Knox, Esq., to Captain Crossley, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Coleraine, 6th January 1835.

It appears to be the opinion of Dr. Boyd and other Magistrates, that we should have as strong a force of police as you could spare us. I understand there were 60 men in town upon the last election, and that we should have an equal number on the present occasion.

May I therefore request of you to send us a sufficient reinforcement by Thursday evening.

Sir, Londonderry, 7th January 1835.

We beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 4th instant, and to acquaint you that we consider it advisable the county police be here on the evening of Sunday the 11th inst. for the preservation of the peace at the city election, which will take place the following day, and to remain until after the county election, which commences on Thursday the 15th inst.

COUNTY OF LOUTH.

LETTER from C. Plunkett, C. M. P. County of Louth, to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.:—(with an Enclosure.)

Sir, Castlehillingham, 8 Dec. 1834.

In forwarding my report for the last week, I beg leave to acquaint you, for the information of the Lords Justices, I am apprehensive that the approaching election for this county is likely to lead to much bad feeling, as several persons who are supposed to be favourable to the Foster interest have already been intimidated.

I have the honour to be, &c.

Extract from the Weekly Report of C. Plunkett, Esq. C. M., transmitted with the foregoing:

4th December. A party of men, 12 or 14 in number, entered the house of James Carroll, of the Wood, near Dunleer, in the barony of Ferrard, and threatened him, "that if he voted for Mr. Foster, his life would pay the forfeit, and that if he was not met at fair or market, they knew where to find his house."

COUNTY OF MAYO.

LETTER from George Vaughan Jackson, Esq., to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Bilton Hotel, Dublin, January 5, 1835.

Passing through here on my way to the county of Mayo election, I find a letter from Mr. Geo. Clendenning, manager of the Bank of Ireland Office at Westport, and many years a magistrate for the county of Mayo, from which I have the honour to send an extract:—

"It is most desirable for you to see, passing through Dublin, Sir Wm. Gosset, and to urge in the strongest manner a cavalry force, as at the last election; without it, the very utmost danger must be apprehended. Many of the electors will not risk attending without the strongest protection. In fact I should fear the mob must be the Returning Officer, if deprived of this shelter, as the R. C. A. B. Dr. M'Hale is to propose Sir William Brabazon, leading a host of priests. Inferior means can in no way meet so very trying an occasion. Government should order Captain Ireland, the stipendiary magistrate, to attend from Erris, as the local magistracy will of course shrink from the responsibility. It would also be advisable to see, if possible, Sir Hussey Vivian.

"What excitement will follow the approaching scene, none can better estimate and explain than yourself."

I beg to say, that from my own personal experience in the three last elections in the county of Mayo, I entirely agree to the utmost in all Mr. Clendenning has stated.

In my opinion, the life of no opponent of the Repeal candidate will be safe without strong protection.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 13 January 1835.

I ENCLOSE, by direction of the Lord Lieutenant, a Letter, dated the 12th instant, from J. N. Gildea, esq., high sheriff of the county of Mayo, representing the necessity of employing a large military force of cavalry and infantry at the approaching election of that county; and I am to express his Excellency's desire that you would be pleased to send such a reinforcement to Mayo as you shall consider sufficient for the protection of freeholders and the maintenance of the public tranquillity.

I have the honour, &c.

It is requested that you will return the Enclosure.

(Enclosure.)

Sir, Gresham's Hotel, January 12, 1835.

IN consequence of the many attacks made at the former election, to obstruct freeholders from coming to the poll, and apprehending such attempts more frequently at the coming election, I consider it advisable to apply to Government for a strong military force.

Three troops of cavalry, and five companies of infantry, together with the police, will not, in my opinion, exceed that which may be required to protect freeholders, and keep the peace.

Sir, Monaghan Court House, 5 January 1835.

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of your Letter; and, in answer to what police force would be requisite to preserve the peace of this county at the ensuing election, I think we should require 100 men.

The election will be held on Thursday, 15 January; so, of course, the force should be here previous to that day.

QUEEN'S COUNTY.

LETTER from the Right Honourable Viscount De Vesci to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.:—(with an Enclosure.)

Sir, Abbeyleix, December 21, 1834.

I RECEIVED a communication from Sir Henry Hardinge (through Lord Maryborough), saying, that whatever force was necessary for the protection of the freeholders in the Queen's County would be furnished; and enclose the arrangements made for the distribution of that force by Colonel O'Donoghue and the other magistrates. If quarters can be found for them, I think that 200 men should be posted in Maryborough. The contest will be entirely between Protestants and Roman Catholics, and will be carried on probably with great violence and acrimony; and probably large mobs will be collected. It is better therefore to have an imposing force. I beg leave also to suggest that the 35th regiment, at present at Tullamore, is composed of Englishmen, and is lately come over; and that it would be well if, in the excited state of party feeling, the detachments were belonging to that regiment. As I am the only magistrate in this neighbourhood, I shall require the assistance of an active stipendiary magistrate.

Colonel Osborne was stationed here during the last election, and was of the greatest use, especially in accompanying the escorts.

I have the honour, &c.

(signed) De Vesci.

(Enclosure.)

My Lord, Maryborough, December 19, 1834.

LIEUT.-COLONEL O'DONOGHUE, a resident magistrate of the county, having submitted the accompanying project and arrangement, addressed to your Lordship, (being for the purpose of preserving the peace and freedom of election at the expected contest for the representation representation of this county,) to me for my perusal and opinion, I have the honour to acquaint your Lordship, that I read it carefully, and think nothing can be better for the purpose than the Colonel's arrangements, except that, in my judgment, the military detachments proposed for Rathdowney and Borris-in-Ossory, ought to be a company each, as these towns, next to Mountrath, are the most likely to be found turbulent and riotous. If this aid be afforded to your Lordship, I have no doubt but the peace of the county will be preserved, and the system of intimidation resorted to at last election, by persons parading the country at the head of disorderly mobs, and visiting and canvassing some electors so backed, can be prevented, should it be deemed necessary, and thus the freedom of election better preserved.

I have the honour, &c.

LETTER from the Right Hon. Viscount De Vesci to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Abbeyleix, January 3, 1835.

I HAD the honour of receiving your letter, saying, that the force required will be furnished as far as practicable. From the nature of the contest, the means that are taking to inflame the minds of the people, and the violence that is threatened, the full amount of the troops demanded will, I am afraid, be absolutely necessary.

I have the honour, &c.

My Lord, Dublin Castle, 6 January 1835.

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of your Lordship's letter of the 3d, in which you express your opinion that the full amount of the troops demanded will probably be necessary for the Queen's County.

I immediately submitted your letter to Sir Hussey Vivian, who has promised to do all in his power to meet your wishes; but so exceedingly numerous are the demands for troops at the present juncture, it is doubtful whether the number you want can be furnished. No exertion, however, will be spared.

I have the honour, &c.

EXTRACT of a LETTER from the Right Honourable Viscount De Vesci to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.:—(with Enclosures.)

I AM aware of the difficulties there will be in supplying the demand for troops; but this county is peculiarly circumstanced. It is a contest between Protestants and Roman Catholics; and will in all appearance be carried on with unexampled virulence. If the Protestant freeholders are not allowed to go to the hustings, any future attempt to rescue the county will be unavailing. I certainly could not allow my tenants to go except we are supplied with the number of men which we have required for Abbeyleix; and the gentlemen from other parts of the country have made similar representations. I very unwillingly, and not till after repeated solicitations, allowed my son to come forward; and it is a question whether I should be justified in allowing him to persevere without having ample protection for the persons who support him. I have forwarded some documents for the information of his Excellency respecting the means which are used to excite the people, and to urge them to impede the election.

In reply to your Lordship's communication of yesterday, I beg to inform you, that it is the earnest wish of the Lord Lieutenant to comply with your request for military and police aid at the approaching election, to the full extent of the means at his Excellency's disposal.

I am directed to send to your Lordship the enclosed Return, and also to state that if possible the force will be augmented.

It is his Excellency's intention to send two stipendiary magistrates to the Queen's County on the present emergency; and Mr. Singleton has already received directions to proceed, and report himself to your Lordship.

His Excellency is very anxious to avoid having recourse to giving the commission of the peace to military officers on the occasion in question.

Sir, Dublin, 22 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to forward a communication which has been addressed to me by Sub-Inspector Clarke, enclosing a Letter from Colonel Weldon, J. P., stating that he apprehended disturbance in the Colliery district, Queen's County, and requesting the presence of a military force for the protection of the freeholders and peaceable inhabitants.

The cavalry quartered at Athy having been sent to Maryborough, the sub-inspector immediately repaired to Rahan, with a chief constable and 68 constables. There appears to have been no foundation for the alarm.

(Enclosure.)

Sir, Athy, 20 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to state, for your information, that the Members for this county were declared duly elected here yesterday at one o'clock, when the High Sheriff requested I would remain in the town, with a strong force of police three or four hours, for the purpose of preserving the peace; at the termination of which period I considered it too late to despatch the men to their respective quarters.

About the hour of eight o'clock, P. M., Chief-constable Judge, stationed in this town, received a letter from Colonel Weldon, of Rahan, Queen's County, a magistrate, stating, that he heard from unquestionable authority, that there was a great rising in the Colliery district, and that thousands of the people were coming down in that direction, and requesting that detachment of troops might be sent out for the protection of the lives of the freeholders and peaceable inhabitants of that neighbourhood.

I lost no time in waiting on Mr. Butler, the sovereign of the town, requesting that the troop of the 15th hussars, quartered in the barracks, might be ordered out, and having obtained the necessary requisition, I ascertained they had previously received a sudden route to march at 15 minutes' notice to Maryborough.

Having consulted what was best to be done in this emergency, I assembled sixty-eight of the constabulary, with which force Mr. Judge and I proceeded; that officer going with the mounted police round by Rahan, and I with the infantry to the village of Ballynan, where I met Colonel Weldon, and was in a short time afterwards joined by Mr. Judge, who had arrested one prisoner, and handed him over to Colonel Weldon.

At the request of Colonel Weldon, I left one constable and five sub-constables, to reinforce the police party at Ballylinan; and then patroled back in the direction of Athy, where, on our arrival, every thing was tranquil. The six men left at Ballylinan returned here this morning.

I beg to forward the letter of Colonel Weldon on the subject.

Sir, Rahan, 19 January 1835, near eight o'clock.

I HAVE received reports, which I have no reason to doubt, that there has been a great rising in the Colliery district; that the police have been attacked; and that the mob, which has been described as immense, and collecting from all parts, are about proceeding in this direction. I have heard that expresses have been sent off to Maryborough and Carlow.

I wrote to Athy a few minutes ago, reporting these circumstances, and requesting that troops may, without loss of time, be sent in this direction, to protect the families here and in the immediate neighbourhood. I send this report for fear the other may have failed reaching Athy.

I again hope that some troops may forthwith be sent here.

Your obedient Servant,

CLONMEL.

LETTER from William Chaytor, Esq., to the Under Secretary of State.

Sir, Clonmel, 6th January 1835.

THE election for this town is fixed for Tuesday the 13th instant; the contest is, I fear, likely to be carried on with much party animosity, owing to the religious feelings of the populace having been very much excited by the addresses of several Roman Catholic clergymen (not of this town) from the altars of the Catholic chapels, and from stages erected for the purpose in the streets.

As returning officer, I should not by any means be able to take charge of the tranquillity of the town during such a warmly contested election as this promises to be, even were I in a good state of health, which at present I am very far from.

I have therefore respectfully to request, that one of our resident magistrates may be sent to Clonmel during the election Mr. Fitzgerald of Cashel was here at our last one. He is a native of this town; and, being thoroughly acquainted with its localities, was able to be of more service than any stranger could possibly have been. Mr. Wilcox of Tipperary (a more efficient magistrate than whom there cannot be) is similarly circumstanced with regard to Cashel, from a long official residence there. I trust you will excuse the liberty I take in suggesting, that Mr. Fitzgerald may be sent to Clonmel, which arises solely from the reasons I have stated.

I have, &c.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to William Chaytor, Esq., &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 8th January 1835.

I AM directed to acquaint you, in answer to your letter of the 6th instant, requesting the presence of a stipendiary magistrate at Clonmel during the approaching election, that Mr. Fitzgerald has been ordered to proceed and to remain there until the election shall be over.

Mr. Fitzgerald has been likewise ordered to put himself in communication with you, and to consider himself as acting under your directions.

I have the honour, &c.

CASHEL.

LETTER from N. Mansergh, Esq., to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Cashel, 7 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to inform you, that the election for this city is to commence on Wednesday next the 14th instant. The candidates, Mr. Pennefather and Mr. Perrin, having both of them refused to contribute to the expenses of an assessor, I find that all the duties of the election must fall on me, which will necessarily confine me to the Court-house during its continuance.

I therefore feel myself obliged to apply for magisterial assistance, to guard against and prevent those disorders which generally prevail during contested elections.

Mr. Fitzgerald, the superintendent magistrate stationed here, is a gentleman with whom I have been acquainted since we were boys, and consequently I should find much more facility in arranging measures with him for the preservation of the public peace than with any other magistrate. I am informed that he has been ordered to attend at Clonmel during the election there. Now I beg leave to suggest, that it would be much more expedient that Mr. Fitzgerald should be directed to remain here, and that Mr. Rowan, the superintendent magistrate now stationed at Carrick-on-Suir, which is only eleven miles distant from Clonmel, should be sent there, particularly as Mr. Fitzgerald knows almost every person in this town and vicinity, and therefore would have more influence than a stranger.

I have the honour, &c.

(signed) Nich. Mansergh, Mayor of Cashel.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to N. Mansergh, Esq., &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 10th January 1835.

I AM directed by the Lord Lieutenant to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 7th instant, and to inform you in reply, that, under the circumstances therein set forth, Mr. Fitzgerald, the stipendiary magistrate, has been instructed to be present at Cashel during the approaching election for that town.

I have the honour, &c.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to William Chaytor, Esq., &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 10th January 1835.

I AM sorry to find, notwithstanding the communication addressed to you on the 8th inst., that Doctor Fitzgerald cannot be spared from Cashel during the election, where his presence is indispensable; but I am to observe, that Mr. Willcocks will be directed to proceed to Clonmel, and attend there during the election for that town.

I have the honour, &c.

LETTER from John Bagwell, Esq. to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Clonmel, January 17, 1835.

IT being very generally reported that a third candidate will be started for this county, at the election to be held here on the 21st inst., and feeling that, in such an event, it will be impossible for me to preserve the peace in this town, under the present exciting circumstances, without the aid of one or two stipendiary magistrates; may I request you will direct the attendance of such as you think fit. Mr. Willcocks has been here during the election for the borough, and returns to his station at Tipperary to-morrow; and I beg leave to remark, that the conduct of Mr. Willcocks has been so satisfactory to all parties during the contest for this borough, that I think he would be a most proper person for the purpose before alluded to.

I have the honour, &c.

(signed) John Bagwell, High Sheriff.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to the High Sheriff of the County of Tipperary.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 19th January 1835.

AGREEABLY to your suggestion, the Lord Lieutenant's directions have been signified to Dr. Fitzgerald and Mr. Willcocks, to attend at Clonmel to preserve the peace, in the event of a contested election for the county of Tipperary.

I have the honour, &c.

(signed) W^m^ Gosset.

LETTER from G. Fitzgerald, Esq., to Sir W. Gosset, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Cashel, January 20, 1835.

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of yesterday's date, directing me to proceed to Clonmel to preserve order at the election for the county, which is to commence there to-morrow; and intimating the probability that a third candidate will be put in nomination.

In event of a contest, it will be indispensable to have parties of cavalry in Cashel, Thurles, Borrisoleigh and Templemore, for the purpose of giving escorts to the convoys of electors on their route to and from Clonmel. I have no doubt but the excitement will be more than ordinary; and I greatly fear, from the shortness of time allowed, that the arrangements for affording efficient protection cannot be as complete as might be desirable.

I have the honour, &c.

(signed) G. Fitzgerald.

LETTER from S. Carter, Esq., to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.
(with Enclosure.)

Sir, Nenagh, 19th January 1835.

REFERRING to your circular instructions respecting the pending elections, as long as there was no prospect of a contest, I deemed it unnecessary to trouble you with a prospectus of military arrangements for this quarter, which, from the tenor of the enclosed original letter, I now deem essential to the protection of those electors who may be known as opposers of the popular candidates, and as there are only two mounted police here, I beg to submit the expediency of a troop of dragoons being sent as speedily as possible to this town; also the quartering, pro tempore, at Borrisoleigh, 12 miles hence, a subaltern and 15 or 20 men of same force, whereby relays of escorts can be furnished the vehicles, &c. conveying voters hence to Clonmel viâ Cashel, where I suppose dragoons will be stationed under the direction of the magistrates for a similar purpose; and as the elections in Clare and Limerick have terminated, perhaps a sufficient cavalry force can be spared from that garrison for this town and Borrisoleigh, whereby time will be saved, as the election commences on Wednesday.

I have the honour, &c.

(signed) S. Carter.

Sir, Nenagh, January 19, 1835.

As there is now almost a certainty of a contest in this county, and of course there will be great opposition to the passage of freeholders through the county from hence to Clonmel, we request, as magistrates, that you will make some arrangements with the Government for their protection and escort.

We remain, &c.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to Major Carter, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 21st January 1835.

I AM directed by the Lord Lieutenant to acquaint you, that the suggestions contained in your representation of the 19th inst. for the protection of the electors of the county of Tipperary, passing and repassing to and from Clonmel, have been referred to the Lieutenant General commanding, in order that proper arrangements may be made for affording them security, as proposed, upon the present occasion.

COUNTY OF TYRONE.

LETTER from Sir Frederick Stovin, K.C.B., to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c.

Sir, Dungannon, Jan. 6, 1835.

WITH reference to the approaching elections, I have the honour to state, for the information of the Lords Justices, that there will be a very violent contest for the county of Tyrone, where party spirit runs exceedingly high, by which the peace will in all probability be much disturbed; and as the Sheriff has made a demand for 130 infantry police and 20 mounted, to be assembled at Omagh before the 15th instant (the day of election), which will withdraw nearly the whole of the men from the out-stations, and oblige me to bring mounted men from other counties, I beg to suggest the expediency of their Excellencies directing a troop of cavalry to move on Omagh before that period; and also that it would be desirable that a stipendiary magistrate should repair to that town at the same time.

The Sheriff of the county of Monaghan also requires 100 police (nearly the whole establishment) to assemble in that town on the 15th instant, which will in like manner denude the out-stations; and, as Castleblayney is in the direct road by which vast numbers of voters from the lawless district of Farney will proceed, it would be very advisable to station a party of cavalry in that town for the preservation of the peace.

In the town of Belfast, where a strong contest is expected, and where violence may be apprehended, I purpose, with the approbation of their Excellencies, to assemble a strong body of police, under Sub-Inspector Crossley, who is a magistrate for the county of Antrim, and well known to the people and the police, during the absence of Sub-Inspector Flinter, who is called into the county of Kildare to give evidence at Quarter Sessions.

I have the honour, &c.

LETTER from Sir R. H. Vivian, Bart., to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Royal Hospital, Dublin, Jan. 10, 1835.

In returning the Enclosures which accompanied your Letters of the 9th instant, I have the honour to acquaint you, for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, that, agreeably to the suggestion of Colonel Sir Frederick Stovin, I have given directions for sending cavalry detachments to Omagh and Castleblayney; and, in compliance with the suggestion of Colonel Jackson, a cavalry force will also be sent to Mayo during the approaching elections for those places.

I have the honour, &c.

LETTER from David White, Esq., to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Omagh, Jan. 1, 1835.

As there will be a large police and military force collected at Omagh for the approaching election, where much excitement and some disturbance may be expected, and as the magistracy will be anxiously engaged for the respective candidates, it might be desirable that the sub-inspector of this county was invested with the commission of the peace, as I consider, from his experience in the county of Tyrone for such a length of time, and the local knowledge which he possesses, that his appointment would, under those circumstances, be most desirable.

I have the honour, &c.

(signed) David White, Under-sheriff, Tyrone.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to David White, Esq., &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, Jan. 13, 1835.

I have this moment received your letter of the —— instant, and I beg to observe that the commission of the peace cannot be given for the occasion of the approaching election to the sub-police inspector, but a stipendiary magistrate will be directed to attend.

I am, Sir, &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, Jan. 13, 1835.

Under the circumstances stated in the enclosed Letter of the Under-sheriff of the county of Tyrone, I am directed to signify the Lord Lieutenant's desire that you will proceed to Omagh and attend there during the election, acting upon such instructions as you shall receive from the Sheriff for preserving the peace and securing the freedom of election.

CITY OF WATERFORD.

LETTER from Thomas M^c Cheane, Esq., to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Waterford, January 1, 1835.

A DISSOLUTION of Parliament being hourly expected, which will be succeeded in this city by a contested election of a highly political character, I feel myself imperatively called upon to request that the Government will be pleased to afford me the assistance of Major Carter and a force of constabulary, together with some cavalry, which have been found to be very efficient on similar occasions heretofore; so as to enable me to maintain the peace during this expected period of rancour and excitement.

I have the honour, &c.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to the Worshipful the Mayor of Waterford.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 6th January 1835.

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of your Letter of the 1st instant, requesting that the attendance of Major Carter at Waterford, during the approaching election, may be sanctioned and authorized; and in reply, I am to express to you the Lords Justices' regret that Major Carter cannot be spared from his district, where his presence is highly necessary.

I have the honour, &c.

(signed) W^m Gosset.

LETTER from Thomas M^c Cheane, Esq., to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Waterford, January 7, 1835.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your Letter of the 6th instant, stating the regret felt by their Excellencies at not being able to afford me the assistance of Major Carter at the approaching election of this city, which I regret, from the experience of his services on former occasions; and as I fear the coming election will be as violent, for the few days it may continue, as those of 1826, 1829 and 1832, I have again to request that a sufficient constabulary force may be ordered here by Government, so as to secure the preservation of the public peace during the ensuing contest for this city.

At present there is no likelihood of a contest for the county of Waterford, which election is not to commence till the 19th instant. That for the city is fixed for the 12th.

I have, &c. &c.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to the Worshipful the Mayor of Waterford.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 8th January 1835.

I AM directed by the Lord Lieutenant to acquaint you, in answer to your Letter of the 7th instant, regarding the necessity of increasing the constabulary in Waterford during the election, that the Inspector General has been instructed to grant all the police force he can spare on this occasion, and to put himself in immediate communication with you upon the subject.

I have the honour, &c.

COUNTY OF WEXFORD.
NEW ROSS.

LETTER from Charles Tottenham, jun. Esq., to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, New Ross, January 4, 1835.

IN consequence of the extreme state of excitement in this town and in the neighbourhood, caused by Mr. O'Connell's Letter to the people of Ross, I beg to suggest to the Government the necessity of sending a police magistrate with a strong force here, at the time of the election; as no means will be left untried, I feel assured, to prevent voters who have promised me from coming to the poll.

I have the honour, &c.

(signed) Charles Tottenham, jun.

LETTER from Sir W. Gosset to Charles Tottenham, jun. Esq., &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 7th January 1835.

I HAVE received and laid before the Lord Lieutenant your Letter of the 4th instant, in which you suggest the necessity of a stipendiary magistrate being in attendance during the election of a Member for New Ross; and his Excellency having concurred in the propriety of that measure, I am to acquaint you, that Major Browne has been instructed to undertake that service.

I am further to add, that the Lieutenant General commanding has ordered a military force to be at hand.

I have the honour, &c.

LETTER from Sir John Harvey, K.C.H., to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Dublin, 9th January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to forward a Letter from Sub-Inspector Captain Hamilton, covering a communication from the High Sheriff, suggesting that a troop of cavalry and an additional company of infantry be sent to Wexford to preserve the peace at the election for the county, which will commence on Wednesday the 21st instant. It is also suggested that strong parties of dragoons be posted at Enniscorthy, Oulart and Castlebridge, to protect the voters, and that a stipendiary magistrate be ordered to Wexford to remain during the election. I have directed the sub-inspector of Kilkenny to send forty or fifty constabulary police to attend at New Ross during the election for that borough.

I have the honour, &c.

(signed) J. Harvey.

LETTER from Henry Hamilton, Esq. to Sir John Harvey, K.C.H., &c. &c. &c.: (with Enclosure.)

Sir, Wexford, 8th January 1835.

I BEG leave to enclose herewith the High Sheriff's reply to your communication of the 3d instant, and to the Letter which I wrote to him upon the subject of our county election, which will commence on Wednesday the 21st instant; and previous thereto I trust that the county of Carlow election will have terminated, and therefore enable the Government to send a part of the troops employed upon that occasion to this county.

I perfectly concur with our High Sheriff, that it will be necessary, at the least, to have an entire troop of dragoons in this town, also another company of infantry, during the election; and, from the violent excitement that we have reason to apprehend, it will likewise be necessary to have strong parties of dragoons to protect the voters, at those places the High Sheriff has pointed out, viz. Enniscorthy, Oulart and Castlebridge. The latter place is only two miles from this town.

I beg to suggest the expediency of a stipendiary magistrate being sent to Wexford during the county election. I forwarded a letter to you yesterday from Lord Carew, His Majesty's Lieutenant of this county, stating his opinion with regard to this measure.

I have the honour, &c.

(signed) Henry Hamilton.

(Enclosure.)

My dear Sir, Pilltown, January 7, 1835.

With regard to the force necessary and the distribution of it in this county, during the election time, I quite agree with the suggestions offered by you, and beg you will convey them to Sir John Harvey, as mine. The present state of this county is such, and the excitement so great, that I would not, nor will not, be answerable for the consequences, unless well supplied with power to keep all parties quiet, at least from shedding each others' blood.

We cannot do without a full troop of dragoons in Wexford, and an additional company of infantry. It will be also most necessary to have a small force of dragoons, under a magistrate, to protect voters, at Enniscorthy, Oulart, and I should also say, at Castlebridge. If it were practicable, I should very much wish to have all the principal entrances into the town well protected with infantry. The police force there is no question about; we shall want them at the court-house. I should beg, if not against rule, that you select six of them, stout, steady fellows, to attend me at all times and hours; if possible, I should wish to have Humphreys amongst them. I must be in town on Friday the 16th, at the road session, when I shall hope to see you and speak further on the matter. Confident, however, in the mean time, you will arrange, as far as you can, every thing to meet my wishes, which are to preserve peace and good order amongst all parties during the election.

Believe me, &c.

(signed) Wm. M. Glascott, High Sheriff.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to the Right Honourable Sir R. H. Vivian, Bart., &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 10 January 1835.

I have the honour to forward to you a Letter dated the 9th instant, from Colonel Sir John Harvey, with one from the Sub-Inspector of Police and High Sheriff of the county of Wexford, representing the expediency of increasing the military in the town of Wexford, for the maintenance of the public tranquillity during the ensuing election, and also suggesting that strong parties of dragoons be posted at the out-stations therein mentioned for the protection of the voters.

As the Wexford election does not take place until the 21st instant, I am to express the Lord Lieutenant's hope that you will be able to afford an ample force from Carlow and other counties for the foregoing object.

I have, &c.

(signed) W^m Gosset.

LETTER from Sir R. H. Vivian, Bart., to the Right Honourable Sir H. Hardinge, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Royal Hospital, Dublin, 18 January 1835.

In returning the Enclosures of Sir William Gosset's Letter of the 10th instant, I have the honour to acquaint you, for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, that, with a view of affording aid to the civil power at the election for the county of Wexford, the aftermentioned detachments will be sent to the stations specified:—

One troop of the 9th Lancers, and two companies of the 60th Rifles, to Wexford; one subaltern and 20 men of the 9th Lancers to Taghmon; and one subaltern and 20 men of the same corps to Enniscorthy, detaching a serjeant's party to Oulart.

I have the honour, &c.

(signed) R. H. Vivian, L. G.

LETTER from Lord Carew to the Right Honourable Sir H. Hardinge, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Castleboro', Enniscorthy, January 13.

I have received a Letter calling my attention to the preservation of the peace of the county of Wexford at the ensuing elections.

I beg to say, that I had already by letter mentioned to Captain Hamilton the necessity of a military force, and the expediency of a stipendiary magistrate who would be unconnected with local politics. The same magistrate might go from Ross to Wexford. Some dragoons would be useful at Enniscorthy and Taghmon, mon, to escort the freeholders; but as I went more in detail with Captain Hamilton, I shall not occupy your time.

Mr. Lambert has resigned, and I do not think there will be that virulence which would otherwise have been, as the most unjust calumnies had been directed against him. It is as yet undecided whether a moderate Liberal will come forward. If he does, there will be a severe contest. If not, Mr. Maher and Mr. Power will probably have an easy contest, if any.

I have the honour, &c.

LETTER from the Right Honourable Sir H. Hardinge to Lord Carew, &c. &c. &c.

My Lord, Dublin Castle, 14 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your Lordship's Letter of yesterday's date, in which you urge the necessity of a military force, and the expediency of sending a stipendiary magistrate, unconnected with local politics, for the preservation of the peace of the county of Wexford at the ensuing elections.

And in reply, I have to state that Major Browne has been directed to proceed from New Ross to Wexford; and that the Lieutenant General commanding has been desired to comply, as far as is practicable, with the demand for troops.

It is hoped that these arrangements will secure the public peace.

I have the honour, &c.

LETTER from Sir William Gosset to Lord Carew, &c. &c. &c.

My Lord, Dublin Castle, 20 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to acquaint your Lordship that a stipendiary magistrate, Major Roberts, has been ordered to proceed to Wexford, and to remain there during the election for the county, for the preservation of the peace.

I have the honour, &c.

LETTER from Joseph Greeve, Esq., to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.

Sir, Wexford, 22 January 1835.

I DO not write officially, as the polling has only commenced at 10 this day, and I cannot learn the state of it until after post hour. The excitement is very great, and the priests are using every exertion against Messrs. Cliffe and Redmond. Every obstruction is thrown in the way of bringing in the freeholders; so much so that continued escorts are required. Several of them have been beaten, driven back, and even carried out of their houses by night. The contest is likely to continue to the last day with the same strength of party feeling. We have only one troop of dragoons here, which are quite inadequate to the continued escort and patrol duty. I am happy to have the assistance of a most active and zealous magistrate, Captain Hamilton, sub-inspector of this county. I shall write officially on to-morrow the state of the poll, and any occurrences that may take place.

COMMUNICATION from Sir R. H. Vivian, Bart., to Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. &c.

Royal Hospital, 25 January 1835.

THE Lieutenant General Commanding presents his compliments to Sir William Gosset, and, in returning the enclosed note, has the honour to state, for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, that a troop of the 9th Lancers marched from Waterford to Wexford on the 23d instant.

QUESTIONS addressed by the LIEUTENANT GENERAL COMMANDING to the MAGISTRATES and SHERIFFS of the several Counties, Cities and Boroughs, relative to the Conduct of the TROOPS during the ELECTIONS; and the ANSWERS thereto.

QUESTIONS.

Question 1.—WHAT was the conduct of the soldiers during the elections?—

Question 2.—Whether in any instance the magistrates heard of the soldiers having in any way whatever interfered with the freedom of election, or entered into the spirit of party on the one side or the other?—

Question 3.—Whether the soldiers were otherwise employed than in securing a safe approach to the poll for voters placed under their escort, for whom their protection was called by the magistrate in preserving the peace?—

ANSWERS.

ARMAGH COUNTY.

Answer 1.—THE conduct of the troops (10th Hussars, and depôt 25th Regiment), during the period in which I acted with them, was in every respect perfect, and did them much credit.

A. 2.—I saw no instance in which the soldiers interfered in the way stated in the query, nor did I hear of any; nor was there, as far as I had an opportunity of judging, the slightest appearance of party spirit amongst them.

A. 3.—In one instance I employed a small party of the 10th Hussars, in rescuing an individual beset by a multitude, and as I conceived in considerable danger. The party dispersed the crowd, and rescued the man without, I believe, injuring any one of those concerned. The troops afforded protection to the voters going up to poll, and effectually assisted the magistrates in preserving the peace when called on by the civil power.

(signed) Charlemont, J. P. and D. L.

ARMAGH CITY.

Answer 1.—Most exemplary, and much to the satisfaction of the magistrates.

A. 2.—The military kept themselves perfertly detached from all party feeling; and no complaint made by either side regarding interference with the freedom of election.

A. 3.—No otherwise employed than in attending to the duties alluded to in this query.

CARLOW COUNTY.

Sir, Borris, Goresbridge, 21 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of 20th instant, requiring answers to the following questions:—No. 1. Whether the party of 9th Lancers (under my orders) escorting voters from the election at Carlow, in any instance interfered with the freedom of election, or entered into the spirit of party, either on one side or the other?

No. 2. Whether they were ever employed otherwise than in securing a safe approach to poll, for voters placed under their escort, for whom their protection was called for by the magistrates, or in preserving the peace under the orders of the civil authorities?

In reply, I beg to state to question No. 1, that the party accompanied by me in escorting voters from Bagnalstown to Borris, did not enter into the spirit of the election or interfere with the freedom of it in any one instance, either on one side or the other. And my reply to question No. 2 is, that they were not employed otherwise than in securing a safe approach to the poll for voters placed under their escort, for whom their protection was called for by magistrates, or in preserving the peace under the orders of the civil authorities.

I have, &c.

H. M. Legard, Esq.,
Lieut. 9th Lancers, Enniscorthy.

Sir, Borris, 22 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter dated 20th instant, requiring answers to the following queries:—1. What was the conduct of my men during the time they were detached?—2. Whether in any instance you ever heard of the soldiers having in any way whatever interfered with the freedom of the elections, or entered into the spirit of party, either on one side or the other?

In reply to query No. 1, I beg to state, that the conduct of your men and non-commissioned officers, was most excellent in every particular, as far as I was capable of judging; and in answer to query No. 2, I also bear testimony that in no instance did your men interfere with the freedom of the election, or enter into the spirit of party, either on one side or the other.

I have, &c.

My dear Sir, Club House, Carlow, 20 January 1835.

I AM directed by a very large and respectable meeting of the magistrates and gentry of this county, unanimously, to return you and the troops under your command, employed in escorting the freeholders, and in preserving the peace of the county and town during the last election, their thanks for the great attention that was paid, and the orderly conduct maintained while employed on so unpleasant and harassing a duty.

I have, &c.

Major Slade, 90th Regiment,
Barracks, Carlow.

Follows the Queries and Answers; viz.—

Answer 1.—Most exemplary.

A. 2.—Never.

A. 3.—On no occasion that we are aware of.

Hacketstown, 20 January 1835.

Answer 1.—We have every reason to believe that the conduct of this detachment was steady and correct.

A. 2.—In no instance that has come to our knowledge, have this detachment in any manner interfered with the freedom of election, or entered into the spirit of party on either side, and this opinion appears universal throughout this county.

A. 3.—So far as we have known, this detachment have not been employed otherwise than in securing a safe approach to the poll for voters placed under their escort, and for whom their protection was called, both by the magistrates and sheriff, or in preserving the public peace under the orders of the civil authorities.

Tullow, 20th January 1835.

Answer 1.—The conduct of the military, both dragoons and infantry, was, throughout the period they were employed in escorting voters and patrolling the public roads, invariably steady, correct and accommodating.

A. 2.—I have not heard, nor do I believe, that in any instance soldiers have interfered in any way whatever with the freedom of election, or entered into the spirit of party on one side or the other; and throughout this district I have had many opportunities of hearing from both sides their satisfaction.

 A. 3.—I am

A. 3.—I am certain that in this district the military were not employed except in protecting voters to the poll, and once in Hacketstown in preserving the public peace, when, as a magistrate, I also attended, and where the presence of the military alone had the effect of preserving the public peace.

Allow me now to express my regret at your leaving, and to unite with my brother magistrates in returning to you and the troops employed our warmest thanks.

CLARE COUNTY AND ENNIS BOROUGH.

Answer 1.—We, the undersigned, have had every reason to be satisfied with the conduct of the troops stationed in Ennis to aid the civil power at the late elections for the county Clare and borough of Ennis.

A. 2.—We have not heard of an instance of a soldier interfering or meddling in election matters, or at all mixing in party spirit, on either side of the question.

A. 3.—The troops were not called upon to act in any way during the elections, but were merely ordered to be in readiness in their respective quarters, in case the magistrates should require assistance, which fortunately they did not. This order was strictly attended to.

COUNTY OF CORK.

CITY OF CORK.

Sir, Cork, 24th January 1835.

I BEG to return the enclosed paper, containing the questions you proposed to me, and I have annexed the required answers, which I hope will prove satisfactory.

I cannot refrain from taking this opportunity of expressing my satisfaction at the conduct pursued both by the officers and men who acted with me in preserving the peace at the city and county elections, during which time the greatest excitement prevailed.

I have, &c.

To Lieut.-Col. Warre. (signed) W^m White, Sheriff.

Answer 1.—The conduct of the troops was most praiseworthy during the progress of both the city and county election.

A. 2.—I have reason to know that the soldiers did not interfere in any way with the freedom of election or enter into any party spirit, and I can state this from my own knowledge, having been with them on all occasions that they were called on to act.

A. 3.—The troops were never used except for the purpose of keeping a clear passage to the polling booths, and then only when deemed necessary by all the city magistrates.

(signed) W^m White, Sheriff.

ANSWERS given in reference to a Detachment of the 94th Regiment during the City and County Elections.

Answer 1.—The conduct of the troops was most praiseworthy.

A. 2.—The soldiers did not in any way interfere in the election, or enter into the spirit of it on either side.

BOROUGH OF KINSALE.

Answer 1.—Nothing could be more correct or steady.

A. 2.—There was no such interference, nor the slightest display of party spirit by the soldiers.

A. 3.—They were never employed in any other manner than keeping the approach to the hustings clear of the mob, so as to secure a safe approach to electors, and upon one occasion the violence of the mob in throwing stones was so great, that it is probable some lives would have been lost, but from the prompt and steady exertions of the military party after the Riot Act was read, and also in patrolling the streets at night, when the police force were insufficient to prevent the houses of electors from being destroyed.

City of Dublin.

Sir, Dublin, Feb. 10.

We have much satisfaction in stating to you, for the information of Major-General Sir Edward Blakeney, that the troops (both officers and privates) employed during the late election for the city of Dublin, conducted themselves in the most exemplary, correct and steady manner. We have also to report that the soldiers did not in any manner interfere with the freedom of the election, nor enter into the spirit of party on either side.

The troops were only employed in securing a clear approach to the polling booths, and, by their patient and steady conduct, contributed very much in preserving the public peace.

Sir, 5, Merrion-square East, Tuesday, Feb. 10, 1835.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your Letter of Saturday, which has only reached me this day, desiring to know what has been the conduct of the military employed during the late election for the county of Dublin. Having heard not the slightest rumour to the contrary, I presume I might with perfect safety assure Sir Edward Blakeney of their usual propriety of conduct having marked their character on this occasion. I have written, however, to gentlemen of property in the neighbourhood of Swords and Rathcoole, and as soon as I get their answers, shall forward to you a more official assurance on the subject.

Sir, Laneboy, Galway, Jan. 21, 1835.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your Letter of the 20th instant, requesting me to furnish you with the necessary information for answering queries annexed to your Letter. I beg to say that I had every reason to be well pleased with, and to approve of, the conduct of all the troops placed under your command during the election for the county of Galway: that I have not heard of any instance of a soldier interfering with the freedom of election, or entering into the spirit of party on one side or the other; or of the troops being at any time during the election employed except for the purpose of showing that the authorities had force enough and were fully prepared to preserve the peace of the town and the freedom of election.

I cannot let this opportunity pass without returning my thanks to you, Sir, and the officers and men under your command during the election, for your attention to my wishes in effecting the purposes for which the troops were placed at my disposal, and your and their support of my authority while they were so placed.

GALWAY (Town).

Sir, Galway, Jan. 22, 1835.

IN reply to your Letter of the 20th instant, referring to a communication from the Major of Brigade, I beg to say, that from the circumstance of there being no contest for this town, and the election having consequently terminated in one day, the troops were only called on once on my requisition, and that on that occasion their conduct was most correct.

With respect to the second query in the Brigade Major's Letter, I would say that I have not heard of the soldiers having in any manner interfered with the freedom of election. On previous occasions, and during severe contests, I have been often obliged to call for military aid, and I never yet heard of an instance of a soldier entering into the spirit of party on one side or the other.

The third query I am not prepared to answer, as the troops were acting during the county election, under the immediate orders of the county Sheriff, who will, of course, reply to it satisfactorily; but I am quite sure that they were never otherwise employed than in the preservation of the public peace.

I have the honour, &c.

MOUNT MELLICK.

Answer 1.—Steady, zealous and satisfactory in every instance.
A. 2.—The conduct of the troops was such as to leave no ground of complaint on any side; perfectly free from any connexion with the contending parties, and the duties performed in an independent and soldierly manner.
A. 3.—In no other way.

(signed) John Tibeaudo, J. P. Queen's County,
21 January 1835. in charge at Mount Mellick.

RATHDOWNEY.

22 January.

Answer 1.—Excellent.
A. 2.—Not at all.
A. 3.—Certainly not.

(signed) B. Fitzgerald, Magistrate.

STRADBALLY.

Sir, Stradbally, 21 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to state, for the information of Major-General Sir E. Blakeney, that the detachment of infantry and cavalry stationed in this town, during the election, conducted themselves with great propriety and to my perfect satisfaction; satisfaction; that they did not in the least interfere with the freedom of election, nor entered into the spirit of either party; and that they were not employed but for the protection of voters going to and returning from the hustings.

I feel myself called on to say, that the officers were at all hours on the alert, and ready to assist the civil authorities at a moment's notice.

I have the honour, &c.

(signed) M. Singleton, Chief Magistrate of Police.

Captain Wilson, &c. &c. &c.

COUNTY OF ROSCOMMON.

Lord Lorton's best compliments to Mr. Blake, and returns him the Questions answered, with the exception of the first, which Lord L. thinks should be replied to by Mr. B.

Rockingham, Tuesday Evening.

Answer 1.—The general conduct of the men was good.

(signed) John Blake, Lt. 47th Regiment.

A. 2.—Never, in any instance whatever.

A. 3.—The detachment was never employed, except for the purpose of patrolling, to secure the safety of the freeholders in passing through the county.

(signed) Lorton, Lieut.

(Answers from the Sheriff.)

Answer 1.—In every respect perfectly correct.

A. 2.—In none.

A. 3.—The troops never were employed except as above.

To H. H. Farquharson, (signed) S. King, Sheriff.
Major Commanding the Troops at Roscommon.

County of Tipperary.

CLONMEL.

Answer 1.—Most steady and exemplary.

A. 2.—No instance came within our knowledge or observation of a soldier having interfered in any way whatsoever with the freedom of election, or entered into party spirit.

A. 3.—Soldiers were not employed otherwise than protecting the voters to the poll, and preserving the peace, under the immediate orders of the civil authorities.

Clonmel, 21 January 1835. (signed) R^d M. Duckett, Sub-Sheriff.
John Wilcox, Ch. Magistrate of Police.

CASHEL.

Answer 1.—In every respect perfectly correct, steady and well-disciplined.

A. 2.—There was not any instance during the election of any officer or private soldier interfering in the matter at all, except when called out to assist the magistrates in preserving the public peace.

A. 3.—There were not any soldiers in the Court House, nor was there any escort required.

The only duty connected with the election in which the soldiers were employed was, patrolling the streets, and aiding the police in quelling riots.

(signed) Nicholas Mansergh, Mayor of Cashel.
G. Taylor, J. P.

COUNTY OF TYRONE.

Answer 1.—Excellent.
A. 2.—They scrupulously abstained from political meddling.
A. 3.—Not called upon by me in support of the civil power.

Omagh, January 20, 1835. (signed) R. M. Moore, Sheriff, Tyrone. John Gore Jones, C. M. P.

COPY OF REQUISITION.

Sir, Omagh, 15th January 1835.

I WILL feel obliged by your sending a sufficient patrole of the hussars to protect the freeholders at the north and south entrances of the town.

I have the honour, &c.

To the Officer commanding the Troops at Omagh. (signed) R. M. Moore, High Sheriff.

CITY OF WATERFORD.

(ANSWERS from the Sheriff.)

Answer 1.—The conduct of the military stationed here during the late election for this city was, in my opinion, in the highest degree unexceptionable.
A. 2.—I never heard of the soldiers having in any way interfered with the freedom of election, or entered into the spirit of party, on one side or the other.
A. 3.—The military were never employed otherwise than in securing a safe approach to the poll, or by the magistrates in preserving the peace of the city; and in neither case did they act except by the order of the magistrate.

Waterford, 20th January 1835. (signed) Rob. T. Carew, Sheriff.

(ANSWERS from the Mayor.)

Answer 1.—Strictly correct.
A. 2.—I never did.
A. 3.—They were not.

20th January 1835. (signed) T. M^cCheane, Mayor of Waterford.

Sir, Dungarvan, 22d January 1835.

I BEG leave to annex on the other side an answer to the Queries you have submitted to me.

I have, &c.

Officer commanding Detachment 4th Dragoon Guards, Dungarvan. (signed) Syl. Jones, a Magistrate of Police.

Answer 1.—Very good.
A. 2 & 3.—The contest for the county terminated on the first day, by the resignation of one of the candidates. I have not heard of any of the soldiers interfering in any manner in election politics; the detachment was not employed in any escort during its cantonment at this place.—S. J.

COUNTY OF WESTMEATH.

BOROUGH OF ATHLONE.

Answer 1.—Most praiseworthy in every respect.
A. 2.—In no instance did I hear of any interference or party spirit whatever, on the part of the military.
A. 3.—The troops were not required at all for that purpose.

(signed) Rich^d Telford, Sov^n of Athlone.

COUNTY OF WEXFORD.

Answer 1.—Certainly not.

A. 2.—The troops quartered here have only been called out to escort voters to Ailigote, on their way to Wexford, on 22d, 23d and 24th instant, which was considered necessary to protect the lives of said voters in the excited state of the country, and on this morning for the purpose of releasing some voters, who we received information were forcibly detained at a place called Adamstown. I think it right to add, that nothing could be more steady and correct than the conduct of the troops while acting under my orders.

To Officer commanding 9th Lancers, Enniscorthy. — T. B. Graves, J. P. Enniscorthy, 26 January.

27th January.

Answer 1.—Steadiness, propriety and efficiency.

A. 2.—Not to my knowledge did they concern themselves at all with the elections.

A. 3.—They were employed only in escorting in safety such voters to the poll as required their assistance, and in maintaining the peace of the county under the civil authorities.

Major Slyfield, 2d B. 60 Rifles, Wexford. — (signed) Wm M. Glascott, Sheriff, Co. Wexford.

27th January.

Answer 1.—The conduct of the troops during the contested election for the county of Wexford was most exemplary, and merits the highest approbation.

A. 2.—Upon no occasion whatever was any interference evinced by the soldiers, or even a thought of entering into the spirit of one side or the other.

A. 3.—The troops were not employed otherwise.

(signed) Henry Hamilton, J.P.
Sub-Inspector of Police.

Major Slyfield.

Answer 1.—The magistrates at Gorey have had every reason to be perfectly satisfied with their conduct.

A. 2.—The magistrates never heard of the interference of the troops, nor do they believe they did in any manner interfere with the freedom of the elections.

A. 3.—The troops were employed in escorting voters to Oulart, and in no other manner; and the magistrate who went with them was perfectly satisfied with their conduct, which was peaceable, sober and attentive.

Gorey, 29th January. — (signed) Montagu Stopford, J. P.

Answer 1.—Strictly correct.

A. 2.—I never did.

A. 3.—They never were.

New Ross, 31 January. — (signed) John Roberts, C. M. of Police.

NEW ROSS BOROUGH.

Answer 1.—Excellent.

A. 2.—The soldiers did not interfere in the smallest degree with the freedom of the elections, or show the slightest party feeling.

A. 3.—No, except on the night of the 15th of January, when a company patrolled the town commanded by Major Slyfield, and accompanied by me, to prevent burning tar-barrels being carried through the streets.

(signed) G. Browne, Chief Magistrate.

ELECTIONS, (IRELAND.)

OF

CORRESPONDENCE between LIEUTENANTS of COUNTIES, DEPUTY LIEUTENANTS, and MAGISTRATES in Ireland, relative to the late ELECTIONS.

KERRY ELECTION.

COPIES of any OFFICIAL COMMUNICATIONS which have been received by the Government relative to the marching of large Bodies of People carrying Green Flags, and headed by Roman-catholic Priests, during the late ELECTIONS in the County of Kerry.

EXTRACTS from a Paper supplied by the Sub-inspector of Police for the County of Kerry, entitled, " Abstract of Cases capable of proof, in which Priestly Influence and Intimidation were used during the late Elections for the Borough of Tralee and County of Kerry."

Rev. Mr. Toomey, parish priest of Knockacapple, marched through Castle Island to Tralee, at the head of a large body of freeholders, to vote for O'Connell and Mullins.

Rev. Bat. Connor, of Kilorglin, marched into the town with a large number of freeholders; a piper was riding behind the priest.

Rev. Mr. Hampstead marched at the head of a body of freeholders from the Dingle side, with a green flag.

Rev. Mr. Healy also marched into the town at the head of parishioners, with a green flag and music.

Rev. Mr. Quill, parish priest of Miltown, came into town at the head of a body of horsemen, all decorated with green boughs; when opposite the Knight of Kerry's committee-room, the priest halted the cavalcade, took off his hat, and ordered them to cheer, &c.

County of Kerry, to wit. } THE AFFIDAVIT of James Leggett, of Tralee, in the County of Kerry, taken, and sworn before

Deponent being duly sworn on the Holy Evangelists, sayeth, that for some days previous to the election of a member for the borough of Tralee in said county, to serve in the Imperial Parliament, several companies of the peasantry came into the town, each having at their head one of their number having a little more respectability and education than the others, and stiling themselves deputations from the different parishes, with written lists of the names of the householders who had votes in the borough, in the hands of their respective leaders. Deponent swears that two or three of these deputations came into his house or shop, and asked him to give them a promise to vote for Maurice O'Connell, the candidate of their choice. This vote was not required as a matter of favour, but of justice (as they said) to the people and the country. Upon deponent's refusal he was menaced, and also threatened with exclusive dealing, and told by others that it was the intention of those persons to watch the polling at the election, and to take down in writing the name of every man that refused them his vote and voted against them; that his name should be publicly placarded upon all the chapel doors in the country as an enemy to the people and to the country. Deponent swears that the deputations that came into his house, the first was headed by a man called Jeremiah Connor, of Brandon Well, and the second by Wm. Pope, of the causeway. Deponent further swears, that pending the election for the county, on one of the days particularly, several divisions or companies of common fellows came into the town, with their hats covered or ornamented with old ribbons, and pieces of old silk and calico or cotton rags, and many of them with their persons half covered with green boughs and leaves, shouting, vociferating and yelling in a frightful manner, not only to the very great annoyance but terror to the peaceable inhabitants of the town. Deponent swears, that each of the companies or divisions above stated was headed or led by its respective parish priest on horseback, the horses' head being decorated with green boughs.

Deponent further swears, that previous to (when his intention became known how he was to dispose of his vote) and subsequently to the elections he has lost nearly the whole of his business; he has been menaced at his door by the common people passing by, and many persons still disposed from long acquaintance and dealing to deal with him still, when seen in his shop, have been actually threatened to be murdered, and others forcibly taken away when in the act of buying, and obliged to leave his house and goods after them. Mobs have passed by his house, shouting and brandishing cudgels, threatening himself, and calling out to him that they would oblige him to leave the country, meaning (for want of business), and otherwise annoying and terrifying his family.

Deponent swears that he believes that it is in consequence of the memorable proclamation of Daniel O'Connell, on the of January, to several thousands of the peasantry then assembled in the streets of this large and populous town, that he has lost his business. Deponent swears he heard the said O'Connell himself proclaim, "Mark the man that votes against you, and draw a line across his door, and let that be a wall of brass that no man can pass, and let a skull and cross-bones be painted over his door;" with many other injurious and terrible expressions too tedious to mention.

The following ADDRESS from a BROTHERHOOD CLUB was received and answered by the SECRETARY OF STATE:

TO THE KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

SIRE,

WE, the Undersigned, on behalf of ourselves and the Brotherhood Club, beg to approach Your Majesty with sentiments of the deepest gratitude for Your late glorious Declaration in favour of that Church, in the welfare and security of which consists alone the happiness of Your Empire.

We, in common with Your other loyal and faithful Subjects, deplore the vile attempts made by the enemies of our Constitution to coerce Your Royal Prerogative of choosing Your own Advisers; and, on behalf of ourselves and every true Protestant in the Empire, we tender our grateful thanks to Your most Gracious Majesty for the dismissal of Your late Councillors, and hereby express our firm determination to uphold Your Majesty in the choice of Your own Ministry.

ANSWER to the ADDRESS of the Brotherhood Club.

SIR, Whitehall, 4th February 1835.

I HAVE had the honour to lay before The King, the loyal and dutiful Address of the Brotherhood Club, on the subject of the Dismissal of His Majesty's late Ministers; which Address accompanied your letter of the 26th ultimo.

And I have the satisfaction to inform you, that His Majesty was pleased to receive the same in the most gracious manner.

I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient servant,

ADDRESS of the Stradbally Orange Lodge.

TO THE KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

WE, the undersigned, being Members of the Stradbally Orange Lodge, No. 903, feel it our duty, under present circumstances, to approach Your Majesty's Throne with renewed assurances of our unalterable attachment to Your Majesty's sacred Person, and our fixed determination to assist, if necessary, with our blood, in upholding those Prerogatives which the British Constitution has conferred upon the Sovereign.

In times when domestic treason had united with foreign enmity in assailing the Throne of these Realms, the Orangemen of Ireland were found true to their allegiance, and faithful to their King. May it please Your Majesty to accept our humble and respectful assurance, that if the time of danger shall again arrive, we will again be found at our posts, and that the affectionate loyalty which was then manifested towards Your Majesty's Royal Father, of blessed memory, has been transferred by Your Protestant Subjects to a Son, who, we thank Heaven, has proved himself worthy to succeed to the Throne of such a Father.

We thank Your Majesty for having dismissed from Your Councils the Ministers who were inimical to our Protestant Institutions, and who had allied themselves with the open and avowed enemies of our Religion, and for having placed in their stead Ministers whom we can alone depend on.

We pray that the God who has disposed Your Majesty's Heart to remember Your persecuted, but ever faithful Protestant Subjects in Ireland, may pour upon You all the blessings of His goodness, may leave You long to reign over us in health and strength, and give You the victory over all Your enemies.

ORANGE LODGES.

RETURN to an Address of The Honourable House of Commons, dated 6th March 1835;—for,

COPIES of the ADDRESSES to HIS MAJESTY of the Members of TRINITY COLLEGE ORANGE LODGE, and of the ROYAL LUTHER LODGE, No. 1483, and of the Address of the ORANGEMEN of the County of the City of Dublin, passed at a Meeting held at Merchants' Hall, on the 5th December last, and of any ANSWER or ANSWERS to said ADDRESSES; and also, COPIES of any ANSWER or ANSWERS to the ADDRESSES to HIS MAJESTY from ORANGE LODGES of the County of Down.

Whitehall,
10 March 1835.

S. M. PHILLIPPS.

TO THE KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

SIRE,

WE, the undersigned Members of the TRINITY COLLEGE GRAND DISTRICT ORANGE LODGE, beg leave most humbly to approach Your Majesty's Throne, and to offer our sincere and heartfelt thanks for the sentiments expressed in Your Majesty's late most gracious declaration, of remaining firm to those Protestant principles which placed the illustrious House of Brunswick on the Throne of these Realms.

Our confidence, as well as that of every well-wisher to our glorious Constitution and British connexion, has been re-assured by the prompt confirmation of these sentiments, given by Your Majesty's dismissal of a Ministry, from whose line of policy we had every reason to be in the highest state of alarm for the existence of those Protestant institutions and privileges which form the basis of this free and enlightened Empire.

Connected as we are with an University, founded by one of Your Majesty's most illustrious Predecessors, Queen Elizabeth, for the furtherance of the religion of the Bible and the principles of the British Constitution, we cannot but repudiate, in the strongest manner possible, the doctrine attempted to be promulgated, that the Sovereign should be subservient to the dictation of the People in the choice of His Ministers.

We cannot conclude without expressing, that although the fundamental laws of our Society, enjoining loyalty to The King and Constitution, would have impelled us to the course we are now pursuing; yet the debt of gratitude which Your Majesty's late acts in favour of the Protestants of this Country have laid us under, adds to our readiness in coming forward to support Your Majesty to the utmost of our power with our lives and properties in the constitutional exercise of Your Majesty's just prerogative.

ANSWER to the foregoing ADDRESS of the Members of the TRINITY COLLEGE GRAND DISTRICT ORANGE LODGE.

Sir, Whitehall, January 16, 1835.

I HAVE had the honour to lay before The King the loyal and dutiful Address signed by you, and several other gentlemen of Dublin, "expressive of their thanks for His Majesty's late most salutary exercise of His Royal prerogative," which Address accompanied your Letter of the 10th instant.

And I have the satisfaction to inform you, that His Majesty was pleased to receive the same in the most gracious manner.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,

TO THE KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

SIRE,

WE, the undersigned, being Members of the ROYAL LUTHER LODGE, No. 1483, County of Dublin, attached to the Orange Institution of Ireland, beg leave most humbly to lay at the foot of the Throne our sincere and heartfelt acknowledgments for the gracious declaration of Your Majesty's fixed determination to uphold the Protestant Institutions of this Country, and of acting strictly up to those principles which placed these Realms beneath the benignant sway of the illustrious House of Brunswick.

We beg also to express the renewed confidence which we, as well as every well-wisher of our glorious Constitution and British connexion, have received by Your Majesty's late prompt and decided confirmation of those sentiments, in dismissing from Your Majesty's councils Ministers, from whose line of policy we had every reason to be in the highest state of alarm for the permanence of those privileges and institutions in which the integrity of the Empire consists, and that we shall ever be ready with our properties and lives to rally round the Throne in support of Your Majesty's just prerogatives.

Sir, Whitehall, December 18, 1834.

I HAVE had the honour to lay before The King the loyal and dutiful Address from the individuals whose names are attached thereto, which accompanied your Letter of the 13th instant.

And I have the satisfaction to inform you, that His Majesty was pleased to receive the same in the most gracious manner.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,

TO THE KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

SIRE,

WE, the undersigned, being Masters, Deputy Masters and Officers of the several ORANGE LODGES of the City of Dublin, forming the Grand Lodge thereof, beg leave to approach Your Majesty with all that warm attachment to Your Royal Person for which, as Orangemen, we have been ever characterized.

We hereby reiterate our attachment to those Protestant principles which, under God, placed Your Majesty's illustrious Family on the Throne of these Realms.

We humbly offer our most sincere thanks to Your Majesty for Your gracious and Christian declaration in favour of the Church which we, as loyal subjects, are determined to maintain through evil and good report.

We further beg leave to express our deep-felt gratitude for the exercise of the Royal prerogative, which, as the Father of Your People, You have acted on in the dismissal of Your late revolutionary Ministers.

In humble confidence that the Almighty will vouchsafe to Your Majesty a long and happy Reign for the maintenance of those institutions established by Your Predecessor of glorious memory, and that Your Majesty will follow in the footsteps of Your late most illustrious Father in the support of the remnant of our once incomparable (and we had hoped immortal) Constitution in Church and State. And we are, Sire,

Your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects.

LETTER from the Adjutant-general to the Deputy Secretary-at-War, dated 20 July 1835.

SIR, Horse Guards, 20 July 1835.

BY Lord Hill's desire, and in compliance with the Order of The House of Commons, which accompanied your letter of the 18th instant, I have now the honour herewith to transmit the accompanying copies of two circular letters issued by order of the Commander-in-Chief, prohibiting the formation of Orange Lodges in the army; and copies of a correspondence with the Officer commanding the 4th Dragoon Guards, in consequence of some men of that regiment having attended an Orange Lodge at Cork.

CIRCULAR Letter from the Adjutant-general, dated 1 July 1822.

Sir, Horse Guards, 1 July 1822.

REPORTS having reached the Commander-in-Chief that measures are taking in some regiments to promote the establishment of Orange Lodges, and that in certain instances commanding officers have been solicited to permit soldiers to receive diplomas for holding such Lodges, His Royal Highness desires that you will state, for His Royal Highness's information, whether any attempt of this description has been made in the regiment under your command, as His Royal Highness cannot too strongly reprobate a practice so fraught with injury to the discipline of the Army.

Addressed to Officers commanding regiments of Cavalry and Infantry at Home and Abroad (East Indies excepted).

I have, &c.

— No. 3. —

(Confidential.)

CIRCULAR Letter from the Adjutant-general, dated 14 November 1829.

Sir, Horse Guards, 14 November 1829.

Addressed to Commanding Officers of Regiments and Depôts, and to General and other Officers on the Staff, at Home and Abroad.

In consequence of circumstances which have recently come to the knowledge of the General Commanding-in-Chief, his Lordship has directed me to transmit to you a duplicate of the circular issued on the 1st July 1822, by His late Royal Highness the Duke of York, and to call your attention to the necessity of strict conformity to it, and of the exercise of the utmost vigilance on your part, to prevent the introduction, or the existence, in the regiment under your command, of the practice therein adverted to, and which was so justly reprobated by His Royal Highness as "fraught with injury to the discipline of the Army."

In making any inquiry with a view to ascertain whether any Orange Lodges have been made in the regiment under your command, you will cause it to be clearly understood by the men, that the investigation has become necessary on military grounds, and that they will not be exposed to any reflection or disgrace on account of being Orangemen, but that their meetings being contrary to order, and to the rules of the service, cannot be permitted, under any pretence. Finally, that their disregard of this caution will subject them to trial and punishment for disobedience of orders.

I have, &c.

(signed) H. Taylor, Adjutant-general.

LETTER from the Adjutant-general to the Officer Commanding the 4th Dragoon Guards, dated 19 May 1835.

Sir, Horse Guards, 19 May 1835.

In transmitting to you the enclosed extract of a letter from Lieut.-general Sir Hussey Vivian, respecting a meeting, which it appears took place at the Cumberland Rooms, Cork, on the evening of the 1st instant, and at which certain non-commissioned officers and men of the 4th Dragoon Guards attended; I have it in command to signify Lord Hill's desire, that you will explain fully, for his Lordship's consideration, the circumstances alluded to in the before-mentioned extract, namely, the extraordinary ignorance manifested by the non-commissioned officers of the 4th Dragoon Guards, of the spirit of the circular letter dated 1st July 1822, and the neglect of those precautionary measures, which with reference to the above letter were so recently pointed out in a communication made to you on the 5th September last.

I have, &c.

(signed) John Macdonald, Adjutant-general.

— No. 5. —

LETTER from Major Makepeace, 4th Dragoon Guards, to the Adjutant-general, dated 22 May 1835.

Sir, Brighton Barracks, 22 May 1835.

I have to acknowledge the receipt, by this morning's mail, of your letter of the 19th instant, enclosing an extract of a communication from Lieutenant-general Sir Hussey Vivian, respecting a meeting at Cork, which certain non-commissioned officers and men of the regiment under my command attended, and have the honour to acquaint you, agreeably to General Lord Hill's desire, that I feel there is some difficulty in fully accounting for the extraordinary ignorance manifested by the said men, of the circular letter of the 1st July 1822. It might have arisen from a misconception, or a want of sufficient explanation of the same; or from the object of the meeting in question, viz. a farewell treat upon the occasion of the regiment leaving their late quarters, when no business having reference to Orange or party purposes was transacted.

This ignorance, or the probability of its ever being advanced in defence of such conduct again, will, I have every reason to hope, be obviated by the steps which I have taken, namely, by assembling and fully pointing out, in the strongest manner to the troops stationed at this quarter, and directing the officers in command at the out-stations to do the same, the disobedience of orders which they will hereafter be guilty of, and the certain punishment which will await any repetition of a practice so injurious to the discipline of the army.

With respect to the communication of the 5th of September last, it appears by reference to the letter-book, that, in answer to the inquiries then made by Lieutenant-colonel Chatterton, "he could not ascertain that any dragoon attended any of the meetings in question."

I take leave further to remark, that I have particularly called the attention of the non-commissioned officers to the necessity of immediately reporting to the adjutant, for the information of the commanding officer, any dragoon who may hereafter be known to visit (or suspected of doing so) any house or room set apart for party or political meetings, or in any other way offending against the spirit of the order of the 1st of July 1822.

I am, &c.
(signed) Charles Makepeace,
Major 4th Dragoon Guards.

LETTER from Lieutenant-colonel Turner, to the Officer commanding the Troops at Cork, dated 5 September 1834.

Sir, Assistant Adjutant-general's Office, Cork, 5 September 1834.

I AM directed by Major-general Sir Thomas Arbuthnot to send you the enclosed letter taken from one of the Cork papers, with a request that you will be pleased to make every inquiry on the subject, and make a report to me for his information accordingly.

Sir Thomas Arbuthnot further requests, that you will be pleased to adopt such measures as may enable you from time to time to ascertain if the soldiers under your command attend Orange lodges, in direct opposition to the circular letter dated Horse Guards, 1st July 1822, or other clubs of a political nature.

See page 380 of the Addenda to the General Regulations and Orders of the Army.

I have, &c.

LETTER signed "Martinet" to Major-general Sir Thomas Arbuthnot, K.C.B.

Sir,

I AM a man in business in the city of Cork. It would not serve me to make a personal communication to you; I therefore take this method of informing you, that several of the soldiers of the regiments now in the Cork garrison, as well as some artillery soldiers from Ballincollig, are in the habit of attending the Orange Lodge Rooms in Faulkner's-lane. When my Lord Roden was last in Cork, some of those men issued from the lodge room with Orange badges, close in the rear of his lordship. No later than yesterday (Wednesday), some of the leading Orangemen of Cork held a meeting at Faulkner's-lane, where some soldiers were seen retiring with their brother Orangemen. This being a secret society, soldiers ought not to be allowed to attend. The grand master or secretary would probably furnish you, sir, with the names of the soldiers so attending, and I shall only look to future meetings to know if this communication has had any effect in checking what I consider a very great evil.

Your obedient servant,
Martinet.

— No. 8. —

LETTER from Lieutenant-colonel Chatterton, to the Adjutant-general, dated 1 June 1835.

Sir, Brighton, 1 June 1835.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge your letter of the 26th ultimo and its enclosure, and beg in reply to state, that as I conceived the circular letter of the 1st June 1822 alluded more particularly to "the establishment of Orange Lodges in regiments," ments," and as I was persuaded such never existed in the regiment under my command, the circular in question was not promulgated generally amongst the men.

As regards the communication made to me on the 5th September last, it related to an assembly held about that time of Orangemen in Cork. I then made every inquiry, and ascertained none of the 4th dragoon guards attended the meeting in question.

I certainly was not aware there were so many Orangemen in the 4th dragoon guards, as has since been ascertained; but measures have now been taken to prevent any of the dragoons attending meetings which have any tendency to party.

I have, &c.

Terence M'Mahan, Sworn.—Is a pensioner from 1st regiment; recollects the 15th instant; lives in Tullygariff, county Armagh; on that day, about three o'clock afternoon, a large body of people assembled before his house; might be 100. His house was attacked by the mob. Witness had his house closed before it was broke. Witness remained in his house, and the mob came in, having broke the door open with stones, and broke and smashed his goods, and assaulted himself with sticks and stones. They took a firelock from him, pulled the cock out of his beer-barrel, and let the beer run out. Witness keeps a public-house. They assigned no reason; kept no noise; came up quietly; gave no reason for striking him; thinks about a dozen entered his house. Witness does not know any of them in the house or in the crowd; were all strangers. It was Thomas M'Cready saved him in the house; was there all the time, and got blows himself. He lives under William Conn; saw no arms with the party. The house is new; there was an old house there before. Witness cannot assign any reason for the attack on him. Witness keeps no meetings in his house; saw no marks to distinguish the mob to belong to any particular party; saw a man ride by in the morning with orange colours. M'Cready, who was in the house when he was beating, said he was an Orangeman, and they required a sign; a sign was given; his wife's people live over the cellar. Knows Mawhinney; heard of him being beat near his house. Witness heard it allowed that the men who beat Mawhinney came out of his (witness's) house; thinks the men who attacked his house was at the chairing of Colonel Verner; can't swear they are the party. Witness was told by Mr. Oldpherts a magistrate, some time ago, not to keep his house open late at night; on the night Mawhinny was beat a party was in his house; some might have went out; but were in the house when he heard Mawhinny was beat. Knows a man called M'Cutcheon; does not recollect hearing of him being beat. People were in his house on Christmas night; knows people charged for beating Mawhinny; some of them might be in his house that night; it might be in consequence of Mawhinny being beat that his house was attacked; the men charged for beating Mawhinny live in Annahagh, where the houses were burned.

Thomas M'Cready, Sworn.—Is a nailor; lives at Tullygariff; recollects the 15th instant; was in Terence M'Mahon's house, who is a publican; saw his house and goods smashed by a number of people. Witness was sitting in the house at the time; thinks about three or four o'clock. Witness shut up M'Mahon's house, having heard it would be broke from the crowd; but does not know one of them; the mob asked witness was he an Orangeman, but kept silent and broke away all before them. Witness gave them no sign, but they continued beating him; can't tell what description of party they belonged; thinks they were no Orangemen, or they would not have beat him; thinks they were heathens; the door was locked when attacked; thinks all strangers; about 100 persons; saw a man on a grey horse; horse; does not know him; it was through the key-hole he saw him; can't give a reason for being broke, unless that Glass's house was broken. Witness was there when Glass's house was broke. Witness saw M'Cutcheon beat at Glass's house when attacked, but does not know who wrecked the house, but heard them shout Garryowen; thinks the Catholic party who wrecked Glass's house.

Thomas Vaghey, Sworn.—Lives in Tullygoonigan; recollects the 15th instant; knows Terence M'Mahan's house. Witness lives opposite; saw a body of people pass by; saw no arms with them; heard no shots from them; saw them break Terence Garvey's windows. Garvey is a Catholic, and so is M'Mahan. Witness is a Protestant; saw M'Mahan's house a-breaking, and does not know one man of them do so, or any reason; never heard of any cause being assigned; supposes they were Protestants who broke the houses; saw colours with one man, but does not know his name. Knows of Mawhinny being beat; was about 100 yards from M'Mahan's; can't say they were Orangemen; remembers Christmas night last; knows of M'Cutcheon being beat at Glass's house.

John M'Veigh, Sworn.—Lives in Alistra; works for M'Bride; remembers night of 15th instant; saw a number, about 26 persons, on the road, who said they would burn M'Bride's mill, and kiln, and barn; said they would get a rope to hang the Pope, pish holy water. Witness's son, James M'Veigh, went out on the road, and they attacked him. Witness did not know one of them; but his wife having gone to relieve the child, was attacked, and knocked down and kicked; one of them hit witness with a stick across the head; swore he would put two heads upon him; they attacked his house and broke his windows; thinks they were Protestants. Mr. M'Bride goes to meeting, and witness is a Roman-catholic. Witness had no quarrel with any person. Mr. M'Bride had discharged some men from his employment. Witness does not fill that situation; it is filled by Smith. Barr was discharged for getting great with a woman; heard Barr was a quarrelling man, and Mr. M'Bride disliked him on that account.

William Cardwell M'Bride, Sworn.—Lives in Alister; on the evening of the 16th went to accompany Gilbert Veikey past M'Mahon's house, as he was afraid; heard a report of large assembly of people in Annahagh. Witness went up to see; went to Pat Hughes's; saw about 20 persons in the house armed; saw one firelock, pitchfork, and the like. Witness asked what they were assembled for, and they said, in their own defence, as they were afraid of the Orangemen attacking them, as they were threatened. Witness requested them to stop in the house; it was about six o'clock in the evening; said they were threatened by the Killyman Orangemen. Witness went home, and was awoke about two o'clock next morning by about six persons; John Richardson, Bernard Hagan, Robert Sloan, Rennison; they stated a number of persons were collecting in Kinnego, and desired witness to go with them for the military; they said drums were beating and shots firing; said the Orange party were assembling at Kinnego, and it was the Catholic party at Hughes's, in Annahagh. Witness's father went into Armagh for the military. Witness heard the music play at Kinnego; cannot say he could identify any of those at Hughes's house; at about the time he was raised, he heard bells ringing at Loughall, thinks to alarm the people; heard of bells being rung at Moy; first witness heard that the Catholics were to attack the Protestants, but at Hughes's heard the contrary; heard of some people remove for self-defence; saw a number of Protestants in John Sloan's house, William was there; thinks six or seven were in John Sloan's house; had a gun; this was the evening of the 16th; said they were assembled to protect themselves. A number of Protestants and Catholics came to his father's house for protection. Patrick Hughes and Bernard Hagan informed witness that the catholic party had travelled up to Wholestone, to the house of — Sloan, with the intention of relieving those assembled in John Sloan's, viz. the Protestants, from any apprehensions of danger; this was about nine o'clock at night of the 16th instant; heard, when M'Mahon's house was breaking, the party said, this was for the beating of Mawhinny. Heard of Glass's house being broke; heard the Catholic party committed this outrage.

Robert M'Bride, Sworn.—Saith that he invited Mrs. Glass and family to his house for protection. Witness was informed by Bernard Hagan that drums were beating, bells ringing, and the two parties firing at others through the bog; they requested some person to go for the military. Witness went to Armagh for the military, and heard there were hundreds on each side. Witness did not get the military nor police, Captain Henry thinking his forces were too small. Witness heard shots after he returned, in the direction of Annahagh and Kennigo, thinks eight or ten shots; he heard the firing and parties increased. Heard reports from Thomas Glass's, that they were assembling and huzzaing; heard this about 10 o'clock before going to bed. During Friday the country appeared excited. Has heard that people have been beat about it, and that parties of people do assemble there, and that at M'Mahon's house.

Sarah M'Mahan, Wife of Terence M'Mahan, Sworn.—Recollects the 15th instant; saw a large assembly of persons before the door, who threw stones and broke the door. Witness hid under the counter; can't say there was much noise in the house, or many words spoken. Thomas M'Cready was in the house; one or two men told them the house would be broken; the windows were shut up. Witness does not know a man of them. Witness said nothing, as she was afraid.

SECOND DAY, 29th January 1835.

James Williamson, Sworn.—Recollects evening of 15th instant; was returning home from Armagh; left that about three or four o'clock; had got a piece down on the Moss Road; heard about seven shots fired from Annahagh. Saw men upon Annahagh-hill; thinks 20 or 30; saw two guns with them; might be 100 yards from witness; heard shouting. A number of about 50 persons was on the road with witness, rather before him; some of this party were shouting; were all Protestants unless one. Heard no shouting from his party till shots were fired from Annahagh; no shots were fired from his party. Witness was injured, but can't say how. Witness heard of a number of his party being wounded; could be wounded without his knowledge. Witness was beat about 100 yards below Annahagh, and party separated from him; his brother was with him when beat; thinks about four persons were beating witness; the men came out of the Moss who beat him. About two or three of witness's party were standing convenient to him when beat, but was afraid to come forward, as firing was going on. The men who beat witness came from opposite direction to Annahagh, from Grange side; a number of persons were coming after witness, at a distance, when he was beat. The men coming with witness were Samuel Williamson, Robert Miller; they were quiet. Witness was coming home from chairing Colonel Verner. M'Mahan's house was racked before he came that far. Witness had passed that house before he was beat; did not apply to a magistrate, as he could not identify any person; saw his brother get a blow. A doctor attended witness, who thought he would not live; witness's brother was more beat than he. Witness came into Armagh as a private individual; received no orders to come.

John Williamson, Sworn.—Is brother of last witness; lives in Derryscollap. He and about 20 of his neighbours went to Armagh by Loughgall; they were Orangemen and Protestants, as he believes, but is no Orangeman himself. They travelled in a body, had music, but no colours; can't say what tunes were played; was returning from Armagh without music; thinks might be 50 or 60 with him; some were before him and party. Had travelled about two miles from Armagh before he heard shots fired; heard about six shots fired; were from a hill (hill of Annahagh); saw about 50 or 60 persons on the hill. Witness had passed M'Mahan's house before he heard shots fired; saw it had been racked. Those on the road run when shots were fired; the party before his party might be a mile down the road when he was attacked from party from the hill; saw one gun with them. Witness's brother was behind his party when beat; witness thinks 12 persons might be beating him and brother; they came from the bog on opposite side of the road from Annahagh, and joined the party beating witness and brother; might be 20 yards behind him when beat. Witness was severely wounded and beaten by the party, and thrown into a bog-hole; required two doctors to attend him; did not apply to a magistrate, as he could not identify any person, but thinks were from the hill where houses are burned, and was not a quarter of a mile from where witness was beat. Doctors thought he could not live two days. A woman saved him by taking him out of the hole.

John Sinclair, Sworn.—Lives in Kinnery; remembers the 15th instant; was in Armagh; was returning with about seven more about four o'clock in the evening. Thomas Sinclair, Simon Sinclair, Robert Cherry, Robert Martin, Martin Verner, Samuel Corrigan and William Kilpatrick were with him, all on horseback. Got as far as M'Mahan's house; some persons came out and pointed out what was done; by this time it was racked. M'Mahan came out first. They pulled up, and a man said, "Mr. Sinclair, this is a gratifying sight to you;" Mrs. Corr remarked that it was not. A little farther, when going on, a man called Patrick Cullen caught hold the reins of Thomas Sinclair's horse, and warned him not to go farther that way, or his life would be taken, as he said he thought 700 or upwards were on the Bog-road, armed, and wanted witness and party to return, and go Blackwatertown-road. Witness and party proceeded on the Bog-road, and separated one before the other, as witness thought better not to be all together if attacked. Witness saw a number of persons on the left side (Annahagh side), about 50 or 60; did not see arms, as it was rather dark; saw like the flash of a gun-pan; heard shots fired; saw men on the right hand. Witness was struck by a man on right hand, who had a weapon like a pitchfork-shaft. Witness and party went on; thinks he heard two shots fired rather before him. Witness was a friend of Colonel Verner's; heard no drums or music on the road at the time. Patrick Cullen is a Catholic, and thinks he said the men on the road were of his own persuasion.

Thomas Sinclair, Sworn.—Remembers 15th instant; was in Armagh with his brother, the last witness. Left Armagh about four o'clock or after, with the persons above-named, being altogether about eight or nine together. When they came so far as M'Mahan's, M'Mahan came out, and Mrs. Corr, his neighbour, who had got her windows broke. A man came up and said to witness that it was a gratifying sight for him to see that, meaning the house being racked; and witness replied, not; that he was sorry to see it. Mrs. Corr and M'Mahan remarked, that if witness and his brother had been up at the time it would not have happened, meaning the racking of the houses. From what witness can hear, thinks it was the Orange party broke the houses. Witness and party remained for some time; and after going a little farther down the Bog-road, Nicholas Cullen stopped witness's horse, and told him not to go on further, but to return and go by Blackwatertown, as about 700 of his own persuasion (he being a Roman-catholic) were assembled with arms. Witness and party went on; witness went first. Saw Martin Verner, one of his party, pass him in a great hurry with his hat off, and said his shoulder was dislocated by an assault. Witness before that saw a party on his left hand (at Annahagh); saw the flash of several pans of guns among them: afterwards heard shots from same party, about two or three shots. Witness knows there has been much bad feeling in his neighbourhood since Armagh races, as Protestnats were beat at them. Thinks M'Mahan's house was broken by way of retaliation for Glass's house being broke, and M'Cutcheon and Mawhinny's being beat; heard the like reports. Thinks that parties travelling in procession, and party tunes playing, are sufficient to excite angry feelings; thinks that M'Mahan's house being racked was the cause of the attack on him and party. Hears from reports that Catholics were displeased from being abused at Clontilew, and that Protestants complained since Blackwater-town races, which was before Clontilew, being beat there: often heard of attacks on that road; witness was attacked coming from last general election. Conceives Armagh races were the commencement of the disturbances in the country, and that his influence was instrumental of tranquillizing his neighbourhood. Thinks it was the beating of the Protestants at Armagh races which was the commencement of the disturbances. Thinks if M'Mahan's house had not been racked, no shots would have been fired at witness and party; did not hear of music being on the road that night. A friend of his, a Protestant, was beat at Clontilew races; it was not exclusively the Catholics who were beat at Clontilew.

Nicholas Cullen, Sworn.—Lives in Annahagh. Recollects the 15th instant; remembers meeting Mr. Thomas Sinclair. Witness desired him to go back, for fear he should be hurt, as a crowd was on the road before them with arms. Witness saw arms with them; can't say how many arms; does not remember what number of persons he told Mr. Sinclair were collected; saw them firing shots. Hughes's house was broken before that. Witness thinks what made them assemble on his side was M'Mahan's house being broken, and the racking party going towards Hughes's house. Six or seven of witness's party gathered on Annahagh-hill, and watched the other party; and when they came up towards Hughes's house, witness and party went off. When they heard of M'Mahan's and Hughes's houses being racked, the people collected and fired at them. Heard it allowed it was Orangemen who racked the houses, and Catholics who assembled with witness. Thinks about 40 men came from M'Mahan's to Hughes's; heard that the reason of attacking Hughes's house was that his son is charged with beating Mawhinny, and that M'Mahan's house was injured in consequence of the persons who beat Mawhinny having came out of it. Saw no Catholics assembled that day until Hughes's house was broken. The Catholics shouted murder in Annahagh, and gathered and chased the Protestant party. Does not know one of the Protestant party; knows Hughes and Michael Mackey to be of the party protecting the houses in Annahagh.

Patrick Hughes, Sworn.—Lives in Annahagh; recollects 15th instant. Knows M'Mahan the pensioner; saw a crowd at his house: was not down at it; was in his own field, but no crowd was there. A crowd came up towards his, witness's, house; might be 200 or 300. There was a man on horseback, who said to the crowd, "Top the hill and spread." A number of them run to witness's house, and one came in and asked for his gun; witness said he had no gun, and he then caught witness and assaulted him; another man broke his windows. Thinks they were of Orange party, as they called out for the Pope. Witness's house was searched for the gun. Saw no crowd on the hill (meaning Roman-catholics) until windows were broke, and then about 12 persons assembled of the neighbours. Shots were fired, thinks by the party protecting the houses, and drove the others off; does not know one of the party who came to destroy the houses. His son was knocked down, but can't say by whom. Witness went to Mr. Barnes, a magistrate in Armagh, to bring out the police, on Friday the 16th, having heard from Mrs. Veikey that the townland was going to be destroyed. On Friday night, some of his neighbours assembled in his house for protection; witness was not there, and can't say how many was there; did not hear of a challenge being sent to Orange party to fight them. About 10 o'clock on morning of 17th, heard drums beating towards Charlemont. Witness went for the police to Armagh; left home about nine or ten o'clock; went to Mr. Dobbin and then to Mr. Barnes, magistrates; the police were under arms; did not go out with police, but when he went home house was burned. Says the police came to his house to look for one of his sons for beating Mawhinny, about four days after Mawhinny was beat.

Patrick Hughes, junior, Sworn.—Recollects 15th instant, when M'Mahan's house was racked; saw it racked by a large party of people, thinks, the men who were chairing Mr. Verner. John Mackle and about six or seven were with witness; a party came up towards the hill; one man on horseback said, "Go to the top of the hill and spread;" and party of them attacked the houses out of the face. Witness was knocked down; stones were throwing in all directions. Heard the Williamsons were of the party, but can't identify any of them. After houses were attacked, a number of the neighbours gathered, and with arms chased the party off. John Hughes had a gun, Peter M'Kinley had a gun; witness and party were about 12, and thinks had only two guns; knows no reason for breaking the houses, only because they belonged to Catholics. Heard of Mawhinney being beat; some of witness's family is charged for beating him. Heard that Mr. Sinclair was attacked; heard a party was assembled at the Bog, besides those on Annahagh-hill, at the houses.

houses. Witness and party pursued the other party down the hill, and saw some of them beat; can't say Williamson was one of them. Did not hear himself or party cry out for Kinnigo boys, or Orange party. On Friday, the 16th, a body assembled; many had arms; might be 200 men or upwards; thinks they were not Orangemen, might be strangers; had pitchforks, bayonets and sticks; they went off that night; they came to Annahagh from five to nine o'clock that evening, to protect the houses. On Saturday morning, when party came to burn the houses, they fired shots at Annahagh, and those in the Townland fled. Thinks if the large party had remained in Annahagh, no houses would have been burned; the party left Annahagh on night of 16th, at request of Mr. M'Bride. Saw a mounted policeman coming up the Bog-road on Saturday morning, when houses were on fire. Could not say how many guns were in Annahagh; hears a gun was presented at policeman; witness told them to let the man go on. Witness's brother was taken for the beating of Mawhinney, about a week after the beating.

THIRD DAY.—30th January 1835.

Joseph M'Millan, Sworn.—Lives in Charlemont; is borough constable for Charlemont; remembers the 15th. On leaving Armagh, near the Whole Stone, he was stopped by a number of people, who told him to go no further for fear of their lives; with this persuasion witness stopped in John Sloan's house until the morning of the 16th, at five o'clock, or after; when going on towards Charlemont, nearly opposite Annoha, opposite Patt Hughes', heard a whistle, and a shout "Come on, boys, here they are; guns to the front." Witness saw a large party, upwards of 50, as he thinks. Witness and party turned into Nicholas Collins' house for sake of preservation; John Holmes, Sarah M'Cone, and witness, who were with him; Joseph Anderson, James Smith, S. Frezill, were in Sloan's house also; the latter did not go into Collins' house, but went on; persons pursued them; came out of Hughes' house; one had a spade; struck John Holmes in witness's presence with same, and damned his soul that none of Verner's men should come that road. The same man struck Holmes frequently. Another man ran at witness with a pitchfork; struck witness on his little finger. Witness thought right to make away; three men followed him. Witness took to the left, through the bog; one of them, whom he knows, struck witness with a spade, and knocked him down into a hole; the man made off, and witness got out and came to the cross roads leading to Blackwater-town. Witness saw as he thinks, six guns with the party. Witness heard two shots quite convenient to him; saw no bayonets; the man who struck Holmes with the spade had also a short gun, which he placed between his legs until he struck Holmes. Thinks men so assembled are the Catholic party, because they cried out against Verner's men; did not go before a magistrate; had to billet soldiers; attended an investigation in Charlemont; and his trade, to support a small family; did not hear until Saturday about Hughes' house being racked and burned. Witness saw Holmes since, and he is much injured, and not able to go out to pass informations. He also lives in Moy, county Tyrone. Witness, on the 19th, was before Mr. Olpherts, a magistrate of the county of Armagh, and did not represent this cause, as it was an investigation about men who had arms. Witness told many persons that he intended to summon them in the usual way; thought he would have to do so; hears that —— Cullen and —— Johnston were beat, who live in Moy; they are Protestants.

William Byers, Sworn.—Lives in Charlemont; is portreeve; saw a great many people pass through Charlemont on the 15th, to see Colonel Verner chaired. On Saturday, 17th, also saw a mixed multitude pass through; some had arms and music; came from Moy side; were all strangers, men, women and children; knew none of them; the county was all alarmed. Witness called upon the commanding officer in Charlemont to send out a piquet. Witness got six civilians and the two constables of the town to patrol with arms; the police took them up in the town with their arms, and an investigation was had into the case, when the men were acquitted, but arms detained. The men were kept in custody from about five o'clock in the morning to nine o'clock at night; were taken up within Mr. Byers' jurisdiction, and got a good character; heard they were not very well treated. Witness made application on their behalf; they were liberated at about nine o'clock at night. Two houses were set fire to on Saturday night, 17th, in Charlemont, belonging to Mrs. Lawson; a tenant was in the house, who is a Catholic; does not know who set them on fire; she is a Protestant dissenter; disorderly persons were in Charlemont on Sunday. Mr. Marten having gone securely. Witness did not know any police being in town when constables were appointed, and when men were in custody. Witness says, he had appointed; knows —— Miles, —— Wilson, —— Reilly; thinks are yeomen. Colonel Story rather consented to his appointing the constables; and at the recommendation of the town constables appointed three others. Witness heard they went out of town to protect Mr. Smith going out of the town, who, it appeared, had been threatened.

Peter Cullen, conveying the Mail from Armagh to Loughgall, Sworn.—On the 17th instant heard shots firing in the morning about five or six o'clock, in and about the bog, near Anahegh, Grange, Kinnigo, &c. &c.; saw about five men standing in a lane which goes up to Kinnigo; saw no arms with them; saw guns firing in Kinnego, and from all parts of the country from Annahagh, which might be about one-fourth of a mile distant; heard of the Williamsons being shot; the people appeared on their watch, and in great alarm; bullets passed witness from both sides, and he thought right to take into the county for safety.

Sir Frederick Stoven, Sworn.—On Friday the 16th was at Dungannon; reports reached him that two men were shot, and others beaten. Witness heard that there was no police in Armagh, or convenient. Witness thought, if true, Mr. Henry of Armagh would have informed witness, and witness wrote to Mr. Henry to inform witness of the transaction. [Captain Henry's letter read]; and on the morning of the 17th got another, informing witness that 300 Catholics, and as many and more Protestants were assembled, that bells were ringing, and that no force was convenient, the General being at Newry. Witness sent eight men to Charlemont. Witness went to Colonel Story at Charlemont, and he said he would lend his force. Mr. Oldphert attended the very time witness was in the fort; a barrel and half of gunpowder was taken out of the store by Mr. Cardwell, a merchant and vender, accompanied by the late permanent sergeant; this was about 12 o'clock in the day. The magistrates, witness, and force, paraded to the bog; on the nearest bog saw a number of men loosely together with arms. Witness and party paraded on the road, and they proceeded to Kinnigo-hill and got into line, and witness computes them at least 150 men; they took up a position on the hill; there are four roads just under the hill. On the opposite side, at Anahagh, witness observed seven cabins on fire, which covered nearly half a mile; while witness was looking M'Mullen came down as the ambassador from this 150 men; he said, "Mr. Oldpherts these poor fellows are defending themselves;" and said, "We were all beaten the night before," and that there were numbers on the other side of the hill. Witness replied, "I see no people;" M'Mullen said, "They are behind the hill;" and witness said, "Look there," meaning at the houses burned. Witness said, "You have arms in your hands;" M'Mullen said, "O, sir, we were all beat the night before." Witness said, "Why did you not go to a magistrate?" and M'Mullen said, "We'll manage our own affairs." Witness said, "These men on Kinnigo-hill must leave that." Witness consulted Mr. Oldpherts, and they thought that if making an attempt to caption, blood must be shed. M'Mullen said 1000 Catholics were behind the hill, and if he would get them to disperse, they would disperse. Witness said, "The military must remain where they are until all are dispersed." Witness and Mr. Oldphert went to look along the road, and could not see them; saw about six or so under arms at Annahagh; Hughes told Mr. Oldphert, "You might have prevented all this if you wished, for you knew it." This Hughes is under bail for beating Mawhinney. They went on to Mr. M'Mahon's house, and saw nothing. Witness and he came back to the police, and saw that the men on Kinnigo-hill was gone; sent up police to see, who said they saw them marching in order, with guns sloped, and bayonets and no belts, towards Loughgall; supposes yeomanry arms, because there were bayonets. A constable from Charlemont, named Kilpatrick, told witness the party were gone, but that the papist rascals had not got half enough of it, the papist rascals. I (witness and party) thought it impossible to save the houses on fire; heard there was 1,500 rounds of cartridge made up in Loughgall the day before; heard Jacksons had sold all the gunpowder they had had. Witness was returning home, and as no police were there, Mr. O. and military were to patrol. When witness got to Moy bridge, saw a party in Moy armed; heard a shot fired. Witness returned and met military, and came into Charlemont too late, as the party had gone towards Loughgall. Witness got the military placed across the road to prevent party coming from Moy; the party marched out of Moy with drums, &c. &c., towards Killyman or Dungannon; the armed party at Kinnigo might be 500 yards from the burning; has no proof of Kinnigo party being the burning party.

Henry Osbourne, Sub-constable.—Was sent on command, on Saturday the 17th instant, by Captain Duff, from Dungannon to Charlemont, and thence to Armagh. When witness got about two miles from Charlemont, at the Cross-roads, then about half-past ten, saw a party under arms, they were firing shots every way: they were ordered to stop firing. Thinks might be 300; were all armed with carbines and muskets; they were calling out for Verner, and one man said they were only protecting themselves, and wished witness good speed. Saw, some distance above the Cross-roads, a smoke beginning to rise as if on fire; saw 13 or 14 men coming from it towards the body of men at Cross-roads, some of them had arms. House might be three or four perches from the party at Cross-roads; saw no colours or drums with any of them. Witness went on to where two houses are, about half a mile or three quarters from the first party, and saw a number assembled in a field, about 50; some had arms, bad description of arms, like old muskets and bayonets, &c.; might be 30 stand; about 10 or 12 of them levelled their guns at witness, and ordered him to stand or they would shoot him. Some of them had bayonets on poles and pitchforks. Witness asked what they wanted; a man appearing at their head, asked witness where he was from; witness said from Dungannon; they said, if he belonged to Armagh they would have shot him, because police did not come to them. One of them said, Shoot him any way, he belonged to the police; but as he was not, they would only ask him to look at what was done and to report it to the gentlemen in Armagh, and get them some protection. Witness turned up into the lane, and saw a second house in flames, thinks two houses under roof. A man said that as he was a policeman, he was as bad as those that burned the houses, and ought to be killed, and with this raised a musket at witness, witness then put his hand to his pistol; another man came up and caught hold of the musket, and said witness should not be annoyed, as he was on his duty; the latter man asked witness would he represent it to the gentlemen, gentlemen, and witness said he would, and went off. Saw different crowds of people on the road between that and Armagh; some said he was too late, and that police did not care about them, being their own sort; others said, Go on. Were generally all men, and not women. The first party he saw at the Cross-roads offered witness no opposition; they appeared to be firing up in the air, and not at any person; did not think they were ball cartridge, from the sound.

George Rolland, Captain Royal Artillery, stationed at Charlemont, Sworn.—On Friday the 16th, heard a person say, that a party of people, coming from the chairing the evening before, had been attacked at the far end of the bog, and that nine persons had been wounded; heard of the racking of M'Mahon's house; that horns had been blowing through the country to assemble the people, and that persons on this side of the bog had armed themselves; heard that persons had gone from Charlemont to Moy, on Thursday night the 15th, armed. On leaving Moy to go to the fort in Charlemont on Friday morning, made the inquiry if such reports were true, and heard they were. Witness reported to Colonel Story in the fort, and he, Colonel Story, made a report to the secretary of the Royal Hospital. On the morning of the 17th witness heard drums beat very early; saw several parties of six or seven with muskets, passing through Moy towards Charlemont. Heard drums and fifes coming up Killyman-road, could not make out whether there were any armed men with them. Witness asked what it was all about; the men meeting said it was reported that 500 Roman-catholics had passed through Blackwater-town the night before, armed, crying out for the face of a Protestant; heard that the Roman-catholics had challenged the Protestant party; heard these men, the Protestants, were going out with a determination to burn all before them. Witness told Colonel Story the circumstance, and he made arrangements, by reporting to the commanding officer at Armagh, and a communication with Mr. Olpherts; the artillery were ordered to be in preparation. Witness in the meantime heard a drum and fife; witness then saw a party march in regular order; witness went to road leading from Armagh road to Loughgall; witness cautioned them the illegality of their proceedings, and said, if ordered to fire, they would be shown no mercy; one of the party said, "It is a very hard thing no Protestant can come to this side of the country without being beat, and coming home from the chairing the other evening we were shot at from the hills," and they were determined to have a clear road if they were to die for it. Witness again remonstrated with them; a tall man came up and said, "Hurra boys, this is the road," and they marched on. Witness counted their arms, there were 24 stand, either 20 or 21 were muskets with bayonets; one in the rear was a fowling piece with silver escutcheons; and they marched over the hill. Witness informed the colonel again; saw several parties of five or six or so, marching with arms. A report came to the colonel, by a constable of police, informing him of the same that witness told him. Witness went and met Sir F. Stovens in Moy, and told him all that was done; came with witness to the fort, and arrangements were made to go with Mr. Olpherts and men to the bog. Moved with police in front, a six-pounder and men, and so on. Corroborates Sir F. Stoven. Witness heard M'Mullen say, if they would stand out of their way, they would soon put the others out of the way. On Saturday night, the 17th, about 11 o'clock, when second patrol had went, witness was informed of a house being attempted to be burned; witness went down with Mr. Ormsby (having first acquainted the colonel), and found that the corner of the house had been lighted, and in hunting about on the ground the burned rag produced by witness was found among the burned straw. Witness inquired did the house belong to a Protestant or Roman-catholic; heard the houses belonged to Mrs. Lawson, a Protestant, but that they were let to Mrs. Woods, a Roman-catholic. It was said that three strange men were seen about the place sometime in the evening, and that there was a parcel of Ribbonmen in a house just bye. Witness went on inquiry after the persons who done this. Witness was going to the barracks, met a party coming towards him with arms; witness questioned them where they were going, they said, to protect the houses burning, that there were Ribbonmen; and when cautioned, they went off.

David Duff, Chief-constable, Sworn.—On Friday morning, the man who brought him his letters mentioned that two men were shot dead, two Orangemen, called Williamsons. Cleave the blocks coming from Armagh election. Witness sent the sergeant of police on express to inquire the nature of this; his answer when he came back, said two men were beaten, but that the preservative peace of the country was to be attributed to Mr. Sinclair; that all was then peaceable. On Saturday, 17th, when going towards the bog, saw the men assembling with arms. Witness went up to the top of the hill with 12 police, and saw the party marching off towards Kinnery, as he was told; had music when returned to Charlemont. Saw parties coming from Moy with arms; said that the Killyman people were called Killyman rackers; got them prevented coming to Charlemont; heard some parties went from Moy towards Killyman. Two venders of gunpowder live in Dungannon, and witness prevented them on his own responsibility, from information which he received, for selling powder. He had a prosecution against a Roman-catholic for having sold 17 pounds of gunpowder without a licence; that it was the little kind of blasting powder, and with fine powder from priming would do very well.

James Farrel, Constable of Police, Sworn.—Is stationed at Moy; saw a party of armed people pass through about 11 o'clock; did know some of these, three in all. They were armed; two had small guns, third had a musket. Names George Reilly with a musket; William William Reiney, Thomas Catherwood; all of Moy. Reilly was marching with the party, Reiney and Catherwood by themselves: did not see them go towards Armagh.

William Olpherts, Esq., Sworn.—Is a magistrate of this county; was in Armagh on Friday, the 16th; about one in the day, opposite the Provincial Bank, met some men who resided in Annahagh. Witness was inquiring of M'Mahan having been racked the morning before; said they were afraid they would be attacked. Witness was not surprised at M'Mahan's being racked, as it was supposed the men came out of it who beat Mawhinny. Witness left Armagh about two o'clock, and went home past M'Mahan's house, and found all perfectly quiet: passed by Annahagh. On Saturday morning heard shots going off, drums beating. Witness was not much surprised, as drums are often beating there; this was about 10 o'clock in the morning; thought the shots he heard proceeded from sportsmen. Some persons came and informed witness that great numbers of men were marching, and that the country was all disturbed. Witness went out towards Mullinary, which leads to Kilmore and Kinnigo, and saw two or three men with guns. As witness had known that the artillery had gone in part to Newry, witness thought the colonel could have very few to send out, and thought that, as he was a magistrate, if he would return from the fort without military it might encourage the mobs. Witness sent a letter to Colonel Story, to send as strong a force as he could. Shortly after, Mr. Ormsby, an officer in the artillery, came to witness to say Colonel Story could give a force of 20 men; and witness went with Mr. Ormsby to the garrison, and saw Sir F. Stoven there, with a few police which he brought from Dungannon. When witness and Sir F. Stoven and party came to opposite the hill of Kinnigo, Sir F. wanted to have the party routed off the hill, which witness objected to, and the men were in a body. (Sir F. would give him no advice, finding the responsibility would rest on himself,) and he, witness, knew the country and the people better than Sir F. Stoven. Sir F. Stoven said if he had a commission of the peace he would, and witness thought proper not to do so. Witness observed two men coming from Kinnigo-hill, where the armed men were, whom witness met when going into Charlemont for the military with Mr. Ormsby; these two men had no arms on either occasion; thinks they were not connected with the party in Kinnigo. M'Mullen, constable, and Blevins, who keeps a public-house in Charlemont, were their names; they told witness that the party on the hill of Kinnigo were only acting on the defence, and that they would disperse if they could get the others to disperse. Witness and Sir F. Stoven did not observe such numbers of persons on the opposite hills as were sufficient to excite the alarm of Kinnigo-hill. Proceeded on the road leading to Armagh; saw numbers of people on the hill; did not observe arms with them, being at a distance, until come to Annahagh. In a narrow lane leading to Hughes's house, witness observed six or seven men leaving the main road and running up the lane; had two or three guns; witness called on them towards him, and they stooped as if to hide. One man did come out from them, named Hughes, against whom informations had been taken for beating Mawhinney, who told witness he might have prevented all if he would; said he was Patrick Hughes's son; said he was who was in custody for beating Mawhinney. Witness thinks he told Hughes that they had brought all this on themselves by beating Mawhinney: his mind was impressed that the beating of Mawhinney occasioned all. Witness and party went to M'Mahan's house, and returned and went to Kinnigo, and found that it was all clear. Witness did not see them on his return. When witness and party came up to Kinnigo-hill from Charlemont, the houses were on blaze; thinks some of those six or seven men whom he saw in Annahagh with arms owned the houses burning. Conroy, whose house is burned, was father of a boy charged also for beating Mawhinney. While the military rested opposite Kinnigo, witness took down another road, leaving Kinnigo on his right, and saw Mr. Hardy, J. P., and Mr. Abraham Walker, of Loughgall, near Mr. Burrows; witness remarked this was bad work, but hoped all was over. Walker told witness there were 500 men to come from Loughgall to Kinnigo that night, and that there were 1,500 rounds of ball cartridge made that day in Loughgall. Witness came and told Sir F. Stoven the discourse; Mr. Hardy and Sir F. Stoven had a conversation ont hat subject, and Mr. Hardy said there was no such thing, and that he could prevent the like, and would repair immediately to Loughgall to prevent it. When all became quiet, the troops marched off to Charlemont, and witness took six police home with him. Witness was about half an hour home, when a mounted dragoon came to him from Sir F. Stoven from Charlemont, requesting witness to go there, and witness went there, and heard drums beating in or about Moy, and plans making to prevent them coming into Charlemont. Witness heard music going down, in the direction of Roxborough. Witness remained until near 12 o'clock in Charlemont that night, and witness patrolled with the military and police; and the first having detained, a second patrol went out; when the second were out they met the first, and saw a man with a gun and bayonet. Witness sent him into Charlemont with the first patrol, and gave up his arms quietly.

FOURTH DAY.—31st January 1835.

William Olpherts' Examination continued.—As they proceeded to Armagh, on the second patrol, and got near the front of Kinnigo-hill, were challenged from bottom of hill; asked who were there. Witness and party said, "The police;" they replied, "All is well, you may go on;" thinks it was the Protestant party was at Kinnigo. Witness and party went on towards Annahagh, and saw more houses, as he thought, on fire. Witness and party called out "Who is there?" The houses continued burning from he left that in the morning. Witness heard since that there were more houses burned that night; were returning, and at Kinnigo-hill cried out "Who is there," or if any person were there. They asked who witness and party were, and they replied, the police and witness, and that if some of them would come over no advantage would be taken of them. Witness heard the feet of persons coming towards him. Witness went up to them; met two persons under arms; did not know them. Witness asked them what they were doing, and they said, to take care of the place, and would injure no person unless attacked; they said so to witness, calling him by his name, and said they would not move from that place; they went up to Kinnigo, and witness and party went to Charlemont. On Sunday morning, when witness got up, was informed of two of his houses being fired into; one a blacksmith and labourer, formerly of witness's. Slugs were brought to witness, and he visited the blacksmith's house and saw it had been fired into, and outside of said house. On Monday morning a message was sent to witness by the chief constable that he had taken six men into custody under arms, and witness went into Charlemont. [Here a letter was read from Secretary for Ireland, to inquire if these men were ordered out by the portreeve of Charlemont, and as to his authority for so doing.]

Charles Atkinson, Chief-constable, Sworn.—Arrested six men on the rising ground entering Charlemont, coming, as it were, from the country, about half-past five o'clock. When asked what they were, said they were yeomen; denied having any order for marching with arms. About seven o'clock in the morning informed Mr. Olphert; and witness returned to Charlemont and received a paper. Mr. Olphert and Sir F. Stoven held an investigation into the circumstance; they acknowledged to be yeomanry guns three of them; hears one is member of a corps; they all aeknowledged the fact of carrying arms; when taken they used force and resistance before giving up arms; all surrendered but one, and he was allowed to carry his own, and in the guard-room he gave up; it was Miles who hesitated to surrender; said his gun was registered.

Mr. Olphert resumed on Saturday night.—Witness omitted to state that in the townland of Mullinary he took a gun weightily loaded with ball, from a man called Devlin; was a Catholic, as he believes; took the sword from a man called Pat. Conly, a Roman-catholic; took a pitchfork from a man called Patrick Branigan, a Roman-catholic; were about 100 yards from their houses, except Connoly, one-fourth or half quarter of a mile from his house; Devlin leaped over a ditch before witness took the gun; they said, were going into Blackwater-town to escort some female friends home, who went, being afraid in consequence of the disturbance; the arms were sent to Charlemont; these men were about half a mile from where houses were burned.—(Now the investigation into the six men who were in custody:) Witness went to Charlemont about 11 o'clock on Monday the 19th; inquired of Mr. Atkinson for Sir F. Stoven; about one o'clock Mr. Martin, Mr. Byers the portreeve, Mr. Jackson and Mr. William Harpur, came into Mr. Atkinson's room; Mr. Harpur spoke roughly, and asked who kept these men in custody. Witness was compelled by his bad language to use his authority as a magistrate, by ordering him out if he would not behave; the other gentlemen behaved in a very good order. They wished witness to hold the investigation; but witness said he was waiting on Sir F. Stoven, and if he would not arrive shortly, he would hold it himself. Shortly after Sir F. Stoven arrived; witness told Sir F. the circumstance, and about the six men, and he told witness that it was his place as a magistrate, and not his. Witness held the investigation in a room in the barracks in the lower yards. Witness was asked would it be private or public, and witness said, public; and it appeared at the investigation that these men were originally appointed by the portreeve for Charlemont; but having gone out of town to the house of James Smyth of Mullyleggan, at the other side of Blackwater-town, about two-and-a-quarter miles from Charlemont, thought that having gone so far out of town they might be taken by the police. When the evidence was closed, a cry out was in the room for witness to give his decision instantly. Witness called to have the room cleared; thinks investigation lasted three or four hours. Witness said he would liberate the men, upon Mr. Martin becoming answerable with Mr. Byers, the portreeve, for their forthcoming, if wanted; and they said they would; a cry was for them to get their arms, and witness refused until he would receive orders from a proper authority to do so. Witness reported to the Earl of Gosford and Sir Henry Hardinge; a ticket of registry was produced by old Miles of his gun being registered, being one of the guns seized, but witness refused him also; six or seven witnesses were examined at investigation. On Wednesday the 21st got a letter from Mr. Atkinson, chief constable of police, about seven o'clock in the morning, that another house was burned in Grange, belonging to M'Vey. Witness went there immediately, and found it consisted of three bays; two bays were destroyed, a kitchen, and lower bay. M'Vey said he thought he never had done any one such harm as would occasion this. Witness heard that night a tramping about his house, and a rap at his door; he then jumped up about three o'clock, and saw the low room all on fire; the house altogether. Witness could do nothing by way of saving it, and went away; M'Vey is a Roman-catholic; in the course of the day witness received information, which led witness to suppose that house was not maliciously burned; this was about two or three o'clock in the day, and witness went to Charlemont and took a party of police with him to the place, and did not find M'Vey at home; heard he went to Armagh to Mr. Algers, who is agent to the place for Lord Charlemont. Witness having waited for some time examined M'Vey's wife and daughter, of about 11 years old, as to the case, but not in presence of each other; and from their different statements, and that of Muldoon, a neighbour, witness was of opinion the house was burned by accident, and not maliciously; that it was in consequence of M'Vey's wife having carried straw through the kitchen late at night, to fodder the cow. [Here Mr. Olphert commented on the evidence of the three persons, which gave strong circumstances that the house may have been destroyed by accident.] Witness was informed by a person called Vallely of Keenaghan, last night about nine o'clock, that his father's house was attempted to be burned; which house was before attempted, and for which previous attempt two men are in gaol for trial.

Private Examination.—Witness visited Mawhinnys, after they were beat, on Saturday morning about eight o'clock, (witness told them to send for the dispensary doctor of Blackwater-town, Doctor Clarke, before he went to Mawhinny's house;) witness and doctor were there together; witness found John Mawhinny in bed, all over with blood and bandaged. Witness asked if he was sensible he would die, and he gave witness no satisfaction as to that; witness got the doctor to examine him; doctor told witness that he considered him in a dangerous state. Witness spoke to Mawhinny, and he appeared sensible that he would die; witness took his dying declaration. Saw the daughter, she was worse beat than her father, and in greater danger, as the doctor said. Witness took the information of his son, and the father and son charged individuals, some of whom by both; that two of the houses burned belong to the fathers of the two persons charged for beating Mawhinny. Mawhinny was beat on Friday night, witness visited him on Saturday morning; Mawhinny was unable to come to witness, and witness went to him. Depositions being taken, a warrant was immediately issued; repeated attempts were made to arrest them; every stratagem used to get them apprehended by Serjeant Morrow and the police, who had the warrant, and every anxiety to have them arrested. Witness when on his way wrote from Keady to Mr. Henry, to get warrant backed by a magistrate of the county of Tyrone, as it was likely they would be going to chapel there, as they would likely not go to their own chapel; a police station being nearest, witness told the police to watch every opportunity, and even pointed out the nights to them. One of the Roman-catholics were connected with a high Orange party, and it was thought he concealed him, and two Orangemen, as he hears, bailed him. After Mawhinny got well there was a report that Mawhinny would settle, only for Mr. Olpherts. Mr. O. said he could not take any part in the like; but if it was for the peace of the country, he would, if they considered well, write to the Earl of Gosford on the subject. Before witness took Mawhinny's dying declaration, the apothecary being a Catholic, and knowing Catholics might be charged, he ordered the doctor out of the room, lest he might give notice of any kind. Thinks that part of the road where Mawhinny was beat is not frequently in a dangerous state. Thinks it has been confined to these few cases; but about Annahagh there are a mixture of parties, and they may have quarrellings amongst themselves. Was not a man transported near him and returning home; heard of something of the kind. Mr. Olpherts thinks if Mawhinny had not been beat, thinks M'Mahon's house would not been racked, nor any of the latter occurrences in the neighbourhood. Witness did hear say, that since M'Mahon's house was racked, a party was at Annahagh, who shouted "Where is the Kinnigo boys?" hears, since the burning of the houses a large party went through Blackwater-town, and it might be the means of the Kinnigo party being so alarmed.

Not to be published.

David Duff, Chief-constable, Sworn.—Knows Killyman has not a soldier, police or magistrate; had to do duty in it once. There is no outrage in the neighbourhood of Dungannon or Killyman; Stewardstown is the nearest station of police; can't say he ever knew Killyman men go out from home to do injury, but saw a number of armed men in it one day, the day of racking of Maghery; one man called M'Cardwell was there, was tried and cleared; Colonel Verner's gate was broke. Killyman people are almost all one way of thinking, Protestants. Witness had warrants against six people in Killyman; every answer was given respecting Killyman; alluded to the Orange district, and not to the parish of Killyman exclusively.

Charles Magee, Esq., Sworn.—Lives in Blackwater-town; remembers the night of 16th; was sitting with Doctor Clarke, Mr. Kennedy, and Mr. Crothers; about 10 minutes before nine o'clock heard a great noise, shouting, ran to the door and saw a very large assembly of people coming down from Moy side. When they came to the door, being six a-breast, were about 50 or 60 men, they fell into twos, thinks about 250, all in couples, and in all about 300. On passing, they shouted, "O'Connell; no tithes; no Verner; Garryown." Passed down to the bridge; when there, witness heard four or five shots fired; they had guns, pitchforks, &c; all appeared armed with guns, pitchforks, &c.; greater number had guns; they marched on, and on the following day, about 12 o'clock, heard of houses being burned. Mr. John Eyre and witness went to Mr. Olpherts, a magistrate; he was not at home; heard he was out with an officer. Witness and Mr. Eyre came back to Blackwater-town; when on their way, went towards where houses were burning in Kilmore; on their way to and from Mr. Olpherts's house met numbers of country people running with weapons, guns, scythes, &c; saw three men go into a house; they were going in twos and threes; witness knew none of them; saw about 11 with guns, &c.; they appeared to be going to tops of hill to look at burnings; they advised witness not to go forward, thinks this was for his good; they it was, the Protestant party, who burned the houses. Witness went to Cross-roads, saw the military there; the party who passed through Blackwater-town marched towards Annahagh, they might have come from Kilmore direction to pass through Blackwater-town. Saw Mr. Olpherts, Sir Frederick Stoven and military at Cross-roads; saw a house that was burned, a few people were round it. Witness had to bring persons into his house on Monday night the 19th, his name being announced, and the alarm of such a number pass through the town, thought necessary for protection. A number of men who work at the canal were seen assembled.

Sarah Brennon, Sworn.—Lives in Annahagh; recollects her mother's house was set on fire and burned, by a party of people on the morning of 17th, about 10 or 11 o'clock; heard drums, saw men coming from Kinnigo; witness and family run into Armagh for fear of their lives; when they came back house was burned; witness has no brothers; does not know a man among them.

William Dawley, James Cullen, Rose Cullen, and Elizabeth Cullen, all Sworn.—On 17th houses were burned, their property; does not know by whom.

Bridget Cullen, wife of James Cullen of Annahagh, Sworn.—On 17th house was burned about seventh hour of the night; does not know who burned it, has no reason to suspect; made her escape.

Catherine Magran of Annahagh, Sworn.—About 10 or 11 o'clock on morning of 17th instant, house was burned by a party of people; does not know one of them.

James Cullen, son of Elizabeth Cullen of Annahagh, Sworn.—House was set on fire and in part burned; and does not know one of the party who did it.

John Mackle, Sworn.—Lives in Annahagh; saith his house was set on fire and part burned on the 17th, and does not know one of the persons concerned; but William Clarke told Nicholas Cullen that he, William Clarke, took the coal out of Nicholas Cullen's house.

Sarah Rennison, Sworn.—Saith that a stack of wheat, her property, was burned at same time, in Annahagh; and does not know one of the party.

Patrick Hughes, Sworn.—Saith that his house in Kilmore was burned on 17th, and does not know one of the persons who set fire to it.

Daniel Conroy, Sworn.—Lives in Kilmore; his father's house was burned on the 17th; does not know one of the party who set it on fire; saw two persons go into the house, does not know either of them; when the men went away, witness and another were striving to save the house, when a ball came from towards Kinnigo and struck witness on the arm; a second ball went through Michael Conroy's hat, who was assisting him; shots were firing on.

Michael Conroy, Sworn.—Was in company with Daniel Conroy, assisting him to save his house which was burning on 17th; shots were fired at them, a ball went through witness's hat; does not know any of the party who fired.

Mary Moore, Sworn.—Lives at Blundel's-grange; on the 17th, about six or seven o'clock at night, was in her house with three other women; first heard a window broke; a party of about 16 was about the house; five came into the house; two ransacked it, witness saw them; three of them stood in the kitchen, held a gun at her breast and demanded her arms; witness said she had none; witness asked the favour of getting the old man out, and they threatened her. When witness and family went out, the party set fire to the house with the candles in the house; some neighbours came and watered out the house; the old man was laid outside at a potatoe pit; when the party went off, the old man was brought into a neighbour's house, and died about 10 minutes after. Men had guns; they came from Kinnigo as they went into it; does not know any of them, could not identify one of them; does not suspect any person; had no quarrel with any person; knows the inhabitants of Kinnigo very well; there is people in Kinnigo which she does not know. Thinks party were strangers; the Protestant neighbours put out the fire, and assisted witness and family. Witness saw a man in a ditch wounded, hears he is called Williamson, who she took out of the drain; witness was assisted by —— Brennon in pulling him out; was on the 15th; his head was bleeding; previous to that, witness heard a great noise; saw an attack on Patrick Hughes's house in Annahagh; the party came from towards M'Mahan's house; can't tell the number of the men; heard two shots fired; after houses were racked saw the party run away, and thinks the others were following; thinks it was the men who were in Armagh ran first, and the people from Patrick Hughes's of Annahagh were chasing them; before she heard shots fired Hughes's house was racked; was after shots were fired she saw the man in the drain; heard a noise, and horns sounded, and men ran back to Annahagh.

John Brownlee, Sworn.—Recollects Moore's house being on fire; assisted to put it out; saw two men previous at a turf-stack, can't say who they were; saw no crowd about the house; witness was afraid of being attacked by the men himself, and shouted to not hurt, calling out his name when passing; is a Protestant.

John Crothers, Sworn.—Lives in Blackwater-town; remembers the 16th; heard a great noise in the street, and some shots fired; saw only a few persons together; did not see the party alluded to by Mr. Magee, but Mr. Magee told witness of it; a few nights previous saw a party of about 40 men pass through the town.

FIFTH DAY.—2d February 1835.

John Hardy, Esq., Sworn.—Is a magistrate; has been agent for Mr. Parnell's estate for 15 years and upwards, which made him have a care over the place particularly; on Sunday the 16th, in the evening from three to four o'clock, it was reported a large party of Roman-catholics were to back Kinnigo, by a person unknown to him; thinks he might have heard it more than once, as a general rumour; not given to him as a magistrate. Witness was on the alert to hear about this; Kinnigo is about one-and-a-half or two miles from witness's house; shots fired and shouting in the direction of Kinnigo. Witness went up a hill in that direction about eight o'clock, to view; not a quarter a mile out of town a boy called William Sloan came up with a gun. Witness asked him where he was going; said he, "Do you not hear what's going on?" Witness said he did. Sloan said he was going to Kinnigo to assist those people; a person called Richard Graham was with witness; Sloan appeared in liquor. Witness said to him, "Take my advice and return back to Loughgall; don't go over; it may be time enough to act when an attack was made here." Sloan is a Protestant, and was going to assist the Protestants. Witness returned back to Loughgall, and on his way a tenant from Kinnigo, called Savery, came up, as he thinks, in alarm, and stated to witness that a number of Roman-catholics at the Cross-roads opposite to Kinnigo; some hundreds; he came to witness for assistance; that they had fired several shots at Kinnigo; there are houses at Kinnigo-hill. Irwin and Savery live on the hill; said they were afraid their town would be entered and destroyed. Witness said he had no police or aid of any kind. Witness desired him to return back to put themselves in readiness to repel any attack, but on no account to proceed from the place; that if they were attacked to send him word, and he would endeavour to have assistance. Witness intended (not having police) to bring some of the well disposed of the village of Loughgall with him; no police were near Kinnigo; they were all in Armagh; the reports created alarm near Kinnigo, and about nine o'clock the people were walking about. Witness, between nine and ten o'clock on same night, went on the road with Mr. Walker, Dr. Shegog and others, for about a quarter of a mile in the direction of Kinnigo; might be three or four guns with witness's party; these people came to witness. Witness and party went towards the College lands, which is in the direction of Kinnigo; when there met Mr. Cardwell of Loughgall; said he was at Kinnigo; that they, Kinnigo men, were apprehensive of an attack; but that the party had not advanced upon them since the shots were in the evening, which were from the Catholic party. Witness and party returned to Loughgall in company with Mr. Cardwell. Witness went to bed about 12 o'clock. About two o'clock on Saturday morning (witness had made no preparations before going to bed as for going out, as the whole town was in alarm, and thinks his servants were sitting up) about two o'clock in the morning Loughgall church-bell rang; a servant informed witness it was a signal to assault the Protestants, and were collecting. Witness looked out and saw a party going up the road; might be about 10 or 12 persons. Witness heard Dr. Shegog's voice with them. Witness told him to wait a few minutes, and he would go with him. They proceeded on to the church with witness, and others joined them; there might have been about altogether 20 or 30; remained at the church for some time; they said they arrested a boy who was travelling as a spy, as they thought; a messenger was brought to witness, and witness asked, "Did any of them know him," and they said, "Of indifferent character." Witness asked him "Where he came from, or where going;" said "From Moy or Charlemont; was going to take the coach at Portadown for Belfast;" he produced a bill for herrings from some persons in Moy or Charlemont. Witness thought he was right, and let him go; witness and party walked in the direction of Kinnigo. Witness said, if any breach of the peace would ensue, he would be very responsible for any act committed. The party with witness had arms; mostly all guns, pistols, blunderbusses, and the like; were all of the neighbourhood of Loughgall. Witness and party arrived at Kinnigo; was moonlight night. Witness desired to know at Robert Irwin's how the men were arranged; the Kinnigo men, the Protestant party. Witness was brought to gravel-pit with a whinny ditch on the one side; along that were two or three men lying here and there ditch; thinks in all 20 or 30, with arms; all armed; they said two shots had been fired, and one of the balls had cut a tree or branch near them; these shots were from the Catholic party. Witness asked where the Catholic party were stationed; the night was then becoming dark. Witness was pointed to the turf clamps, and said, there was a mass of people, there was, on the other side of the road, leading from Armagh road to Loughgall. Witness could not distinguish any; might be 100 or 150 yards from witness; was informed that the Catholic party was so large that when the first part of them was on the Blackwater-town road from Charlemont to Armagh, the last was below the hill, or about 200 yards long, and were 300 or 400; that they had been headed by a man, who said, "Now, come; now for Kinnigo." Witness left his party, which was behind the ditch, and requested no shot should be fired unless attacked by other party. No shots were fired while witness was there. Witness went into Irwin's cabin, where witness found a number of those who accompanied him from Loughgall, and some others not known to witness, all in the kitchen. Witness inquired for Robert Irwin, the owner of the house, and was told he was gone back to the town: was afraid; left his house from apprehension. Witness remained with him until about five o'clock in the morning. Witness said he thought the opposite party had gone off, not having heard any shots, and it snowing so weighty; and that he and party might go off. Witness, from the buzzing noise he heard from towards the bog, considered there was a large body of people, but could not see them. Witness and about 12 or 16 returned to Loughgall;

Loughgall; the rest stopt behind at Irwin's house. Witness desired those behind not to leave their places; that is, not to go from the town to make any attack; and if attacked they would have the law on their side; on their return, when about a quarter-mile from Kinnigo, two shots were fired; thinks one from Grange side and the other from opposite direction; some of his party thought they heard the ball. Witness and party went home same morning; all was tranquil at nine o'clock. Witness thought Roman-catholics had gone off about one o'clock (mid-day); heard a report a party had travelled through Charlemont on towards Kinnigo, Protestants. Some time after, it was reported houses were on fire; witness inquired; when I heard it was in the neighbourhood of Kinnigo; witness asked if any person would make affidavits before him of the facts, and he would send into Mr. Henry immediately for a force. Witness heard that a tenant of Lord Charlemont's had walked down, who seen it: was Cartmill; he was brought to witness's office; said he would swear as to the appearance of houses being burned at Annahagh; and witness fowarded the same to Mr. Henry, the postmaster of Loughgall. William Addy called upon witness, and said post-boy felt alarmed for travelling from Loughgall to Armagh, and asked if he might send him earlier than usual; witness concurred, that from circumstances he thought he might; he did not go two or three hours earlier than usual. Witness sent to Sir Thomas Mollyneaux, stating the account of the country, and it might be well, if he thought right, to have his corps of yeomanry put under arms, as witness believed there was no military or police in Armagh to be had. Sir Thomas wrote to witness and said he communicated with Lord Gosford, who informed him that no yeomanry could be called out, unless under particular circumstances. Mr. Walker called upon witness, and he told Mr. Walker what he had done; said he was intend to go to Charlemont for the military; about three o'clock, he and Mr. Walker went towards Charlemont, and heard, when on the way, that a piece of cannon had been sent to the place where fire was; witness proceeded through College lands towards Kinnigo; when passing James Burrows' house witness was informed Mr. Olpherts was there; witness went to the party at Burrows' house. Mr. Olpherts told witness that the artillery was at the Cross-roads. Mr. Olpherts expressed a wish to Burrows that he should wish the Kinnigo party would disperse; Burrows seemed to acquiesce; was not in sight of Irwin house at this time; witness went with Mr. Olpherts to whose artillery were, and was introduced to Sir F. Stoven. Witness was asked by Sir F. Stoven, if 500 men were ready to march from Loughgall to Kinnigo to join the Protestant party, or if 1,500 ball cartridge were made in Loughgall; witness said there was no such thing as either of them; all remained on the road for about half an hour. Witness consulted Mr. Olpherts, if he would stay, or if he would want him to stop, for he would wish to go home; and if he met any stragglers going towards Kinnigo, he would see and put them back; those of the party which witness brought to Kinnigo and left, those being 14 or 15, came home to Loughgall, about eight o'clock on the same morning, after witness came home; witness thinks about that hour; about 20 persons coming from Kinnigo; saw no other party travel through Loughgall that morning. Witness asked no questions of them, but heard all was quiet. Witness when in the College land, saw John Irwin, his bailiff, and told to go up towards Kinnigo, and tell any person there that they might give up their watching, as the military were on the ground. Witness went to Loughgall with Mr. Walker through Grange. Witness, saw no parties on the road with arms. Witness left home on Sunday morning, about ten o'clock; to ride towards the Grange, and in Drumart met young Mr. Walker, and they rode on towards the Cross-roads, and found that the artillery and police had been off. Witness went to Robert Irwin's house in Kinnigo; had passed the place where Catholic party had been in the bog, and saw in Irwin's house about six men; he said he thought they might give up their guards, as the military and police were on the watch and patrolled. Whites, Weir, were of those in the house; had one gun. Witness returned home. On Sunday evening, about five o'clock, was informed that John Donnelly was going from chapel to chapel through the day, Tullysarren and Armagh, to collect a force; and that he had such a force as would sweep the country from one end to the other; from a general apprehension, a number of people were assembled into Loughgall; and groups of people were calling upon with similar reports. Mr. Hardy got an affidavit to that effect. Witness was informed that during the day, on Sunday, two or three strangers were seen passing through the town, marking the Protestant houses; thinks there was none marked unless Protestants; then under this apprehension, witness appointed a number of special constables, nine persons; and had a guard placed, of 20 men, in the school-house of Loughgall, with orders to send out a patrol over to Greg's mill, and one through Loughgall; persons under charge of the constables, armed with guns, &c., were all Protestants; thinks patrol consisted of three or four; were afraid, from the affidavit, of the forces being assembled of the Roman-catholics; swore in the most steady and well-conducted; swore in any persons who offered themselves; made no objection if their characters were good; was no Roman-catholics present at the meeting; there was no solicitation, nor any rejection; if any respectable Roman-catholic had offered to be sworn, would not be rejected. Mr. Oliver, the rector, was present and assisted in the arrangement. About eight o'clock in the evening, Mr. Obre came into Loughgall; witness asked if he seen anything in Armagh to ground their apprehensions of parties coming down on the night to destroy them. Witness and Mr. Obre said there was great excitement on the way as he came. Witness told Mr. Obre of his arrangements; about two o'clock in the morning, Mr. Obre came to Loughgall, accompanied with an armed party of about 100 or 150, with muskets, &c. Mr. Obre is no magistrate; some of the men had belts and pouches on. Mr. Obre said he would be accountable for the conduct of his men, and requested to get marching through the town or outside; he said nothing should be done by him or party, but under command of Mr. Hardy; some of those in Loughgall, as caretakers, joined Mr. Obre's party, and witness and they went towards Drumart and Grange, and saw no party of people, only his own patrol; no tumult was at Donnelly's house; seeing every thing quiet, they all returned; they all called at Mr. Cardwell's, and witness ordered them to get a glass of spirits each and water, and witness is responsible for the payment; and in 15 minutes after all were gone; and Mr. Obre and some other groups came into town with arms, &c. Witness told them to go home; they said they heard witness sent for them, and he said not, and ordered them home. Witness did not hear of Mr. Obre's party afterwards; was no disturbance in Loughgall. On Monday morning, heard two guns and a pistol had been taken from the Roman-catholics in Derrycrew and Ternagreevy; a gun from Patrick Campbell; one from Widow Irwin, and a pistol from Patrick Cullen; some applied to witness, and said, he was ready to take information if they knew any of them; they were taken by a party of people; heard it was of those in Loughgall. Campbell said he thought it was of the party who was at Loughgall. Guns were taken in witness's country, about two or three years back; hearing of this, witness sent into Mr. Henry on Monday, and six police came out; witness placed ten men and two police as a patrol, to stop in the school-house, and go out in numbers; next night, a guard was mounted; on Wednesday, a company of the 64th regiment arrived; witness thought there was no call for a guard at night, as there appeared to be quietness; served out no ammunition himself, no place. Witness saw ball cartridge made in a house in Loughgall, at seven or eight o'clock on the 16th, by Richard Graham. Witness told Mr. Cardwell to be very cautious in selling powder; does not know how many balls were made in Loughgall. Witness only gave two orders for powder, in all 1 ¼ pound. Witness thinks the racking the houses in Armagh and M'Mahon's was the cause of party assembling in the country; can't say who ordered the bell to be rung; heard that Protestants were often beat and attacked near M'Mahon's house; saw no ammunition in Kinnigo; saw only about 12 balls made; saw no greater quantity of powder than quarter pound where ball cartridge was made.

John Donnelly, Sworn.—Lives in Drumart; remembers the 15th, Mr. Verner's day; two men came to his father's house about two or three o'clock, one calling himself Atkinson, whom witness believes is Thomas Jones; the other, Daniel M'Dermot, who said he was a Catholic; Atkinson said he was an Orangeman. Witness's father lives on the road near Loughgall; they said they had been in Armagh, and that they heard the mob intended racking his father's house; Atkinson said this. Witness's sister Eleoner said it would be necessary to go to Mr. Hardy, a magistrate, to get some protection; she went, and the two men accompanied her; she said she saw Mr. Hardy, and he told her he had no force to send with her; this was about two or three o'clock. In her absence witness prepared to defend the house, by preparing his arms; took off the windows, to be ready if an attack was made on the house; closed the doors and under-windows; primed his arms; witness fixed himself in the window; saw several parties of four or five together go past the house; some of them stopped about 120 yards from the house; was day-light; one party came and stood opposite the door. A party was up the Armagh road, about 60 perches, who raised a row, which he thought was only a pretence; they came past in about 10 or 15 minutes after; no harm was done to him or his house; as they went by they shouted, "To hell with the Pope, the Papists and Donnellys." Was told by Atkinson, who said he was an Orangeman, that house would be racked, and it was his word they had for it; parties often go by his father's house beating drums and fifes, and playing party tunes. Witness was obliged to go to Mr. Hardy on one occasion, was after an assizes; Mr. Hardy sent the police on three different occasions to protect his place. From the 17th on till the 19th, and until the present, they have been under alarm. On Sunday night, 18th, saw a number of men coming towards witness's house, thinks 150, some had belts and pouches, thinks Mr. Hardy was with them; belts were white; witness was in Armagh chapel to collect money; met two persons, and had a conversation with them; a woman named Martin passed by, and might have heard some of conversation.

Abraham Walker, Sworn.—Lives in Loughgall; saith that he did not make a statement to any person that 1,500 rounds of ball cartridge was made in Loughgall; might have said there were preparations making; said a good number of men were in readiness in Loughgall.

Mr. Olpherts insists that last witness did tell him that 1,500 rounds of ball cartridge was made in Loughgall, and that witness told same to Sir Frederick Steven, who spoke to Mr. Hardy.—[The Court thinks this a misunderstanding, and not intended on either side.]

SIXTH DAY.—3d February 1835.

John Hide Cardwell, Sworn.—Saith, lives in Loughgall; keeps grocery and woollen shop; sells powder; return of powder produced is a true return of the powder sold; might ne a few small quantities, which might be sold to children, under four ounces; is not bound, he believes, to make return of anything less; thinks if the country had been quiet he would have sold more for sporting. On the 16th messengers came from Blackwater-town, and said country was in a bad state; thinks Protestants came for powder, and witness denied them; said a large number of Catholics had assembled near their place, and were afraid of an attack; thinks Graham got one pound of powder on 19th; witness said Mr. Hardy, his master, had guns, and thought right to have ammunition; was cautious who he sold to; thinks Mr. Graham made a few balls; no person sells powder in Loughgall but witness;

witness

witness got some powder out of the store of Charlemont Fort; Simon Cardwell went with him, who was permanent-sergeant in Summerisland corps, Captain Clark's; this return is out of that powder; had about 100 lbs. of powder in all; witness met with the sergeant, was accidental, never went with witness before; witness would have brought any person with him. Witness heard Loughgall bell ring at one or two o'clock in the morn; witness heard shots the whole evening before; firing commenced about five o'clock evening of 16th; the country and town was in alarm; witness went to a road facing Kinnigo, about seven o'clock evening, and heard shots distinctly; thinks a number of guns might go off at once; heard cheering and shouting; heard no music; witness came home, and went out a second time about eight o'clock, in the same direction, but further towards Kinnigo; saw people listening; witness thinks he went into Kinnigo, but not where firing was; saw women and children there much alarmed, said they thought it would be their last night; were praying, as such a body of Roman-catholics had assembled near them, and were firing on them all night; witness did not see the crowd; might be half a mile from them; all was quiet when witness was there; witness thought they were firing on both sides, as there was such shouting; thinks parties were hardly in shot of each other; a ball might reach the length; witness returned home with four or five persons who were armed; witness met with Mr. Hardy and a few respectable people; witness said all was quiet, they were not shouting; and they returned with witness and party; this was about nine o'clock. About one or two o'clock next day, 17th, witness and a young man went up to the hill of Loughgall, and accompanied Mr. Hardy to Kinnigo; witness saw the Kinnigo-men there; appeared on the defence; were along ditches and gravel hole; everything was quiet; they pointed to where Catholics had been or were at that time; the Cross-roads was not half quarter of a mile from where witness was; witness did not see the party; did not hear any noise from Roman-catholic party; witness, about five o'clock A. M., went towards where Roman-catholics should have been; Mr. Hardy went with witness; witness went further on than him, to listen whether the Roman-catholics had gone or not; heard nothing, and remained 14 or 15 minutes; before witness left the lane he heard two shots fired, thinks might be quarter of a mile off, at Kilmore-hill; both shots came from same place; does not remember of shots being fired in Kinnigo; when witness was on his way home, about 15 minutes after, he heard two shots more; does not think in Kinnego; does not remember Mr. Hardy saying he heard voices of Roman-catholic party: witness went home; witness thinks his Roman-catholic and Protestant neighbours were all in alarm alike; his neighbours were innocent of Kinnigo and Blackwater-town business; refused no Roman-catholic respectable neighbour powder; sold to two, and would not have sold it to Protestants at the time, as they made a pitiable story, said were lonely, and wanted for defence; persons got spirits opposite his door, got some bread, got only a small quantity; none of them were intoxicated; there was nothing particular in the demand for powder at the time; thinks the party went towards Tartaraghan; Derrycrew is on the way; heard of guns been taken therefrom; Mr. Obre was with them; it was Mr. Hardy that ordered the refreshment to the men; thinks he would have given it without payment; might be 100 of them; had bread to give them a share; they were perfectly quiet and well-conducted; never heard who racked the houses at Derrycrew; thinks two of their party were yeomen, all had arms; witness can't say what kind of guns; some had white belts on; can't remember whether they had bayonets, some had pouches.

John Hayleton Jackson, Sworn.—Lives in Charlemont; when returning from Armagh on the 15th, near M'Mahon's house, at five or six o'clock, heard shouts for face of an Orangeman; went as far as John Sloan's house, at Alistra; Sloan advised witness not to go that way. Dr. Oakman, Thomas Martin, Daniel Jackson and William Kilpatrick, were with witness; remained in Sloan's about 15 minutes, and they went on their way; a carpenter, called Veigh, told them not to go, for their lives would be taken. Witness and party turned, and went by Bond's-mill bridge; met one man with a bayonet and stick in a field; does not know him. Witness heard shots fired, and shouting Garryown; came from the direction they were warned against passing. Witness was often attacked between Armagh and Charlemont; on Christmas-night was attacked by three men near Sloan's house, at Hole Stone; was same night Glass's house was racked; witness was in a jaunting-car; Isaac Wilson was with witness; had left Armagh about half-past eight that evening; the men had been in a field behind a ditch. Witness saw two men; was a clear night; could not discern who they were; they must have known witness by being on the car. Witness has frequently to travel that way; always was attacked near the same place; witness made this known to Mr. Olpherts and Lord Charlemont, and the latter said he would report it to Lord Gosford; was on that occasion three times attacked: was secondly attacked about 150 yards from Glass's house; were about 20 persons there; they said Garryown, and threw stones after witness. Witness had stones and pistols loaded after first attack; witness said nothing to them; a stone was thrown into the car. Three or four men ran after the car, and Wilson, who was with witness, told the men he would shoot them; they continued running after, and throwing stones; Wilson fired at them, and one or two appeared to draw back; one continued after; witness does not always travel with loaded pistols; witness threw a stone at him, and he remained behind, and they went on with the car; witness and Wilson were sober. At the Cross-roads were again attacked; the Cross-roads leads to Blackwater-town; five men were standing, four in a lump and one in front; foremost shouted No tithe, and made a grasp at the bridle, and then at witness's breast; witness made no reply. Witness hit him with a stone, knocked him down; the other four said nothing; they had more than room enough from the car. Witness was on the one side; thinks thinks none of the three parties were drunk; had sticks, but no guns or pistols that he saw. Witness was attacked about two years ago. Did tell Mr. Olpherts of the attack on Christmas-night, but can't say the attack on Christmas-night; it is a year ago since he told Lord Charlemont. Assaults are quite common on the roads on Moy-fair nights always; generally Protestants beat on the road between Moy and Armagh. Hears individuals were convicted of an attack on people at Charlemont; heard they were Catholics coming from the fair of Moy beaten there. Wilson got summonses, but was not able to prove the case. Witness does not know the persons; did not serve the summonses; did not stop any place on Christmas-night. Witness is not an Orangeman. Witness thinks the Protestants and all parties get justice in his neighbourhood. The general character of the road from Armagh to Charlemont is very bad, and the people will say, Don't travel it. He won't travel at night that road; thinks they would attack any Protestant on it, as well as him. Thinks Garryown would pass him down the road, but not through Kinnigo.

William Henry, of Armagh, Sub-inspector of Police, Sworn.—Commands Armagh district; knows the road from Armagh to Charlemont; has not heard of many outrages on that road; riots and outrages occurred at the races. Attacks were made on police, the riders and others, and a number of persons were convicted summarily; they attacked each other. Hears he was Roman-catholic that a pistol was taken from, and a stick. When in custody, the mob said, To your station. He appeared to have a body to support him, and that they intended to rescue him. He was informed that the mob would attack police; hears of several attacks, and they having looked redress for themselves. Witness does not know of them all. Filgate, who was struck, was a Protestant, as witness believes. Saith that the warrant against Mawhinny was got the day after Mawhinny was beat, and witness got it backed on Sunday the next day. Thinks he got a note from Mr. Olpherts, from Keady, as to getting the warrant issued to county Tyrone, and backed by a magistrate for that county. Witness got it done, and everything was done to have it executed.

COPIES of the CORRESPONDENCE and PROCLAMATION connected with the Investigation reported in the foregoing MINUTES.

No. 1.—The Earl of Gosford to Sir William Gosset.

Sir, Gosford, 17 January 1835.

I BEG to inform you that large assemblies of people were seen adjoining the road leading from Armagh to Charlemont. Some shots I am told were fired, but I have not heard of any thing serious having occurred; from the steps taken, I trust order has by this been pretty nearly restored. There are very few troops in Armagh, their having been ordered off to Newry, where General Macdonnell now is. I have written to see if he can send a troop of dragoons or a company of infantry to Armagh, which I hope he may be able to do. In the mean time, I have directed the constabulary force there to be increased as much as possible.

A large Orange mob came into Armagh on the day of the election for this county; and from what took place then, from all I can collect, has led to the circumstances above alluded to. I am also informed that rather a large party, with various kinds of weapons, marched into Armagh to-day, but hearing that their friends were assembled on the road to Charlemont, they went off to join them. I should like to have gone towards Charlemont, but I was unable to leave my room, confined by a sharp attack of gout.

If I hear anything particular, I shall not fail to communicate it.

I have, &c.

No. 2.—Sir Frederick Stovin to Sir William Gosset.

Sir, Dungannon, 17 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to forward for the information of the Lord Lieutenant, a report just received from Sub-inspector Henry, stating that large numbers of armed people have assembled last night or early this morning near Loughgall, and that the magistrates in Armagh had not thought it advisable for the police to repair to the spot, considering them to be too much in numbers to be of service, although upwards of 50 men are still in that town, not having yet dispersed since attending the election.

I shall proceed immediately to the place and ascertain the facts of the case, and take such measures as necessity demands and prudence dictates, furnishing, if possible, further information by this post.

I have, &c.
(signed) Frederick Stovin.

(Enclosure).—Sub-inspector Henry to Sir F. Stovin.

Sir, Armagh, 17 Jan. 1835, 4 o'clock A. M.

I HAVE to acquaint you that a report has just reached this, that about 300 of the Catholic party and a greater number of Protestants had assembled with arms during the night, between this and Moy, and have been engaged; and that the bells of Loughgall and adjoining places are ringing, for the purpose, it is supposed, of collecting additional force.

Having consulted with the magistrates and placed myself under their direction, they have decided, that as the military are at present absent on duty at Monaghan and Newry (at which latter place General Macdonnell now is), that they could not think of sending or proceeding with my small force to the place where a large body of persons are assembled.

I have, &c.

(signed) William Henry, Sub-inspector.

I send this by the guard of the coach, and am just now going to communicate with the officer in command here.

No. 3.—Sir Henry Hardinge to the Earl of Gosford.

My Lord, Dublin, 18 January 1835.

HAVING this morning received a report from Sir Frederick Stovin, of an armed party, consisting of about 150 men, having been seen by him on a hill near the road from Charlemont to Armagh, on the opposite side of which there were seven cabins on fire, the residences of Roman-catholics;—

I am directed by the Lord Lieutenant to inform your lordship that his Excellency has directed Sir Frederick Stovin to wait upon you, with a view of tendering the best assistance of the Government to bring to justice the offenders.

Should your lordship be of opinion that the services of Mr. Jones, the stipendiary magistrate, would be useful on this much to be lamented occasion, you will have the goodness to call upon him. He is at present at Omagh.

Sir Frederick Stovin will communicate to your lordship his instructions from the Lord Lieutenant.

I have, &c.

No. 4.—Sir H. Hardinge to Sir F. Stovin.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 18 January 1835.

WITH reference to your letter of yesterday evening, addressed to the Under-secretary, reporting your having proceeded on the road between Charlemont and Armagh, attended by a magistrate and a detachment of artillery, which had been called out in consequence of information having reached you of a number of persons having assembled in that direction, which, on your arrival on the spot pointed out, you unfortunately found confirmed, by your perceiving about 150 men well armed on a hill near the road, on the opposite side of which you saw on fire seven cabins, the residences of Roman-catholics;—

I am directed to express the deep regret this intelligence has caused to the Lord Lieutenant; and I have to state, that although the information before his Excellency in this early stage could not be of that specific nature to enable his Excellency to offer a reward for the detection and apprehension of the offenders, yet it is sufficient for authorizing you to put yourself in immediate communication with the lord-lieutenant of the county, with a view of adopting prompt and effective measures for bringing the offenders to justice.

It is stated in your letter, that armed yeomanry men were coming from Tyrone to assist their brethren in Armagh. Upon this point I have to convey to you his Excellency's desire that your best exertions be used for ascertaining to what corps those men belong, and their number, and (if possible) their names; in order that a proceeding so discreditable may be brought fully under his Excellency's consideration, as his Excellency will not tolerate so great an abuse, as that of allowing men to retain their muskets and bayonets belonging to yeomanry corps, who appear by your report to have been assembled to disturb, and not to preserve the public peace.

I am, &c.

(signed) H. Hardinge.

Be so good as to communicate this letter to the lieutenant of the county.

No. 5.—Sir F. Stovin to Sir William Gosset.

Sir, Dungannon, 18 January 1835.

WITH reference to my letter of yesterday's date, I have the honour to acquaint you, for the information of the Lord Lieutenant, that on my arrival at Charlemont I found that Colonel Storey, having heard of the assembly of armed bodies of men, and some of his officers having seen many pass through Charlemont from the Tyrone side, had sent to Mr. Olford, a magistrate, and was prepared to give every assistance. On that gentleman's appearance 30 of the artillery, with a gun, and 12 police, who I had sent from Dungannon, proceeded on the Armagh road; and when about half way to that town, a large armed body of men (from 150 to 200), with muskets and fixed bayonets (evidently yeomanry arms), were perceived drawn up on a commanding hill about 400 yards from the road on the left, and immediately opposite, on the right of the road, were seven cabins in flames. Here the troops halted, and a person who appeared to have influence demanded from the hill to speak to Mr. Olford. He declared that the armed body were assembled in self-defence, and denied that they had any share in the burning; and that they expected to be attacked by upwards of 1,000 Catholics, who he asserted were drawn up on a hill about half a mile further on. When expostulated with on the impropriety of any class of persons appearing in arms, and told they must disperse, he replied, they would do so immediately if the Catholics were likewise dispersed. And as there was no positive proof that this body had fired the houses, and as the magistrate appeared averse to proceed to extremities until it was ascertained whether the Catholics were assembled; and as he said he thought, if it were so, that he had influence enough to persuade them to disperse; leaving the troops as they stood, I proceeded with him along the road for more than a mile, but there was no appearance of any such assembly; and by the time we had returned, the Protestants had retired from their position; and on the police ascending the hill, they were seen marching away towards Loughgall in regular order, with sloped arms.

At this time the people whose houses had been burned began to return; and from their evidence, no doubt remains in my mind that the party on the hill had committed the depredation. These people were loud in their expressions against the magistrates, who they accused of being fully aware of what was to take place. Of the truth of this I am not to judge; but incline to the opinion that it was known that the Protestants were about to take revenge for two of their party having been shot at and wounded on Thursday evening last, when returning from Armagh after the chairing of Colonel Verner, the shots being fired from some of the houses which have been destroyed.

This dreadful havoc took place between twelve and one o'clock in the day; and had the magistrates in Armagh allowed Mr. Henry to have moved with some part of the police yesterday morning, it would have been prevented; and it would have been equally prevented had Mr. Olford, who lives within a mile of the scene (supposing him to have been aware of the intention) demanded the assistance of the military at Charlemont.

Although the armed party had retired, we remained on the road until nearly dark, and on returning to Charlemont we found the town of Moy (separated by the river) full of armed Protestants collected from the neighbourhood; but upon intimating a determination to prevent their passing the bridge, they returned to their homes with drums and fifes playing.

It would be superfluous to enumerate all the vague reports of both parties being determined to assemble through the country and oppose each other; but the exasperation and excitement is so great, that I feel assured nothing but the presence of a large military force can save the tranquillity of the county; and I beg to suggest that troops should be stationed at Moy, at Loughgall and Blackwater-town, who should constantly patrol under the superintendence of an active chief magistrate.

I have, &c.

(signed) Frederick Stovin.

Charlemont, 4 o'clock.

P.S.—I find upon inquiry that large bodies of the Catholic party had been parading through the country on the night of Friday, firing shots and using the most insulting and threatening language, which may have accelerated the proceedings of the Protestants.

I have drawn a chief-constable and 20 police from Armagh to this place; and as I hear that all the troops have returned from the elections to that town, write to General Macdonnell for a party to be stationed here or at Moy without delay.

No. 6.—Sir F. Stovin to Sir H. Hardinge.

Sir, Dungannon, 19 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to transmit, for the information of the Lord Lieutenant, the report of Chief-constable Atkinson, who I mentioned having stationed with 20 police at Charlemont; from which it is evident that armed parties are on the alert through that part of the country where the scene of depredation took place on the 17th instant.

The chief-constable has fortunately arrested five men with arms, while on patrol this morning; which I trust will lead to a discovery of the perpetrators of the outrages already committed, and possibly prevent a repetition of them.

Rumours are still afloat that both parties are determined to act offensively against each other; and as I have certain information that frequent demands for gunpowder have been made within the last few days of the venders in Dungannon and Moy, it might be advisable to authorize the chief-constable to withdraw all licences in his district for the present.

I have, &c.

(Enclosure.)—Chief-constable Atkinson to Sir F. Stovin.

Sir, Charlemont, 19 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to inform you that, on my march from Armagh here, I was challenged by a party of men who were assembled on Kinnigo-hill; several in their party cried out, "Fire," and others desired them not: on which I desired my party to load, and then advanced to the hill. On my approach they fell back. I was met by two men of their party, who appeared to be respectable, and stated that they were come to that place for the purpose of advising the people to disperse, and that they were only assembled for the purpose of protecting their lives and properties. There appeared to be a great number assembled; but, from the darkness of the night, I was unable to ascertain their force.

The patrols were conducted according to your orders, at the hours of eight, eleven and half-past five o'clock; they consisted of one constable and five men each. The patrol that went out at eight o'clock returned at eleven; that which went out at eleven was accompanied by Mr. Olpherts, J. P., and met the patrol from Armagh at Annahagh; returned at half-past two o'clock A. M.

I accompanied the patrol at half-past five o'clock this morning, and found five men on the road near Charlemont, with arms. I took them into custody, and reported the circumstance to Mr. Olpherts, J. P., who is to be in here this day to investigate the matter; returned to quarters at half-past eight o'clock, A. M.

I have, &c.

No. 7.—William Olpherts, Esq., J. P., to Sir H. Hardinge.

Sir, Dartry-lodge, Blackwater-town, 20 January 1835.

I HAVE to state to you, for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, that six men were taken into custody yesterday morning, under arms, convenient to Charlemont, by a police patrol under the command of Mr. Atkinson, chief-constable of police; and in the course of the day, I took the information of Mr. Atkinson and of some of the police, as also of Mr. Byers, the portreeve or chief magistrate of the borough of Charlemont, and of Joseph M'Murrain, a constable of the same place; and having given the case the best consideration in my power, I ordered the prisoners to be discharged, on Mr. Byers and another respectable person undertaking that the prisoners would appear when required: at the same time, I did not think that, weighing all the evidence taken before me, I was warranted to order the arms to be restored to those persons, without first having the sanction of his Excellency.

I discharged the prisoners, as from the evidence it appeared they did not think that in carrying arms they were acting contrary to law, but, on the other hand, they really considered themselves as duly authorized to do so, having been appointed by Mr. Byers, or his constable, to act as they did. Whether Mr. Byers or his constable were justified in giving such order and authority to those persons, does not fall within my duty as a magistrate to say. I merely make this brief statement, to explain to you the grounds on which I thought it proper to release the prisoners. The several informations are ready to be forwarded for his Excellency's inspection, whenever they may be required. I am happy to say that this morning we have every appearance of peace and good order being restored in this neighbourhood; at the same time I must say, that I think that a strong force of military or police should be stationed some time in the neighbourhood. The several roads here are patrolled every night by military and police; and being the only magistrate here, all the duty has fallen on me; and, should circumstances render it necessary to keep up military patrols, it would not be in my power to attend them every night. At the same time I must say, that I am ready and willing to encounter any fatigue I might be equal to. Though these unfortunate deluded parties at present may appear, from the forces opposed to their proceedings, peaceable, I am disposed to apprehend some waylayings after night; so that some steps should be, if possible, taken to guard against such acts of violence.

I have, &c.

(signed) William Olpherts, J. P. for Co. Armagh.

P. S.—Though I thought it necessary to discharge the prisoners, I must say that in my opinion Mr. Atkinson was highly correct in taking them into custody; and I assure you he manifested great steadiness and command of himself during the investigation, at which several persons were (if they dared) well disposed to wound his feelings.

No. 8.—The Earl of Gosford to Sir William Gosset.

Sir, Gosford, 20 January 1835.

JUST returned from Armagh; and I have only time to inform you that, from what I could collect from those most likely to give me the best information as to the state of the country between it and Charlemont, there is reason to expect all will remain quiet. However, precaution is still necessary, and the patrols will continue to go out at night through that district. There has been, of course, a great deal of exaggeration on all sides. I am told there has been a communication between the contending parties, and that both have agreed to desist from farther acts of violence. The burning of the houses is the worst feature in the cases; and I beg to submit whether it might not be advisable to offer a large reward for the discovery of those concerned in this diabolical business. I have reason to believe that by far the greater majority of the Orange mob concerned in this, belonged to the adjoining county Tyrone, and possibly a reward might have a good effect. Excuse the hurry I am obliged to write in.

No. 9.—Sir Henry Hardinge to the Earl of Gosford.

My Lord, Dublin Castle, 21 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to inform your lordship that the Lord Lieutenant has received much satisfaction in learning, from your letter of the 20th instant, that the country between Armagh and Charlemont is quiet, and that there is reason to expect that it will continue so.

It appears to his Excellency expedient that all the circumstances connected with the outrage committed by the burning of the cabins, and with the previous occurrences, should have the fullest investigation by the magistrates assembled at such place as your lordship may deem most convenient.

A rumour has been received by the Government, that two of the friends of the party who are supposed to have set fire to the cabins, had been shot from them, and that one of those persons is in a dying state. This should be ascertained, in order that a proclamation, offering a reward for the discovery of the incendiaries, may be accompanied by another offering a reward for the discovery of the persons who fired the shots.

When his Excellency is favoured with a report of the inquiry, he will lose no time in taking such steps as may be deemed proper for the discovery of the offenders and bringing them to justice.

No. 10.—Sir F. Stovin to Sir H. Hardinge.

Sir, Dungannon, 20 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to transmit, for the information of the Lord Lieutenant, the report of Chief-constable Atkinson, stating that the persons whom he had arrested in arms on the morning of the 19th inst. had been discharged by the magistrate, but their arms were retained.

Patrols are now kept up between Armagh and Charlemont, which, I doubt not, will have a most beneficial effect; and by to-morrow evening troops will be stationed at Blackwater-town and Loughgall, who will likewise patrol.

I have, &c.

(Enclosure).—Chief-constable Atkinson to Sir F. Stovin.

Sir, Charlemont, 20 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to inform you, that after an investigation which lasted until eight o'clock last night, Mr. Olpherts discharged the prisoners, on the portreeve of the town going security for their appearance when called upon; but refused to give up the arms.

I accompanied the first patrol at nine o'clock P. M.; proceeded to Blackwater-town, then crossed into the Armagh road, near to where the houses were burnt, and returned to Charlemont at half-past twelve o'clock A. M. The patrol consisted of myself, one constable and eight men; nothing particular occurred.

Second patrol.—One constable and one sub-constable, accompanied by the magistrate and military, at half-past twelve o'clock A. M. Met a magistrate and party of dragoons from Armagh. Returned to Charlemont at half-past two o'clock A. M.: all tranquil.

Third patrol.—One constable and seven men, left Charlemont at half-past two A. M., accompanied by Mr. Olpherts, J. P. Returned at five o'clock A. M.: all tranquil.

I have, &c.

No. 11.—Sir William Gosset to Sir F. Stovin.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 22 January 1835.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 20th instant, reporting, with reference to the late party affray that occurred near Charlemont, that nightly police patrols have been established between that town and Armagh, and that a military party will immediately occupy Blackwater-town for the like purpose.

I beg,

I beg, in reply, to observe, that having heard from other official sources that delegates have met on the part of the Catholics and Protestants, with a view to an amicable settlement of their quarrel, I wish to have this and any other particulars reported, for the information of the Lord Lieutenant.

I have, &c.

No. 12.—William Olpherts, Esq., J. P. to ——.

Charlemont, 21 January,
Half-past 3 o'clock.

Sir,

I RECEIVED, this morning, a message from Mr. Atkinson, chief officer of police, that a house had been burned early this morning in Willis' Grange, near Kilmore, where the other houses had been burned; but within the last hour I have heard reports which incline me to hope that the fire was accidental, and not of a premeditated and malicious nature. Early this morning I was at the place; and in consequence of what I hear, I shall immediately return to the place and investigate as carefully as I can as to the cause of this fire; and if in time for the mail, you shall hear from me on the subject.

I remain, &c.

My direction is, "Dartry Lodge, Blackwater-town."

No. 13.—Sir F. Stovin to Sir H. Hardinge.

Sir, Dungannon, 21 January 1835.

I HAVE the honour to enclose, for the information of the Lord Lieutenant, the report of Chief-constable Atkinson; by which it appears, the men arrested by him acknowledged that four of the arms carried by them belonged to the yeomanry; and I regret to observe that another house, belonging to a Catholic, has been burnt early this morning, situated near where the burnings took place on the 17th instant.

I have, &c.

No. 14.—Sir H. Hardinge to J. G. Jones, Esq.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 23 January 1835.

I ENCLOSE, by the direction of the Lord Lieutenant, a report, dated the 21st instant, which has been received, through Sir Frederick Stovin, from Chief-constable Atkinson, stating that the men arrested by him on the occasion of the recent outrages in the county of Tyrone acknowledged that four of the arms carried by them belonged to the yeomanry. And I am to signify his Excellency's desire, that when the whole affair alluded to is under investigation, you will be pleased to bring the fact reported by Mr. Atkinson before the magistrates, in order that it may be ascertained whether these men, acting under the orders of the portreeve of Charlemont, were authorized by him to go armed, and also how far the portreeve could be justified, under any circumstances, in ordering men of a yeomanry corps to turn out armed.

I have, &c.

No. 15.—Sir Frederick Stovin to Sir William Gosset.

Sir, Gosford, 23d January 1835.

IN reply to yours of yesterday's date, I have the honour to report, for the information of the Lord Lieutenant, that on my way here I saw two of the most respectable inhabitants of Moy, also Mr. Olpherts the magistrate, who resides within a mile of Charlemont, who were all of opinion that no delegates had met on the part of the Protestants and Catholics, with a view to an amicable settlement of their quarrel. Lord Gosford heard the same report on Tuesday last, in Armagh, but it may be doubted if there was any solid foundation for the assertion.

If sinister views are still in contemplation, I think either party is equally capable of endeavouring to put the authorities and police off their guard, in order to carry their mischievous projects into effect with the greater security.

The peace of the country remained undisturbed last night. I return to Dungannon tomorrow.

I have, &c.

No. 16.—The Earl of Gosford to Sir Henry Hardinge.

Sir, Gosford, 22 January 1835.

From all I can collect I have reason to think all was quiet last night. I am prepared to assemble the magistrates, and to hold the investigation at any time you may please to name; I decidedly think that Armagh would be the most convenient place, on every account, to have it in. There are various accounts as to the way a man of the name of Williamson came by his wound: as yet all our information is ex parte, and I have not had sufficient information to enable me to give any satisfactory opinion on this point; I hope now to receive answers to my inquiries on this point.

I beg to observe that the sooner the investigation is held the better.

I have, &c.

No. 17.—Sir H. Hardinge to the Earl of Gosford.

My Lord, Dublin Castle, 24 January 1835.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your lordship's letters of the 22d and 23d instant, which have been laid before the Lord Lieutenant.

His Excellency concurs with your lordship in thinking that Armagh would be the most convenient place for the investigation of the circumstances connected with the late outrage near Charlemont, and he is desirous that the inquiry should be commenced at the earliest moment at which it may be practicable.

In my letter of the 21st instant, I informed your lordship that his Excellency considered it expedient that all the circumstances connected with the burning of the cabins, and with the previous occurrences, should receive the fullest investigation. It is his Excellency's desire that the inquiry should be so conducted as to ascertain, not only the facts that have occurred, but the origin of the existing feuds; and that it should extend, if necessary, to the period of the races, three months ago, when the quarrel between the parties is said to have commenced.

With respect to your lordship's suggestion that a magistrate should be stationed, during the investigation, at Moy, Blackwater-town or Loughgall, I am to request that your lordship will make such arrangements as may be necessary for that purpose, in concert with Sir Frederick Stovin.

His Excellency will recommend James Hay, esq., of Moy, to the Chancellor, for the commission of the peace, as suggested by your lordship.

Sir, Petty Sessions, Armagh, 24 January 1835.

We beg to submit for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, the enclosed list of special constables, appointed by us on the 17th instant; the accompanying affidavits having been previously made before us of existing disturbances in Armagh and its neighbourhood, and of which we had personal knowledge. By the post of the 17th instant, we informed the lord-lieutenant of this county, of such special constables being appointed.

No. 19.—Earl of Gosford to Sir William Gosset.

Gosford, 29 January 1835.

Sir,

THE investigation commenced on Wednesday last; I do not think we shall get through it before Saturday evening. An attempt was made last night by three men to burn the house of a Catholic, near Blackwater-town; they set fire to some hay, which was lying on the roof of a shed attached to the house; the blaze was seen, and by the assistance of some neighbours it was put out. Owing to the exertions of Mr. Jones, the chief magistrate, who happened to be in Blackwater-town on that night, two of the men concerned have been apprehended, and are now in Armagh gaol.

I have, &c.
(signed) Gosford.

No. 20.—The Earl of Gosford to Sir H. Hardinge.

Sir, Gosford, 8 February 1835.

The investigation finished last Wednesday evening, after a very close and minute inquiry into the circumstances which his Excellency was pleased to submit to our consideration. The principal feature in the business was the burning of seven houses in the townland of Anahagh, belonging to Catholics; and I confess this appears to me to have been a most wanton atrocious outrage, and any attempt to soften or to palliate the offence failed in its object, and tended in no way to shake my opinion as to the transaction. With respect to the rumours of the Williamsons having been shot, I have only to remark that no evidence to support it was produced. It appears that the Williamsons were beaten with sticks after the racking of M'Mahon's house and the sacking of Hughes, and the strong presumption is that they were concerned in both outrages. For the other particulars I beg to refer you to the proceedings which accompany this, and also to Mr. Jones's report, which I am sure will be sufficient to put the Lord Lieutenant in full possession of all the circumstances connected with our inquiry. I cannot omit stating, that in the whole of this business I have received very able and valuable assistance from Mr. Jones, and I also feel much indebted to Sir Frederick Stovin, for his active and zealous exertions to promote the object of the investigation. I am decidedly of opinion that the people in this county are well inclined to live in harmony and goodwill with one another; and if the gentlemen would, in their respective neighbourhoods, use their influence in cultivating this feeling, the happiest results might be expected.

I have, &c.

Lieutenant, County of Armagh.

No. 21.—Sir William Gosset to the Earl of Gosford.

My Lord, Dublin Castle, 21 February 1835.

I have had the honour of submitting to the Lord Lieutenant your lordship's letter of the 8th instant, transmitting the report of the laborious investigation, which you had the goodness to undertake, into the circumstances connected with the gross outrages recently committed in the county of Armagh.

His Excellency deeply deplores the spirit of animosity which has so unfortunately and mischievously displayed itself on the occasions which have been the subjects of that inquiry; and I am directed to assure your lordship of the anxious desire of his Excellency to bring to justice the incendiaries, and the perpetrators of any of the outrages which have occurred, by whatsoever party they may have been committed.

For this purpose, his Excellency will be glad to receive from your lordship suggestions with regard to offering rewards for the detection and the bringing to justice of the persons who have outraged the laws.

There are circumstances mentioned in the course of the investigation which have reference to the conduct of a magistrate, and to armed members of the yeomanry corps; these have not escaped the notice of his Excellency, and they will receive his serious consideration.

His Excellency trusts that the best endeavours of the local authorities will be used to allay these angry party feelings, to restore tranquillity to the country, and to bring the offenders to justice.

For the furtherance of these most important objects, the aid of the Government will not fail to be promptly afforded.

I have, &c.

Sir, Gosford, 24 February 1835.

I received your letter of the 21st instant. I beg you to assure his Excellency that its contents have given me entire satisfaction. I am decidedly of opinion that it would be desirable to offer a reward, with the view of bringing the incendiaries to justice. From the communications I have had with Sir Frederick Stovin and Mr. Jones, I am happy to say that the peace of the country is considerably restored.

I am, &c.

No. 23.—Sir William Gosset to the Earl of Gosford.

My Lord, Dublin Castle, 12 March 1835.

In my letter of the 21st ultimo, I had the honour to state to your lordship the anxious desire of the Lord Lieutenant to bring to justice the incendiaries and other perpetrators of the outrages which formed the subjects of the investigation recently held by you. And in your letter of the 24th ultimo, your lordship approved of a suggestion of his Excellency, that it would be desirable to offer a reward, with the view of attaining that object.

The particulars of the several cases being now before the Lord Lieutenant, so far as is requisite for this purpose, his Excellency has directed a proclamation to be issued, of which I have the honour to transmit a copy to your lordship, offering rewards for the discovery of the perpetrators of the more flagrant of the outrages in question.

In the case of the cruel assault on a man named M'Whinney, and his daughter, as it appears that some persons have been apprehended on a charge of having been concerned in this outrage, his Excellency has not thought it necessary to offer a reward.

PROCLAMATION.

Dublin Castle, 12 March 1835.

WHEREAS it has been represented to the Lord Lieutenant, that on the 15th of January last, the house of Terence M'Mahon, publican, residing at Tullygariff, near Blackwater-town, in the county of Armagh, was attacked by a mob of persons, who broke into the dwelling, and having assaulted M'Mahon, robbed him of a firelock and injured his goods: And that on the same day, John and James Williamson were attacked by several persons at Annahagh, near the aforesaid village of Blackwater-town, and severely beaten, so that their lives were endangered: And that on the 17th of January last, seven cabins were maliciously set on fire at Annahagh, near Blackwater-town, and totally consumed: And that on the same day, the houses of Patrick Hughes and Daniel Conroy, residing at Kilmore, in the county of Armagh, were maliciously set on fire by an armed party, who fired several shots at some of Conroy's family, while the houses were burning: And that on the same evening, the house of Mary Moore, at Blundell's Grange, in the said county, was ransacked by a party of persons, and then burned to the ground: His Excellency, for the better apprehending and bringing to justice the perpetrators of these outrages, is pleased hereby to offer the rewards annexed to the several cases, to any person or persons who shall, within six months from the date hereof, give such information as shall lead to the apprehension and conviction of all or any of the persons concerned therein; viz.

1. To any person or persons who will give such information as shall lead to the apprehension and conviction of all or any of the persons who attacked the house of M'Mahon, his Excellency is pleased hereby to promise a reward of 50 l.

2. To any person or persons who will give such information as shall lead to the apprehension and conviction of the persons who attacked John and James Williamson on the 15th January, his Excellency is pleased to promise a reward of 50 l..

3. To any person who will give such information as shall lead to the apprehension and conviction of the persons who set fire to the seven cabins aforesaid, on the 17th January, his Excellency is pleased to promise a reward of 100 l.

4. To any person who will give such information as shall lead to the apprehension and conviction of all or any of the party who set fire to the houses of Patrick Hughes and Daniel Conroy aforesaid, and fired at the family, his Excellency is pleased hereby to promise a reward of 50 l.

5. To any person who will give such information as shall lead to the apprehension and conviction of the persons who set fire to the house of Mary Moore, on the 17th January, a reward of 50 l.

By his Excellency's command,
William Gosset.

Secretary's Office, Court of Chancery,
Sir, 20 March 1835.

BY direction of the Lord Chancellor, I transmit a copy of a letter from Mr. Hardy. The Lord Chancellor wishes it to be sent immediately to England.

I have, &c.
Sir William Gosset. (signed) John D. Norton.

Sir, Ely Place, 20 March 1835.

BY command of the Lord Lieutenant, certain evidence taken upon an investigation held in the court-house of Armagh in January last, has been transmitted to me, for the purpose of drawing my attention to your conduct upon that occasion. I have attentively read your own evidence, as well as that of other witnesses, and your own evidence appears to me to establish the following facts:—

1st. At seven or eight o'clock on the evening of the 16th January, you saw ball-cartridges made in a house in Loughgall, by Richard Graham. You saw only about 12 balls, and do not know how many were made in Loughgall.

2d. In consequence of what you had heard you went in the direction of Kinnigo about eight o'clock, with Graham, and you saw a boy called Sloan, in liquor, with a gun, going from Loughgall to Kinnigo to assist the Protestants, and advised him to return.

3d. Upon your return to Loughgall you were applied to by Savery for assistance against the Roman-catholics.

You told them you had no police, and desired them to return to put themselves in readiness to repel any attack, but on no account to proceed from the place. If they were attacked, to send you word, and you would endeavour to have assistance.

You intended (not having police) to bring some of the well-disposed of the village of Loughgall with you.

4th. There was alarm amongst the people at Kinnigo, and between nine and ten o'clock at night you and Mr. Walker, Dr. Shegog and others, went in the direction of Kinnigo with three or four guns. You met Mr. Cardwell, and all returned to Loughgall.

5th. About two o'clock in the morning Loughgall church-bell rang; you cannot say who ordered the bell to be rung; "A servant informed you it was a signal to assault the Protestants."

You proceeded with a party to the church; and others, all of the neighbourhood, joined you there. About 20 or 30 arrived with guns and blunderbusses, and the like. You all walked to Kinnigo. "You said, if any breach of the peace would ensue, you would be very responsible for any act committed."

6th. You there found a Protestant party in arms, and remained there till five o'clock in the evening, and then returned to Loughgall with about 12 or 16 of your party, leaving the rest behind. "You desired those behind not to leave their places; that is, not to go from the town to make any attack, and if attacked they would have the law on their side." You heard shots fired shortly after you left Kinnigo. Fourteen or 15 men were left behind, and they came home to Loughgall about eight o'clock on the same morning.

7th. All was tranquil at Loughgall at nine o'clock. "About one o'clock, you state that unfavourable reports reached you, and you forwarded Cardwell's deposition as to the houses being burned, to Mr. Henry, and you sent to Sir Thomas Molyneux, who wrote to you stating that the yeomanry could not be called out unless under particular circumstances."

8th. About three o'clock you proceeded through College lands toward Kinnigo, and you state your interview with Mr. Olpherts and Sir F. Stovin. You saw John Irwin, your bailiff, "and told him to go upwards towards Kinnigo, and tell any person there that they might give up their watching, as the military were on the grounds."

9th. On Sunday morning you went to Kinnigo; found all quiet. You found about six men in Irwin's house. You said you thought they might give up their guards, as the military and the police were on the watch, and patrolled; but in consequence of reports as to the Roman-catholics, and of an affidavit that Donnelly was going from chapel to chapel to collect a force, you appointed nine special constables, and had a guard placed in the school-room, and sent out patrols, under charge of the constables, armed with guns.

10th. About eight o'clock in the evening Mr. Obree came into Loughgall, and spoke of the excitement on the road. About two o'clock in the morning Mr. Obree, who is not a magistrate, came to Loughgall, accompanied with an armed party of about 100 or 150, with muskets, &c. (Donnelly swears the party consisted of 150); some of the men had belts and pouches on. Obree said he would be accountable for the conduct of his men. "He said, nothing should be done by them or party, but under the command of Mr. Hardy." Some of those in Loughgall, as caretakers, joined Obree's party. "You and the party went toward Drumant and the Grange," and saw no party of people; only your own patrol. You returned and treated the party at Cardwell's to a glass of spirits and water each. (Cardwell says they got spirits; none of them were intoxicated.) Other armed parties came into town, who said they heard you had sent for them, and you ordered them home. Sir F. Stovin's evidence proves that Cardwell, about 12 o'clock on the 17th, procured a barrel and a half of gunpowder. He explains the nature of the force on Kinnigo-hill, at the time the seven cabins were burning on the opposite side. He says, M'Mullen came down as the ambassador from these 150 men, and said they were "defending themselves; they were all beaten the night before." He said, "The Roman-catholics were then behind the hill." Sir Frederick said, "You have arms in your hands." M'Mullen said, "O, sir, we were all beaten the night before." Sir F. said, "Why did you not go to a magistrate?" and M'Mullen said, "We'll manage our own affairs."

Now throughout these transactions you, although a magistrate, appear to me to have acted not in that character, and in support of the law and with the constituted authorities, but to have joined an illegal assembly in arms, who professed to manage their own affairs, were subject to no control, and were opposed by another armed party equally unlawful.

Even after the military and police had been called into action under the civil authority, and had retired upon quiet being restored, and you had been informed that the yeomanry could not be called out, you appear again, on a false alarm, to have joined an armed party, strong in numbers, in the middle of the night, and to have paraded the country with them, and afterwards regaled them, without attempting or affecting to act as a magistrate.

I am bound to say that conduct like this cannot be passed over; and I have therefore felt it my duty to suspend you from acting as a magistrate. I should not have taken this step in the first instance if your own evidence had not, in my view, rendered it imperative; but I shall be ready to give my best attention to any explanation which you can offer upon the case as it affects your conduct.

AGREEABLY to the inclosed requisition, a number of the most respectable parishioners of Tamlaght-finlagan met in the village of Ballykelly, on the 5th instant, for the purpose stated in the requisition, but were prevented holding the meeting in consequence of a mob who assembled in the village, most of them armed, and intimidated the parishioners by firing shots over their heads, and prevented them getting into any of the houses to hold the meeting. A petition has since been prepared and sent through the parish for signatures. The mob who met in Ballykelly were Orangemen.

I HAVE received and laid before the Lord Lieutenant your letter of the 11th instant, and its enclosure, from Chief Constable Nesbitt, reporting that a number of the parishioners of Ballykelly met for the purpose of petitioning Parliament for the Abolition of Tithes and the Regium Donum, but were prevented holding their meeting by the appearance of an armed mob of Orangemen.

In reply, I am to convey to you his Excellency's desire, to have a full report of the particulars of this occurrence, it being impossible to come to a decision on this meagre statement of the Chief Constable.

ACCORDING to the directions of the Lord Lieutenant, conveyed in your letter of the 14th instant, I directed Chief Constable Nesbitt to furnish a more detailed account of the proceedings at Ballykelly, and also that Sub-inspector Crossley should inquire into all the circumstances which occurred; and I have the honour to enclose the reports of these officers, the latter of which will be found to be most circumstantial and important in its detail.

Sir, Newtown Limavady, 17th February 1835.

WITH reference to my report of the 7th instant, relative to an intended meeting at Ballykelly, to petition against tithe, having been on duty at Coleraine the day of the meeting prevented me receiving sufficient information to enable me to make a detailed report on the subject.

I have been informed, that a meeting of the parishioners of Tamlaght-finlagan was called by the churchwardens, on requisition from 30 of the most respectable Protestant tithe-payers of that parish.

On the day appointed for the meeting, a considerable number of the farmers of said parish went to Ballykelly, and about the same time several parties of Orangemen, (who did not belong to the parish,) from Newtown Limavady and the neighbourhood of Ballykelly, assembled in that village, many of them armed, and intimidated the parishioners from holding the meeting in any of the houses. The requisitionists therefore proceeded to the corn-market with the intention of proceeding with their business in one of the sheds; but they were followed by the mob, who fired several shots, and threatened to drive them out of the village, on which they withdrew, and sent the petition round the houses of the parishioners for signature.

Sir, Garvagh, 19th February 1835.

I HAVE the honour to inform you that, agreeably to your directions, I yesterday proceeded to Newtown Limavady to inquire into the circumstances attending the meeting of the parishioners of Tamlaght-finlagan, at Ballykelly. I sought and obtained an interview with two of the most respectable of the requisitionists, who stated that the requisition calling the meeting was signed by 18 of the wealthiest and highest tithe-payers in the parish; that when those and others were assembled in one of the churchwardens' houses, a discussion arose as to the propriety of combining in the petition for the abolition of tithes, that of the withdrawal of the "Regium Donum," which being rejected, they proceeded to the corn-market, (having been refused the use of the church,) for the purpose of choosing a chairman, when about 200 persons issued out of the houses, some of them armed, and followed them, hooting and groaning and firing shots, for the purpose of intimidating and preventing the meeting. Those persons were composed of men well known to be Orangemen, and not belonging to the parish; and it is asserted that it can be proved on oath that they were induced to assemble in this manner by persons of influence and in power in the neighbourhood. The requisitionists, seeing that mischief would ensue had they proceeded with their original intention, very prudently desisted, and withdrew themselves from this disgraceful scene. On the way home an assault was committed upon Mr. John Cherry, one of the persons who signed the requisition, by some of the fellows who opposed the meeting.

I have thus given you, as minutely as I could collect, the circumstances connected with this meeting; and have to add, that the persons who called the meeting have no wish of themselves

themselves to proceed to any inquiry; but that if the authorities would institute such, they would come forward and support what I have set forth in this report. The petition, notwithstanding the opposition it met with, has received 1,000 signatures, mostly all Protestants. Those who signed the requisition are all Protestants, except one, and the parish is one of the wealthiest in the county. The inhabitants, as to persuasion, stand thus, viz.:

847 Protestants, including Methodists.

8,000 Presbyterians.

1,700 Roman-catholics.

I have, &c.

I should have stated that only five or six stand of arms were exhibited, and those were such as used by persons killing wild-fowl.

BORRIS CHAPELS.

RETURN to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 3 April 1835;—for,

COPIES of a CORRESPONDENCE between the Roman-catholic Priests of the Parish of Borris, in the County of Carlow, Robert Doyne, Esq., a Magistrate of the County of Carlow, and the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, on the subject of the alleged ATTENDANCE of the MILITARY at Roman-catholic Chapels of Borris, on Sunday the 8th of February, and the following Sunday, at the usual hour of Divine Service, and any other Papers on this subject which have been communicated to the Government.

SIR, Borris, February 17, 1835.

I TAKE the liberty of forwarding to you the enclosed Memorial, hoping you will be pleased to present it to the Lord Lieutenant. If the soldiers continue to appear in arms, I fear it will greatly excite the feelings of the people, and that the most deplorable consequences may follow. Patiently waiting your reply,

I have, &c.
(signed) John Walsh, R. C. C.

To Sir Wm. Gosset,
&c. &c.

To His Excellency Lord Haddington, Lord Lieutenant, General Governor and Governor of Ireland.

WE, the undersigned Roman-catholic clergy, officiating in the parish of Borris, county of Carlow, most respectfully beg leave to solicit your Excellency's protection for the free and peaceable exercise of our religion. On the last and the preceding Sunday we were obliged to close our chapel and refrain from the public exercise of the rites of our religion. We have been induced to adopt this extraordinary and unprecedented course by the conduct of Robert Doyne, Esq., a magistrate of this county, and under-agent to Thomas Kavenagh, Esq., one of the representatives for this county. On Sunday the 8th instant, Mr. Doyne went to Goresbridge, in the county of Kilkenny, and brought with him a company of soldiers, to have them stationed at the entrance to the chapel of Borris, for the purpose of preventing some voters for Mr. Kavenagh being hooted by the people, and, in case they meet any opposition, to force an entrance for them into the House of God. On last Sunday the military and all the police attended for the same object. We are informed that they are to attend on next Sunday, for the same purpose.

We are convinced, that if we permitted the people to assemble on either of these days, the most deplorable consequences would most probably have followed. We were obliged to have the chapel closed, and not permit the people and the military to come in collision. The excitement usually following a contested election was, previous to this occurrence, gradually subsiding, and would before this have entirely ceased, had not the military been ordered to attend under arms at the chapel.

We most respectfully and earnestly beseech your Excellency to give directions for the military to discontinue appearing armed at the entrance of our place of religious worship, for whilst they continue to do so, we cannot assemble the people to worship their God, fearing that murder would follow. We humbly conceive that the ordinary course of administering the law is quite sufficient to punish any violation of it, which might arise from the causes we have mentioned. We look to your Excellency's impartiality to remove the pretext of exciting the religious feelings of the people.

Whilst we remain, &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 18th February 1835.

The Lord Lieutenant directs me to forward to you the enclosed representation addressed to his Excellency by the officiating Roman-catholic clergy in the parish of Borris, complaining that you had ordered the attendance of a military party on two successive Sundays at the entrance to the chapel of that town; and to request that you will furnish, for his Excellency's information, a statement of the circumstances under which you ordered the troops to attend on the occasions in question.

I beg that the enclosures may be returned.

Robert Doyne, Esq., J. P.,
Tullow Cottage, Tullow.

Sir, Borris, Goresbridge, 5th March 1835.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, dated 26th ult., enclosing a memorial of the Rev. Messrs. Walsh and Buggy, Roman-catholic clergymen of Borris, complaining, as they state, of my having, upon two successive Sundays, placed a military party at the entrance to their place of religious worship, and requesting that I would furnish, for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, a statement of the circumstances under which I ordered the troops to attend on the occasions in question.

In reply I beg to state, that for three weeks after the election, the parish of Borris was in a state of total insubordination. At every chapel throughout that extensive district, large masses of the peasantry assembled at the chapels and in the public roads on each successive Sabbath-day, and savagely ill-treated such of the Roman-catholic electors as voted for Colonel Bruen and Mr. Kavanagh. Their pews were entered, the electors dragged out of the chapels, and their wives and families inhumanly beaten. These occurrences took place in some instances in the presence of the priests, without the slightest exertion on their parts to prevent those outrages and scandalous violation of the public peace, as will appear by the enclosed copy of sworn information, marked No. 1.

In the chapel of Borris, one man, named Edward Mulligan, was assaulted, dragged out into the yard, where he was knocked down, pelted with stones, and but for the humane interference of some of his friends, he most probably might have been killed. As a resident magistrate, I was called upon by several Roman-catholics to afford them the protection of the laws, and in the impartial discharge of my duty, I advised the persons upon whom assaults were committed to summon the parties to the petty sessions of Borris, on the 6th of February, upon which occasion there were nine magistrates upon the bench, among whom were Messrs. Blackney and Vigors; four men were ordered to find bail to appear at the next quarter sessions for trial, for the assault upon Mulligan as above referred to. Before the court rose, the said Edward Mulligan asked for protection on the following Sunday; and as Messrs. Walsh and Buggy, by the most inflammatory speeches from the altar, had kept the people in a state of great excitement; fearing a breach of the peace, I ordered the military to attend from Goresbridge. On their arrival they occupied the inn, which is so situate as not to be even in view of the chapel, nor within I suppose 600 yards of it; and I have the honour to assure you, for the information of his Excellency, that so far from appearing at the entrance to the chapel, which is the whole complaint of the memorialists, the military never made their appearance in the streets after they took up their quarters on their arrival. The memorialists assert, that I intended to force an entrance into the chapel in case any opposition were given to the electors; this

I deny

I deny in the most unqualified terms; for my object was to preserve the peace, and in doing so, as will appear by the accompanying documents, I adopted the best course to prevent the possibility of a collision between the military and the populace.

On the second Sunday the military did not take up their quarters within a quarter of a mile of the chapel, although stated by the Messrs. Walsh and Buggy they were stationed at the entrance to the chapel, or, as they pray, in their memorial, "We beseech your Excellency to give directions for the military to discontinue appearing armed at the entrance of our place of religious worship," being stationed in the Sessions-house at the end of the town, the chapel being at the other extremity.

So far I trust I have, to the satisfaction of his Excellency, refuted the statements made by the memorialists, and on a perusal of the enclosed informations, I confidently hope he will find that I acted in my official capacity with as much prudence as the circumstances of the case required.

The memorialists further state, that the "ordinary course of administering the laws was quite sufficient to preserve the peace;" in reply to which I have only to observe, that where the Roman-catholic clergymen had been mainly instrumental in producing the fierce excitement which led to breaches of the peace, and where men's lives were openly threatened, some beaten, and a young female thrown from the gallery of the chapel of Borris, I had no alternative but to call upon the military; and I here solemnly state, that in no instance did I directly or indirectly make any invasion on the religious feelings of the people, but on the contrary, my object was to protect the respectable Roman-catholics in the due exercise of their right as British subjects, to attend their place of worship without molestation.

I have now the honour to inform you, that since the excitement ceased, the military have not been called upon; and I cannot help here stating, that the Roman-catholic clergymen, in refusing to say Mass, on pretence of having the military in the town, intended by this subterfuge to keep up excitement to serve their own purposes, by intimidating those electors who voted contrary to their mandates, so as to prevent their doing so upon any future occasion; in fact it was their mode of commencing a new canvass, upon which principle they have acted since the close of the poll at the late election, by a total prohibition from their presence of those of their miscreant flock, as they termed those who disobeyed them; and one priest, within my hearing, went so far as to say, in reply to an elector (who a few moments before had been dragged out of the chapel), on his appealing to him if he (the elector) had not as much right to go to his devotions as another, "that he had no business in the house of God," or in his own words, "What brought you there?" They have also preached the doctrine of exclusive dealing, and for the people to hold no communion whatever with the supporters at the election of the representatives for this county.

I have, &c.
(signed) Robert Doyne, J. P.

P. S.—I wrote to the officer of the 89th regiment, who commanded upon the occasion above referred to, but have as yet received no reply, which accounts for not answering your letter before this.

County of Carlow, to wit. } THE informations of Patrick Roache, of Borris, in said county, who deposeth and saith, that on Sunday the 1st day of February he attended Mass at the chapel of Borris, where he heard the priest, the Rev. John Walsh, sen., proclaim from the altar his intention of making a collection on the following Sunday, for the purpose of raising a "fund" for the payment of fines inflicted by the magistrates, on persons found guilty of assaults. Deponent further swears that this declaration had scarcely passed the priest's lips, when when a movement took place by some people near the chapel door towards the steps of the gallery, where Edward Mulligan, the only freeholder in the chapel who opposed the priest's party at the late election for said county, was then sitting, but who were prevented, as deponent believes, attacking the said freeholder, by a person who stood at the foot of the gallery; but as soon as the priest turned round to quit the altar, a simultaneous rush was made up to the gallery where the said freeholder, Edward Mulligan, was, and who in an instant was dragged off his knees, thrown down the stairs, nearly 20 feet high, and brutally ejected from the chapel, and when outside pelted with stones and otherwise assaulted, and had it not been for the humane and manly conduct of some of the people of Borris, deponent verily believes the consequences would have been fatal to the said Mulligan. Deponent further swears, that the whole of this disgraceful scene was perpetrated in consequence of the encouragement held out by the aforesaid priest, viz., that he would raise a fund for the purpose of paying the fines inflicted by the magistrates upon those persons found guilty of assaults, as deponent verily believes, on those freeholders who opposed the priest's party at the late election for said county.

My dear Sir, Carlow, 28 February 1835.

ON my return home this evening from the bridge of Old Leighlin, I received your note, and am really surprised to hear that it has been stated that the soldiers were placed at the entrance to Borris chapel on Sunday the 8th instant, and following Sunday.

You are aware that I was not at Borris on the 8th, but having attended there in your absence, and at your request, on Sunday the 15th, I can most positively state, that during the stay of the military, they were kept in the Court-house, which you know is at the extreme end of the village, and a long distance from the chapel; and they could not have been there without my knowledge. In fact, the only time the soldiers were near the chapel was when passing it in the morning, on their march from Graignamana, and the same when returning in the evening.

Yours, &c.

Robert Doyne, Esq.

Sir, Borris, Goresbridge, 1 March 1835.

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 28th ultimo, stating that the officiating Roman-catholic clergymen of Borris had memorialed the Government, complaining of your having placed the military, on Sunday the 8th of February last, at the entrance to their place of religious worship; and requesting I would give my testimony as to the disposition of the troops upon that day in the town of Borris.

In reply, I beg to state, that the troops marched into Borris about nine o'clock on the day in question, and went direct to the inn, which is a considerable distance from the chapel, and not in view of it; and then they remained within doors (a sentry being placed over them), till about five o'clock in the evening, when they marched back to Goresbridge. The above statement I can verify upon oath when called upon.

I have, &c.

Dear Sir, Dunleckney, Bagnalstown, 2 March 1835.

I HAVE just received your note, stating that the Lord Lieutenant has received a memorial from the Rev. Messrs. Walsh and Buggy, complaining that the military were placed at the chapel-gate on Sunday the 15th of February, the day on which I attended the military at Borris; and requesting I would state the facts of the case as they occurred.

In reply, I beg to state, the military were the whole of that day stationed in the Court-house, which is, I believe, at least a quarter of a mile from the chapel; and did not at any time make their appearance in the street except when coming into the town and leaving it. So groundless an accusation I never heard of being laid before the Government.

Robert Doyne, Esq., J. P., Borris.

Sir, Kells, 4 March 1835.

In answer to your letter of the 1st March, relative to the situation of the party under my command in the village of Borris, I have much pleasure in stating, that I certainly did not see the chapel; and I am convinced that none of the men could, as I placed them all in one room, 200 or 300 yards distance from the chapel, under charge of a sentry, with orders not to allow them to go out of his sight; which order was strictly complied with. And I have no hesitation in saying, that whoever said that you had placed the men at the chapel door asserted a falsehood; more particularly as the priest himself refused to celebrate the mass, and closed the doors of the chapel; at the same time saying that he would not do so, so long as the military were in the village.

I remain, &c.

(signed) C. King,

Lieutenant 89th Regiment.

R. Doyne, Esq., Magistrate, Borris.

P. S.—You are at liberty to make whatever use you choose of this letter.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 14 March 1835.

I have it in command from the Lord Lieutenant to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 17th ultimo, and its accompanying memorial of the Roman-catholic clergy officiating in the parish of Borris, complaining that military were placed, by the order of Robert Doyne, Esq., a magistrate of the county of Carlow, on two successive Sundays, at the entrance of your place of worship.

His Excellency having called upon Mr. Doyne to furnish a statement of the circumstances under which he ordered the troops to attend on the occasions in question, I am directed to acquaint you, that Mr. Doyne has represented in reply, that, for three weeks after the election, the parish of Borris was in a state of total insubordination. That at every chapel in that extensive district large masses of the peasantry assembled at the chapels and on the public roads on each successive Sabbath, and savagely ill-treated such of the Roman-catholic electors as voted for Colonel Bruen and Mr. Kavanagh; entering their pews, dragging them out of their chapels, and inhumanly beating their wives and families, without the slightest exertion of the clergy to prevent these outrages. It is also stated, that a serious assault was made upon a man named Mulligan, who was dragged out into the chapel-yard, and, but for the interference of his friends, might probably have been killed. From these and other similar circumstances which were brought before the magistrates at petit sessions, Mr. Doyne, fearing a breach of the peace, ordered the military to attend from Goresbridge; and he affirms, that on their arrival they were so situated as not to be even in view of the chapel, nor, it is supposed, within 600 hundred yards of it; and they never made their appearance in the streets. On the second Sunday, Mr. Doyne states, that the military did not take up their quarters within a quarter of a mile of the chapel, although the memorialists state that the troops were stationed at the entrance to the chapel. Coupling the above facts with others of a nature equally illegal, such as the open threats against the lives of individuals, personal ill-treatment of them, and the throwing of a young girl from the gallery of the chapel of Borris, his Excellency thinks that Mr. Doyne had no alternative than that which he adopted for the preservation of the peace; in doing which it is positively denied that there was any invasion on the religious feeling of the people.

Sir William Gosset.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 17 March 1835.

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of yesterday, referring to the representation made by the Roman-catholic clergy of Borris, reflecting on your conduct as a magistrate, and requesting to be granted a copy of the Lord Lieutenant's reply to that representation.

I have the honour, by command of the Lord Lieutenant, to inform you, that his Excellency is quite satisfied, from the explanation and the proofs which you have afforded in this matter, that the statement in question was not founded in fact, and has communicated with the memorialists to that effect.

I have, &c.

To Robert Doyne, Esq., (signed) William Gosset.
O'Dienne's Hotel, Sackville-street.

Sir, Borris, 19 March 1835.

In reply to your letter of the 14th, communicating to me the substance of Mr. Doyne's defence to the charges preferred against him in the Memorial of the Roman-catholic clergy of this parish, and forwarded to you on the 17th of February, I take the liberty of stating, that the facts stated by Mr. Doyne in his justification are literally untrue, as I hope will appear from the accompanying memorial, and the resolutions of the inhabitants of this parish, which I have the honour of forwarding to you for his Excellency's information. We demand the most rigid inquiry into the truth of the statements made by Mr. Doyne, all of which, excepting the case of Mulligan, we are prepared to prove to be untrue. Expecting this act of justice from his Excellency,

I have, &c.

Sir William Gosset, (signed) John Walsh, R. C. C.
&c. &c. &c.

To His Excellency Lord Haddington, Lord Lieutenant, General Governor, and Governor of Ireland. The Memorial of the undersigned Roman-catholic Clergy of the Parish of Borris, County Carlow, Humbly showeth,

That your Memorialists feel grateful to your Excellency for communicating to them the substance of Mr. Doyne's defence, forwarded to your Excellency in answer to the charges preferred against him by your memorialists in their memorial of the 17th of last February. We feel happy in being able to furnish your Excellency with such answers to Mr. Doyne's statements as we are confident will amply vindicate the character of the inhabitants of this part of the county from the charges brought against them by Mr. Doyne, and also convince your Excellency that your memorialists are incapable of submitting to your Excellency's consideration any statement not founded on truth.

Your memorialists beg leave to inform your Excellency, that they did not state (as Mr. Doyne asserts) that the military were placed at the chapel, but that he brought a company of soldiers from Goresbridge to have them stationed at the entrance of the chapel, and that the military came for that purpose: one of your memorialists was informed by Lieutenant King, of the 89th, who, when memorialist waited on him to know if he came to town for the purpose of attending with his men at the chapel on that day, he informed memorialist that he was brought for that purpose, when called on by the magistrate. This interview took place half an hour before the usual time for first mass; and immediately after, Mr. Hawkshaw, the police chief, with his men, with fixed bayonets, marched up and down the street before the chapel; under these circumstances, your memorialists determined not to have mass in the chapel, and dispersed the people then assembled, and there being no persons at the chapel, the military had no pretext for appearing there.

In reply to Mr. Doyne's first assertion, "that for three weeks after the election, the parish of Borris was in a state of total insubordination," we beg leave to assure your Excellency, that this is not the truth; on the two Sundays next after the election, the people attended at and retired from the different chapels in this parish without manifesting the slightest symptoms of disturbance. Your memorialists beg leave to inform your Excellency, that the first cause of excitement in this part of the county originated with Mr. Doyne. He caused fireworks and illuminations to be got up to celebrate the return of Colonel Bruen and Mr. Kavanagh; numbers of the country people attended, and were conducting themselves most peaceably and orderly, when they were driven by Mr. Hawkshaw and the police out of the town, the police acting as partisans by illuminating their barracks: this treatment so irritated the people, that had one of your memorialists not interposed, the most deplorable consequences might have ensued.

Mr. Doyne 2dly states, "that at every chapel in this district large masses of the peasantry assembled and savagely ill-treated such of the Roman-catholic electors as voted for Colonel Bruen and Mr. Kavanagh, entering their pews, and dragging them out of the chapels, &c. &c., without the slightest exertion of the clergy to prevent these outrages." Your memorialists most positively and solemnly assure your Excellency that the above statement is unfounded and false, and they most earnestly solicit the most rigid inquiry into its truth. Memorialists take this opportunity of informing your Excellency, that the only voter who was ever taken out of any chapel in this parish, or so assaulted, was a person named Mulligan, and that he came into the chapel at the conclusion of mass, and that he was accompanied by several other persons in the employment of Thomas Kavanagh, Esq., who assaulted the people in the chapel-yard before Mulligan was taken out of the chapel; they were convicted of this offence, and fined by the magistrates, which fine memorialists are ready to prove. Mr. Doyne promised to pay. The persons who assaulted Mulligan were two or three women and children, strangers, and in no way connected with this parish. Memorialists beg to state, that no outrage occurred in the presence of any one of them, and whenever they perceived the slightest disposition to disturbance, they immediately suppressed it. And on the day that Mulligan was assaulted, the parish priest declared, before commencing mass, that if there was any disturbance or disorder in the chapel he would not say mass. The same admonition was given at first mass, and in all the country chapels. Your memorialists feel much concern that expressions so injurious to their characters should go before the public through the medium of the press, before they ever heard they were made, or received your Excellency's answer to their memorial. Your memorialists solicit from your Excellency's impartiality an opportunity of vindicating their characters, and proving by the most incontrovertible evidence, that the charges preferred by Mr. Doyne against them are literally untrue.

In reply to Mr. Doyne's assertion, that a young girl was thrown from the gallery of the chapel of Borris, or from the gallery of any chapel in this parish, it is false and unfounded, no such occurrence having ever taken place. Your memorialists beg leave to inform your Excellency, that Kelly's Inn, where the soldiers stopped the first day, and the Court-house, where they were stationed the second Sunday, command a direct view of the chapel. Your memorialists solicit from your Excellency the most strict inquiry into the truth of the facts stated by Mr. Doyne.

And your memorialists shall ever pray.

Borris, 19 March 1835.

AT a meeting of the parish of Borris, held in Borris, on Tuesday the 17th of March, for the purpose of contradicting the statements of Mr. Robert Doyne, J. P., in a letter addressed to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, justifying his conduct in having obstructed the Roman-catholic worship by calling out the military; the following Resolutions were unanimously adopted; Mr. Andrew Dalton, in the chair:—

1. Moved by Mr. Lawrence Nolan, seconded by Mr. John Kelgins.—Resolved, That we have heard with surprise and indignation, that Robert Doyne, Esq., a magistrate of this county, when called upon by the Lord Lieutenant to answer charges brought against him for having called out the military from Goresbridge, for the purpose of attending at the chapel of Borris, on the 8th of February, has most falsely misrepresented this parish, by stating, that for three weeks after the election, the entire parish of Borris was in a state of total insubordination. To this assertion, we give the most direct and unqualified contradiction.

2. Moved by Mr. James Kelly, and seconded by Mr. Moses Magee.—We have attended the different chapels in this parish (since the election) every Sunday, unless when prevented by Mr. Doyne's uncalled-for and unwarrantable introduction of the military; and we take this public opportunity of declaring his second assertion untrue and unfounded; viz., that the Roman-catholic electors of Colonel Bruen and Mr. Kavanagh were savagely ill-treated on each successive Sabbath; their pews entered; they themselves dragged out of the chapels; that these occurrences took place, in several instances, in the present of the priests, without the slightest exertion on their part to prevent them: this we declare to be as false an assertion as has ever been made, and we challenge inquiry into the facts. The only person who was in any way ill-treated, was a man named Mulligan, who came to the chapel after mass, attended by several others, who commenced assaulting the people in the chapel-yard, before Mulligan was put out of the chapel, which was done by persons, strangers, and in no way connected with the parish.

3. Moved by Mr. William Phelan, seconded by John Doyle.—As Roman-catholics and British subjects, we feel ourselves insulted in being, by the uncalled-for interference of Mr. Doyne, prevented from the free and uncontrolled exercise of our religion, he having brought a military and police force to our chapel on Sunday.

4. Moved by Mr. Thomas Murphy, seconded by Mr. David Nolan.—That our esteemed and venerable pastor and his assistants are entitled to our lasting gratitude for their prudence and discretion, in closing our parish chapel on the 8th and 15th of February; for, we are convinced, that if the people were allowed to assemble, their lives would be in imminent danger, from the strong and vindictive feelings of the parties concerned.

Gentlemen, Dublin Castle, 31 March 1835.

YOUR further memorial of the 19th instant, respecting your complaint against Robert Doyne, Esq., a magistrate of the county of Carlow, having been laid before the Lord Lieutenant, I am commanded to inform you, that after having gone over the whole case, and after duly considering it, his Excellency was of opinion that no good result could follow from ordering an investigation. Being most anxious that excitement should cease, and that the different parties in the country should live in peace and amity, it appears to his Excellency that an investigation, such as you solicit, could only have the effect of increasing animosity, and keeping excitement alive. Besides these considerations, it does not seem that you have shown any ground for criminating the magistrate in the execution of his duty, on the two Sundays on which the police and military were assembled in Borris.

There are, however, two points brought forward in your present statement, and for the first time made known to the Government, which his Excellency has directed to be inquired into by the Inspector-general of Police. First, "that on the night that fireworks and illuminations were got up to celebrate the return of Colonel Bruen and Mr. Kavanagh, numbers of the country people attended, and were conducting themselves most peaceably and orderly, when they were driven by Mr. Hawkshaw and the police out of the town;" and, secondly, "the police acting as partizans by illuminating their barracks."

I am, &c.

The Reverend Messrs. Walsh and Buggy,
Borris.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 31 March 1835.

The Lord Lieutenant desires me to put you in possession of the enclosed copies of a memorial received from the Roman-catholic Clergy of the parish of Borris, in the county of Carlow, upon matters arising out of the late election, and of the reply which, by his Excellency's direction, I addressed to these gentlemen.

There are two points in the above memorial, to which his Excellency is anxious to draw your attention, where it is stated, first, "that on the night that fireworks and illuminations were got up to celebrate the return of Colonel Bruen and Mr. Kavanagh, numbers of the country people attended, and were conducting themselves most peacefully and orderly, when they were driven by Mr. Hawkshaw and the police out of the town;" and, secondly, "the police acting as partizans by illuminating their barracks;" and it is his Excellency's pleasure, that you will, at your earliest convenience, investigate on the spot into the points above alluded to, and report thereon for his decision.

I have, &c.

Sir J. Harvey,
&c. &c.

Petty Sessions House, Borris, County Carlow,
4 April 1835.

Sir John Harvey having attended here at 12 o'clock this day for the purpose of investigating certain charges preferred against chief constable Hawkshaw, by the Rev. Messrs. Walsh and Buggy, Roman-catholic clergymen of Borris, in a petition addressed to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, and having sent to apprise the reverend gentlemen of his arrival and readiness to proceed in the inquiry, pursuant to a communication addressed by Sir John Harvey to them from Dublin, under date Wednesday 1st inst., was immediately waited upon by Mr. Walsh, senior, and by him informed, that the communication referred to had not reached Mr. Walsh until yesterday morning (Friday 3d), and that he had immediately answered it by saying, that his two curates, Messrs. Walsh and Buggy, both being absent, and it being uncertain when they would return, it would be impossible to hold the inquiry except under circumstances decidedly unfavourable to the accusing party, on this day (Saturday 4th.) Under these circumstances, Sir John Harvey has felt it his indispensable duty to adjourn the inquiry to a day when it may be convenient to all parties to attend. Mr. Walsh having stated that on Monday next, the 6th inst., he will be ready to proceed in the inquiry, it is accordingly adjourned to that day at 12 o'clock.

(signed) J. Harvey.

Sir, Dublin, 7 April 1835.

In compliance with the instructions conveyed to me in your letter of the 31st ult., I immediately (on the 1st), wrote to the Rev. Messrs. Walsh and Buggy, appointing Saturday the 4th inst., at 12 o'clock, for holding the inquiry at Borris, in the county of Carlow, into the charges which they had preferred (after an interval of nearly 10 weeks), against chief constable Hawkshaw, and the police of Borris, for their conduct on the evening of the 20th January last. On my arrival at Borris, I found the Rev. Mr. Walsh, senior, who informed me that his two curates were absent on "private family business," in the Queen's county, in consequence of my letter (of the 1st) not having been received by him until the 3d, I was therefore therefore under the necessity of remaining in the county of Carlow until Monday the 6th, to which day I accordingly adjourned the inquiry.

The Minutes of Evidence taken before me, I have the honour to enclose, and to submit as my opinion, and report, with reference to them and to the facts then elicited, and to those which have otherwise come to my knowledge, that in clearing the streets of the town of Borris on the evening referred to, the chief constable and police acted under the positive and repeated orders of the only magistrate in the village, and that it has not been proved by any concurrent testimony that any act of intemperance or violence on the part of the chief constable or the police was committed against any individual. Those who have sworn the contrary have all been compelled to admit--

1st. That they sustained no bodily hurt or injury.

2d. That they could not identify any one of the policemen by whom they were "charged with fixed bayonets."

3d. That they are unable to bring forward a single witness of their own party, who saw the transaction, though the street was full of people.

4th. That they never made at the time or since, or thought of making, any complaint or application for redress, either to the police authorities, to the magistrates of the district, to their own clergy, or to any other individual; and were not informed that any complaint of this nature was to be preferred until Saturday last the 4th instant.

With regard to the 2d charge, "that the police acted as partisans in illuminating their barracks," while I admit that it would have been more discreet in Mr. Hawkshaw at once to have ordered the few candles which the women had placed in some of the windows (to protect them from being broken) to be extinguished, yet I trust his Excellency will make every allowance for the circumstances in which this really humane and excellent officer was placed, in being suddenly called out from where he was at dinner to quell a riot which, I think the evidence of Mr. Doyne and the serjeant of police, as well as that of Mr. Charles Corkoran, a respectable Roman-catholic inhabitant, proved was threatening to become very serious, the town being full of "strangers, and others, not in Mr. Kavanagh's interest, armed with bludgeons, &c. &c." And I also beg to draw his Excellency's attention to the fact stated in Mr. Hawkshaw's letter, which appears to me to prove that the police could not fairly be suspected of being partizans of the two Protestant candidates, viz. that six out of the nine of which the party was composed were Roman-catholics.

I have, &c.,

(signed) J. Harvey, Inspector General.

Sir William Gosset, K.C.H.

P.S.—I have omitted to state, that evidence might have been produced, that the shots said to have been heard by the 1st evidence (Patrick Mahony) on his way home, were fired by a tenant of Mr. Kavanagh's, (who resides about a mile and a half from the town) in defending his house from an attack made upon it by some of the "peaceable" persons returning from the illumination.

(signed) J. H.

Court-house, Borris, Monday, 6 April 1835.

Sir John Harvey having attended at Borris pursuant to adjournment, proceeds to examine the following evidences, called by the Rev. Messrs. Walsh and Buggy, in support of the charges which they have preferred against Chief Constable Hawkshaw and the police of Borris, for their conduct on the evening of the day on which fire-works and illuminations were got to celebrate the return of Colonel Bruen and Mr. Kavanagh.

First Evidence.—Patrick Mahony, of Ballinorlley, being duly sworn, states, that he came into the town of Borris with several of his neighbours to see the bonfire and illuminations which they had heard were to take place on the evening of the 20th January last, to celebrate the return of Colonel Bruen and Mr. Kavanagh. Walked up and down the street with his friends accordingly. About eight o'clock, as near as he can recollect, he was thinking of returning home; and, having promised to call for a comrade who wished to return with him, was proceeding ceeding accordingly towards the place where he had appointed to meet him, John Kavanagh. He was accompanied by Morris Foley, when they met Mr. Hawkshaw, Serjeant Lindsey and the police, nearly opposite the chapel-gate, driving a great number of the people before them, in the direction of Mr. Whitney's end of the village. The police had their bayonets fixed; the people were moving off quietly before them. Did not see the police strike or injure any of the people, but heard Serjeant Lindsey threaten a little girl that he would stick her to the wall for shouting. Deponent asked the chief constable leave to pass up the street, but Mr. Hawkshaw said, "You must go home;" and he was forced back with the rest of the people. Says the conduct of the people was extremely orderly and quiet. Knows the police barrack; saw a light in the upper windows on that evening.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hawkshaw. Was not stopped or interfered with by the police except at the time he has mentioned; viz. nearly opposite the chapel. Heard that there had been some window broken on that day. Did not see any stones thrown though he was up and down through the street the whole evening. Stones might have been thrown without his seeing it. Heard that one had been thrown at Mr. Charles Corkran's window. Heard several shots fired after he had left the town. Could not say whether they proceeded from the big house or from the streets of the town. Was not walking with Mr. Buggy or Mr. Hawkshaw during that evening.

Second Evidence.—Morris Foley, of Barmona. Was in the town of Borris on the evening of the 20th of January last. Met Patrick Mahony in the street on that evening, and walked about with him. About eight o'clock Mahony proposed to deponent to accompany him up the street to Paddy Dwyer's, to look for a boy from Knockro, a friend of his, whom he had promised to take home with him. Deponent objected to going, urging he was afraid to face the police, as he saw them then driving the people out before them. Mahony said he would ask the chief constable for leave to pass. Deponent then consented to go with him; and he, deponent, was the first to ask Mr. Hawkshaw for leave, saying he did not belong to the body, but wanted to get into the town on business. Mr. Hawkshaw answered he did not care what he belonged to, that he must quit the town; at the same time he pushed deponent on. The people were driven by the police as far as Mr. Whitney's. Deponent then went home, accompanied by Patrick Mahony. Was up and down the streets several times during that evening, and he remarked to Mahony that he had never seen the people so orderly or so quiet. Police were stationed at Mr. Corkran's house. Heard his window had been broken, and heard an expression of disapprobation of the act among several of the people; many of whom went away home in consequence of this act. Cannot swear that he saw the police barrack illuminated on the evening in question. Saw no person with fire-arms except the police. Heard no shots fired that evening while in the town, but heard shots and saw fire-works from his own house after he and Mahony went home.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hawkshaw. Heard no shots fired from any other place or quarter except the town of Borris. Heard a report a few days afterwards that the house of John Kavanagh of Canshall was attacked on the night of the 20th; but did not hear that he had sustained any injury. Heard that Corkran's window had been broken. Saw one or two policemen sentries at the door. Mr. Hawkshaw did not in the least hurt deponent when he pushed him on. Did not see Mr. Hawkshaw use any violence that evening towards any one. Mr. Hawkshaw said he did not care who he belonged to, or what he was; he must leave the town. Saw no sticks or wattles in the hands of the people that evening. Made no complaint to any magistrate of Mr. Hawkshaw's conduct towards him. Was applied to by Philip Moran last Saturday (4th) to attend here to give his evidence.

Third Evidence.—James Barron, of Kilcaltrum. Was in the town on the evening of the 20th of January. Was assailed by two policemen opposite to Paddy Dwyer's door, who took hold of him by the collar of his coat and dragged him; another policeman striking him at the same time betwixt the shoulders with the butt of his gun, and ordering him to be gone out of the town for a puppy. Dependent answered he had done nothing amiss, and that it was time enough for them to send him away when he had done something amiss. Would not be able to recognise any of the policemen who thus assailed him. Never saw the people quieter quieter on any occasion than that evening. The only window he heard of being broke was Mr. Corkran's. Saw four police at his door. Saw no illumination at the police barracks.

Cross-examined.—Saw a few hand-sticks with some of the boys. No one was present when he was assaulted by the police. Made no complaint to any magistrate, or to the chief constable, or to Serjeant Lindsay, about his treatment. Drank a little that evening. Drank only two glasses of whiskey at Mr. Flaherty's. Was not interfered with by any of the police on that evening except on the occasion above referred to. Did not hear of any boys from the county of Kilkenny, or Killingar in the county of Wexford, being in Borris on the evening of the 20th.

Fourth Evidence.—Michael Kavanagh, of Ballinagrain. Was coming into the town of Borris from towards Whitney's, when he was met near Pat Burn's by four or five policemen, who told him he should go no further. One of them gave him a push, and knocked him against the wall, and he fell down upon his hands and feet; and another policeman made as if he was going to stab him with his bayonet, and swore he would do so. Would not be able to recognise the policemen if he saw them. Does not know of any acquaintance who witnessed the transaction. Deponent slipped past the policemen, and came up to where the bonfire was. Was not molested while there. Saw the police barrack illuminated; both the upper and lower windows, as well as the Court-house. Never saw the people quieter than they were on that evening.

Cross-examined.—Has been in the police barracks once. Was in them for an assault. Is certain that all the windows of the police barrack were illuminated. Mentioned his having been assaulted by the police to several persons on the following day; said he had been attacked but not hurt. Did not hear of anybody having been hurt. Was not afraid of remaining in the town after the place had become quieter.

Fifth Evidence.—Patrick Rice, of Ballymartin. Was standing opposite the bonfire on the evening of the 20th January, when he heard Serjeant Lindsay say to a man of the name of Barron, in reply to some question or remark addressed to the Serjeant by this Barron, "we will bayonet them." This was said in the hearing of a man of the name of Matthew Burn; but deponent does not know exactly what conversation it referred to, but he had previously heard Barron ask the serjeant "what was the cause which brought all the people into the town." Saw the windows of the police barrack illuminated, and in some of the panes two candles. The people conducted themselves peaceably. Thinks that every house on the same side with the court-house, except that of James Kelly, was illuminated, from the police barrack and upwards. Did not see the police do any thing to the people that evening. Thinks he was at home before nine o'clock.

Cross-examined.—Heard that there was to be a great assembly of people, and a great bonfire on the evening of the 20th January. Thinks it a good thing to have the streets well lighted when there are great crowds collected on any occasion.

Sixth Evidence.—Matthew Burn, of Ballamartin. Constable Lindsay was standing near deponent on the evening of the 20th. Heard him talking to some one, but did not hear what he said. Saw the police barracks illuminated, cannot say all the windows, but double candles in some of the panes. Saw the police through the door and windows, making motions as if they were loading their arms. Did not remain long in town, having a sick child at home. The people conducted themselves quietly while he was in town.

No cross-examination.

Sixth Evidence.—Dennis Bourne, of Scortree. Was returning from the forge about nine o'clock on the night of the illumination, when Sub-constable Wiggins met him a little below Mr. Corkran's door, and immediately charged at him with his carbine and fixed bayonet to stab him, without saying one word, deponent calling loudly to him not to stab him. Deponent put the bayonet aside with his hand, and took refuge in the house of Peter Lynch, where he remained until the policeman went away. He then went home to his house, about a quarter of a mile. Never mentioned this occurrence to any body. Made no complaint to any magistrate or police officer, or to his clergy. Heard that Corkeran's windows were broke after he came out of Lynch's. As far as he saw, the people conducted themselves quietly.

Cross-examined.—Was much alarmed at the attack upon him by the policeman. The policeman might have hurt him, had he been so decided. Did not hurt him. There might be 20 or 30 passing Corkran's house at the same time that he was.

Sixth Evidence.—Widow Newland, of Scortree. Came into the town on the evening of the illumination. Was met by the police, who drove all the people down the street. Witness, with some other women, took refuge in the chapel-yard, from whence they were driven by Mr. Hawkshaw and a party of police, when she went home. Saw no stones thrown. Thinks the people were peaceable. Does not know whether the police barracks were illuminated.

Seventh Evidence.—John Lynch, of Borris, son of Peter Lynch. Saw Sub-constable Wiggins follow Dennis Bourne across the street from Mr. Corkran's, with his carbine and fixed bayonet, driving him across the street. Bourne put the bayonet aside with his hand, and then his father opened the door, and let him into the house, where he remained about ten minutes, and then went home. The police had been about half an hour in front of Mr. Corkran's door before the attack upon Bourne. Heard the noise of the breaking of Corkran's window, but did not see it done.

Cross-examined.—Saw strangers in the town that evening. Saw no wattles, but some hand-sticks. There were betwixt 10 and 20 people in the street at the time Burn took refuge in his father's house.

Messrs. Walsh and Buggy having intimated their intention of not calling any further evidence at present, Mr. Hawkshaw is called upon to bring forward what he may have to urge in his defence. Calls the following evidences:—

First Evidence.—Robert Doyne, Esq. J. P., being duly sworn, states that he saw a large collection of people (which appeared to deponent to consist chiefly of strangers) assembled opposite to the Reverend Mr. Walsh's house, on the evening of the 20th January, almost the whole of them having sticks, bludgeons, &c. in their hands. Deponent had previously heard that a large concourse of people (particularly from a distance) was expected to collect at Borris on the evening of the illumination; he felt it right to consult with Mr. Kavanagh, a brother magistrate, as to the steps proper to be taken. It was then directed to call upon the detachment of troops from Goresbridge, which was accordingly done, and they arrived about half-past nine o'clock. The assemblage of persons above described, paraded the town in a riotous manner, shouting, &c. One man he recollects in particular carrying an alpin (a long stick) on his shoulder; moreover, deponent had been applied to by Mr. Charles Corkeran, begging him to make arrangements for affording protection to himself, and other peaceable inhabitants of the town. Deponent observing what appeared to him a decided disposition on the part of the people to commit a riot (this occurred previous to the arrival of the troops), felt it his duty to see the chief constable, and to give him orders to patrole the streets of the town. Deponent thinks it proper to state that there appeared an evident reluctance on the part of the chief constable to comply with his wishes, which he had accordingly to repeat, when of course the order was complied with. Deponent remained in readiness to act with the troops in the support of the police if circumstances had rendered it necessary.

Cross-examined by Messrs. Walsh and Buggy.—Thinks it was about nine o'clock when he considered the people to be particularly disposed to be disorderly; thinks that the ladies of Borris House, protected as they were, would not be deterred from walking in the streets of the town to witness the illumination. Saw at least 200 people opposite to Mr. Walsh's house, they then passed up the street, passing deponent's house, where some of them hooted, and on this occasion he observed that they were armed with bludgeons, &c., as already described. This was considerably before the arrival of the military, indeed early in the evening, and it was that circumstance, and the application of Mr. Corkeran for protection, which decided Mr. Kavanagh and deponent to send for the troops from Goresbridge. Deponent considered it might be dangerous to allow so large and tumultuously-disposed an assemblage of persons to continue in the village, without having at his disposal a force sufficient to control and disperse them, if necessary. It was not found necessary to call in the military.

Second

Second Evidence.—Mr. Charles Corkeran, of Borris, sworn. Having been very ill-treated in Graignamana upon a former election (when he narrowly escaped with his life) in consequence of having voted for Colonel Bruen and Mr. Kavanagh, and having been informed that a number of persons from that town were expected to come into Borris on the night of the illumination on the 20th January, deponent felt it right to call upon the police authorities to afford him protection. He did accordingly apply to Mr. Doyne, stating that he apprehended some ill-treatment. In consequence, as he believes, of this application, Serjeant Lindsay of the police called on him, and informed deponent that arrangements would be made for his protection, and that he need be under no apprehension. In the early part of the afternoon of the 20th, deponent saw a great number of strangers and others that he knew were not in the interest of Mr. Kavanagh, coming into Borris. Every thing however proceeded quietly until the commencement of the illumination; but soon after deponent's house was lit up, a great number of people assembled opposite to his house, and began to call him names, and to groan, by which he was very much alarmed, particularly as he saw no police patrol as he had expected. Deponent therefore sent his servant again to require police protection; in consequence of this message Mr. Hawkshaw came to deponent and begged of him not to urge the police being sent. Deponent replied, "that a burnt child dreads the fire," and he must insist on being protected; two or three policemen were then sent, but previous to their arrival, two stones had been thrown against the door and the house, but without doing any harm; but after the arrival of the police, a stone came from the opposite side and went through the window, breaking only one pane of glass. The people continued their abuse of deponent, and the police remained for his protection. Large bodies of people passed his house frequently during the evening, many of whom had sticks. In reply to a question, deponent states that he had reason to believe that he had been rendered very obnoxious to a numerous body of his fellow-subjects, not only by having voted for particular individuals, but by the circulation of a report that he had upon a certain occasion drank or proposed a highly obnoxious toast, which report he begs leave most distinctly to take this occasion of stating upon his oath, is an absolute and malicious falsehood. Cannot state that he saw any person from Graigue on the evening of the 20th January.

Third Evidence.—S. C. P. Neale was sentry at Mr. Corkeran's door. Saw the window broke by a stone which appeared to come from the opposite side of the street; thinks there were a couple of hundred persons; some of them had sticks; heard shouting in the course of the evening; saw no other stones thrown; did not see the people commit any riot, beyond shouting and walking up and down the street.

Fourth Evidence.—Constable John Lindsay. Saw a large body of people opposite to Mr. Walsh's door at an early hour of the evening of the 20th January, from whence they moved up the street eight or ten deep, and having sticks and cudgels, &c. under their arms. As they passed the police barracks, they groaned for the police, calling them "cabbage eaters and stir-about eaters;" meaning partizans of Mr. Kavanagh. At a late hour in the evening, when the police party, under Mr. Hawkshaw, was halted near Mr. Whitney's house, the mob turned round and faced the police, when the Rev. Mr. Buggy advanced from amongst them, when some conversation took place betwixt Mr. Hawkshaw and Mr. Buggy. The former stated that his police had been struck with stones, and the ranks attempted to be broken; Mr. Buggy answered, that he would be the last man to allow Mr. Hawkshaw and the police of Borris to be attacked, for that Mr. Hawkshaw had always done his duty like a gentleman. Mr. Buggy added, that he would be responsible for the good behaviour of the crowd. Saw no stones thrown himself, but it was reported to him by his police that they had been struck by stones.

Fifth Evidence.—S. C. John Cranstoun. Was one of the party of police with which chief constable Hawkshaw was proceeding down the street of Borris on the evening of the 20th January, when he was struck in the back by a stone, somewhere about Mr. Whelan's or Mr. Corkeran's, to the best of his belief.

Sixth Evidence.—S. C. Patrick Mac Kenna. Was struck by a stone on his way down the street, as one of Mr. Hawkshaw's party, on the evening of the 20th January.

Seventh Evidence.—Rev. Richard Buggy. In reply to a question from Mr. Hawkshaw, the Rev. Mr. Buggy states, that in order to prevent the people from getting intoxicated, he collected them in the school-house, (in a room about 40 feet by 20, which might contain from 200 to 300 persons,) and caused a glass of whiskey to be served out to a certain number of them, but no man had more than one glass, as far as he believes. In reply to another question, Mr. Buggy states, that he does not believe that the people had any intention of committing a riot; but adds, that if they had by any accident become intoxicated, it would not be possible to answer for their conduct. Saw only one man really drunk amongst the people.

Eighth Evidence.—Mr. William Phelan, publican: States that about five gallons of whiskey was sent over by him to the school-house, on the evening of the 20th January; was occasionally in the streets, and did not see any disposition to riot on the part of the people.

Ninth Evidence.—Mr. John Goddan. States that his windows were broken on the evening of the 20th January; saw a great number of persons in different parts of the street.

Borris, 6th April 1835.

Sir, Borris, Goresbridge, 7th April 1835.

With reference to the investigation held by you at Borris on yesterday, to inquire into charges prefered against me and the police, by the Rev. Messrs. Walsh and Buggy, of Borris, I trust that the evidence adduced, not only on my defence, by also by my prosecutors, has been such as to exonerate me and my party.

From the lateness of the hour at which I entered on my defence, I really forgot to allude as fully as I would wish in my statement to the lighting of the police barrack. On the day in question I dined at Mr. Kavanagh's, where I was sent for, and on coming into the village, admit that I saw the lights complained of as an illumination, but my immediate attention having been directed to the extreme end of the town where the mob had congregated, I quite forgot at the moment to inquire the cause. I did so after, and being informed that lights were put up by the women in the barrack solely for the purpose of saving the windows from being broken. With respect to the police being partizans, I should suppose such was not the case, two-thirds of the party stationed in Borris being Roman-catholics.

I have, &c.

Sir John Harvey, &c. &c.

(signed) H. Hawkshaw, C.C.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 14th April 1835.

I am directed by the Lord Lieutenant to inform you, that his Excellency has carefully perused all the documents relating to the complaint preferred by yourself, and the Reverend Messrs. Walsh and Buggy, respecting the conduct of the police at Borris, on the 20th of January, and the illumination of the police barrack, on the occasion of the illumination of the town for the return of the members to Parliament for the county of Carlow.

His Excellency remarks that, in your memorial addressed to him, attributing to the conduct of Mr. Doyne the excitement which existed in that part of the county, you make the following statement:

"He (Mr. Doyne) caused fireworks and illuminations to be got up, to celebrate the return of Colonel Bruen and Mr. Kavanagh. Numbers of the country people attended, and were conducting themselves most peaceably and orderly, when they were driven by Mr. Hawkshaw and the police out of the town, the police acting as partizans by illuminating their barracks. This treatment so irritated the people, that, had one of your memorialists not interfered, the most deplorable consequences might have ensued."

It

It appears, however, from the evidence on the investigation by Sir John Harvey, that the police acted under the orders of a magistrate ; that that order was repeated before they did act, and that it was not given without adequate reason.

The evidence, also, does not by any means substantiate the assertion, that the people were conducting themselves in a most peaceable and orderly manner, but rather leads to a contrary conclusion. Fortunately, no serious disturbance took place ; but his Excellency cannot avoid expressing his opinion, that this was rather owing to the timely interposition of the civil power, than to the mode adopted by Mr. Buggy for the prevention of intoxication, by causing whiskey to be given to the people. This, to say the least of it, the Lord Lieutenant cannot but consider as an act of great indiscretion ; though, at the same time, his Excellency does not overlook the statement of Mr. Buggy, that his influence was afterwards used in preventing the people from attacking the police, and that he would be responsible for their good behaviour.

Upon the whole, his Excellency does not see any reason to impute blame to Mr. Hawkshaw or to the police for their conduct in the streets of Borris on this occasion.

His Excellency observes, however, with regret, that the barracks were, if not generally, at least partially, illuminated. Mr. Hawkshaw states that they were illuminated by the women, to prevent the windows being broken ; this, certainly, is no valid excuse. There ought never to be any illumination or any party manifestation whatever at police barracks. But it seems that Mr. Hawkshaw was ignorant of this act of indiscretion or timidity on the part of the women in the barrack at the time the candles were placed in the windows, and that, though he was afterwards aware of it, his attention was so much occupied at the other end of the town, that it did not occur to him to order the lights to be extinguished. This the Lord Lieutenant regrets, but, under the circumstances of the case, and considering the testimony borne to Mr. Hawkshaw's character and conduct, his Excellency would think it unjust not to accept his excuse ; and he therefore refrains from passing upon him any censure ; but he has been admonished to be duly vigilant in preventing any such manifestation in future.

Having thus, in obedience to the Lord Lieutenant's commands, stated the impression made upon his Excellency's mind by the investigation of this affair, I am, in conclusion, to express his Excellency's hope, that the whole matter will be buried in oblivion by all parties.

Sir, Dungannon, 14 Dec. 1834.

I HAVE the honour to state, for the information of the Lords Justices, that upon a requisition, most respectably signed, a county meeting was called by the Earl of Caledon, to be held in Dungannon, on the 19th instant, "To address the Throne in support of His Majesty's prerogative."

It has been reported to me, that 16 emissaries were dispatched from this town last night, for the purpose of disseminating copies of the enclosed placard throughout the county.

Protestants of Tyrone, will you DESERT your KING? No; you "will die first."

The KING, as becomes a son of GEORGE the THIRD, has spurned from his councils the men who would have overturned the most valued institutions of your country, and would have led your Monarch to a violation of his Coronation Oath.

Your Sovereign has done HIS duty, will you abandon YOURS? If you will not; if you will support your King as honestly as your King has supported you; if you will maintain the LIBERTIES which your FATHERS purchased with their BLOOD; you will be found at the GREAT PROTESTANT MEETING, TO BE HELD IN DUNGANNON, on FRIDAY 19th instant, at 12 o'clock; AND YOUR CRY WILL BE "The King and Constitution: The Altar and the Throne."

Sir, Dungannon, 21 Dec. 1834.

I HAVE the the honour to transmit, for the information of the Lords Justices, the Report of Chief-constable Duff, detailing the occurrences which took place in this town, at the county meeting held on the 19th instant, by which it will be seen that the Orangemen bore a most conspicuous and indecorous part; although I have good reason to believe, that the more respectable portion of the assembly used every persuasion to prevent the display, but without effect.

I have, &c.

Sir William Gosset, K. C. H. (signed) Fred. Stovin.

Sir, Dungannon, 20 Dec. 1834.

I HAVE the honour to report, that in pursuance of a requisition to Lord Caledon, to convene the county for the purpose of "Addressing the King in support of his Prerogative," a county meeting took place in this town yesterday, the 19th, at which about 3,000 persons assembled, the principal part of whom, contrary to his Lordship's expectation, marched in regular procession several times through the town, as also past the hustings, with scarfs, flags, music playing party tunes, and firing shots.

About 3 P. M. the meeting was over, when from that hour until late they continued leaving the town in the order above described; and though no actual riot took place, still I feel myself called on to remark, that nothing could possibly be worse than the taunting and irregular conduct of the Orangemen going home, by their continued firing in the streets.

The police were at an early hour placed so as to identify those who should appear in procession; a return of whose names, as leaders, I have the honour to annex.

The speakers were Lords Caledon, Belmore, Abercorn, Corry, Hamilton and Alexander.

MEETING AT DUNGANNON.

NAMES of Persons identified as Leaders of Processions, alluded to in the above Report:

1. William Harpur, a leader wearing a sash.
2. William Galway, a leader, wearing a ribbon.
3. Joseph Green, playing a fife.

It may appear strange why so few persons were identified, but the persons put forward to carry the flags, also the musicians, were stronger than the police.

My dear Sir, Gosford Market-hill, 1 November 1834.

I HAVE just received the inclosed, which I think it right to forward to you. I shall attend to the matter, and as I have not time before post to send you a copy of the informations, will you have the goodness to return them to me when you have done with them.

There was a good deal of rioting at the Armagh races lately, and I believe this rumoured meeting may be connected with it, and party runs very high.

Believe me, &c.

Sir, Keady, County Armagh, 1 Nov. 1834.

HAVING received information that a very large assembly of persons is to take place on the 5th instant, and having it also on oath, that if it takes place there will be great danger of the persons of the neighbourhood being disturbed, and from my own knowledge of the excited state of parties in this part of the country at this moment. I have, in conjunction with my brother magistrates, to request that a party of military may be ordered to attend here on that day, to preserve order as far as possible. We have caused the inclosed notice to be circulated as widely as possible.

I have, &c.

NOTICE.

WHEREAS, we have received information on oath, that a large assemblage of persons is to take place in the neighbourhood of Keady on Wednesday next, the 5th of November, and that the same is likely to create terror in the minds of His Majesty's peaceable subjects, as well as a breach of the peace.

Now we, the undersigned magistrates, hereby caution all persons from so assembling, as we are determined (if necessary) most rigorously to enforce the law.

Keady Petty Sessions,
31 October 1834.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 2 November 1834.

HAVING received a communication from Lord Gosford, lieutenant of the county of Armagh, and also from Mr. Blacker, a magistrate of that county, stating that information has been made before the magistrates of the district of Keady, that a large assemblage of people is expected to take place there on the 5th instant; I am directed by the Lord Lieutenant to request that you will give such instruction to the general commanding in that district, as shall enable him to place a sufficient military force at the disposal of the civil authorities.

It would be sufficient if you would direct the officer in command of the district, to put himself in communication with Lord Gosford and the magistrates who attend the Keady petty sessions.

Indeed, I have every reason to suppose that he has had a requisition from them, but the communications made to the Government leave that point rather doubtful.

I have informed Lord Gosford that I have made to you this communication by his Excellency's desire.

I have, &c.

Right Hon. Lieut. Gen. Sir H. Vivian, Bart. (signed) E. J. Littleton.
Commanding the Forces.

My dear Sir, Gosford, 5 November 1834.

I SEND inclosed the report of the Keady magistrates, respecting what passed in that neighbourhood to-day. It does not appear that any violence was committed, which must, I think, be attributed to the precautions taken, and the steady and praiseworthy conduct of the magistrates.

Believe me, &c.

Keady, 5 November 1834,
My Lord, Three o'clock, P.M.

AGREEABLE to our notice we assembled here to-day to preserve the peace, which we had sworn informations was threatened, as was previously reported to your Lordship. There was a large military force placed under our command, which though not called upon to act, was a great means of keeping order. About 11 o'clock we proceeded to the ground where the assemblage was to take place, and found from 400 to 500 persons assembled, about 100 with arms: after expostulating with them they agreed to disperse, and actually did so; when on leaving the ground they were met by another party with drums and flags. This caused a return. Mr. Blacker was obliged to read the Riot Act, and order the police to load. The persons carrying the flag and the drums being known, we made no arrests; (indeed one of the individuals is under bail to stand his trial at the next assizes, for walking in procession last 12th of July). The military are just returned to their quarters, but we have thought it advisable to keep the police here to-night, lest there might be any disturbance. On the whole we trust the day has passed over with as little disturbance as could be expected, and that our conduct will meet with your Lordship's approbation.

We have, &c.

Earl of Gosford,
&c. &c. &c.

My dear Lord, Dublin Castle, 6 November 1834.

I HAVE submitted to the Lord Lieutenant your letter of the 5th instant, conveying to me the letter of Mr. Blacker, Mr. Prentice and Mr. Stringer, detailing their proceedings at Keady.

I am directed by the Lord Lieutenant to request that you will have the goodness to express to these magistrates the great satisfaction with which his Excellency has heard of their promptitude and judgment in preserving the peace of their district yesterday; and I have also, on his Excellency's part, to convey to your Lordship his best thanks for your attention on this occasion.

The principal parties concerned, and who can be identified as leaders, or as having carried arms or insignia, ought to be prosecuted, for which purpose the magistrates will, no doubt, not fail to take the necessary informations.

I remain, &c.

The Earl of Gosford, &c. &c. &c. (signed) E. J. Littleton.

Royal Hospital, 7 Nov. 1834.

THE Lieutenant-general, commanding, presents his compliments to Mr. Littleton, and has the honour to transmit herewith, for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, a letter from Major Priestley, commanding the 25th depôt, reporting the particulars of an Orange procession, which took place in the vicinity of Keady.

Sir, Armagh, 5 Nov. 1834.

I HAVE the honour to report, that in pursuance of a route from Major-general Macdonell, commanding Northern District, I marched from Armagh early this morning with two companies of the depôt, 25th Regiment, to Keady, a distance of eight English miles, for the purpose of aiding the civil power; there I was joined by a troop of the 10th Hussars, Captain Hayes, from Monaghan, and a company of the 25th depôt, which had been halted there when on march to headquarters from Carrickmacross. I immediately communicated my arrival to the Rev. J. Blacker and another magistrate; and at 11 o'clock, A.M., the whole of the troops were called upon by Mr. Blacker, (a copy of whose requsition I have the honour to enclose,) and we immediately proceeded about two miles from Keady, accompanied by Mr. Stringer, when we were met by Mr. Prentice, who informed us that a party of armed Orangemen, with a cannon, music, &c. had assembled about a mile from us, but that he believed after they had fired one round they would disperse, as advised to do by Mr. Blacker. I suggested, that if it was not the intention of the magistrate to make the police (about 30 in number) seize their arms, &c. and to disperse them, it would be advisable to halt the troops out of sight, which was done. I rode forward about a mile with Mr. Prentice, leaving Mr. Stringer with the troops, and joined Mr. Blacker, who had induced the mob to retire. Soon after they had left the ground, two or three other bodies of men appeared on the high ground about a mile off, and they followed the example of the first party on our riding towards them, the greater part returning in the direction from which they had come. Shortly another party from near Keady, partly armed, and with a flag, drums, fifes, sashes, &c. approached the ground; these were stopped by the police magistrates; but they were very violent, crossed the ditches into the field with the colour, &c. and then cheered and fired for some time, which was answered by several distant bodies in a similar manner, although Mr. Blacker had read the Riot Act. At his request I went for the troops, but before I had quite returned to the ground with them, we were halted, the magistrates having permitted the Orangemen to pass us, in the direction of Keady. We followed them, (the rest having disappeared,) and found that they had left the flag, drum, &c. at a public-house about a mile from Keady, and had dispersed, having previously promised not to meet again to-day. When half a mile from Keady, on our return to that village, we were joined by Major-general Macdonell, and we again met a few armed men, when the magistrates ordered the police to stop; but after some time they permitted them to pass, taking down the names of several of them. We then returned about two o'clock, P.M., to the public-house, and all being quiet, and the magistrates no longer requiring the military, the Hussars returned to Monaghan, and I brought the three companies, 25th depôt, to Armagh, neither party returning through Keady.

On our return we heard a firing in every direction, and occasionally drums and fifes.

Only about 300 Orangemen appeared at the field where the sham fight was to have taken place; many of them were extremely violent, but only about 100 were armed. The advice of the magistrates, the knowledge of the intended arrival of the military, and their actual presence, prevented, I understand, a much greater assemblage. The Armagh party marched about 20 English miles, and were absent 11 hours.

To Major Priestley,
Commanding Depôt, 25th Regiment, Armagh.

Sir, 5 Nov. 1834.

I REQUEST you will turn out your party to aid the civil power, as soon as possible.

Yours, &c.

Officer commanding 25th Regiment, and Troops at Keady. (signed) James S. Blacker, J. P.

My Lord, Dublin Castle, 11 Nov. 1834.

I HAVE laid before the Lord Lieutenant your Lordship's various letters connected with the recent proceedings at Keady.

Although his Excellency is fully satisfied, that the magistrates did everything in their power to prevent the meeting, and to check it when it took place; the circumstances of the case are in some respects so extraordinary, that he thinks a formal investigation should take place, and that your opinion should be reported to the Government.

I am accordingly directed to request, that your Lordship will arrange some time and place for meeting the magistrates, and that you will inform the Inspector-general of the district of your intention, and summon him to attend for the purpose of giving his assistance.

It is important, that the Government should be informed not only of the number of the parties on the ground, and the extent to which they were armed, the use they made, or threatened to make of their arms, and their general deportment on the ground when summoned by the magistrates to disperse; but also what steps have since been taken for the purpose of arresting the leaders of the party.

party. If it be true, that a small piece of brass ordnance was brought to the ground, special means should be taken to arrest the individuals who conducted it.

It is not sufficiently explained, in any of the papers which have been forwarded for his Excellency's information, why the parties were not more summarily dispersed, or apprehended on the ground. I do not mean by this remark to express any suspicion that the magistrates did not exercise a sound discretion in that respect, but the reasons have not been sufficiently explained to the Government.

The Earl of Gosford,
&c. &c. &c.

I have, &c.
(signed) E. J. Littleton.

My dear Sir, Gosford, 11 November 1834.

The enclosed are in reply to my letter (a copy of which I sent to you) to the magistrates who attended at Keady on the 5th instant. I have not received an answer from Mr. Prentice, when I do I shall forward it to you; I have kept copies, as I think you may wish to keep these letters; they clearly show the spirit and determination of the Orangemen to resist the civil authority in its effort to enforce obedience to the law; on this ground, I am of opinion, that these documents should remain in your possession.

Believe me, &c.
(signed) Gosford.

The Right Hon. E. J. Littleton,
&c. &c. &c.

My Lord, Tassagh, 10 November 1834.

It was arranged by Mr. Blacker and myself, on 5th November, that he should move on in advance some distance with the police, and that I should remain with the military until it might be found necessary, from the failure of the police, to require their aid. Mr. Prentice met Mr. Blacker at the place appointed by the Orangemen for their sham fight. I had no opportunity of seeing what occurred there between the magistrates and Orangemen, being at some distance with the military. The magistrates, I understand, remained some time expostulating with the Orangemen, when, from their obstinacy, it was considered necessary to read the Riot Act, and call upon me with the military under my charge. While moving quickly with the military to the place of rendezvous, I met a large armed body, with a curious constructed piece of ordnance mounted on five wheels, and on making arrangements to stop this party, I was told that Mr. Blacker and Mr. Prentice had given them permission to retire, and they were then on their return home. I did not hear any improper expression used by the Orangemen, but I have no hesitation in stating, that the police would have been quite insufficient to act without the aid of the military. There were but a few of the Orangemen decorated, and but one flag and one drum. I am sorry to observe, that this neighbourhood is at present, from the late transaction, in a very excited state, and abuse in abundance heaped upon the magistrates for the part they have been obliged to take in the discharge of their duty. We hold our petty sessions in Keady on Friday next, and shall then adopt such further proceedings as may be considered necessary.

I have, &c.
(signed) Francis Stringer.

Earl of Gosford,

My Lord, Keady, 10 November 1834.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your Lordship's letter of the 9th instant, and, in reply to the different queries contained in it, have to state, that I was the magistrate who read the Riot Act, and gave orders to the police to load. I certainly did not hear the expressions you allude to used, or any other of the kind. I have heard the report of such being made, and caused the strictest inquiry to be made both among the police and others who were standing by, but cannot trace any foundation for it. The expressions and manner of the Orangemen were certainly very strong, improper and irritating to the magistrates. There was a piece of ordnance on a clumsy sort of a carriage; but, to say the truth, I was too much occupied otherwise to pay much attention to it; it belongs, I understand to a near neighbour of my own.

There were a few amongst the Orangemen decorated with ribbons, besides a flag and drum (as already reported to your Lordships). I have caused two of them that I knew myself to be summoned for Friday next, last Friday being too severe a day for the bench to assemble. I have heard from some of the officers that were out with us that several of the guns fired were loaded with ball. As to resistance being made to the civil power, I for one am decidedly of opinion that, had we attempted to make any arrests, or, in short, to stop the intended proceedings on the 5th without the support of the military, blood would inevitably have been shed; and God only knows how matters might have ended. I think these are all the points your Lordship wished touched upon at present. I trust you believe I shall be ready at all times to give your Lordship, faithfully, such information as you may require, and the peace of this part of the country demands; it is a good deal exasperated at this moment, and I come in for no small share of blame for the part I took in the late business.

I have, &c.

Earl of Gosford, &c. &c. &c. (signed) James S. Blacker.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 13 November 1834.

The Lord Lieutenant having judged it necessary that an investigation should take place into the occurrences at Keady on the 5th instant, his Excellency desires that you will put yourself in communication with Lord Gosford, who has been requested by his Excellency to join the Keady magistrates for that purpose.

His Excellency requests that you will ascertain from his Lordship the time at which it will be convenient to him to enter on the inquiry; and that you will attend and aid his Lordship and the magistrates in the investigation, and sign the report.

I have, &c.

Sir F. Stovin, &c. &c. &c. (signed) E. J. Littleton.

My dear Sir, Gosford, 15 November 1834.

I have had no answer from Sir Frederick Stovin, so I conclude he was from home when my letter arrived; this may make it necessary to put off the investigation until Thursday or Friday next. I am inclined to think Armagh will be the best place to hold it. I have spoken to several on the subject, and all agree in this; many people would come to Armagh that would feel great reluctance in going to Keady, as I am informed. Could you promise for me the law officer's opinion on the points stated in the enclosed paper; it may be advisable to have this.

Believe, &c.

The Right Hon. E. J. Littleton, &c. &c. &c. (signed) Gosford.

"Can persons who have been identified in a tumultuous assemblage of Orangemen (which assemblage was generally armed), carrying flags and other emblems, be indicted and punished as belonging to that assemblage, though they should not have carried arms in addition to such flag and other emblems?

"Appearing in arms under the Riot Act, 27 Geo. 3, c. 95, is Felony—Death.

"The Crown Solicitor is requested to send down form of indictment under such circumstances as stated above."

My dear Sir, Gosford, 15 Nov. 1834.

I SEND the magistrates' report of what took place at Keady petty sessions yesterday. I confess I am surprised that more persons were not identified as being in the assemblage on the 5th.

Yours, &c.

The Right Hon. E. J. Littleton. (signed) Gosford.

My Lord, Keady Petty Sessions, 14 Nov. 1834.

AGREEABLE to your Lordship's letter of the 9th instant, all the police employed on the 5th instant, were in attendance here to-day, and sworn as to the identity of persons forming the procession on that day. Only one person could be identified by the police as wearing colours or marching in procession, and he is already under bail to appear at the next assizes for the same offence, on the 12th of July last. Another was identified by Mr. Blacker, as carrying a flag on that day. Informations have been taken against both individuals, and given in bail for their appearance at next assizes.

I have, &c.

My dear Lord, Dublin Castle, 17 November 1834.

IMMEDIATETY on receipt of your letter of the 15th instant, I submitted to the law adviser the paper containing points upon which information is required, arising from the late affair at Keady, and now about to undergo investigation. Mr. Greene observes, that if the character of the assembly be illegal, as by carrying flags or banners, or by other insignia bringing it within the prohibition of the Act of Parliament, he thinks any individual forming a part of it, and belonging to it, will be implicated in the consequences in point of law, although not found to have carried arms or flags, or to have displayed any unlawful ensign. He conceives that it is not necessary, in order to render the assembly unlawful, that arms should be carried in addition to flags, &c. He further adds, that if this be a meeting for the purpose of demonstrating any religious distinction, and if, at such meeting, any fire-arms, or any banners, emblems, flag or symbol be exhibited, the display of which is calculated to provoke animosity between the King's subjects, the assembly is a violation of the law.

Believe me, &c.

Earl of Gosford, E. J. Littleton.

Sir, Gosford, 24 January 1835.

ACCORDING to the directions received from the Marquis Wellesley, I proceeded to Armagh on the 25th November, having given previous notice thereof, and called on all persons capable of giving information, to communicate what facts might have come to their knowledge respecting what occurred at Keady on the 5th November; and I herewith inclose the depositions. They should have been transmitted earlier, had I not been occupied with the investigation of a subsequent transaction in the same neighbourhood. I think it right to call the attention of Government to the determined spirit of resistance which appears to have been manifested by the Orangemen on that day, and also to the necessity of adopting such measures as will prevent similar occurrences in future.

AT an Investigation held in the Court House, Armagh, on Tuesday the 25th of November 1834, touching an assemblage at Keady in the County of Armagh, on 6th November, the following appeared on evidence:

George Stewart Hill, chief constable of police:—Remembers the day of the assemblage at Keady; attended there with 27 police; reported it to Mr. Blacker, and then to Mr. Stringer; went with Mr. Blacker to where the assemblage was gathering; Mr. B. addressed them to desist and go home, and not to manifest a feeling; two men advised the rest to desist, only desiring that two shots might be fired; does not know the men, saw them go through the crowd and reasoned with them; were agreeable, if allowed to fire one or two shots; remained so for some time and fired some shots. The understanding was between Mr. B. and the people that they were to disperse on firing the shots; they afterwards went off; police remained as they were; a party came back by the road, the others went away; Mr. B. stopped them, they had a banner with them. Deponent came up to them in double-quick time; came within about four perches of them; they halted as a crowd; does not know the man who carried the flag, did not hear him command them; Mr. B. ordered the police to load, and then, as he believes, read the Riot Act; the police loaded, but the men kept their position. Witness cautioned them to go home, as if blood was shed they would be accountable, and that if loyal would only do harm; they went into a field and fired shots there; did not see men, a flag there; thinks there were about 50 or 60 all armed; saw one man with an orange ribbon in his coat, and saw a man before that with a sash, and one with a white belt over his shoulder; thinks he only saw four men with colours; the white belt was a common pouch-belt; did not see any ammunition; saw a carriage with three wheels, a swivel carriage was attached with a skeleton cart; it was fired; it was on the first occasion it was fired; thinks there was ball-cartridge from the report of the guns; did not hear balls through the air; the arms were chiefly guns of different descriptions, from fowling-pieces to muskets, &c.; they had no belts on the guns like yeomanry guns; saw no distinguishing badges on first party, except a sash on one man; it was a red sash like a sergeant's sash; the flag was with the second party that scared Mr. Blacker's horse, and then they furled it up; there were a good many men about the swivel gun; thinks the two men who first spoke to Mr. B. were at the gun; some at the gun were armed; thinks all were armed on the second occasion; when the Riot Act was read they seemed reluctant to disperse, but Mr. Prentice having went over to them, they did comply; did not appear willing to disperse on hearing the Riot Act read; they had changed into the field when shots were fired; they went in different directions; did not hear any person authorizing himself, as commander, although they fell into line; did not appear well dressed in line; witness was about 30 or 40 yards from them at the time; did not hear any word of command to fire; about 20 shots were fired at once, and other straggling shots; two men appeared known to the magistrates; did not know a man there; overtook a third party near the house of Campbell; could not say how many; thinks there might be 200, mostly all armed; the people who fired the volley went away to go home; thinks there were of the party at Campbell's, and who marched towards Keady; witness heard some shots fired near Keady; witness met a number of them, say about 20 or 30; did not fire; saw no person as leader, nor any command given; witness and his party and the military, put themselves together to stop them; from the time the second party was on the road to the time they fired in the field, might be about three or four minutes; two men are for trial at the assizes; witness's party state that they do not know any of the assemblage but the two men in custody; witness and his party are not long on that station, and was only about three or four times in fairs; thinks the second party did not take their position to oppose witness and party, but said they would have satisfaction for other party who fired in the morning; it was after the magistrate remonstrated with them that they went into the field and fired; thinks if the other party had not fired that they might have went away without firing; hears that a man who is to stand his trial at next assizes for a former offence, was one of the party; witness did not hear any understanding between the magistrates and the people.

John Rodgers, constable of police:—Went with Mr. Hill, and Mr. Blacker and party, on 5th of November instant; knew no man there in assemblage, only Robert Magwood; first saw a party of police go into subdivisions across the road, and Mr. B. read the Riot Act to the party, and after firing some shots went away; some were in rear of the party of police, and witness and party would not let them pass; heard persons speak loudly to magistrates, had no insignia; did not know what he said, but thinks it was insulting; he stamped his foot; it was after that they went into the meadow and fired; saw a number of arms, but very few orange ribbons or insignia; saw them prime and load; did not hear them commanded; it was after the police got orders to prime and load that they primed and loaded; heard a person among the body say that they could prime and load as well as them, the police; it was after the Riot Act was read that the party fired; could not tell what they loaded with; did not see the man who said he could prime and load as well as them; there were long guns and short guns; thinks there were more long than short; saw no belts or pouches; did not go very orderly from road to field, but when they left the meadow they formed up very well; saw no person act as leader; they dispersed a few minutes after the Riot Act was read; marched off in order, thinks two deep, as if to go home; thinks if police had went to seize on them after they loaded, that some of the party might have been foolish enough to resist, that is, if witness and his party had went to take their arms; from what what he has heard since the transaction, thought at the time that they loaded to prepare against the police; it was the second party that he speaks of; heard no bad language towards police or magistrates; only the man he has mentioned; heard them say they commemorated the 5th November often before, and intended to do so; saw women and children convenient to them; thinks there were some in the meadow with party; saw amongst the crowd some who had arms on the road and in the meadow; does not know, but thinks bullets were fired; did not hear fizzing of any balls; witness gave evidence at Keady petty sessions, against the only two men he could identify.

Rev. James S. Blacker:—Is a magistrate at Keady; on 5th November he went with police to the party; rode with Mr. Hill; were no persons assembled at place, but went and there met them; witness cautioned them to disperse, and Mr. Prentice did also, and said he was their agent; that was the first party; they said, if you allow us to fire a volley, they would go off, but without any liberty, in a few minutes they did fire; police were distant; fired without permission and then went off, and passed the position where the police were; they gave no resistance, that party, but went off as if to go home; witness was going off home; heard drums and fifes playing, and perceived a party; witness rode up to them and remonstrated with them, which was not received well, as some said they would go on; witness's horse and self were thrown into the ditch with men who had the colours; thinks it was the waving of flags scared the horse; knows the man who carried the flag; first was Magwood, and Potts secondly. Informations are against them; the party were armed with guns; Magwood had a sword drawn; did not hear him give command; the arms were old firelocks and other better guns; thinks from their insulting language, they were disposed not to obey; said he had joined O'Connell; some said they would go over to him. Witness brought up police, and said they should not pass, and then read the Riot Act; then ordered police to prime and load; they went off to the left to a meadow, and then fired; did not see them load; heard no word of command given; were more than one shot; thinks they were loaded coming up and going into the field; saw women and children with them; saw only one with badge, except the flag; they said they thought it was not illegal, as they said they met in other places; did not take the music from them, as, knowing some of them, a row might have taken place if he attempted to take the music, or put the law in force; and blood would have been shed if law put in force; and knowing the men; he knew two men; thinks the men came from surrounding districts, from near Killylea and other places, as they appeared strangers; the magistrates had some time before issued a cautionary notice; thinks he would be justified in making an arrest outside of 15 minutes; is satisfied that if he attempted to arrest any of the party, resistance would have been made.

Henry L. Prentice, Esq.—Is a magistrate at Caledon; was at Keady, on 5th November inst.; acted as a magistrate; went to Keady in consequence of a note from Lord Gosford; was at Ravenhill; saw Mr. Blacker and police there, and a party of people in a meadow; thinks the police were about 60 yards from the party; they had old guns, &c.; the men were drawn up in line in ordered arms; witness joined Mr. Blacker, and spoke to the men with flags and colours; said they would go off if allowed to fire a volley; witness thought better not to bring the military for a few minutes, and on witness coming back near to the party, saw them going off towards Keady; men with arms were in line, and others were with them; they had no music; witness believes they went home; witness did not hear balls fired at that time, but did afterwards as he believes; saw a brass cannon drawn by a horse, and a party of people about it; thinks those at the cannon had not arms; when witness and officers were coming up, saw party go off; the first party appeared willing to comply with orders. Secondly, a party came down, and Mr. Blacker put the police in line to stop them; they then furled the flag, and when stopped went over into a field, and having fired, went off, and went to the road; left the meadow as well as they could, but got in order on the road; did not see them prime and load; there was order observed in firing; witness told them he considered it very unwise and foolish, and cautioned them; they said other parties had met in other parts of the country; thinks they meaned those to commemorate; witness thought it a doubtful point to commence taking their arms; would have thought it unwise, dreading resistance; and that if men had been marched with their arms, they might have complied; but if it had been attempted to disarm them, that resistance and bloodshed would have occurred; thinks that with the police force he might have succeeded in beating off the men, and from resistance lives might have been lost; the first party dispersed before military were in view; thinks if military and police had attempted to enforce the law, resistance would have been made, and bloodshed would have ensued if arms were to be taken; thinks there were ball cartridge there; cannot say the reason of bringing it there; heard since that persons had fired at a mark; thinks they would have marched into Armagh with military and police, because that they offered up the flag; said that they had been badly treated, as they were always willing to help the civil power; that they would give up such things; cannot say that they would have dispersed for witness or other magistrates, if military and police were not there; but certainly saw them very respectful to the remonstrance, as they soon went off; did not hear of any violence through same day; they went home but not in the way they should have done, as they got the music and went in order; they lodged the flag and drum in a house, and went off somewhere from Keady; could indentify a number of lookers on, but none with arms, only the two persons in custody; might have seen 400 or 500 through the day; might be about 100 guns and pistols; believes the cannon was fired, but did not see it; there were many there who took no part; the cannon was a swivel; saw no person take authority by way of command. Magwood had a sword, but saw no other; they stated it was for amusement, and not to insult anybody; witness thought it was contrary to law; issued their notice upon information to stop the assemblage.

Mr. Coleman showed a letter of information to the Petty Sessions, upon which notices were circulated.

Francis Stringer, Esq. a magistrate:—Did not see the whole proceeding, as he remained with the military, and could not see what happened; he had received orders to go forward with the military, but was stopped on hearing that the party went off; witness met the party with the military, and was about to stop them, when he saw the magistrates and police behind; when witness was called on to bring up the military, was by a policeman, mounted; appeared as going home; heard shots fired through the day; witness did not say anything to them, as he heard of their being on their way home; if he had not heard so, he would have stopped them; cannot say whether he could have effected the purposes of the law or not; but first had arranged to remonstrate with them.

Samuel Leslie:—Was going on business, and saw a party of people coming down from Keady; saw police, and witness stopped with police; a second party came up, and police remained all the time; saw Mr. Blacker and police; some of the people went over into a field; a man with a flag went first, and then they gathered in the field and fired; had arms; fired a volley or two; arms generally were guns and muskets; saw no person in command; knew some of the persons there; witness was not at Keady; witness says Robert Maxwell was with the first party; had no arms or emblems as he could see; Maxwell was walking on the road with the party behind the swivel gun; was one of the party; heard shots fired first and second; saw no person in command; thinks that if ball cartridge was there, it might have been to defend them against an opposing party, but not the King's troops; did not see any other party opposite; witness cannot say he heard of any party assembling at Crieffkeeran; witness knew of no notices being issued; thinks second party fired with ball; fired ball into the air; it was supposed they met as a sham battle, but it is not usual to bring balls to the like; cannot say why they had balls; there was a report that they would be opposed; did hear the Ribbon-men were coming to oppose them; it was a common report; but did not hear from the county of Monaghan; heard some say they would be prepared to meet them; the Orangemen have usually met in procession on the 5th November, but no sham fights near Keady till this one; heard of them in other places, but did not hear of balls being used; saw no resistance with the civil power; heard no reason assigned why a sham fight was had instead of procession, but said it was that way they were going to celebrate it.

Major-General M'Donald:—Went to Keady to meet with military on the 5th inst.; was going to the ground where assemblage was to meet; before going forward met a party with arms; a man who appeared having the command ordered to "carry arms;" had no music; saw a man with sash and old——

A portion were armed and a portion unarmed; heard shots fired near Keady where party were going towards; thinks some balls were fired; men were armed with muskets and other guns; a man did appear in command.

John Hughes, sworn:—Was at Ravenhill on the 5th instant; saw an assemblage walking with arms, some had orange colours; marched with fifes and drum, in order; knows some who marched in order but had not colours; thinks about eight or twelve had colours; thinks about 100 had guns; they beat music into Keady with fife and drum past Campbell's Corner; thinks it was after 12 o'clock.

Michael Dawley, sworn; saith he was near Keady on the 5th instant; saw a party of people; it was going on the ground, when the first party was leaving the place going towards Keady, between twelve and one o'clock, as he thinks; they had arms; went the length of Thomas Campbell's; witness came before them to Campbell's Corner; cannot say they had a drum and fife when they passed Campbell's Corner, but believes they had.

Josiah Kidd:—Lives in Keady; was not out of Keady on the 5th instant, as he believes; saw an armed party returning to Keady, walking in order; had firelocks; thinks no music; thinks that they could not march into Keady without his knowledge; knew numbers of them, but could not identify any of them; thinks he knew all but about 10; there might be 50; knew Magwood, in front, with a white belt; he might be in command, as he was in front.

Terence Hagan:—Lives near Ravenhill, parish of Derrynoose; lodged examinations before the magistrates at Keady previous to the meeting; dreaded a breach of the peace, having heard threats on both sides, and that was partly the occasion of his going, because his premises were near the ground; he was afraid of it being injured; never heard of a sham fight before in the place; cannot tell their ends, only it being gunpowder-plot; heard the other party intended to resist; saw men with firelocks, but did not go near them; saw Mr. Blacker in conversation with an aged man, who said, "Only for him he would not be there;" saw a notice with Mr. Blacker in Armagh.

Dublin Castle. WM. GOSSET.

REPORT of Thomas Staples, Esq. to the Earl of Gosford.

MY LORD, Merrion-square, April 1834.

HAVING been commanded by his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant to assist your Lordship, as lieutenant of the county of Armagh, in an investigation respecting an affray which occurred at Portadown, on the 31st of March last, and which inquiry, after a full examination of all the persons who could afford any information upon the subject, terminated on Saturday the 12th of April. I now beg to lay before your Lordship, for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, such observations as occur to me, and the conclusions which in my humble judgment ought to be drawn from the matter so laid before your Lordship.

It appears that an annual fair is held at Portadown on Easter Monday, at which the country people have usually assembled, rather in the way of amusement to spend a holiday, than for the transaction of commercial business. On the day in question, being Easter Monday, the town was, as usual, full of people, and nothing worthy of remark had occurred, up to the hour of five o'clock in the evening: about that hour a dispute having arisen among some persons in the house of Owen Devlin, a publican, he sent for a few of the police constables to clear his house of the persons disturbing it; it appears also, that a message had been sent to Curran Woodhouse, Esq., a magistrate of the county, who was then in the town, and that he and Captain Brennan, the chief constable of the police stationed in the town, accompanied by a few more police constables, soon joined the party near Devlin's house, where Mr. Woodhouse states, that on his arrival he found a very considerable crowd had assembled, and that their conduct was extremely riotous and disorderly: this was between six and seven o'clock in the evening.

It also further appears that two persons, a few days previous to the fair, having been beaten and illtreated at some place in the neighbourhood of Portadown, two of the individuals engaged in that transaction had been traced and pursued to Portadown on the fair day, by the friends of the beaten party, for the purpose of revenge; and one of these persons, Pat. Fearon, having been discovered in the street, near the house of a man named Gallagher, a scuffle ensued, after which Fearon escaped into Gallagher's house, and the assailants and a crowd, attracted by seeing the scuffle, remained in the street opposite Gallagher's, expecting him to come out again. The police, after leaving Devlin's, observing this collection of people, marched up the street towards Gallagher's, for the purpose of restoring order, accompanied by Mr. Woodhouse the magistrate, and Captain Brennan, the chief constable.

This latter gentleman had previously been stationed at Newry for several years, from whence he was removed to Portadown in the month of November last. Upon this occasion, on coming up to the crowd near Gallagher's, and observing some disposition to riot, it appears by the evidence that his efforts to restore tranquillity, however zealous, were not tempered with that discretion and forbearance which should characterize the conduct of an officer charged with the protection of the public peace. It is stated that he had a stick in his hand, with which, in endeavouring to quiet the tumult and induce the crowd to disperse, he struck indiscriminately many persons, and some of them not engaged in the disturbance, in such a way as to excite a good deal of irritation, and to draw upon himself and his party the attention and hostility of the persons assembled, who immediately began to exhibit a strong disposition personally to insult and provoke Captain Brennan, repeatedly crying out, "To hell with the Pope and Papist Brennan!" "Verner for ever!" and using other expressions calculated to irritate and annoy him.

In this state of things several respectable inhabitants of the town, particularly Mr. Paul, Mr. Sinnamon, Mr. Overend and Mr. Fisher, remonstrated with Captain Brennan upon the impropriety of using his stick in the manner above stated; but he was a good deal excited, and certainly did not attend to their suggestions: the same persons who urged him to remove his party from the street to their barrack, undertaking to guarantee the peace of the town upon his so doing. It is to be regretted that this advice was not complied with, because there is every reason to suppose that in that case the unfortunate occurrence which afterwards took place might have been thereby avoided, nor could there be any well-founded apprehension that by the removal of the police the peace of the town would have been at all compromised or endangered.

The police, however, being thus suffered to remain in the street, the crowd continued to press upon them, sometimes in a very menacing manner, obliging the men to bring their bayonets to the charge to prevent the people from approaching too close upon them; and Captain Brennan with the same view, occasionally striking different persons with his stick in the same indiscreet manner to which I have been before obliged to advert.

At about seven o'clock the police were marched down the street towards the bridge, and halted opposite the inn, (Mr. Atkyn's house) where they were drawn up on the footway, with their backs to the wall, a position which was taken with a view to prevent their being surrounded by the mob, who still continued to follow and press upon them in the same riotous and menacing manner: and it is right to add, that this measure was adopted by the advice of Mr. Woodhouse, the magistrate, and did not originate with Captain Brennan.

Previous to the arrival of the police at this point, some of the inhabitants of the town, who had been exerting themselves to restore order, and had urged the removal of the police to their barrack, had expressed an apprehension that stones might be thrown by the mob when it became dark.

This apprehension, it appears was well founded, for several stones were thrown at the party shortly before they reached the inn, and soon after they drew up in that position, the noise and tumult increased to an alarming degree, and stones were showered at the police in great numbers. Mr. Woodhouse, the magistrate, then thought it right to read the Riot Act, which was accordingly sent for, and his son, Mr. John Woodhouse, read it by candle-light, (it being by this time quite dark); the shouting and noise, however, continuing all the time so loud, that it could scarcely be heard.

Shortly before this, while in the street, and before they reached the inn, the police had been ordered to prime and load; Mr. Woodhouse wished them to make use of blank cartridge, but not having any such with them, they were obliged to load with ball. It is also stated, that upon this occasion Mr. Woodhouse intimated, that if obliged to fire, they should fire over the heads of the crowd. This being probably heard by the men, may account for the manner in which most of them afterwards very fortunately did fire, although, as it will appear, no order as to any particular mode of firing was given at that time. In this state of things, some of the better class of inhabitants, apprehending serious consequences, again urged the removal of the police to their barrack. Mr. Sinnamon in particular applied to Captain Brennan and advised him to remove the men; Mr. Atkyns also, the innkeeper, apprehending mischief to his own house, made the same request; Mr. Joyce also, and Mr. Fisher, spoke to Johnstone, the serjeant of the police, suggesting the same course, in which the serjeant entirely concurring, applied to Captain Brennan, who only answered him by an order to return to his ranks. Johnstone also, of his own accord, spoke to Mr. Woodhouse, and recommended the removal of the police, to which Mr. Woodhouse did not accede, but on the contrary expressed an opinion that they ought to remain, and the consequence was, they continued drawn up before the inn as above stated.

I now come to the most important feature of the transaction, namely, the firing by the police. The party had remained in the situation already described above 20 minutes, during all which time the noise, tumult and throwing of stones was incessant. By these stones Mr. Woodhouse, the magistrate, was struck, and several of the police, though none much injured. Mr. John Woodhouse also received a blow, by which he was knocked down and wounded in the head. It was just at this moment that the firing took place. Shots were fired to the number of eight or 10 in succession, and not as a volley. A most material question here suggests itself, whether any order to fire was given? with respect to which the evidence is quite contradictory and irreconcileable. Captain Brennan, in his report of the transaction transmitted to the Government, states, "That the magistrate, Curran Woodhouse, Esq., came forward and read the Riot Act, after which I gave orders for the police to fire over their heads." He also repeated the same statement the next day in a conversation with Mr. Woodhouse. One witness swears he heard the order to fire given by Captain Brennan, and another swears he heard him use the word "fire." Mr. Woodhouse denies having given any order. Serjeant Johnstone, however, swears he heard Mr. Woodhouse give the order to fire, immediately before the shots were discharged. He also swears that Mr. Woodhouse, some time before, had ordered the men to fire, but that Captain Brennan had gone in front of the men and succeeded in preventing any discharge. It is obviously impossible to come to any satisfactory conclusion upon evidence so inconsistent. The best opinion I can form is, that in the confusion and tumult which prevailed at the moment, coupled with the danger and irritation arising from the stones which continued to be thrown at them, some of the men being struck by stones, and conceiving they heard the word "fire," discharged their pieces, and were followed by others. It fortunately happened that the greater part of the men, although not having any order to that effect, fired at a considerable elevation, though some it will appear fired low. Had they all fired at a level, the consequences must have been frightful, as the street in their front front was crowded with people within one yard of them, and the opposite shops and houses were also full of persons, whom the fair had collected in the town. Of those shots which were fired low, one struck a man named Joseph Nicholson, who was standing at the opposite side of the street, near a window in the house of Mr. Sinnamon. The ball entered his knee, and inflicted a wound so dangerous that the limb was necessarily amputated to save his life, an artery being opened, and there being no other means, according to the opinion of the surgeon who attended him, of stopping a fatal hæmorrhage. Another man, near the same place, was slightly wounded by a ball, which grazed his thigh. Several balls also passed through the opposite windows, and others struck the walls.

It appears, that in a few minutes after the shots were fired, the police were marched to their barrack, which they were able to do without any molestation, except a few stones being thrown at them, by which it does not appear that any person was hurt. I am entirely of opinion, as I have before stated, that this course should have been adopted before the firing, when suggested in the early part of the evening, as there was no disturbance in the street that required the continued presence of an armed party; and the event justifies this view; because, when the police did march away after the firing, although the tumult did not and could not directly subside, yet no injury to persons or property afterwards occurred.

A charge of intoxication on this evening has very unjustly been made against Captain Brennan, by some of the witnesses who were examined. I am however of opinion, upon the whole of the evidence, that the imputation is altogether unsustained. Captain Brennan has, it appears, a nervous manner, which by strangers might possibly be mistaken, on occasions of excitement, for the effects of liquor. On this evening he was excited and irritated, but in my mind perfectly sober. He has received from Trevor Corry, Esq., a magistrate of the county of Armagh, who had known him a long time at Newry, a high character for zeal and impartiality in the discharge of his duty, under very trying circumstances.

Upon the whole of the case, I beg to submit to your Lordship the following conclusions, as resulting from the evidence taken upon this investigation:

1. That no case has been made out to justify firing with ball cartridge.

2. That in not removing the police from the street, which would have been the more prudent course, Captain Brennan can only be charged with an error in judgment, as to which he stands in a great measure excused, by having the opinion of Mr. Woodhouse, under whose orders he was then acting, expressed in conformity with his own.

3. That in striking persons with his stick in the manner described, though chargeable with indiscretion and a want of forbearance, he was not actuated by any improper motive.

I cannot, however, dismiss my observations on the conduct of Captain Brennan, without stating my impression, that some degree of party hostility must have influenced the minds of the persons assembled in the town against Captain Brennan, who is known to be a Roman-catholic, and which was manifested by the cry of "Papist Brennan!" and other expressions of that nature, intended personally to insult and provoke him.

As the excitement and irritation towards the police, originating in the transaction which forms the subject of this inquiry, cannot be expected to subside entirely for some time, I beg to suggest to your Lordship, on this ground, the propriety of recommending to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant the removal of Captain Brennan and his party from Portadown to some other station.

I have annexed, as an Appendix to this Report, a copy of the evidence taken on the inquiry.

I have, &c.

EVIDENCE.

Portadown, 9 April 1834.

1. Mr. Morris Paul.—Was in Portadown on Monday 31st; heard a fight at Owen Devlin's; went there and seen three or four drunken men fighting at Owen Devlin's house in the street. The scuffle was in the house, in the shop, a public-house. This was about six p. m.; about 12 police came with fixed bayonets; six entered, and cleared it with some difficulty; two men resisted, but the house was cleared. Police then came out and formed a line of 12, and went up to Gallagher's by word of command from the serjeant; no officer then present. Witness did not go up to Gallagher's. About a quarter of an hour after there was a fight in the street beyond Gallagher's; lasted three minutes. Police came up and formed in line; the fight was in the street, five or six men. Police the barrack and returned with the officer, 16 in number. Captain Brennan was the officer. The fight was over before the police came up or left the barrack; knows many of the persons in that fight; the persons fighting had left the street before the police came. There was a crowd, but thinks the police could not in the fight. The crowd was dispersing when police came up; Captain Brennan was in front, and struck several persons with a walking-stick; could not hear whether he said anything. Struck Francis Saunderson; does not know any other person who was struck; the crowd then shouted "Verner for ever!" There was no shouting when the police were coming up; Captain Brennan became angry, and ran into the crowd, striking all before him. He ordered the police to charge with fixed bayonets. Witness came near to Captain Brennan about five minutes after he struck Francis Saunder-son; did not hear him say anything, except order the police to charge. Mr. Sinnamon, Mr. John Overend, and William Paul, said to Captain Brennan, that if the police were taken away, there would be no harm done, otherwise there would be bloodshed. He said he would not have his men insulted, and would not have his men put off the street by a mob; he was urged to remove them; he swore by God he would not. When the police charged, they beat the crowd back, but they returned again. No person was hurt in the charge. Captain Brennan ordered a second charge, having the stick in his hand. If any person stopped, he struck them, and said he would fire on them, but said nothing else that witness heard. Police then charged down the street at different times, till they got opposite Atkyn's house. Witness did not come with them. About seven o'clock, soon after that, saw a candle in the street; heard Riot Act was read; crowd continued five or six yards from the police; 100 people at the least; did not see stones thrown, or hear any noise. Crowd continued to shout " for ever!" The police were in the street, and Captain Brennan was striking them. He struck some after the police came to the inn-door; does not know any of the persons struck. Captain Brennan advanced out of the line to strike them; did not hear him say anything. Witness was at his father's door, on the opposite side. Crowd were between witness and police, but witness standing on the window stone outside, and could see over the heads of the crowd; saw Captain Brennan go down as far as Dr. Lee's. Witness then went into his father's house, and heard a shot about half-past seven; ran out, and there saw the rest firing. Three or four levelled low; the rest fired up. Police then went down to the barrack, not in order; heard no word of command; soon after this saw Joe Whitelock wounded. About eight o'clock stones were thrown at Fisher's house, some panes were broken; saw them next morning; no noise then; no more firing. The stones were thrown from an entry. When the police fired, there were 100 persons; crowd shouted, "Verner for ever, and to hell with the Pope!" The entry from which the stones were thrown is opposite to Fisher's house.

2. Owen Devlin.—Police came to witness's house second time about seven o'clock; 10 or 11 panes broken, and some glasses and jugs, by the stones. Could not see the crowd when the stones were thrown, door and windows being shut. The broken windows had no shutters, being in the upper story. When the police came the second time, witness let them in; there was no person inside doing mischief. Stones were thrown at the house while the police were in it. There was great noise and shouting, "Verner for ever!" When the police went away, the stones ceased to be thrown except one. Was told that certain persons had threatened witness's house, but did not see any of them in the crowd. Did not know any person he saw that night in the crowd.

3. James O'Reilly.

County of Armagh, to wit. } THE information of James O'Reilly of Portadown, in the county of Armagh, gentleman, taken before the under-signed magistrates for said county. This informant being duly sworn and examined on his oath, saith that he was in the street of Portadown about four o'clock in the afternoon of the 31st March last. It was a fair day, and he observed a crowd about the door of Owen Devlin's house, behaving in a disorderly manner. Informant saw a person going for the police, and waited till they came up. Informant then went with them into Owen Devlin's house, and they succeeded in quelling this disturbance. Informant further saith, that in about an hour and a half afterwards informant was standing near the police barrack, where he was joined by Mr. Brennan the chief constable, and when Mr. Charles Marlay came up and said, the mob which informant saw near the town pump were beating some one or two Roman-catholics, and that if the police would not go to their assistance, they (the Catholics) would be murdered, upon which Mr. Brennan and informant went over to the barrack, and Mr. Brennan ordered the men to hurry out. Informant then went with the chief constable and police to where the quarrel was. Informant found it was difficult to get in through the crowd, and Mr. Brennan ordered the police to fix bayonets, and from the excessively violent and tumultuous appearance of the crowd, ordered them to form a square. This occurred opposite the house of Owen Devlin; the mob were here very violent, and occasionally threw stones, and otherwise behaved in a very riotous manner. Saith, that at this time Curran Woodhouse, Esq. a magistrate, came up, and after a lengthened but unavailing remonstrance with the crowd, he ordered the men to move further down the street, with a view (as informant believes) of preventing them from being surrounded and disarmed. Saith, the men were marched down to the flags opposite the house of Mr. Atkin, the innkeeper. Saith, that during their movement from Devlin's to the place at Mr. Atkin's, they were severely pelted with stones, accompanied with very violent words, gestures, shouting and hissing. Saith, they (the police), were also very severely pelted with stones, when opposite Atkin's door. Saith, he saw Mr. Woodhouse aforesaid getting his son, Mr. John Woodhouse, to read the Riot Act, and make proclamation to the people to disperse, and heard him frequently entreat the mob to desist their riotous conduct, and go peaceably home. Saith, they would not stop, but the stone-throwing increasing very much, and a numerous mob marching up and down the street, with music playing party tunes, informant became apprehensive for his personal safety, and in consequence went into the shop of Doctor Walker, and remained there until the riot was over. Saith, he saw Richard Bullock amongst the mob who were throwing stones; saith he heard him call out "To hell with Papist Brennan," meaning Mr. Brennan, the chief constable.

James O'Reilly.

Had been previously examined. His information being now read to him, he says it was after four o'clock when he first went to Owen Devlin's house. Witness heard the shots; was at Dr. Walker's door, 10 yards from Atkin's. Heard no order to fire; stone-throwing then continued. Mr. Atkin wished the police to move away to save his house; the stones were thrown at the police; heard the men complain of being pelted. Captain Brennan addressed the mob, and begged of them to stand back off his men; this was opposite Devlin's. Captain Brennan kept them off, where he appeared, but the crowd jumped in other parts upon the men. The mob were very riotous. Witness produces a small stick he got from Captain Brennan that evening, with which he struck the persons in the mob. Captain Woodhouse wished the persons in the street to go home.

3. John M'Donnell.—Lives at Atkin's side of the street; about five heard noise. Police and Captain Brennan endeavouring to keep mob off with a stick. Above witness's own house mob amounted to 50 or 100, shouting and hissing. Saw nothing more till about three or half-past; then heard from Owen Devlin that his house was ; went there and saw crowd outside, who scattered when witness went out. Police came up soon, and Captain Brennan and Mr. Woodhouse; police formed opposite Devlin's door, fronting the mob, who increased; mob commenced throwing stones at the police; witness was at Devlin's door and was struck by a stone, and hat cut through; not more than 12 stones or thereabouts; noise and shouting; police then went off, and witness went into his own house; stones came into his house above stairs; broke a window and struck Mr. Corrigan. Witness then went out and saw but few persons; they had gone into an entry opposite; a second stone was thrown into his house above stairs; another pane broken; found a stone next morning in the room; heard the shots when in his own house at half-past seven o'clock; did not see the crowd or the police at that time.

4. John M'Gann.—Five o'clock was at Alexander M'Kie's; saw men fighting in the street, near the pump; great cheering; police came up, Captain Brennan with them; fighting ceased, and the police got out middle of the crowd. Police fixed their bayonets when they came; crowd closed on the police; cheering; appeared wanting to take the guns; Mr. Fisher tried to keep them back, and Mr. Woodhouse. Mr. Fisher begged them to go away and disperse; Captain Brennan also endeavoured to keep them back with his hands; when they yielded all was quiet. Those who resisted he struck with a switch. A man near the pump approached a policeman riotously, and the policeman pushed and knocked him down; thinks it was a push in the breast; does not know that man; soon after a man took Captain Brennan by the breast, and took him off the street into the road, among the crowd; two policeman advanced and brought him back; Woodhouse was going away, and Captain Brennan spoke to him and detained him. Police then loaded their guns, as witness thought; witness was looking out of a window. Police marched from the pump towards the barrack about six; crowd followed police close, and the rear men fronted to face them; crowd cheering; more than 200 persons, men and boys; few women; saw no more. About seven came out, and there saw the police opposite the inn; saw nothing further; heard a shot near eight.

5. John Overend.—Was at Mr. Woodhouse's between six and seven; message came to Mr. Woodhouse that Owen Devlin's house was attacked. Went out with Mr. J. Woodhouse; crowd was then further up, towards Gallagher's; saw the police formed in a square; saw Captain Brennan strike persons with a stick; was much excited; said, "Is this bearable?" to Mr. Sinnamon and others. At this time the mob were shouting "Verner! and to hell with the Pope!" one of the police stepped out of the ranks and knocked a man down with his gun; he only made one step. When Captain Brennan appeared, the mob retreated, but closed on other points. Witness addressed the crowd, and told them a quarrel between them and the police would do them no good, and advised them to disperse. Mob then called "Silence!" in order to hear witness and Mr. Sinnamon. Captain Brennan again used the stick, and this excited the mob; cannot describe his manner of striking more particularly. Did not hear him use any expression to the mob; heard one or two shouts of "Papist Brennan!" Captain Brennan's son prevented him further from striking the people, and said, "the crowd had no intention of throwing stones at the police." Police afterwards marched down towards the inn, seven o'clock, and drew up in front of the house; still a mob and noise; crowd followed the police; a stone was thrown from the mob just as they halted; a large stone; witness lifted it up; it was thrown up; not with great force; candle then brought out and Riot Act read by Mr. John Woodhouse; after this immediately several stones were thrown, and struck the house, and broke some windows; one grazed witness's arm. Captain Brennan said, "My God! Mr. Woodhouse, is the house to be smashed?" Immediately after saw the shots fired; cannot say how the pieces were presented; thought only blank cartridge, and therefore did not observe. Witness then retreated into the gateway, and when he came out the police had returned. Did not hear any order to fire; was next to the left-hand man in the line; Captain Brennan was at the right, as witness thinks; witness then went home.

6. John Obins Woodhouse.

County of Armagh } The information of John Obins Woodhouse, of Portadown, in the to wit } county of Armagh, solicitor, taken before the undersigned justices of the peace for the said county of Armagh.

This informant, being duly sworn, on his oath saith, that on Monday the 31st day of March last, Curran Woodhouse, Esq., one of the magistrates of this county of Armagh, and father of this informant, dined with this informant at this informant's house in Portadown. Saith that between the hours of six and seven o'clock in the afternoon, some person called and requested said magistrate to come out, as a party of men were wrecking the house of Owen Devlin, or spoke to that effect; saith that deponent and two other persons who had also dined with informant, accompanied said magistrate to the place, and there found the police constables drawn up in the street nearly opposite to the house of said Devlin, under the command of Mr. Brennan, the chief constable of police; saith he also saw there a large body of persons assembled in a riotous and tumultuous manner, shouting and making a great noise, and calling out, "To hell with the Pope;" saith the said magistrate used his utmost exertion to persuade the people to disperse; saith informant also exerted himself to prevail on the mob to disperse, but without effect; saith the tumult continued to increase, and stones were thrown from the crowd at the police constables; saith said magistrate directed the police to march from where they were to a more elevated position, near the house of Henry Atkin; saith that the crowd followed the magistrate and police to the said place at the house of Henry Atkin, &c.; that on their way there, the tumult and disorder still continued to increase and more stones were thrown; saith, that when at the said last-mentioned place, the rioters became still more violent, and informant being then of opinion that the riot could not be stopped by fair means or entreaty, and as it was then growing dark, informant advised said magistrate to make proclamation for the rioters to disperse, pursuant to the provisions of the Riot Act; saith said Curran Woodhouse sent informant to informant's house for the Act, to be used for said purpose, and having returned with same, and it being then dark, a candle was got, and the said magistrate having duly called on the people to keep silence, this informant, under the directions of said magistrate, proceeded to read the form of proclamation in said Act contained, and which this informant did read in due form. Informant saith it was then about seven o'clock by informant's watch. Saith, the rioters did not disperse on proclamation being so made, but on the contrary, more stones were thrown. Saith, it became very dark, and about this time informant observed some of the most violent of the rioters in a gateway between said house of Henry Atkin and Dr. Leigh's, and deponent being apprehensive that if the riot got worse the party in said gateway would rush in behind the police, and knock them down or disarm them whilst the men were engaged with the mob assembled in front, and informant thinking it important to have said party removed out of said gateway, suggested to said magistrate to have them removed. Saith, said magistrate, accompanied by Mr. Brennan, the chief constable, went to the place, and had it cleared out. Saith, some of said party were endeavouring to return into said gateway, and informant was persuading them to go away, when one great volley of stones was thrown by the crowd, and at the same instant the police constables fired. Saith, informant was struck on the head with a stone, thrown by the crowd, and knocked down. Saith, he fell behind the police, and was at same time hit by several stones, but none did him any injury but the one. Saith, the noise and tumult was at this time very great. Saith, he was stunned by the blow, and was bleeding a great deal. Saith, everything being then in confusion, and deponent being separated from said magistrate, and the friends who had come out with him (and whom informant could not then see), informant returned alone into his own house. Saith, informant then sent for a surgeon, and found he had been wounded with a stone as aforesaid. Saith, after having said wound dressed, and said magistrate had also got back to informant's house, another message came to say, that the mob were again attacking Devlin's house. Saith, said magistrate then went out again, and informant followed him, but lost sight of him. Saith, the riot was then going on in the street opposite Devlin's house, and was very alarming. Saith, he afterwards met said magistrate, and he appeared to be coming from Owen Devlin's. Saith, that from the darkness and confusion which then prevailed, and considering the small number of the police, and great number of the rioters, informant thought no further effectual resistance could be made, and advised said magistrate to return, and informant and said magistrate then returned to informant's house.

Informations read. Witness now adds, he saw Captain Brennan strike the persons in the crowd, as he thought with intent to disperse them. He desired them to go off when the police were down at the inn; some said, "Are we to stand here to be murdered?" another said, if hit again, he would fire without orders. Police had loaded near Devlin's; magistrate magistrate desired them to load with blank; this order was given to Captain Brennan, who replied, they had only ball cartridge; then said, "If forced to fire, fire over-head." Immediately previous to the firing heard the magistrate repeat the order to fire over-heads; heard that order three or four times; heard no order whatever at the time of the firing; at the time of the firing witness had been struck by a stone, and did not observe how the pieces were presented. Witness was at the left and Captain Brennan not near him when the firing took place, nor was Mr. Woodhouse; had seen him about two minutes before; mob were 300 or 400; had seen stones thrown from the mob at the place when he first saw the police; did not know any of the rioters. Saw Mr. Sinnamon, Mr. Paul, Mr. Fisher and Mr. Overend endeavouring, along with witness, to make them disperse, and though none refused to go, they did not go, but became worse as the darkness came on. Did not see Captain Brennan strike any person after the police got to Atkin's house. The police were at Atkin's door 20 minutes before the firing; was in view of Captain Brennan the greater part of the time while at Atkin's door, and did not see him strike any person with the stick while there. At the time of the firing the mob was within a yard of the police; it is therefore quite certain they did not aim at the mob, else they must have shot many; witness would have been in great danger. Stones continued to be thrown at the moment the shots were fired; witness himself had been struck and knocked down at the time. Stones were thrown after the shots; witness hit with several after.

7. Mr. William Paul.—Shortly before six was returning through the fair; saw all quiet. When he got into his own shop heard shouting; heard word "Police!" Went away to support the police, found them drawn up nearly opposite Devlin's, with fixed bayonets; saw Captain Brennan striking the people; came to front of his men, and witness said, "Captain Brennan, do not strike the people; they will not allow any one to strike them." Captain Brennan said, "My God, what can I do!" witness said, "Remove these men, and the mob will disperse." Captain Brennan then went back from witness, and struck people again, making a lane through them. Witness begged again, "Remove these men;" Captain Brennan said he would not have his men insulted. His son caught him, and caught the blow; conducted himself remarkably well; told his father, who asked, "they were not throwing stones." Captain Brennan threatened to fire. Mr. J. Woodhouse then came up, and asked what was the matter; witness replied, "Nothing, but keeping these policemen here." Witness then applied to Mr. Woodhouse, J. P., to have them removed, but he did not accede to the proposal; witness soon after went home; no stones were thrown at that time; crowd was very large; witness did not know the occasion of the police being first called out; does not know of any society to prosecute Captain Brennan, and has not subscribed to any such.

8. Mr. Thomas Sinnamon.—About five, saw some appearance of riot about Devlin's; soon after that saw the police passing up; a few men; Captain Brennan not with them; they went into Devlin's, six or eight, not then marching in order. Soon after this, Mr. Joyce said there would be bad work, and wished witness to go and interfere; witness could not go at that moment; others came and pressed him; came again. Looked out, and saw the police near the pump, drawn up; soon after witness did go up, and found them near Mr. Paul's. Witness spoke to Captain Brennan; saw him strike the people—several; could not prevent him striking; then went away; saw him strike others after he remonstrated; struck men across the face, who had not shouted in witness's presence. Captain Brennan was intoxicated; this was the manner witness left him; this was about six; did not say to Captain Brennan that he was intoxicated; witness then went home, and saw no more till the police were coming down near Atkin's. Saw Mr. Woodhouse, Mr. ———, Mr. Fisher, and Mr. J. Woodhouse; Mr. Woodhouse requested witness to get the crowd to go away; witness said, if Captain Brennan would quit striking them, that he was confident all would be quiet. When witness and Fisher, and the other gentlemen went to them, they shouted "Silence!" Witness begged them not to disgrace the town by attacking the police; they said they would do anything they bid them, but complained of Captain Brennan's abuse. One man was bleeding (thinks Magee); witness and his friends succeeded in getting them up as far as the pump, when some called out, "He is again striking them!" and they rushed past witness and returned into the street; witness followed, and spoke to Captain Brennan to desist; his son did the same; applied to Mr. Woodhouse to take away Captain Brennan, observing, "You see the condition Captain Brennan was in, and how he is behaving;" mentioned intoxication; Mr. Woodhouse replied, "He wished he was away;" both agreed that all might then be settled. Some boy began to play a fife, but witness and his friends stopped him; he played a party tune; the mob took a man on their shoulders, and were going to chair him. Mr. Woodhouse seized a man, and the thing was stopped by witness and his friends. Mr. Woodhouse said, if they would not be quiet he would fire on them. Mr. Woodhouse then asked Captain Brennan about blank cartridge; Captain Brennan said he had none; "Then if you are pressed to fire, fire over their heads." The little boys still shouted "Verner!" Captain Brennan ran after them, and struck any person that stopped; struck persons who had not shouted. Police at this time were drawn up in front of Atkin's; shouted sometimes "You pig-driver!" and "Papist Brennan!" running away from him. Witness staid till after the Riot Act was read; before he left them; saw Mr. Woodhouse go into the gateway, saying he would clear the gateway, wherein there was a great crowd on the left. When Mr. Woodhouse was in the gateway, Captain Brennan attacked them with the stick, and struck R. Bullock on the head, and Saunderson soon after. Witness again advised Captain Brennan to remove the men, and said, "As soon as it proves a little darker they may throw stones;" he swore if they threw stones he would throw ball-cartridge at them.

them. Witness had not at that time seen or heard any stone thrown; balls struck witness's house; produces some balls; some struck within two or three feet of the ground; saw the marks; one went into the parlour window. Did not say to Captain Brennan that he was intoxicated. Witness came out when the shots were fired, and saw the police march away. Crowd were shouting in a riotous manner; some men very angry; saw the flash of the guns; some were fired up, and others level; thinks more were fired up in the air than level; all the men did not fire; about eight or ten distinct shots. Admits he wrote a letter to Mr. ——— [This name is illegible in the original] proposing to him to assist in conducting an investigation into the conduct of the police. Produces it.

8. Thomas A. Shillington.--Saw the police with fixed bayonets at Devlin's; saw symptoms which alarmed him. Populace were fixed on one spot near Devlin's door, and shouting occasionally "Verner for ever!" Witness was in Marley's shop when he heard the shot; came out and saw the last shot; it was fired high enough to go over the houses.

10. William Joyce.—Saw the police about six o'clock drawn up opposite Devlin's door; Captain Brennan was beating the people with a stick; crowd were shouting "Verner! and to hell with the Pope!" afterwards heard, "Papist Brennan!" Captain Brennan ran after them, struck them, and returned to his men; sometimes he got surrounded by the crowd, and the police were obliged to open a way with their bayonets to get him out again; thought the people would throw stones, and went to Mr. Woodhouse; heard he had gone up, and therefore returned, and stopped again at Mr. Paul's door; saw Mr. Paul go into the crowd and followed him, and endeavoured to keep the people back; they were pressing forward; spoke to Serjeant Johnstone to get the men down to the barrack; Johnstone referred him to the Captain; witness spoke to Captain Brennan, and said there would be bad work if they were not taken down to the barrack. Spoke also to Mr. Woodhouse to the same effect, and to Captain Brennan's son. After some time Mr. Woodhouse called out "Clear the way!" and the men were marched off. Witness remained behind, endeavouring to keep the people from following them; saw one stone thrown, but it fell short. Had heard the police were loaded with ball; was afraid they would fire when the stone was thrown, as Mr. Woodhouse had threatened he would fire; ran to the spot from whence the stone came and seized a man, and said, "Are you going to get the people all shot?" The man broke away; witness followed him, and insisted he should tell who threw the stone; ascertained the name of the man he followed. The police then drew up opposite the inn, and witness came down to them. Saw Mr. J. Woodhouse come up with a book; a candle was brought out to read the Act. A fife was playing on the opposite side, with a crowd walking to the music; did not stay to hear the Act read; heard stones falling and glass breaking before the shots were fired. Had seen Mr. Sinnamon often in the evening; went to Mr. Sinnamon's house between six and seven, and said he feared bad work; thought the people would throw stones, and the police would fire. The people were incensed against Mr. Brennan for striking them. Captain Brennan came here in November; saw him strike them; never saw him strike any person till that day; cannot say he was intoxicated.

11. Meredyth M'Shane.—Met Captain Brennan coming into town; after the police had stood at Devlin's, the mob gathered very strong about them; heard several say "Take to the stones and put down Brennan out of the road:" shouting "Verner!" &c. repeatedly; saw procession, with a man chairing and playing party tunes, Boyne Water, &c. from Wood's Corner down to Overend's and back again, about 30 or 40 perches. The man who was carried played the fife; left the street then; was not there when the Act was read; Hector Saunderson was near witness when he heard them say take to the stones. Captain Brennan endeavoured to keep the people off with a stick; did not see him strike any person; saw Mr. Paul and Mr. Sinnamon seeking to make Captain Brennan take away the men; did not appear to be in liquor.

12. Dr. John Dixon.—Attended Nicholson, who had received musket wound in the knee; extracted the ball after amputation; it was a carbine ball; thinks the ball struck the knee nearly horizontally; amputation was necessary to prevent a fatal hæmorrhage. Had been in the shop of surgeon Robinson, and went to Sinnamon's door immediately before the firing; stood in the hall-door; there was much excitement in the street at the time; persons were crying out "Verner for ever!" &c. Police were drawn up in front of the town; the crowd at the opposite side. It was almost dark, past seven, near eight; thinks the police were resting their firelocks on their haunches. Immediately after heard shot fired, and then a second, and then eight or 10 in succession; thought it was blank cartridge; crowd pressed towards the door, and witness shut it; soon heard that a man was shot; with great difficulty stopped the bleeding, and amputated his limb to save his life.

13. Joseph Whitelock.—Was here on 31st March; was struck by something in the knee; was standing at Mr. Simmons's low window, next Dr. Robinson's; saw the police at the opposite side of the street; heard shouts before he was struck, and some after he was struck; did not see any stone thrown, nor hear any order to fire; mob were shouting.

14. Richard M'Namara.—Was near Nicholson when he was shot; does not know exactly the place where he was shot; saw the police charging the people away after the fight near the pump, about half-past six; saw Captain Brennan beating the people away with his stick; struck them across the face. Mob were shouting "Verner for ever!" was afraid of Captain Brennan; he damned them to be gone; they made no answer; there was no mob near the police when they fired; only saw one stone thrown; when the police loaded, the mob mob dispersed, except those who went behind them; some of those went close in the rear of them; heard noise of glass breaking before the shots.

15. Richard Watson.—Mob shouted "Verner!" and Captain Brennan shouted "Brownlow!" saw him strike a man's hat off; shouted "Brownlow!" two or three times.

16. James O'Hanlon. 10 April 1834.

County of Armagh, to wit. } THE information of James O'Hanlon, merchant of Portadown, taken before the undersigned magistrates:

Informant being duly sworn, saith, he resided in Portadown, and keeps a shop there; saith, he recollects 31st March last; there was a fair held in Portadown on that day Saith Owen Devlin occupied the house next adjoining informant's house; saith, that Owen Devlin is an innkeeper; saith, that between the hours of five and six o'clock, on the evening of said day, he observed a crowd of people rushing into the house of said Owen Devlin in a furious and tumultuous manner; saith, that from the numbers of people rushing in, informant apprehended some damage would be done to Devlin's house. Saith, that in consequence of some apprehension, informant sent a boy to bring the police, and the police not coming immediately, informant went himself for the police, and brought them to Devlin's house; the police cleared the people out. Informant further saith, that about an hour afterwards he observed a crowd running after a man wanting his hat; and saith, that soon afterwards he saw the police in the street; saith, the crowd collected round the police, and were behaving in a very riotous manner, shouting and making a great noise, and appeared to be pressing in on the police. Saith, that when the police had moved farther down, and were nearly opposite informant's door, he saw Mr. Woodhouse, the magistrate, with the police; he was occupied in endeavouring to persuade the people to disperse and go home; but they would not, and the riot rather increased. Saith the police then moved down further, nearly opposite the inn door; and saith, that after the shots were fired, about a quarter of an hour, a boy standing at informant's door was struck with a stone, and that before the firing, when informant went towards the inn, he saw stones throwing at the police; the riot was then very alarming. Saith, that he saw Richard Bullock amongst the rioters. Saith, he saw the said Mr. Woodhouse, the magistrate, following into a gateway said Richard Bullock, as informant believes, for the purpose of arresting him; saith, said Richard Bullock escaped into a lane leading from said gateway. Saith, that about seven o'clock he was present when proclamation was made from the Riot Act; saith, that the crowd did not thereupon disperse, but the disturbance still continued. Saith, informant returned to his own house at the time, but he heard the report of the firing. Saith, that about an hour afterwards said Devlin came running up to informant, said that his house was a-wrecking. Saith, that he went into Devlin's house; that he saw a riotous mob in the street; that he saw Mr. Woodhouse, the magistrate, there, with the chief constable and the police; the riot was very alarming; at this time a shower of stones was sent towards Devlin's house, thrown by the mob. Informant saw several persons standing about Devlin's door struck with the stones; saw several of the police constables struck at that time with stones; saw the eldest son of Mr. Brennan, the chief constable, struck with a stone; he received a very small blow. Informant saith, that at this time the police called out, Were they to be kept there to be murdered, as the stones were coming so thick on them. Saith, that shortly afterwards he went into John M'Donell's house, and when there, a very large stone was thrown through the window of the room he was in, which struck a table at which informant was sitting. Saith, that shortly afterwards said M'Donell and informant went out into the street, which then presented a very alarming appearance, from the crowds of persons assembled, and their gesture and manner. Saith, that about ten o'clock of the same night he was sitting in his own drawing-room, which is on the second story, when his house was attacked and two stones were thrown in through the window. Saith, he thereupon went out into the street, and saw a considerable number of persons assembled near his house. Saith, he went to the police barrack to apply for protection, and was told by the police serjeant that the police could not go out; saith, that he then returned to his own house, and saw some men still there; he went out to them to see who they were, and afterwards went towards his own gateway, and was followed by three or four men, who jostled informant, and one of them offered to strike informant. Informant then went towards his own door, and before he got in, several stones were thrown after him.

Sworn before me this 5th day of April 1834,

J. M. Hill,
Wm. John Hannah.

Informant acknowledged himself to be indebted unto our Sovereign Lord the King in the sum of 50 l., conditioned that he will attend at the next or any other assizes, to be held in and for said county, to prosecute. Jas. O'Hanlon.

The information of the witness previously taken was read over to him, and he has sworn to it.

Saw several persons endeavouring to keep the mob quiet; saw Mr. Paul, Mr. Woodhouse, Mr. Overend and Mr. Fisher, and also Captain Brennan. Mr. Woodhouse said the police would be obliged to fire, and Captain Brennan said that should be the last resource. This was near Devlin's house; one policeman was obliged to push off a man with his firelock, firelock, who had rushed in on Captain Brennan; Captain Brennan used his switch in endeavouring to keep off the crowd. Witness cannot say that the tumult that evening was encouraged by any person in trade in Portadown.

17. Thomas Atkyn.

County of Armagh, to wit. } THE information of Thomas Atkyn, of Portadown in said county, taken before the undersigned magistrates:

This informant having been duly sworn and examined on his oath, saith, that he recollects the evening of Monday the 31st day of March last past. Saw the police halted before the inn door; saw a mob on the left of the police, and one in front of the police; heard the above-mentioned mobs shouting and groaning and behaving in a most riotous and tumultuous manner. Saw Captain Brennan using the utmost exertion to disperse the mob on the left of the police; that afterwards stones were thrown, with one of which informant was struck on the shoulder; heard the windows of the inn being broken; was not present at the firing.

Sworn before us, this 11th day of April 1834,

William John Hannah.
J. M. Hill.

Witness' information was read to him, and sworn.

Witness was standing on the left of the police, when he was struck by a stone which came from the mob in front. Witness' back was towards the mob. Soon after being struck, witness came into his house (the inn) and in four or five minutes heard the shots; only one pane of glass was broken; heard many stones strike the walls of the house. When witness went out in the street, heard no order to fire; conversed with Captain Brennan while the police were in front of the house; Captain Brennan said there would be no bad consequences. Captain Brenan was excited, but in witness' opinion was not tipsy. Mr. Fisher said he could send the mob home in 15 minutes. Witness urged him to do so, but got no reply. Witness thought it was beyond his power; does not recollect that Mr. Fisher said the police being removed would quiet everything. Was a little surprised at hearing the shots; thought it must be blank cartridge.

18. Curran Woodhouse, Esq., J. P.—Was told while at dinner, by Captain Brennan's son, that Owen Devlin's house was wrecking; went up and found the police with fixed bayonets, and the mob very angry; some hundreds about the police, opposite Devlin's house. Witness used every means, with others, to prevent a conflict, by argument addressed to the mob, and threatened them; was joined in those efforts by Messrs. Paul, Overend, Fisher, &c., without effect. Witness then advised Captain Brennan to march his men to the inn door, and form with their back to the wall, to prevent their being surrounded. Witness thought that movement necessary for the safety of the police, by reason of the angry appearance of the mob. When the police were formed at the inn, stones were thrown at them; witness heard the stones against the walls, and was struck by one himself; after this, in a short time, witness' son suggested reading the Riot Act, which was desired to be done. His son got the Act and a candle, but the noise was so great, that it would not be heard. It was read, however, but the stones continued to be thrown. Captain Brennan used some strong expression, were they to stay to be murdered, without orders to fire? or words to that effect. Witness replied, "If you fire at all, fire blank;" at the time, witness believed the arms were loaded with ball, as witness now knows. Captain Brennan replied, he had no blank cartridge; witness replied, "If you fire at all, take care to fire in the air;" Captain Brennan replied he would not, or some strong expression. Witness then went into the gateway to clear it of persons who were crowding into it. Witness did this as a matter of precaution, and the entry was cleared, except of one man, who was drunk. While in the act of clearing the gateway, witness heard the shots, about five or ten minutes after leaving Captain Brennan; was surprised to hear the shots at the time, not knowing what orders they had got. It struck witness they had fired without orders, on being struck by some stones. Next day witness mentioned to Captain Brennan, that he thought his men had fired without orders; he answered, "Not they, by God! I gave them distinct orders to fire in the air." On hearing the shots, witness came out and found the police marching off to the barrack; crowd appeared to disperse a good deal; did not follow the police much, nor was the shouting so great as before; saw no more stones thrown; went to his son's house, and found him wounded by a stone. Soon after another messenger came for witness, saying Devlin's house was again attacked. Went to the barrack for the police, and received answer that Captain Brennan would not come without orders. Witness then sent to say that he was waiting for Captain Brennan, who then came with the men. Witness went with them to Devlin's, but found the people had left it. Witness ordered a guard to be left at Devlin's, and returned to his son's house. Captain Brennan was excited, but did not appear to witness to be drunk; witness's impression is, that he was sober. His manner is particular to a stranger, and might appear to be the effects of drink. Witness thought it would not have been right to send the police to the barrack when the mob was in the street, though he sent them up to the house for their safety; was influenced by the conduct of the crowd; does not recollect having said he wished the police were in their barrack; he might have said so, though his opinion was, that he could not properly send them away.

19. William Fisher.—Monday, 31st, was here; saw fight at half-past five, near the pump; two men were fighting; saw the police coming up, on which the crowd about the fight dispersed: one man cried out "Verner!" Captain Brennan left his party, and struck a man near near where the voice came from; others repeated the word "Verner!" Captain Brennan went into the crowd and struck another man. He came back and ordered the men to form front, and they faced down towards the bridge. again called, and Captain Brennan struck some others. The policemen were perfectly quiet and moderate; no person for a long time broke the peace, except Captain Brennan; at this time there was neither huzzaing no shouting. The word "Verner!" was not in the way of a shout. From Captain Brennan taking it ill, thinks the word "Verner!" was addressed to him, but it was still repeated. At this time Mr. Woodhouse and Mr. Paul came up, and witness requested the crowd to be quiet, for God's sake. They replied, "Look at the way we are treated!" Captain Brennan then struck the people again without any provocation whatever, or shouting, or stones-throwing; he got into the crowd, who closed on him; the men then charged with their bayonets, and brought him out, but nobody was hurt; police then moved further down to the inn, by direction of Mr. Woodhouse, to form. During this time witness neither saw nor heard stones. When they had formed, there was a great crowd near the centre of the road, and a few boys occasionally came in towards the police, complaining of their treatment by Captain Brennan; they rushed in; witness was struck twice by Captain Brennan, when saving men. Witness went to Captain Brennan and Mr. Woodhouse, and said, "For God's sake take these men to the barracks." Captain Brennan refused; Mr. Woodhouse was trying to keep the mob back; witness and his friends undertook to keep the town quiet. Mr. Woodhouse repeatedly said, if they would not disperse, he would order the men to fire. The people did not believe him, because such a thing had never happened here: at this time the stones were throwing; the men loaded opposite their door, because he saw some of the men running down.—[Note: Mr. Woodhouse here stated that the men loaded opposite Mr. Paul's door before they came to the inn.]—Saw the candle when the Riot Act was read; heard part of it; there was great noise, and stones were throwing. Mr. John Woodhouse was struck; heard so next morning. Mr. Woodhouse went in to clear the gateway; witness was a little behind him, on the left of the men, when some of the police recovered their arms, and others rested them on their henches; those who recovered, fired up in the air, and saw some of the other pieces on the henches go off also; heard no order given to fire; the men then marched to the barrack, and witness went home. At the time of the firing witness did not see Captain Brennan; next morning met Captain Brennan, who thanked witness for his friendship and kindness he had shown him last evening; witness replied, but said he was not obliged to him for his conduct. Did not hear Captain Brennan call "Brownlow!" Witness will not say Captain Brennan was tipsy; Captain Brennan used his stick injudiciously, but perhaps with a good motive.

20. Thomas Dilworth.—Was in the town on Easter Monday, at the fair; lives one mile and a half away. Captain Brennan struck witness near the barrack, about seven o'clock, with a small stick or switch; struck on the head three times; went to his bed in the town in consequence of the blows. Witness was doing nothing; the people about him were not shouting; they were talking loud; did not hear the call of ; did not call that himself; Captain Brennan did not anything that witness recollects; struck another boy, and desired him to go home; the three other blows all at the same time. He struck the other boy first, and desired him to go home and then struck witness. Witness left him; was much hurt; hat was on; not cut; lump on his head; had no business in the town; was in the street opposite Devlin's house, when he saw the stir; did stop opposite the door a few minutes. Police came up while witness was opposite the door. It was near the police barrack witness was struck; had been in the street all the time, from the time he was at Devlin's till he was struck. Witness swears it is not a fair question to ask him, whether there was a noise or not; will not swear; left the street soon after seven; saw one stone thrown when the police were coming down the street towards the inn; cannot say whether it was thrown at the police; did not hear any windows broke. The man who threw the stone was not near witness; cannot say there was any noise; was prevented from work for two days by the abuse he got; cannot say why he did not complain to a magistrate, or get advice from a doctor. Head was quite light; could not stand after he got it; walked home that night; did not complain till now; does not know whether there was any fight before.

21. John M'Connell.—Was at the fair; five o'clock; some boys fought about matters. Captain Brennan came up and struck a man across the face with a switch; cannot say what he said; Captain Brennan was alone; thought he struck the man for interfering; another man took this man away. There was no crowd or noise.

22. Samuel Neal.—Was in the cow-fair, near the barrack; a boy showed him his chin cut (Magee). Witness pulled the stick, one inch and a half long, out of his chin; came out from ; saw Captain Brennan striking several men with stick; struck witness; Mr. J. O'Reilly also struck witness, and knocked off his hat with stick; Captain Brennan danced on the hat, and then kicked it away. Witness got out of the crowd, and saw Captain Brennan striking other respectable-looking people; this was near six o'clock; there was noise; heard shouting, "Verner!" and "Brownlow!" and "To hell with the beggars!" No riot, except the boys shouting at Captain Brennan's behaviour. Witness was summoned here; there was 100 people in the street; staid till the shots were fired; was at Armstrong's door when the shots were fired; neither heard or seen any stone thrown, or window broke; cannot say whether Captain Brennan was drunk or sober; Captain Brennan desired him to begone when he struck him.

23. William Magee.—About six o'clock Captain Brennan was striking two boys, and witness asked him why he struck the boys, and then he struck witness twice, and then pushed the stick into his chin; put no plaster to it; went to Mr. Woodhouse that evening, but he was not at home.

24. John Lewis.—Was standing near the police barrack, and Captain Brennan struck witness; half-past five; no noise at the time; Captain Brennan took a bayonet from a policeman, and stabbed at witness; witness threw up his hand, and was stabbed in the finger; witness ran away; Captain Brennan said nothing; had not his uniform; got a sticking plaster; did not go to a doctor, or complain to a magistrate; was summoned here; lives in Carn, three miles off; there was no fighting going on at the time.

25. John Smyth.—Witness was in the town; police were opposite to the door; crowd in the street; Captain Brennan struck witness with a stick on the shoulders; said nothing about clearing the street, or dispersing the crowd. Soon after the crowd were shouting "Police!" said they would fire; was in Edgar's when the shots were fired; Mr. Woodhouse tried to keep the peace; Captain Brennan struck other persons.

26. Francis Wolsey.—About six o'clock Captain Brennan struck witness twice with stick, near O'Hanlon's door; there was crowd and noise; Captain Brennan cursed him for a rascal, to be off and disperse. The police were near at the time; the cheering was round the police; saw no stones thrown that night.

27. William Martin.—Half-past six, near the pump, Captain Brennan struck witness three times; cut his hat; ordered witness to go away; police seized witness; Mr. Woodhouse liberated him. There was no riot; heard a noise through the crowd, and shouting; people complained of Captain Brennan.

28. James [name illegible.]—Saw people and confusion; boys playing marbles; Captain Brennan struck one, and pushed his stick into the boy's chin; 20 minutes after this, near the pump, saw a policeman strike a man with his gun; Captain Brennan was near when the policeman struck the man on the breast; Captain Brennan struck Martin; saw no stones thrown.

29. Stewart Fisher.—Saw Captain Brennan strike several people with stick; people were shouting after the striking; saw Captain Brennan run out 20 yards and strike a man opposite Devlin's door: 20 minutes before firing, Serjeant Johnstone applied to witness to get Captain Brennan to march the men away, saying that nothing would occur; witness thought it would be to no purpose, as Captain Brennan was so enraged. Next evening, five o'clock, Captain Brennan said that Sinnamon was the man they might thank for all; said the next time he would fire volley after volley, and damned his soul. "I repeat it;" cannot say he was tipsy on Monday evening. The town is always crowded on Easter Monday, and there is generally some scuffle, of no importance. Stones were thrown; two passed into the windows while witness was there.

30. John Walsh.—Six o'clock, saw two boys quarrelling; Captain Brennan came staggering, and struck the boys; another interfered, and he struck him, and pushed a stick into his chin; 20 minutes after this, Captain Brennan struck witness near M'Donell's; police were then drawn up, but not when he struck the little boys; witness was passing through the crowd; they were then shouting "Verner!" and others shouting "Brownlow!" Saw Captain Brennan also strike others; witness smelt spirits when Captain Brennan was near him.

31. Henry Worrall.—Saw a crowd and went into it; police began to chase with their bayonets; crowd quiet and tranquil; crowd returned. A policeman struck a man in the breast with his gun; said they would make prisoners, and then witness returned. Captain Brennan had a frock coat and round hat.

32. Rev. William Doran, the Presbyterian clergyman, to give his testimony.—About seven o'clock, in his own house, near the church, heard noise in the town, and fearing a serious fray, went down the town. Saw nothing unusual on Easter Monday; heard shouts of "Verner!" by persons moving about in the street. This did not surprise witness, as "Verner" and "Brownlow" are common words in Portadown; but being aware of what had occurred in the early part of the day opposite the inn, was quite astonished to see the police drawn up in order on the footway at the inn door; saw many people on the left of the police; thought if the police were removed, the people would have dispersed, because the mere appearance of the police attracts a crowd. Saw Mr. Woodhouse exert himself to disperse the crowd; saw Captain Brennan, and requested to speak privately to him, to which he assented immediately. Witness entreated him to remove the police into the barrack, as witness thought it would produce peace. He said he would not, as he knew his duty, and immediately proceeded towards the police. Witness saw several stones fall near the feet of the police, and afterwards heard Mr. John Woodhouse, in presence of his father, read the Riot Act. Witness then returned into the inn; while there, heard sound as if glass breaking by external force; he a few minutes afterwards heard several successive shots, and saw the flashes through the window. Saw the police go down towards the barrack, and fearing that the irritation from the firing might be followed by bad consequences, witness followed the police to the barrack. There were but few persons between the inn and the barrack, and these were peaceable. Went into the barrack, and saw the police in apparent confusion; heard them ordered to be provided with ball cartridge, by a serjeant. Captain Brennan ordered them to two men to each window in the barrack; went up to the lobby with with Captain Brennan; at the window two or three men were placed. Captain Brennan was at the window; witness wished him to withdraw, as his appearance might irritate the people; he remained, and directed the attention of the men at the window and witness to a house opposite (Thomas Dawson's), stating that there was a party making up there to attack the barrack. Witness implored him, if necessary to fire, to fire over the houses; he answered, if he fired again, he would fire into the midst of them. Witness entreated him not to fire till witness went to to see what was doing; going down stairs, witness met a policeman, whom he asked if his gun was loaded with ball; said it was. Accompanied by Mr. Stewart Fisher, witness went to Mr. Dawson's house; found there about six persons outside the door; went in; Mrs. Dawson was at the bar. Her husband she said, was in Armagh; mentioned what had occurred in the barrack, and requested her to cause the house to be cleared; she declined, as they were quiet; prevailed on her to shut her shutters. Went to Dr. Robinson's, and saw the wounded man at his lodgings. Did not know the religion of the wounded man; next morning a collection was made for him; went with Mr. Sinnamon to collect for him; went into Catholic and Protestant houses, and received from both. Cannot say Captain Brennan was affected by liquor, though intoxicated.

33. Catherine Stewart.—Lives at Mrs. Hamilton's house; on Easter Monday, after the firing, heard the mob say "Go up to Owen Devlin's, and you will get something to do;" and said, all they were sorry for was, that they did not take the guns. Two panes were broken; when witness knocked at the door, Mr. —— let her in, about three minutes before the shots.

34. John Robinson, surgeon.—Produces the joint and the ball in it; some shots struck witness' house; was in the shop; six or seven shots left marks, including the two wounded men.

35. —— Wright.—Saw the policemen strike a man in the crowd: policeman is David Roche. There was a noise and shouting; crowd not pressing on the police at the time.

36. Henry Atkin.—Shut the door when the stones were thrown. Captain Brennan came in some time before the firing, and asked for a stick; witness said he had none; asked afterwards for a candle. Did not examine Captain Brennan; does not think he was drunk or affected by liquor.

DEFENCE.

(1.)—37. Patrick Fearon.—Was here on Monday evening; was struck in the street, and was fighting; they were separated; same boy came again, Thomas Thornton, and gathered a mob, and told them witness was to fight him; struck witness again; knocked witness down; mob gathered round him: "Kill him, he is a Papist!" ran away; called "thief, pickpocket;" a gentleman said he was no pickpocket. Ran up to Gallagher's and got in; mob stood in the street; came out without his hat, and went to John M'Donnell's, and stood there till after the firing. Got out at the back of Gallagher's house, and went into the back of M'Donnell's. Lives at Derryvale; is a weaver.

(2. Defence.)—38. Patrick Gawry.—Was at Gallagher's; went out after a girl; saw a crowd; heard a man say, "There he is; hail him;" a man struck him with his fist, and the crowd fell on him; they called, "Orange Portadown and Ballyworhan!" Some men pulled witness from among the crowd Gallagher's; went from that to Owen Devlin's, and got in there; while there, a stone knocked in the window; this was after the firing. When going home, was obliged to go round.

(3. Defence.)—38. Charles M'Cormick.—Saw the police coming up to Owen Devlin's about five; they had fixed bayonets; they went from that to Gallagher's; a boy that was chased went into Gallagher's; his name was Fearon; his hat was off; drew up opposite Gallagher's; the serjeant made them stand with fixed bayonets; after that they marched down towards the inn. Witness then went into Owen Devlin's, and saw no more till near evening. Witness when coming down was obliged to go into Dr. Walker's gateway. The mob were then opposite the police, throwing stones as hard as they could. Saw Patrick Murphy struck in the ranks, and obliged to leave the rank; was shot in the leg; vollies of stones continued for 15 minutes; mob was shouting, "Papist Brennan, and to hell with the Pope!" Party tune was playing when Fearon was chased; heard glass rattling, thinks in the inn. Stood in the gateway till the shots were fired. Saw Mr. Woodhouse in front of the police, and his son; heard the voice reading the Act; the noise was then great. Captain Brennan was near the police; saw the flash and heard the shots; got away to his lodgings. After the shots heard a man out of the mob cry out "Papist Brennan!" and that they would beat the police. Three or four hundred people opposite the police when the stones were thrown; vollies of them were thrown; the stone-throwing obliged witness to go into the gateway. The police marched away after the firing, about five minutes; the crowd followed them to the barrack; some stragglers, but at the right of the crowd; they stood opposite Mr. Sinnamon. Never was so much violence on Easter Monday before; from four to five o'clock party tunes were playing. Did not see Captain Brennan strike any person; saw no appearance of drink on Captain Brennan.

(4. Defence.)—39. Heary Fearon.—Saw a party opposite Fisher's. Police were in a square, a crowd round them; police had fixed bayonets; some boys in the crowd were huzzaing and shouting; said they could beat all the black belts in the town. Witness saw three stones thrown at the police; saw another thrown, and then came away; went to Marley's, and then heard the shots.

40. John Tawny.—Came out of Gallagher's; crowd round police, cheering and shouting; wished to get away; went towards Fisher's; a man threw a short stick towards Captain Brennan, and said, "To hell with you, Ballyworhan!" came on towards Paul's door; saw stones fall; came to Dr. Robinson's; the police formed near the inn door; mob was cheering and shouting; man mounted on shoulders; came away; fife played up the street; cheered and shouted "Verner for ever!"

41. Charles Call.—Saw police and Captain Brennan, and the crowd rushing in upon them; saw Mr. Woodhouse trying to pacify. Captain Brennan struck some who were crusty, and pushed others with his hands; Captain Brennan marched the men towards the inn; mob continued to cheer "Away with the pig-drivers!" saw no stones thrown.

Third Day.—April 12.

43. William Grew.—Was at Devlin's house in the evening of the 31st March; stones came in at the windows about eight or nine in the evening, after the firing. Witness had heard the shots; Devlin sent witness for the police; Captain Brennan refused, unless witness would go for Mr. Woodhouse; witness went, and Mr. Woodhouse desired witness to order Captain Brennan to bring all his strength with him; witness went, and the police came with Captain Brennan up to Devlin's door, and drew up opposite the door; they were soon after beaten away.

44. John Kenny.—Was at the fair, five o'clock, p. m.; saw a ruffianly mob, the worst he had seen for 20 years; saw them throwing stones near the pump, on this side of it. The police came up, and were standing in the street, near Owen Devlin's; Captain Brennan was with them; a stone struck Captain Brennan on the shoulder; the stones were thrown in the direction of the police from the crowd; saw one man in particular come up close to Captain Brennan, and say, "To hell with the Pope!" does not know that man; Captain Brennan advanced a step or two, and struck the man with a switch, on which voices called out, "Knock him down!" meaning Captain Brennan. The mob at this time were quite close to the police, but the densest mass was rather further off; the shouts continued, and the mob were restless. The police soon after moved up towards the church, and then crossed the street. Not long after then they came down towards the inn; at the time Captain Brennan struck the man, the police had fixed bayonets, but were not at the charge.

45. James Gilmore.—Saw the police at Devlin's door, and stones were thrown; Captain Brennan was with them; they were not long; they then came down to Atkin's door; heard stones striking the house; witness was standing beside the police; did not see any person struck, nor any mischief; heard no glass broke at Atkin's, but did at Devlin's. The street was full of people in front of the police. The stones came across the street, and hit the house. Crowd were shouting for Papists, "Papist Brennan!" these words were repeated often. This continued half an hour altogether, including what happened at Devlin's; saw Captain Brennan striking them with a stick, and desiring them to stand back and keep off; he thought they were too near them. When he struck them it made them angry; saw Mr. Woodhouse standing behind the police; he said to the mob that if they would not settle, he would make the police fire at them; saw some decent-looking men trying to keep the mob quiet. Does not know any of their names; was at some distance; saw the shots fired; was standing on the right of the police at that time. Heard Captain Brennan order the men to fire; heard nothing but the word "fire!" The noise was great around them, and among themselves; they struck people who came too near them. The men did not fire for a minute or two after the word "fire!" was pronounced by Captain Brennan. Did not hear Mr. Woodhouse say anything about firing at the time of the shots; he heard him threaten to fire if the mob would not be quiet, but that was before the police drew up in front of Atkin's door. Captain Brennan was behind the police, towards the left, when he said "fire!" never said he heard Mr. Woodhouse give orders to fire, only threatened. The police presented their pieces up over the men's heads; the fire went upwards; fired one after another. The shots on the did not any going down; this he saw, one going level; heard shouts and cheering after the shots. The police stood ten minutes, or near it, after the shots; then went down towards the barrack. The crowd did not follow them, but witness heard the shouting continue. Stones were thrown at the police after the shots.

46. James Armstrong.—Saw the police standing opposite Atkin's; witness was coming down the street towards the police, and a stone struck the wall near witness; another stone was thrown immediately after the first; thinks the stones came across the street from the crowd, who were making a great noise, shouting "To hell with the Pope!" The noise was alarming and riotous; they said "To hell with Papist Brennan." Witness went home, and saw nothing more. Heard the shots in about five minutes; thought they were blank cartridge; the mob ran in a very disorderly state. Had seen Captain Brennan in the early part of the evening; he was using every exertion to keep the peace; he was going through the crowd; crowd; had a small rattan in his hand; had no appearance of being affected by liquor; the bayonets were presented outwards when Captain Brennan used the rattan; he was before the police, in front; at one time Captain Brennan got among the crowd, and the people were between the police and him.

47. Thomas Murphy.—Was at Owen Devlin's between five and six o'clock, and a man came in and said, "Verner for ever!" said he could beat the Papist connexion. There were other persons in the house, who did not interfere; but another came in with a number, and struck this man on the shoulder, saying, "Who could you beat?" and tried to get forward up stairs; Devlin would not let them up, and called upon people in the house to assist him. Witness and others assisted Devlin to keep them, and did so till the police came. Heard Devlin say to Henry M'Cahally, "Go for the police!" they came in 10 or 15 minutes; the policemen came in, and put out the men that were scuffling. Witness went up stairs and sat down in the front window; saw the people shouting and cheering in the street, "To hell with the Pope!" The crowd was very quiet; soon after then saw a number of people with a fife come in by the Armagh road; they joined the other crowd; saw Mr. Woodhouse and Captain Brennan keeping the people off, and trying to disperse them. The mob continued to cheer, and pushed towards Devlin's door, as if to get in. Saw a man strike at Mr. Woodhouse; Captain Brennan was trying to keep them off, with a stick in his hand; heard a stone falling when the police were near Atkin's. Captain Brennan was not in liquor; wore a round hat.

48. Owen Laffen.—Saw a great crowd in a disturbed manner come in with a fife, about 300; heard shouting and cheering; apprehended danger from the appearance of the crowd; saw men knocked down near Gallagher's, three men; does not know any of them; knocked down with hands; a wedding party had passed before.

49. Patrick Loughran.—Saw the gathering opposite the inn door, when the police were drawn up. Richard was cursing somebody for a pig-driver; he was standing between the gateway and Dr. ; Mr. John Woodhouse came to witness with a under his arm; said "To hell with the Pope and Papist Brennan!" witness turned round and saw some men in the gateway. Mr. J. Overend was ordering them to go home; a man jumped up and said he would not go, saying, "To hell with the Pope and Papist Brennan!" Captain Brennan came to where Bullock was, opposite the gateway, and said, their time was soon up; they would have to disperse. He then turned about and went down towards their right; witness was going down afterwards, and a stone came from where there was a party on the other side of the street, and broke a window; a second stone came through another pane; when witness was at the gateway next Dr. Walker's the stones came as fast as they could fire them from the crowd. The shouts continued as before, and "Verner for ever!" Saw some of the police struck by stones. Mr. J. Woodhouse came across the street with the book under his arm, and witness advised him to come in, or he would be struck by a stone; he said he was wounded; witness brought him into his own house, two doors below; he was then bleeding from a blow of a stone; sent witness for Dr. Walker, and got his head dressed. Dr. Walker sent witness for a sponge, and when he was at Mr. William Woodhouse had hold of a man, and said he was the cause of it all; the man resisted, and witness helped Mr. William Woodhouse, but he was rescued. Francis Saunderson said the man should not go; witness went back with the sponge. When Captain Brennan said, "Your time will soon be up," the Riot Act had been read. Witness heard the shots as he was going with his master to his own house; heard Mr. Woodhouse saying something, and among other words he said the word "fire!" but there was a considerable time before the shots; witness was then between the house and Dr. Lees; Mr. Woodhouse was coming up from before the men, near the left flank, at the time he spoke the words. Witness did not expect the shots when he heard Mr. Woodhouse make use of the words; sometime afterwards heard the words "present!" and "fire!" cannot say by whom; the words were on the left, witness was then on the right; told his brother he had heard the words "present!" and "fire!" One of the policemen, Serjeant Johnstone, asked witness if he had heard the words "present!" and "fire!" witness said he would not tell him anything about it; he said he was not his confessor; the shots succeeded the words directly.

50. John M'Garr.—Was waiter at Devlin's house; the stones thrown broke a glass in witness's hands; was chased by people with stones at 11 o'clock; saw a mob at half-past 11, near the church; they had firelocks; there were about 12 men; some had guns; they swore they would have blood for blood.

51. Mary Anne Johnston.—Tuesday morning was sent on a message to Mr. Sinnamon; heard him desire the people in the street to go and cheer Papist Brennan. Captain Brennan was in the street; the mob did cheer him, and called him "Papist Brennan." Witness told her mistress, Mrs. Maxley, same day; Mr. Darcy Sinnamon told his father not to raise any disturbance; Miss Sinnamon desired Darcy Sinnamon to hold his tongue, and let his father alone.

52. Darcy Sinnamon.—Swears he did not say to his father, "Do not raise any disturbance in the town," or use any words to that effect, as sworn by Mary Anne Johnston. He heard the crowd shouting "Papist Brennan!" to Captain Brennan.

53. Timothy Larkin.—Saw a man struck by a policeman with his gun, near the pump; it was not Edward Roche; this was before the firing. Roche was produced to this witness.

54. James Johnston, Serjeant of Police.—Was marched down opposite the inn between six and seven o'clock; there was then a large number of persons on the opposite side, and on the left of the police, throwing stones at the police. They were also cheering "To hell with Papist Brennan!" and "Verner for ever!" Many stones were thrown; witness was struck three times; not much hurt; one stone was the size of witness's fist. Saw Mr. Woodhouse struck, and Mr. David Brennan; Murphy, one of the police, was struck and cut; others were struck; saw marks of stones on them. At this time police were drawn up in front of the inn, standing still; at this time the arms were loaded with ball; they had loaded opposite to Mr. Paul's, by order of Captain Brennan, about 10 minutes before the police came to the inn. Police stood 20 or 25 minutes opposite the inn; stones continued to be thrown all that time. Mr. Atkyn begged Captain Brennan to take the men from before the house, to prevent it being broken by the stones. Did not hear Captain Brennan make any reply. Mr. Woodhouse was there; he ordered the people to disperse and retire; heard the Riot Act read; the people continued to throw the stones after the Riot Act was read; it was read by Mr. John Woodhouse, and the noise continued while it was being read. Mr. Woodhouse told the people he was going to read the Act, and sent for it; it was four or five minutes after this the shots were fired; witness was at the right of the line; Captain Brennan was on the left, and also Mr. Woodhouse; heard order to fire given by Mr. Woodhouse immediately before the shots; Mr. Woodhouse then ran round the left flank into the rear. Mr. Woodhouse had before ordered the men to fire, but Captain Brennan went in front, put up his hands, and stopped the firing, saying it was the last thing he would risk. This was about two minutes before the second order. The stones still continued. Mr. Woodhouse had, before the police loaded, asked Captain Brennan if they had any blank cartridge, and was told they had not; at the time of the firing there was no order given as to the mode of firing; but when Mr. Woodhouse asked for blank cartridge, he said it was for the purpose of firing over their heads. Witness did not fire; the greater proportion of the men fired up in the air; the men held the pieces upwards, those who were near witness at least. Did not see Captain Brennan when Mr. Woodhouse gave the second order to fire. Mr. Joyce and Mr. Fisher applied to witness to speak to Captain Brennan to take the police to the barrack; witness told them he had done so; Captain Brennan told witness to go to his ranks. In a few minutes after the shots the police went to the barracks. The stones continued to be thrown, down as far as Mr. John Woodhouse's; witness also applied to Mr. Woodhouse to take the police to the barrack; Mr. Woodhouse did not accede to the proposal. It was after witness spoke to Captain Brennan that he spoke to Mr. Woodhouse; spoke to both separately. Did not tell Mr. Woodhouse that he had before spoken to Captain Brennan; it was Captain Brennan ordered them to march to the barrack after the shots; did not hear Mr. Woodhouse give any order for that purpose; after the shots heard some ramrods ramming down, but did not hear any order given to load. Witness heard Captain Brennan say the magistrate could not deny having given the order to fire; did not say anything about his having given the order himself. Witness was right of the line; did not hear Captain Brennan, who was at the left, give any order to fire at all; he might have ordered the men to fire up in the air. Witness cannot account for the firing up in the air, except from their wishing not to kill people; witness presented his own piece up in the air, and snapped it; it did not go off. Witness thinks, from what he saw, that they might have marched to the barrack as easily before the shots as afterwards. The firing had not the effect of clearing away the mob; the police, when they got to the barrack, returned to their rooms, and were posted at the different windows as sentries; but before this, the party had been ordered out a second time, down to Devlin's house. When the party came out from the barrack, no stones thrown at them, till they came down to Devlin's; at Devlin's thinks the stones were thrown at them; heard the stones striking Devlin's house, but does not know of any of the party being struck. Captain Brennan and Mr. Woodhouse were both with them this time; stood only a few minutes at Devlin's, and then returned to the barrack; on the way stones continued to be thrown at them; does not know of any of the men being struck; when they returned, the police were placed at the windows; some panes of glass were broken by stones, and several struck the house; stones continued to be thrown at intervals till two o'clock next morning. The men were not allowed to go to bed till after two o'clock on Tuesday and Wednesday night; some stones were thrown at the barrack, and broke windows, and a shutter which was split. Thinks Captain Brennan was not affected by liquor; was quite sober, and capable of discharging his duty; has a nervous manner which strangers might mistake. Thomas O'Reilly did not take any charge of the police.

55. Henry Thornhill, Serjeant.—Was with the police on Monday the 31st; was in the centre of the line opposite the inn; heard an order given to the men to fire by Mr. Woodhouse. He was then on the left of the line; he said "Fire!" and then stepped to the rear. Witness fired up in the air by his own choice. Had heard Mr. Woodhouse, before the Riot Act was read, say to Captain Brennan something about firing over the houses; did not hear Mr. Woodhouse order the men to fire more than once; did not see Captain Brennan go in front of the line to stop the firing; cannot say how the other men fired; the stones were coming very thick at the time. Saw Mr. Woodhouse at the time he said the word "fire!" heard the word "fire!" and understood it as a word of command; had heard before a person with a watch in his hand say the time was out; this was about eight or nine minutes after reading the Act. The order to load was given near the pump by Captain Brennan; Mr. Woodhouse asked if the men had loaded; thinks he heard something about blank cartridge; thinks Captain Brennan said he had none; marched down the street in different directions, directions, and formed square, with fixed bayonets, to keep the crowd off before they came to the inn. Captain Brennan had a small stick in his hand; saw him try to keep back the crowd with it; he sometimes was surrounded by the crowd, and witness was obliged to rush in and bring him off; witness was struck by a stone in the foot, head and hand, and his carbine was struck. Thinks Mr. J. Woodhouse had the watch; witness held the candle while the Act was reading; the stones continued to be thrown, and the shouts; he said he would back his officer, whether he was right or wrong. Captain Brennan used his stick to keep off the crowd, and desired them to go home. Has been in other towns on duty, and found the same support here as in any other place. The inhabitants here tried to keep the people quiet on that evening; thinks Captain Brennan was sober that evening; acted very coolly; ordered the men to present and recover steadily, to intimidate the mob, after they had loaded with ball cartridge; thinks a drunken man could not have done so. Mr. O'Reilly gave no orders that day or night; the order to present and recover was after the firing.

56. Andrew M'Chane, Policeman.—Witness was third from the left, in front of Atkyn's; heard the order to fire by Mr. Woodhouse, twice; on the first occasion Captain Brennan went in front of the line; took hold of the pieces, and stopped them from firing: it was seven or eight minutes before the second order was given; at that time Mr. Woodhouse addressed the crowd and desired them to disperse. He then went round the left, or passed through the ranks, and in doing so he gave the word "fire!" Witness (being cautioned, and told he might decline to answer) does not choose to say whether he fired; thinks the greater part were elevated. The stones were continued to be thrown till the shots were fired; witness was struck four times in the course of the evening; three times opposite this house. Heard the crowd shouting till the firing; immediately after the shots the party were marched to the barrack; stones continuing. Captain Brennan was sober. Captain Brennan was on the right when Mr. Woodhouse gave the order; did not see him at that time. Five or six minutes after the Act read, till the shots fired.

57. Trevor Corry, Esq.—Captain Brennan was stationed at Newry several years as chief constable of police; has always had the most prompt assistance from Captain Brennan. Mr. Corry is a magistrate of the said county of Down. Captain Brennan has always been zealous and humane in the discharge of his duty. Once very late at night seen him affected by liquor, but still capable of discharging his duty: he is perfectly impartial in discharge of his duty; has watched him narrowly, but found him perfectly impartial: would have reported him.

Note.—Mr. J. Woodhouse (for his father Woodhouse,) relies upon Captain Brennan's report to the Castle, which report is already before Lord Gosford.

58. William Woodhouse.—Heard a conversation between Captain Brennan and Mr. Woodhouse, witness's father, on Thursday, 3d April, in the post-office here. Mr. Woodhouse said he thought the police had fired without orders, and Captain Brennan replied, he gave distinct orders to the police to fire in the air. Did not appear to witness to be affected by liquor on Monday evening.

59. John Dawson.—Witness was in front of the police, near the watercourse or channel. Heard order given to fire by Captain Brennan; saw him standing in front of the police. Heard him say "present!" "fire!" immediately after that, and some other words, which he does not recollect; he was standing in front when he ordered them to fire. Witness ran away. Saw no stones thrown the whole night; there was no reason to fire. Did not see Mr. Woodhouse. Captain Brennan had a on, and his ordinary dress. Heard people shouting, but all was quiet and peaceable, except some shouting "Verner!" and some "Brownlow!"

60. Mr. John Woodhouse.—Had a watch after the Act was read, and looked at it twice; at time wanted two minutes of seven; second time, five past seven; half a minute after that the firing took place. Did not say the time was up, nor use such words. The time in the Act is an hour; had the watch to ascertain the time, in reference to the Act; heard no order to fire.

61. Curran Woodhouse, Esq., re-examined.—Witness was under impression that the men fired without orders, and said so; Captain Brennan said, "No, by God! I gave distinct orders to fire in the air."

(Copy.)—LETTER from Chief Constable Brennan, to William Henry, Esq., Sub-Inspector of Police.

Sir, Portadown, 1 April 1834.

I HAVE the honour to inform you, that a serious riot took place on yesterday evening in Portadown. There was a fair held in the town, and in the evening, the people being intoxicated, attacked the police with stones, &c. Curran Woodhouse, Esq. came forward and read the Riot Act, after which I gave orders for the police to fire over their heads; but in the agitation of the moment, one or two of my men fired into them and wounded two men. The mob becoming more violent, to avoid a further effusion of blood, I retired with the men to the police barrack, where I remained. After wrecking a few houses, the mob dispersed.

I have, &c.

WEXFORD MAGISTRACY.

RETURN to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 31 March 1835;—for,

COPIES of CORRESPONDENCE between the Lord Lieutenant of the County of Wexford, or any Magistrates thereof, Sub-Inspector or other Officer of Police therein, and the Chief or Under Secretary for Ireland, relating to the Appointment of a STIPENDIARY MAGISTRATE.

COPIES of POLICE REPORTS of said County of Wexford, from 1st January last to the present date, so far as the same relate to the state of the County in respect to its general tranquillity or the contrary.

MEMORANDUM.

CAPTAIN ROBERTS, chief magistrate of police, had been stationed in the county of Wexford during the general election in January last, for the purpose of preserving the peace. At the latter end of that month, information was communicated to Sir Henry Hardinge, of an intention to assassinate an individual; and in consequence orders were given, on the 3d of February, to Captain Roberts to remain in the county, and to remove from the place where he had been previously stationed, to the neighbourhood in which that individual resided. The communication having been of a strictly confidential character, it is not included in this return. For a similar reason, a name is omitted in two of the following letters.

Wm. Gosset.

Dear Sir, Castleboro', Enniscorthy, Feb. 19th.

I HAD yesterday a letter from Mr. Roberts, to state his being ordered to New Ross, as chief magistrate of police. I have heard of no meeting of magistrates or any circumstance to make such an appointment necessary; but probably it is only temporary, or connected with some arrangements in the county of Kilkenny.

There was a barbarous murder near Ross on the night of the fair; but with that exception, and the riots and excitements during the election, which have now subsided everywhere, (I believe even in New Ross), the county of Wexford is in a state of much quiet as respects outrage to person or property.

I beg to say there are eight magistrates resident, or generally so, near Ross, many in the immediate town or vicinity, and the furthest only four miles distant.

I am, &c.

Sir W. Gosset. (signed) Carew.

My dear Lord, Dublin, 21 February 1835.

I HAVE received your Lordship's letter of the 19th instant, and have to apologise for not having communicated with you previously to sending Mr. Roberts to New Ross. He was sent there in consequence of a representation to Sir Henry Hardinge by ———, pointing out the pressing necessity for having a stipendiary magistrate at that place. Yesterday ——— called upon me regarding some matter unconnected with the question, when I requested him to put himself in communication with you, in order that the Government might obtain through you information on which the question of Mr. Roberts' continuance for the present could be decided.

I have, &c.

The Lord Carew, &c. &c. &c. (signed) Wm. Gosset.

My dear Sir, Castleboro', Enniscorthy, March 1st.

I RECEIVED your letter of the 21st of February, and have had no communication from ——— since. But it is of no consequence, as, although no one has a higher regard than I have for my friend ———, it cannot alter my public views.

Immediately after the election, I wrote to Sub-inspector Captain Hamilton, and to the chief constable of the barony, Captain Hatton, to say that I was certain the excitement would subside speedily, and that there would be no present outrages; for that the same exertions that were used to excite electioneering feelings, would now be used to prevent outrage, which would recoil on the perpetrators. The monthly police report for January, from the different baronies, to which you can refer, confirms my view in every particular, and is very satisfactory, and I have no doubt the present will be equally so. I called upon Mr. Roberts last Monday, in Ross. No outrage of even common importance had occurred, with the exception of a man who was found dead after the fair of Ross. Captain Roberts and Mr. Keogh were employed in the investigation. Some said that he fell off the wall, and was killed; others, that he was murdered; but on this point you have of course seen the informations, which were not concluded when I was there.

Mr. Hatton, the chief constable of the district, has been in Dublin; and the very circumstance of so excellent and vigilant an officer being absent on leave, is in itself primâ facie evidence of tranquillity.

As it was unintentional not communicating with me sooner, I shall of course say nothing more. One of the chief reasons for appointing Lieutenants was, that the Government should have confidential and responsible persons with whom to communicate, instead of, as formerly, irresponsible individuals, however respectable. I need not say, that I have never spared my own exertions; and you know that when the county was so much disturbed two years ago, the then Chief Secretary, Mr. Stanley, complimented me in the House. I am always ready to do my duty, but I must also protest against any unnecessary expense to the county. In my former letter, I gave you a list of the numerous resident magistrates near Ross.

I am, &c.

Sir William Gosset. (signed) Carew.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 4 March 1835.

THE Lieutenant of the county of Wexford having represented that your services are not required at New Ross, I am to signify the Lords' Justices desire, that after the 10th of this month, you will remove from that town.

I have, &c.

Captain Roberts, New Ross. (signed) Wm. Gosset.

COPIES OF POLICE REPORTS.

Sir, Enniscorthy, 3 January 1835.

Last night an attempt was made to rob the house of Mr. J. Haughton, the postmaster at Ferns. The robbers effected an entrance through the roof by taking off the slates; and they had not time to effect their object, as they took away only one piece of calico. Mr. Haughton's postboy, in going out in the morning to meet the coach to Dublin, disturbed the robbers, and met one of them when making his escape. This man (John Pepper) is at present in custody, and is cousin to J. Feltus, who committed the late robberies on the lord of Ferns; and there is every reason to suppose that Feltus himself was of the gang.

I sent a strong party to scour the neighbourhood of Ferns in search of the gang, but without success.

I am, &c.

To Captain Hamilton, Sub-Inspector, &c. &c. &c. (signed) Wm. Kelly, C. C.

Sir, Enniscorthy, 4 January 1835.

May I request that you will be pleased to ascertain, through the medium of Sir John Harvey, whether I may be permitted to hold out a pecuniary inducement privately to any person who would "set" John Feltus, who is committing such depredations in the neighbourhood of Ferns, and who has contrived to elude the utmost viligance of the police, who are incessantly in search of him? He is still in the neighbourhood.

I am, &c.

Captain Hamilton, Sub-Inspector, &c. &c. &c. (signed) Wm. Kelly, C. C.

Sir, Arthurstown, 11 January 1835.

In the absence of my father, I beg leave to report to you, that on the night of Friday the 9th instant, about the hour of six o'clock, an attempt was made to set on fire the dwelling-house of William Walsh, of St. Kearnis, parish of Tintern, and barony of Shelburne.

I beg to state that the Tintern police were on patrol to the same house, and arrived there in about ten minutes after the attempt was made, and apprehended two men (Patrick Byrne and Patrick Larkin), who were committed to Wexford gaol by Jacob Wm. Goff, esq., on the information of Walsh's daughter.

The police constantly patrol about Walsh's place, although several attempts were made before to set his house on fire.

I have, &c.

Captain Hamilton. (signed) Thomas R. Barry, Const.

Sir, New Ross, 12 January 1835.

I beg leave to state for your information, that the barn, stable and cowhouse of William Byrne, of Bree, parish of Bree, barony of Bantry, were maliciously set on fire and consumed, by some person or persons unknown; also two cows and one horse nearly burned to death, on the night of the 10th or morning of the 11th instant.

I could not leave this town, in consequence of the contested election, to inspect, &c. the premises.

I am, &c.

Captain Hamilton. (signed) J. H. Hatton, C. C.

Sir, New Ross, 14 January 1834.

THE following is a copy of a threatening notice found posted on the lands of Ballydonny, parish Templeodegan, barony Bantry.

I am, &c.

C. C. New Ross District.

"ANY landholder agreeing to pay tithes by the request of his landlord will be consumed by fire, or any man showing the bounds of the parish to O'Reardon for the purpose of getting tithes, will get a more sudden death than Foot, they may depend upon it. No tithes:—moderate rent:—no turn out. Capt. Strong."

Sir, New Ross, Wednesday, 11 February 1835.

I BEG leave to state for your information, that a most brutal murder was committed last night at Cuywell, adjoining this town.

The unfortunate victim, Patrick Fitzgerald, of the Mangers, one mile from this town, Major Warburton's estate, left this about seven o'clock yesterday evening, and was discovered at an early hour this morning in a mutilated state, his neck dislocated, leg broken, and his face and head much disfigured by cuts of a blunt instrument.

I have arrested several persons on suspicion. They are to be brought forward for examination to-morrow, when I shall report the result.

I have, &c.

C. C. Ross District.

Sir, New Ross, 15 February 1835.

THE coroner's jury returned a verdict yesterday to the following effect: "That the deceased, Patrick Fitzgerald, was found on the morning of the 11th instant with dislocation of the first and second vertebræ, and a fracture of the right leg; which, for want of sufficient evidence, the jury are unable to decide were caused by accident or the act of others."

I have arrested two men under very suspicious circumstances, one of whom has admitted that he found the hat of the deceased on the spot it is supposed the man was murdered; and he further admits that he found the hat on the night of the 10th instant, and at the precise hour it is thought the man had arrived at the fatal spot. They are committed for further examination, and I have every reason to hope one of them will give useful evidence.

Major Brown, C. M. is here, and I have arranged with him to send one of the men to Kilkenny gaol, to prevent persons interfering with him.

I am, &c.

Capt. Hamilton,

Sir, Gorey, 3 March 1834.

I BEG to inform you, that on the night of the 2d instant some persons as yet unknown came to the house of a man named Keegan, residing at Bolenry, in the parish of Gorey. The party ordered his servant boy to quit his master's employment before the 25th March, (if not) that he might mark the consequence. On their leaving the place, they broke one of his windows, and fired a shot.

Keegan lately took a farm, and employed a stranger to take care of it, which is the cause of the attack.

I am, &c.

Captain Hamilton,
Sub-Inspector.

Chief Constable.

Sir, Dublin, 5 March 1835.

I HAVE the honour to forward a report which has been transmitted to me by Sub-inspector Captain Hamilton, from Chief-constable Bracken, 2d class, of the very creditable conduct of Constable Humphreys and party (three sub-constables), in proceeding to protect four revenue officers, who had made a seizure of illicit malt at Brideswell, but were attacked by the country people and forced to retire. With the assistance of this small police party, they recaptured and destroyed 20 barrels of malt.

I have, &c.

Sir William Gosset, K. H. (signed) J. Harvey, I. G.

Sir, Arthurstown, 20 March 1835.

I BEG leave to inform you, that on the night of Friday the 13th instant, a little after nightfall, an attempt was made to set on fire the dwelling-house of Bridget Dalton, near the edge of the bog of Boley, parish of Tintern, barony of Shelburne.

On my hearing of it I proceeded there, and made every possible inquiry. The only cause of this attempt was, that the above poor woman gave a few nights' lodging to a woman of the name of Mary Walsh, who is sister to William Walsh of St. Kevin's, that prosecuted to conviction at the last assizes of Wexford, Byrne and Larkin, for setting fire to his house.

The damage done to the house was very little, which they told me was the cause of not reporting it to me sooner.

I have, &c.

Captain Hamilton, &c. &c. &c. (signed) Robert Barry, Chief Constable.

Sir, Enniscorthy, 22 March 1835.

ON last night, between the hours of 12 and one o'clock, the house of James Nowlan, of Coroguemore, near Kilteely in this barony, was maliciously set on fire; and had not the wife of Nowlan awoke from the effects of the smoke, the family and concerns would most probably have been destroyed.

Some late division of lands is supposed to have been the cause of this outrage. I have apprised each magistrate of this district of the circumstance.

I am, &c.

Captain Hamilton, Sub-Inspector. (signed) Wm. Kelly.

Sir, Taghmon, 24 March 1835.

I BEG to inform you that on Saturday night, 21st instant, about 10 o'clock, the dwelling-house of James Byrne, of Mutchtown, parish of Kilcoran and barony of Bargy, was maliciously set on fire, and the roof partially consumed.

Byrne is about three years in possession of the premises, from which the former tenants were ejected, and had previously received two threatening notices.

I have, &c.

Captain Hamilton, Sub-Inspector, &c. &c. &c. Wexford. (signed) J. H. Bracken, Second Class, C. C. P.

During the recent contested county election there was great excitement and display of party and violent political feeling exhibited, which is now subsiding. Riots during the election were numerous.
Taghmon - - Barony of Bargey and part of Shelmalin.	J. H. Bracken - (2d class.)	- -	- - This district is tranquil. Violent political feeling was exhibited, both previous to and during the election, but has since subsided, and I have reason to hope will not lead to any disturbance of the public peace or the tranquillity that has prevailed in this district.
		5th.	- - One case of rescue (only) to report, during the month, of a man arrested under a civil bill decree. A warrant has been issued against the parties concerned.
Arthurstown - Barony of Shelburne.	Robert Barry -	- -	- - This district appears tranquil. Violent political feeling respecting the Wexford elections has prevailed during the month, caused by agitation and discussion.
Oulart - - Barony of Balaghkeen.	William Ball -	- -	- - This district is tranquil, and likely to continue so. No apparent agitation, with the exception of that arising out of election politics. No crime or outrage has occurred during the month.
Gorey - - Barony of Gorey	William Bagge -	- -	- - This district is perfectly tranquil, but agitated at present in consequence of the county election. No crime or outrage has taken place either in this or the preceding month.
Enniscorthy - Barony of Scarawalsh.	William Kelly -	- -	- - This district is tranquil at the present time. Political feeling is strongly excited consequent upon the recent elections. The public peace was not broken during the county election.—A considerable police force was stationed on duty in the town.
New Ross - - Barony of Bantry.	J. H. Hatton -	- -	- - This district has been considerably disturbed during the present month. Violent political feeling exists throughout the district, which has been materially excited by inflammatory speeches, delivered by the friends of the popular candidates for this county; also by inflammatory placards posted throughout the county, and political discourses delivered in all the chapels.
		21st.	- - The forge of Richard Bergon, of Camorus, barony of Bantry, was forcibly entered, and his bellows cut. The cause assigned was for putting a shoe on Captain James Harvey's horse, who was supposed to be canvassing for Messrs. Cliffe and Redmond.
		23d.	- - On the 23d instant, a number of persons assembled at the Cross Roads at Ballynaboole, distant from New Ross four miles. They attacked an escort proceeding to Wexford with voters, consisting of nine of the 9th Lancers, one mounted and two dismounted police, under the command of John Edward Redmond, esq., J. P. and Chief-constable Hatton. The mob forced the freeholders away, broke the cars, and obliged Messrs. Redmond and Hatton, with the Lancers, &c. to fall back on the police barrack at Ballynaboole, whither the mob followed with great violence, pelting the party with stones. After much difficulty, they succeeded in arresting 18 of the rioters, who have been committed to Wexford gaol for trial at the next assizes.

Oulart - - Barony of Balaghkeen.	William Ball -	1st -	- - This district is quite tranquil, and likely to continue so. No outrage to report, except that on the night of the 1st instant there was a serious assault committed by two men, named Carty, who waylaid and beat a person named Byrne, on his return from a funeral. They have absconded.
Gorey - - Barony of Gorey.	William Bagge -	- -	- - This district continues perfectly peaceable; no outrage of any description has occurred during the month.
Enniscorthy - Barony of Scarawalsh.	William Kelly -	- -	- - This district is tranquil, but strong political feeling and party spirit exist to a great extent, yet the public peace has not been disturbed thereby.
New Ross - - Barony of Bantry.	J. H. Hatton -	- -	- - The general state of this district appears tranquil; but the system of exclusive dealing and intimidation continues to be carried on to a considerable extent, and many well-inclined persons are obliged to join in this system, from the threats held out, and in some instances carried into effect, against persons disobeying the mandates of mob agitators.
Wexford - - Barony of Forth and part of Shelmalin.	Wm. P. Trench -	- -	- - This district is perfectly tranquil. On the night of Saturday, the 28th inst., between the hours of 9 and 10 o'clock, a man named Malone, who accompanied two country girls, sisters, from Wexford market on their way home, when passing through Grogan's road, near this town, he threw one of the girls into the ditch, and threw the other down on the road, and treated her brutally, having either committed or attempted to commit a rape. The police soon after took him into custody, and the next morning informations being sworn against him, he has been committed for trial.
Taghmon - - Barony of Bargey and part of Shelmalier.	. H. Bracken - (2d class.)	- -	- - This district is tranquil. A case of rescue took place on the 20th inst., resisting a civil bill decree. The parties are bound over to stand their trial at quarter sessions. No other outrage has occurred during the month.
Arthurstown - Barony of Shelburne.	Robert Barry -	- -	- - This district is at the present time peaceable. Four cases of sheep-stealing have occurred during the month. The sheep have been recovered at the fair of Graignemanna, in the county of Kilkenny; and a man named Thomas Power, who was selling them, has absconded.

DISTRICT.	Chief Constables.	Date.	Extracts from Chief Constables' Reports.
Taghmon - - Barony of Bargy and part of Shelmalin.	J. H. Bracken - (2d class.)	- -	- - This district is tranquil; but there has been an increase of crime this month. With the exception of the house set on fire at Baldwinstown, in the barony of Bargy, there are none of such a nature as to lead to fear any interruption to the usual tranquillity of this part of the county. No public manifestation of political feeling or party spirit.
Oulart - - Barony of Balaghkeen.	William Ball -	- -	- - This district is perfectly tranquil. No outrage or assault of any description to report during this month.
Arthurstown - Barony of Shelburne.	Robert Barry -	- -	- - This district is tranquil, and not agitated by party or political feeling at the present time.
Gorey - - Barony of Gorey.	William Bagge -	- -	- - This district is tranquil, but somewhat agitated by party spirit, resulting from the late county election.
Enniscorthy - Barony of Scarawalsh.	William Kelly -	- -	- - This district is in a tranquil state. The political and party feeling which exists has not been evinced in such a manner as to disturb the public peace. One case of malicious house-burning has occurred during the month.
New Ross - - Barony of Bantry.	J. H. Hatton -	- -	- - This district is tolerably tranquil. Four illegal notices, threatening persons, have been left and posted during the month.
		3d.	- - A cabin, the property of Patrick Doyle, parish of Killan, barony of Bantry, was burned; his mother had used violent threats, and it is supposed that she committed the act.
		17th.	- - On the 17th inst. Charles Murphy of Minahore was violently assaulted, near Enniscorthy, on the borders of this district, and lies dangerously ill, but refuses to disclose the names of the persons who assaulted him.
		28th.	- - On the 28th inst. a sail, the property of Mr. John Boyd of New Ross, was maliciously burned on board a boat in the river.
